"Judicious" Rioting Even Desired and Encouraged to Give Military Another Chance to Refuse to Open Fire, and Oblige the English Ministry to Appeal to the Coutnry The Uncrowned King Said to Be Afraid to Start the Ball a-Rolling.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 11.—Although today passed off quietly in Ulster, the tenseness of the situation was very apparent, and while the authorities on both sides are striving to their utmost to prevent trouble arising, it will not surprise anybody if a riot occurs at any moment.

During the afternoon there was an outward display of the depth of feeling at Larne, when Sir Edward Carson attended the presentation of the colors to the Central Antrim Regiment, volunteer force, numbering about two thousand. Many of them were carrying rifles with fixed bayonets. In presenting the colors Sir Edward Carson said:

"You will value them and take care they shall never be sullied with dishonor. And I pity the men or body of men who ever try to haul them down so long as they are in your hands.

"I think I would be a false leader if I were to cry 'Peace, peace,' when I see no evidence of peace. Heaven knows I pray night and day it may be peace. The only peace that you and I know is peace with honor. All I can say for my part is if it be not peace with honor, well, then it must be war with honor, because there is no alternative."

Sir Edward declared that the Ulsterites were not aggressive, but they had told the government that they would never submit to be turned out of the imperial Parliament, and by that decision they would stand. They would win or go down together, but there would be no drawing back.

RIOTING WANTED TO FORCE ISSUE.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 11.—The London Unionist papers promised us a war in Ulster today, but so far we've only had a resolution. This resolution reaffirms the Orange determination to reject home rule and hold Ulster in trust for the King and Constitution, but reveals no plan of war-like operations. This has been a great disappointment to the Daily Mail, which had "keyed up" the expectations of its million readers to look, this morning, for some dramatic event, and, in proof of its faith, had mobilized its entire corps of war correspondents and photographers, together with cohorts of reporters, which it studded all over the Orange section of Ulster. The resolution is described as "a wooden thunderbolt."

Tomorrow is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, when Orange Ulster is wont to explode in demonstrations frequently culminating in riots. It will be a remarkable thing if, this year, after all the incitements and bloodthirsty threats of the past three years and the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 in organizing quasi-military forces, there are no serious disorders before next week is over.

Unionist leaders here desire some judicious manifestations of Orange revolt. It would be a necessary complement to the action of the House of Lords in destroying the government's amendment of the home rule bill and replacing it with the Orange demand for the total exclusion of Ulster without a time limit. There is understood to be a distinct cleavage of opinion between Unionist leaders and Carson on the question whether there should be immediate disorder or not. Carson shrinks from the responsibility of setting the ball rolling, but the Unionist bodies here, whose object is to bring about dissolution at any cost, think if there is some good Orange rioting and the army declines to act the Ministers must appeal to the country.

It is conceded that the Ministers may win again, but the Unionists re-

REAL ESTATE CONVENTION SELECTS LOS ANGELES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURGH, July 11.—What looked like a thrilling contest up to within fifteen minutes of the ballot dissolved into a walkaway which the size of the vote does not begin to show, when Los Angeles, by twenty-seven cities to twenty-two, today wrested from Seattle the honor of entertaining the 1915 convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges.

Senator Lee C. Gates's eloquent word picture, in placing his home city in nomination, put the finishing touch to the strenuous week of campaigning conducted by the others from the St. Gabriel Mission House, and when the result was announced pandemonium reigned in the convention.

The Los Angeles-Seattle contest had been the one absorbing subject of interest in the convention, and although for the final sessions today the delegates adjourned from the convention hall to seats in the cooler orchestra pavilion outside, every one was impatient for a vote on the next convention city.

A new entry, Norfolk, Va., entered unexpectedly, and evaporated as quickly.

Just before Senator Gates mounted the orchestra loft to nominate Los Angeles, the fighting little band from that city fired its last broadside. Souvenirs were unloaded on the delegates in a veritable shower; it fairly rained oranges and raisins for a few minutes. Blue and white pennants on canes swept through the great pavilion like a great wave; cleverly conceived paper whistles were tooted by hundreds and orange-colored buttons pleading, "Be an Angel in 1915," fairly poured down upon the delegates.

"Come out where your friends have gone before you—to Los Angeles," said Senator Gates, who maintained that a vast percentage of his people were "intentional citizens"—that is, had left other sections of the country to "really live in the city where people really live."

He started an uproar among the sweltering delegates when he offered in evidence the government temperature reports for Los Angeles, Seattle and Pittsburgh, during the past week, yesterday's maximum being: Los Angeles, 74; Seattle, 78; and Pittsburgh, 96.

CHICAGO SECONDS NOMINATION.

Chicago, seconding the nomination of Los Angeles, drew another demonstration. Whether Senator Gates's speech or the terrific campaign of the Los Angeles delegation took the heart out of them, or because they realized they were beaten, the Seattle men, seeking to capture this convention for the last five years, literally threw away what opportunity they had to win in the last ten minutes before the voting took place.

There was tense silence when President Charles L. Simpson of Kansas City ordered the roll call, and Executive Secretary Thomas S. Ingersoll of Minneapolis called: "Akron, O." True to its promise, Akron cast its vote for Seattle. The vote see-sawed at first, but soon Los Angeles began to assume a commanding lead. There were cheers when Chicago cast its vote for Los Angeles, then Detroit and then Philadelphia.

"The garden spot of the Southeast casts its vote for the garden spot of the Southwest, Tampa, Fla., votes for Los Angeles," announced Col. T. M. Weir, and the convention went wild.

Every conceivable means of noise-making was brought into play when the vote, 27 to 22, was announced, and Los Angeles was declared the winner.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

President, Thomas Shallcross, Jr., Philadelphia; vice-presidents, George Koester, Chicago; Col. T. M. Weir, Tampa, Fla.; A. H. Hanson, Saskatoon, Alberta; R. L. Foust, Knoxville, Tenn.; W. P. Soowell, Indianapolis; W. W. Mines, Los Angeles; Samuel Collyer, Seattle; J. L. Weaver, Washington, D. C.; Val J. Rothschild, St. Paul, Minn., and John J. Dowling, St. Louis; Secretary, John E. Kane, Pittsburgh, and treasurer, Byron Hastings, Omaha, Neb. The next Executive Committee re-elected Thomas S. Ingersoll of Minneapolis executive secretary.

The capture of the convention and election of President Mines of the Los Angeles Realty Association as one of the national vice-presidents put the delegation in high spirits on its departure from the city tonight.

As guests of Senator Gates, W. M. Garland, Philip L. Wilson, Mr. Mines, Joseph Patterson, O. A. Vickrey, C. C. C. Tatum and W. A. Ryan will visit Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City, where they will spend several days, returning home after about three weeks.

Ira Tichenor, J. J. Cushing and Thomas Kildare left tonight for the West. They will stop over in Washington and one or two other cities and expect to be back in Los Angeles in about ten days.

Rumor.

HUERTA MAY RESIGN TOMORROW, SCORES OF OFFICIALS EXECUTED.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, July 11.—The resignation of Provisional President Huerta may be placed before Congress Monday, the general departing immediately thereafter for Puerto Mexico or Vera Cruz under British escort, according to reports in circulation here tonight which originated from a source that is usually well informed.

Adolfo de la Lama, Minister of Finance in Huerta's Cabinet, who arrived here today en route to Europe, while refusing to confirm these reports, said Huerta's retirement at an early date was not unlikely, and that from now until Monday was "but a short time to await developments."

Reports from the Mexican capital also state that Francisco Carbajal, the newly-appointed Foreign Minister, replacing Esteva-Ruiz, the acting Minister, who will arrive here tomorrow on his way to Europe, will be named provisional President. This appointment is said to have been sanctioned secretly by both Gen. Venustiano Carranza, chief of the Constitutionalists, and the United States, and assurances are said to have been given by the Constitutionalists that hostilities will cease with Carbajal's assumption of office.

CRADOCK MAY ESCORT HUERTA.

Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock of the British squadron is now in Mexico City and it was generally reported today that the real purpose of his visit was to escort Gen. Huerta and the latter's family personally to the coast, where they probably would board a British warship. While it was impossible to obtain positive confirmation here, the reports pointed out that many recent developments indicate the probability of some such plan having been made at the capital.

The departure of Senor de la Lama, Gen. Joaquin and Mario Maas and Robert Esteva-Ruiz is considered highly significant. All of these men have served Huerta faithfully and are among his closest counsellors. The Maas brothers are related to him by marriage, and Senor de la Lama is second only to Gen. Blanquet in position in the Huerta Cabinet. It is believed that Gen. Huerta is giving them an opportunity to leave the country in safety before he himself departs, in the belief that their lives would be in danger in the capital after his departure.

INTERNAL PEACE FOR MEXICO NEAR AT HAND SAY DIPLOMATS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A survey of developments in Mexico within the last twenty-four hours has convinced officials of the Washington government that internal peace is near at hand.

The appointment of Francisco Carbajal as Minister of Foreign Affairs means the retirement of Gen. Huerta in his favor as provisional President within a few days, according to messages from the Mexican capital to diplomats here.

The capture by the Constitutionalists of Guadalajara, within striking distance of the Mexican capital, has emphasized to the people in the territory controlled by Huerta that the military triumph of the revolution is inevitable.

This is the tenor of the information which is reaching officials here along with the news that persons prominently identified with the Huerta government are quietly leaving the country with their families, fearing reprisals by the Constitutionalists.

Composition of the differences between Gen. Carranza and Gen. Villa through the conferences at Torreon have solidified the Constitutionalist military forces again, but those conversant with the inner details of the situation claim a much more beneficial result has ensued in that a programme for the holding of honest elections and the carrying out of a series of reforms now has been drafted.

CARRANZA'S INTENTION.

Coupled with the announcement from Torreon with the results of the conferences there, the statement of Gen. Carranza from Saltillo that he intends to carry out to the letter the plan of Guadalupe was regarded as significant. The plan provides for the installation of Gen. Carranza as President ad interim of the republic until an election shall be held. Provision now has been made for a convocation of chiefs when the Constitutionalists reach Mexico City.

Then, it is believed, an effort will be made by some Constitutionalist leaders to substitute Carranza as first chief, but should he desire to be a candidate for President in the ensuing elections, he would, in any event be obliged to retire, because the Mexican Constitution prohibits a provisional President or one discharging the functions of the executive at the time of holding an election from being a candidate. The belief prevails in some quarters that Carranza would stay in office as first chief or provisional President until the country was pacified, then call an election and resign in order to become a candidate.

PEACE CONFERENCES OFF.

All prospect of holding peace conferences between representatives of Gen. Huerta and Gen. Carranza as proposed by the Niagara Falls mediation, has now vanished, according to private advices from Gen. Carranza. There is a possibility that if Francisco Carbajal succeeds Huerta in Mexico City, the Constitutionalists may agree to send delegates to confer with his representative about terms of peace. But Carranza's pronouncement at Saltillo today and statements of his representatives here make it almost a certainty that the only terms the Constitutionalists will offer will be the acceptance of the plan of Gaudalupe, which would mean virtually an unconditional surrender by the Federal forces.

That such might be effected in order to save the masses in the Federal territory from an invasion by the large Constitutionalist army is generally believed here. A peaceful occupation of Mexico City by a small part of the Constitutionalist army, it is pointed out, would accomplish the same object for Carranza—the assumption of power—and prevent looting and sacking.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan expect now to receive comprehensive reports of the intentions of the Constitutionalists, as John R. Silliman, formerly American Consul at Saltillo, has arrived there again. The Washington administration is not inclined to assume any active part in the situation at present, being content to let the Constitutionalists and Huerta faction work out a solution of the problem in their own way.

Your own husband

Letter written by Parnell to Mrs. O'Shea

Mrs Catherine O'Shea

THE promise that within a few weeks Ireland will either have home rule with Ulster excluded, or, perhaps, be embroiled in a bitter civil war, recalls the tragic story of Charles Stewart Parnell, whose years of effort in Parliament probably laid the foundation for the present success of the Nationalist movement, but whose career was brought to an end by his love for an Irish woman, Mrs. Katherine O'Shea, who later became his wife.

In the midst of the Ulster turmoil, when almost any moment may bring the news that the volunteers and the government forces are at each other's throats, Mrs. Parnell, who is still living, has brought back to the memory of those familiar with the Irish struggle, some of the incidents connected with Parnell by publishing some of his letters to her. The volume, which appeared but a short time ago in England, tells a story dramatic in its intensity and seems to breathe some of the personality of the leader, who did so much for the Irish cause.

It is one of the most dramatic stories to be found outside the world of fiction. To the public, Parnell has always been in great measure a man of mystery. He is now revealed as a man who sacrificed honor, ambition, position, everything for the sake of a woman's love.

His love proved his ruin, but he remained the devoted lover to the end.

The enthralling story is told in one of the most remarkable books published this year—"Charles Stewart Parnell; His Love Story and Political Life," written by his widow, Katherine O'Shea (Mrs. Parnell,) and published by Messrs. Cassell and Company, London.

Of the political side of the book the greater part is well-known history, illuminated by a flood of sidelight upon the negotiations between Parnell and Gladstone, which were carried on clandestinely by Mrs. O'Shea, who acted as go-between, and upon the intriguing for place and power which went on behind the political scenes. Of Parnell's leadership of the Irish party, his organization of the Land League, his imprisonment in Kilmainham Goal for six months, the Pigott letters, the Parnell Commission, the libel action, and the suicide of Pigott—all these incidents are dealt with in the book, but its chief interest lies in the love story of Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea.

One is shown the very heart of the man, his mad, unreasoning passion for a woman who was already married, but who was the one woman in all the world who existed for him.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

How did it come about that a woman of over 30, married for thirteen years to a man of good family, with three charming children, well-connected herself, and possessing influential friends, should fall under the influence of the austere politician, and that the two should become so much to each other that the one deceived her husband and children for eleven years, while the other risked his reputation, his future, and the fate of the country for which he had fought so long rather than abandon the liaison?

It was unquestionably a case of love at first sight.

Mrs. O'Shea undoubtedly was a strikingly beautiful woman. She was married to a dashing army officer, but, although he was young and handsome, he was not clever, whereas she was certainly far more than an average woman, and was capable of filling a large sphere.

Her husband, who was the son of a Dublin solicitor, was sent into a smart cavalry regiment, with orders to do as the other men did, and send the bill home. The young couple soon got through their money and afterwards lived largely on their relations. Early in the seventies they were growing tired of each other, and later they agreed that he should live in London, and come down to his wife and children at Eltham for "week-ends." So, even then, they were drifting apart.

It was at this time that Parnell was rising to the height of his fame. He was the acknowledged leader of a great party. Yet there surely never was a leader who had so little intercourse with his followers. He was a lonely man. And it was at that moment that the woman who was destined to play so large a part in his life crossed his path.

THE TREASURED ROSE.

It happened in this way. In 1880 Capt. O'Shea became M.P., for Clare, and began giving political dinners. Mrs. O'Shea was piqued, because Parnell ignored her invitations, and she declared that she would bring him. Amid laughter and applause, she said, "The uncrowned King of Ireland shall sit in that chair at the next dinner I give." And she was as good as her word. With her sister, she went personally to Parnell at the House of Commons to ask for an explanation of his ignoring her invitations. A card brought Parnell out into Palace Yard. Says Mrs. O'Shea:

"He came out, a tall, gaunt figure, thin and deadly pale. He looked straight at me smiling, and his curiously burning eye looked into mine with a wondering intentness that threw into my brain the sudden thought: This man is wonderful—and different."

I asked him why he had not answered my last invitation to dinner, and if nothing would induce him to come. He answered that he had not opened his letters for days, but if I would let him, he would come to dinner directly he returned from Paris, where he had to go for his sister's wedding.

In leaning forward in the cab to say good-bye a rose I was wearing in my bodice fell out on to my skirt. He picked it up, and, touching it lightly with his lips, placed it in his buttonhole.

This rose I found long years afterwards done up in an envelope, with my name and the date, among his most private papers, and when he died I laid it upon his heart.

Events moved rapidly after the first fateful meeting. Letters of an ordinary character began to be exchanged. In a short time he is writing about "the powerful seductions," "tending to seduce me from my duty towards my country." He also writes to Mrs. O'Shea:

"I may tell you . . . in confidence that I don't feel quite so content at the prospect of ten days' absence from London amongst the hills and valleys of Wicklow as I should have done three months since. The cause is very obscure, but perhaps you will help me to find it, or her, on my return."

Another time we read that he came to dinner, and afterwards, at the play, "he and I seemed to fall naturally into our places in the dark corner of the box." His eyes, she says, "seemed like sudden flames," she "leaned a little towards him, still with that odd feeling of his having always been there."

By September he is writing, "I cannot keep myself away from you any longer," and crossing from Ireland—in the height of the terrible Land League agitation—to see her for a few hours.

HIDDEN FOURTEEN DAYS.

Later they met frequently, one of their favorite means of enjoying each other's society being to take long rides in hansom cabs. Almost from the very first Parnell made Mrs. O'Shea's house at Eltham his home, staying there whenever Capt. O'Shea was away. On one occasion, in the first year of their friendship, Mrs. O'Shea hid him for a fortnight in a little boudoir leading out of her own room:

"None of the servants knew he was there, and I took all his food up at night, cooking little dainty dishes for him at the open fire, much to his pleasure and amusement."

Mrs. O'Shea soon became deeply involved in Parnell's political activities, and from an early date in their friendship, she went through his letters for him, in order to save him trouble. From this period their interests were in common, and by the end of the year the Irish leader was addressing the woman in whom he reposed his deepest trust as "My dearest wife," and referring in anxious terms to "your and my future."

In a few months Parnell was unhappy unless he had the woman of his choice by his side, and she was happiest when assisting him with his speeches and talking over with him the latest events in the political world.

SECRETS IN HOLLOW BRACELET

Mrs. O'Shea took charge of all his papers. There were two, which, fearing arrest, he could not carry on him. For these he had a hollow gold bracelet made, and after inserting the papers he screwed it on her arm, where it remained for three years. Those secret papers he destroyed in 1883, but it would be interesting, even now, to know their contents.

The ruses and subterfuges to which they resorted to keep their intimacy secret would provide material for half-a-dozen romantic novels. Either alone or with her, Parnell drove down to Eltham in a cab from the House of Commons nearly every night. She would often meet him at railway stations, waiting sometimes for hours on bleak platforms or in dismal waiting-rooms. Before starting for Eltham they often had "coffee" at one of the night stalls. Scores of letters were exchanged between them, many intended to be shown to others and couched in formal language. Every night when he was not staying at her house he telegraphed her "good-night."

After the drives down to Eltham from the House, we read that Parnell would talk on and on of all manner of things—political and personal—his party, his estate, his future—

HOW ULSTER WILL BALLOT.

ONE MAN ONE VOTE TO BE RULE IN COUNTIES.

The Amendment Bill Says the Lord Lieutenant Must Receive Petition Signed by at Least One-tenth of the Electors in Order to Take a Poll.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, June 28.—The methods by which it is proposed counties in Ulster shall be given the option of voting themselves out of the home rule bill for six years are fully set out in the amending bill.

In order that a poll shall be taken in any county the Lord Lieutenant must receive a petition signed by at least one-tenth of the electors. The ballot will be on ordinary lines, adapted to the special circumstances where necessary, and the question will be:

Are you in favor of the exclusion of —— from the operation of the Government og Ireland Act, 1914, for a period of six years?

Are you against the exclusion of —— from the operation of the Government of Ireland Act, 1914, for a period of six years?

One man, one vote, will be the rule. The county boroughs—Belfast and Londonderry—will vote as separate counties. Londonderry county would probably go for exclusion, whereas at the last by-election in Londonderry city, there was a Nationalist majority. Therefore, the bill proposes to make Londonderry city part of County Donegal. But if County Donegal should vote for exclusion, Londonderry city is to become part of some other county, to be determined by the Lord Lieutenant.

Clause eight gives the King power to bring the Government of Ireland Act into operation in the excluded area on the termination of the period of exclusion.

Amendment of the Constitution on a Democratic Basis Calculated to Please Even Hamlet Seems Assured.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

Of the twelve members nominated by the King nine are supporters of the government bill for the amendment of the Constitution on a democratic basis, the passage of which is now assured. In the upper house, as it is now constituted, this bill has thirty-eight supporters and twenty-eight opponents.

The upper house of the Danish Parliament was dissolved early in June because of the deadlock over the constitutional amendment bill, which abolishes all property qualifications for electors of members of that body and takes away from the crown its right to nominate twelve members of that chamber. The twelve members of the House appointed by the King were not included in the decree of dissolution.

FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN IS ULSTER'S ULTIMAT

British Empire Face to Face With Its Most [illegible] Problem in Recent Years—Brother Is Arrayed A[illegible] Brother in Ireland—Protestant Fear of Catholic [illegible]nation the Cause of Present Uprising.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE [illegible]

LONDON, July 11.—The Ulster rebellion against Irish home rule is probably the most serious situation British diplomacy has been called upon to deal with, in all its recent complex and perilous problems. It overshadows the constantly threatening Indian mutiny, the South African troubles and suffrage militancy, although any of these are serious enough to give any government sleepless nights and days of anxiety. Combined, they are a menace requiring the utmost tact. There is this difference between the troubles in the colonies and in Ireland. An outside foe would meet a fairly well-combined opposition of all the military forces of Great Britain. Even militancy, by its destructive tactics, disregarding friend and foe alike, has estranged public sympathy and stern, restrictive measures by the government would meet public approval.

In Ireland, however, it is a case of brother against brother. The British soldiers flatly refuse to be ordered into Ireland to shoot down or repress their brothers, fathers and neighbors. This disaffection in the army, the crumbling of discipline, is the most serious problem Britain has ever been called upon to face. Once the army begins to crumble, Britain would speedily fall to pieces. Hence the fear of forcing upon Ulster a bill that is obnoxious and which will inevitably result in bloodshed and the extreme possibility of disrupting the government. Outside friends of both sides in Ireland would undoubtedly take a hand, more or less openly, in the long struggle which would follow the enforcement of the home rule bill, unless Ulster is permanently excluded from its provisions.

CRUX OF ULSTER AFFAIR.

Stripped of all verbiage and polite political terms, the Ulster Protestants refuse to submit to government administered by Roman Catholics. This is the real situation. Ulster holds that Irish home rule means rule by priests of the Roman Catholic church, and Ulster is armed to the teeth and will fight to the last man before it submits to this rule.

Preparations for this battle have been going on, more or less secretly, for many months. All able-bodied Protestants of Ulster are armed with the latest improved weapons. They have been thoroughly drilled in army tactics by some of the most experienced British army officers. Ulster is a vast armed camp and some system of wireless communication enables the entire population to be warned immediately of any event upon its fortunes.

Visitors to the north of Ireland say they see very little evidence of the possible imminence of conflict. Men in Belfast and Londonderry go about their daily tasks, there is marrying and giving in marriage, the shops thrive and the streets do not resound to the tramp of armed troops. Yet the armed men are there, thousands of them, ready to spring into action at a moment's notice. Signs are not lacking for those with eyes to see. The visitor perceives large bodies of men on horseback, drilling in the quiet valleys after sundown; he will meet plainclothes battalions, headed by the union jack, and followed by a detachment of nurses, marching with military precision through the wide streets; he will enter some ancient park and stumble upon a soldierly camp and riflemen at practice; on Saturday afternoons he will find all the villagers astir, the narrow lanes thronged with volunteers of grimly serious aspect; special trains are crammed with men bound for some "review" and here and there one of the little band of hard-bitten retired army men, officers of years of experience, who really control the organization and keep it in hand. After one has seen these things, no doubt is left that Protestant Ulster means what it says.

DREAD AN OPEN CLASH.

In their hearts the people of Ulster do not really expect to win if matters come to an open clash with the military forces of the imperial government. The Ulsterites drill and keep constantly prepared, but they are not fools. Although Ulster is more defensible than is commonly supposed, they do not profess to be able to stand for very long against regular troops. They do not expect to win by their own unaided strength should it ever come to actual war. They base their chief hope on the British idea of fairness. They believe, and with much to sustain their belief, that the British public and world sentiment generally would force intervention were an attempt made to exterminate them because they are standing for religious liberty.

The preparation for trouble is not confined to Ulster by any means. The Tyrone Volunteers are probably better drilled and [illegible] similar organization [illegible] rone the Roman [illegible] 53.4 per cent. and [illegible] 44.6 per cent. Appeal for Funds.

UNITED IRISH LEAGUE TO AID JOHN REDMO

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 11.—Under the auspices of Municipal Council, United Irish League of America, preparations are being made at a meeting here on July 15 of the National Executive Committee to raise a fund to support the Irish National Volunteers, organized to back up John F. Redmond and the Irish Parliamentary party. The fund was given a start at a public meeting recently, at which subscriptions were received from Dr. Gertrude Kelly, Capt. Stephen McFarland and others. Michael E. Corbley is chairman of the local council. Patrick Egan, who was United States Minister to Chili many years ago, is active in the movement.

Besides making arrangements for a campaign for funds the National Executive Committee will complete plans for a public reception to John F. Redmond, the Irish [illegible] has accepted an invitation [illegible] New York and Philadelphia [illegible] tember. Mr. Redmond [illegible] visit whether or not the [illegible] bill becomes a law.

DIGEST OF THE PROVISIONS OF THE HOME RULE BILL.

A SENATE of forty members and a House of Commons of 164 members, of which Ulster is to have 59 and the universities two.

The Senate is to be composed of nominated members. In the first instance the imperial executive is to control the nominations with a view to assuring the representation of the minority. The nominations are to be for a fixed term and as the members retire by rotation, the vacancies will be filled by the Irish executive.

There will be no religious bar and the executive will hold office for a fixed term. The authority of the executive is to be co-extensive with the Irish Parliament.

The 164 Representatives are to be elected by the existing constituencies, but no constituency is to have fewer than 27,000 inhabitants.

The Irish Parliament cannot legislate on peace or war, navy, army, or any naval or military force, foreign relations, trade outside Ireland, coinage or legal tender.

It cannot make any law either directly or indirectly to establish or endow any religion or prohibit the free exercise thereof, or give a preference, privilege or advantage, or impose any disability or disadvantage on account of religious belief or religion or ecclesiastical status or make any religious belief or religious ceremony a condition of the validity of any marriage.

Temporary restrictions are placed on legislation, on land purchase, old age pensions, national insurance, labor exchanges, royal Irish constabulary, postoffice and other savings banks and friendly societies.

The Irish constabulary is to be automatically transferred to the Irish government after six years and power given the Irish Parliament to demand the transfer of the old age pensions and insurance act to its control on giving a year's notice to the imperial government.

The Irish Parliament is debarred from altering the home rule bill or the power to appeal to the Privy Council.

The executive remains invested in the sovereign or in his representative.

Forty-two members still will be sent from Ireland to the House of Commons.

The judicial committee of the Privy Council is to give the final decision as to the constitutional validity of any act passed by the Irish Parliament.

The Irish exchequer is to defray the cost of the Irish administration except for reserved services mentioned above.

The imperial exchequer will pay an annual sum to the Irish exchequer, starting at $2,500,000, and eventually, after six years, becoming a permanent payment of $1,000,000 annually.

The collection of all taxes is to remain in the imperial service, and they will be paid into the imperial exchequer, which is to pay over to the Irish executive an equivalent to the expenditure on Irish services at the time of passing of the act.

The Irish Parliament is to have power to reduce or to discontinue the imperial taxes, excepting the income tax and the stamp and estate duties. It will also have power to alter existing excise duties, but except in the case of beer and spirits, it is debarred from adding to the customs duties anything which will give a greater increase than 10 per cent.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland is to have the power to veto or suspend any bill on the instruction of the imperial executive.

Antitheses.

TWO VIEWS OF ULSTER BY MINDS THAT DIFFER.

THE ULSTER ULCER.

BY JOHN S. M'GROARTY.

IF A PORTION of the people of say five of the northern counties of California were to take arms against a law which had been passed by the Congress of the United States to govern the whole nation, you would have an exact parallel to the Ulster "problem."

The Parliament of the United Kingdoms of Great Britain and Ireland has legislated home rule for Ireland. This law was passed not only by the votes of Irish members of Parliament, but by the votes of English, Scotch and Welsh members of Parliament. It is both a wise and a just law—wise from the standpoint of political economy and just to one of the nations of the British empire. There is no need to go into the matter in detail. The wisdom of the law must be apparent to any sane mind.

It has been thoroughly proved that monopoly of the land is at the bottom of the real opposition to home rule on the part of those who own the land. But the landlords could not make much of a show in the way of opposition if left alone to themselves, because, although there is a great deal of the land, there are not many of the landlords. So, in order to make a showing, the "higher-ups" have done what mean and crafty and conscienceless men have done for ages—they have raised the standard of religious bigotry.

I think I know the Ulster man well. My father was an Ulster man, my mother an Ulster woman. They were Catholics and suffered bitterly for their faith. Their priests were hunted like dogs. My father dared not catch a fish in the river on which he was born and upon which his fathers had been born since the Celt first settled within the shores of the narrow seas. He dared not keep a gun in his house. He was penalized, scourged, demeaned and pitifully impoverished by alien laws. For 700 years Ireland suffered like that.

In the trail of the conquerors came a hybrid breed of camp followers who were neither English, Scotch nor Irish. To them was given the spoils of the earth—the harvests of the fields, the fat of the land, the milk and honey, the corn and wine of fertile Erin. And it is the descendants of these interlopers who are taking arms against the law of the British empire in Ulster today. They are exactly of the same kidney with the Tory who fought or intrigued against the colonies of America in the Revolution.

I cannot see where they have any standing or why they should be given any consideration. They are not in danger of oppression because they are Protestants. Religion has nothing to do with the case. The Catholics of Ireland have loved Protestant leaders and have shed their life's blood for them, time and time again. It is a poor Irish Catholic home anywhere throughout the world in which you will fail to find enshrined pictures of Robert Emmett, Wolfe Tone, Smith O'Brien, John Mitchell, Parnell and Isaac Butt—all Protestants.

My father and mother left many Protestant neighbors behind them in Ireland whom they dearly loved and who loved them, too. But they were not Orangemen.

There is not the slightest danger that a Catholic majority in Ireland would in any way oppress a Protestant minority. Were Catholics to do this I would be ashamed of my creed and of my race, and so would every Catholic of Irish blood be ashamed. It were an unthinkable thing— a thing to blush for before God and man.

The business of governing Ireland by the Irish will come about in due time. You see, the Orangeman of Ulster is not a Celt.

THE CASE FOR ULSTER.

BY HARRY BOWLING.

LOYALTY, I take, is the first and finest of human virtues. Are the men of Ulster to be treated as rebels and shot down by the King's troops for daring to be loyal to the King? The present coalition government in Westminster represents nothing but a frantic desire to hang on to the sweets of office. It will not go to the country for an indorsement of its policies.

Ulster has offered to submit her case to the British voters and to abide by their decision. Who are resisting the will of the people, the politicians afraid of the public verdict or the citizen-soldiers who are courting it?

What guarantee have the Covenanters in a six-year exemption from Nationalist control? Under the amended home rule bill Ulster may be excluded till she has disbanded her volunteer army. When the Ulster army is no more the politicians will repeal the exclusion clause and Ulster will be forced to submit to the Dublin Parliament. Rather than this, Ulster will fight—and Ulster will be right.

Submission to a Parliament in Dublin means for Ulster handing over the result of two centuries of steady toil and honest enterprise to a gang of political adventurers. Belfast, per capita, is the richest city in the United Kingdom. There is more wealth in this one city than in the whole of Catholic Ireland. We have been told that sentiment and pride and patriotism alone prompt the Nationalist desire for a Parliament of their own in Dublin. Parliaments cost money. Somebody must pay the piper, but surely not those who abominate the music!

The Ulstermen are not armed to take away any rights from the Nationalists, but simply to safeguard their own. The patriotism of the British Liberals would make demons grin. The nation is to be drenched in blood, the authority of law is to be upset, an empire is to be disrupted, that Mr. Asquith may pay a political debt to Mr. Redmond.

Sir Edward Carson stands for freedom in the same sense that Luther, Cromwell, Garibaldi and Lincoln stood for freedom. He has fought honestly, in the open, announcing every move squarely beforehand. The Coalitionists have been slick, sinuous and wily. And don't forget the men who signed the Belfast covenant are workers, not dreamers or schemers. And workers are always fighters.

No, if civil war comes, it will not be through the sincerity of Ulster but the insincerity of the place-seekers who drafted the home rule bill. They could jeer at the earnestness of the Ulster men, they could ridicule Sir Edward in public as a colossal bluffer. They never looked into that strong, stern face without knowing in their hearts that they were the bluffers—and not he.

I think the whole world knows it now, sees how pale the sentiment of the Nationalist dreamers has grown before the practical resistance of the workers in Belfast. Twenty-five years ago sympathy with the aspirations of the home rulers was well founded. Today this has all been changed. Grievances have been righted, disabilities removed. The same sympathies may well be extended now to the Protestants in Ulster who are threatened with the same evils from which the genius of Parnell rescued Catholic Ireland.

Local self-government—yes; a Parliament sitting in Dublin, if that sounds more dignified—certainly. Let each province in Ireland manage its own local affairs. But never hand over the lives and properties and religious freedom of the men of Ulster to a legislative body composed of their hereditary enemies.

Ulster is loyal to the Union Jack; she is not asking for a new flag. Just imagine the justice of driving a son out of his own home and compelling him to board with a family that "has it in for him." He would be a poor boy who wouldn't fight under such circumstances.

I know how the American people feel about their own flag. I know what would happen here if any political party attempted to separate California from the Stars and Stripes. Who will throw a stone at Ulster for acting as any loyal American would act under similar circumstances?

For Justice.

ULSTER IS RIGHT, SAYS BONAR LAW

Arouses Canny Scotchmen to Great Enthusiasm.

Declares Unionists Will Fight, if Necessary.

But Appeals for Peaceful Solution of Trouble.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLASGOW (Scotland) June 25.—"The government has the power to injure, possibly to ruin, the country, but they have not the power to compel, and they never will compel the loyalists of Ulster to bow down before a nationalist parliament."

With these words, Mr. Bonar Law, member of Parliament, and one of the most prominent Ulsterites in the Commons, closed an address here today that brought the great audience to its feet with a shout that jarred the building. It was probably the greatest outpouring of friends of Northern Ireland ever held outside of Ireland itself. The announcement that Mr. Law was going to speak had been spread throughout Scotland, and long before he appeared at Inverness, the place of meeting, the hall was jammed to suffocation. Six thousand persons heard his address. After finishing his Inverness address, Mr. Law spoke at St. Andrews Hall, Glasgow, to another jammed house.

It was a typical Unionist outpouring. Lord Lovat occupied the chair at Iverness, and many Unionist candidates for various seats were present.

After the preliminary shouts had died away, subsequent to Mr. Law's presentation, the speaker got right down to business.

"The time for oratory is past," he said. "What is now needed is action. This question is a religious one. Being that, it seems to me that we should be able to reach some amicable solution without a resort to arms, or for that matter, even to invective. Why should the majority dominate the minority, or why should the minority dominate the majority? Are we not all British peoples, subject to the British Parliament, in which both sides are represented? Should not that alone insure justice to all?

With this phrase fairly shouted by Mr. Law, the great assemblage jumped to its feet with a wild cheer, and it required some time to restore order. For all the world, it was a typical American political meeting listening to a "favorite son."

"Ulster is right," repeated Mr. Law, "and for that reason I support Ulster. I know they are Protestants, but that is not the reason I support them. If the position had been reversed, I would have equally supported the other side."

Hesitating a moment, and then proceeding in a modulated voice, Mr. Law created a genuine sensation when he said the simple fact that the government had been checked in its career by the knowledge that Ulster would resist, had shaken the general respect for law and authority, the only rock upon which all government rested.

"Our whole social system has received a shock that will remain long after this question has been disposed of," he declared. "I know that if there is any chance of saving the country from war—the greatest of all calamities—the Unionists will take that course. And I also know that if the Liberals foist a war upon us, that the Unionists will win that war, and win it decisively."

Again bedlam broke loose, the whole audience seemingly rising at once to cheer.

"However much it may be desired by our opponents," he continued, "Ulster will never submit to a Parliament in Dublin. No cleverness, no maneuvering will accomplish this end. This is what might also be termed a conflict between government and nation. The nation must win, because it is animated by the same spirit that moved the men behind the walls of Derry to uphold their race and the honor of their country. Don't you remember how their enemies erected a boom across the river to hem them in? A British ship broke that boom. The recent work of the government in creating the Parliament act is nothing more than another boom to cut off the people of Ulster from their race and country, and indicates that the old ship of state is again drifting toward disaster. If the government leaders could only realize that they were really the leaders of the government, and not of a single party, there would still be hope for them. If they don't, this second boom will be broken as was the first, and with just as great, and possibly greater, havoc."

MALE MILITANT ATTACKS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRISTOL (Eng.) July 11.—A violent attack was made today on Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, by a made militant suffragist, who rushed at the statesman immediately on his descent from the train here. The assailant hurled a heavy bundle of papers in Mr. Birrell's face, at the same time shouting:

"You cur, you torturer of women."

Mr. Birrell later attended a Liberal garden party where he made an address dealing with home rule. In the course of his speech he said that while the situation in Ulster undoubtedly was grave, he never was more sanguine than at the present moment that a reasonable settlement would be reached.

It was now admitted on all sides that home rule for Ireland was inevitable, the chief secretary continued, the only question at issue was to bring it about in such a way as to minimize the difficulties while uniting the whole of Ireland.

MRS. PANKHURST RELEASED.

Parnell's Love Affair.

"till daylight sent pale gleams of light under the window curtains, and he would say: 'I am really sleepy, Queenie; I'll go to bed,' and as a rule he would sleep soundly until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he would come down to breakfast in my sitting-room."

The authoress has evidently lived over again these days as she vividly set forth her story. She tells us that, long after she and Parnell had become lovers, her husband "was blind to the existence of the fierce, bewildering force that was rising within me in answer to the call of those passion-haunted eyes, that waking or sleeping, never left me." She says:

"I had fought against our love; but Parnell would not fight, and I was alone. I had urged my children and his work; but he answered me: 'For good or ill, I am your husband, your lover, your children, your all. And I will give my life to Ireland, but to you I give my love, whether it be your heaven or your hell. It is destiny. When I first looked into your eyes I knew."

Never once in all these years, she adds, did he fail me or leave the place of appointment before I came, even though it might mean the loss of the mail train to Ireland, and leaving some thousands of people waiting in vain for the speech he was too far away to make.

CHALLENGED TO A DUEL.

At last a suspicion of the truth seems to have reached the brain of the husband. He was frequently absent from his home for long periods, but in 1881 he visited his wife's house suddenly, and without the invitation that had become customary for some years. Parnell was not there, but his portmanteau was, and it was packed off to London by Capt. O'Shea. A challenge followed, but no duel was fought. A "bitter quarrel" between husband and wife occurred, and she adds, henceforth, "Parnell and I were one without further scruple, without fear, and without remorse."

In the early summer he joined her and her children at Brighton. He cut off his beard with a pair of scissors going down in the train, and otherwise disguised himself. He was now "always your husband." In August he learned that the lady "had good hopes." The letters during this period are numerous, opening with the words, "My Own Wife," or "My Own Loveliest," and signed in one instance at least, "Your Own King."

Then followed his arrest and imprisonment in Kilmainham. In the jail he contrived all sorts of ruses to communicate with her and to receive her letters. They wrote, between the lines of ordinary letters, in "invisible" ink, loving messages, chiefly concerning the expected birth of their child. They devised a code and arranged systems of inclosing private letters in communications addressed to third parties. During this time of imprisonment Parnell's health greatly improved, but he practiced malingering to a considerable extent in order to obtain special privileges. This is all frankly explained in his letters to Mrs. O'Shea. The deception now began to prick Mrs. O'Shea's conscience. She admits that it told upon her nerves:

"I had to be careful now; Willie (Capt. O'Shea) began to be solicitous about my health, and wished to come to Eltham more frequently than I would allow. He thought February (the time when the child was expected) would seal our reconciliation, whereas I knew it would seal the cold hatred I felt toward him and consummate the love I bore my child's father."

"ALL FOR LOVE."

In one of the letters Parnell wrote to her in this period was a passage showing he was really ready to sacrifice "all for love." He says:

"Rather than that my beautiful wifie should run any risk, I will resign my seat, leave politics, and go away somewhere with my own Queenie, as soon as she wishes; will she come?"

And the next day he repeats that to him she is above all besides and that he could not live without her.

Then comes the birth of the baby girl, its illness, and its death.

"My baby was born on February 16, 1882. I was very ill, but the joy of possessing Parnell's child carried me through my trouble. She was a beautiful baby, apparently strong and healthy—for the first few weeks—and with the brown eyes of her father. This child of tragedy rarely cried, but lay watching me with eyes thoughtful and searching beyond the possibility of her little life. I used to seek in hers for the fires always smouldering in the depths of her father's eyes, but could not get beyond that curious gravity and understanding in them, lightened only by the little smile she gave when I came near her. . . ."

The idea of throwing up politics was now strong upon Parnell. He talks to his mistress of their living together "away from everybody and everything," and declares that he will never make another platform speech.

He was released "on parole," on April 10, 1882, to attend a nephew's funeral in Paris. He saw Mrs. O'Shea on his way thither, and on his return he and Capt. O'Shea drafted the Kilmainham Treaty in Mrs. O'Shea's house. Mrs. O'Shea writes:

"When daylight came. . . my little one died, as my lover stole in to kiss us both to say good-by."

At the end of 1882 the O'Sheas and Parnell were living at Brighton—again on Capt. O'Shea's invitation to Parnell. It seems, indeed, that except on the one occasion previously referred to, O'Shea never entertained any conviction that Parnell and his wife were more than very close friends, though he must have known how much, in his long absences from Eltham, they were together. The story of these ten years—from 1880 to 1890—when the final rupture between husband and wife occurred, is so amazing that had any novelist written such a tale he would have been chided for conceiving so fantastic a story.

DIVORCE AND TRAGEDY.

But the catastrophe was drawing on. In December, 1886, Mrs. O'Shea was writing to her husband that "the only person who had ever tarnished his honor had been himself," and in the following March he was sending her "unpleasant letters."

In November, 1890, Capt. O'Shea brought an action for divorce against his wife and Parnell. The latter would not defend it. According to Mrs. O'Shea, he said:

"No, Queenie. What's the use? We want the divorce, and, divorce or not, I shall always come where you are. I shall always come to my home every night, whatever happens."

The decree was made absolute in June, 1891, and Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea were immediately married at the registrar's office at Stayning.

And what then? Parnell's political career ruined forever—the Uncrowned King deposed and execrated by those who had feared and obeyed him. But there is no suggestion of remorse. A great romance had turned the current of his life, and the spirit of that romance never left him.

He flung himself with dauntless courage into the tremendous conflict which lasted till his death. Every one (but his wife) seemed against him, and he fought them all. The marriage was in June. In September his health was so shattered that his bride begged him to give up the struggle. He answered that he would rather die than "give in to the howling of the English mob. But," he went on, "if you say it, I will do it, and you will never hear of it again from me, my love, my own wife."

It was too late. On October 6 he died. "Kiss me, sweet wifie, and I will try to sleep a little," were his last words, and with that kiss he sighed away forever.

The Wurlitzer Harp

STARKE MODEL

In the aristocratic homes of this world—in Europe and America—the harp is again coming to its old pre-eminence.

In America, the late Heinrich Schnecker of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Sabatino of the New York, Lotito of the Cincinnati, Williams of the Minneapolis Orchestra, Marthage of Sousa's and Lerando of Kryll's bands, all have with enthusiasm indorsed the Wurlitzer Harp as the one incomparable American production in the musical world. Today their judgment is vindicated by like enthusiasm in Vienna, Berlin and other European musical centers.

I CURE PILES

FISTULA and all other Rectal Diseases WITHOUT OPERATION

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

I cure without surgery. My patients are not confined in bed and they do not lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

WELL KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,

WELL-KNOWN PRINTER CURED.

Esteemed Doctor: I cannot refrain from congratulating you and myself on the complete cure of hemorrhoids, from which I had been afflicted for more than 20 years. For the past 5 years I had been practically incapacitated from attending to business. Your treatment is such that no one need fear, as no knife operation is employed. It will be a pleasure to have you refer anyone to me, and I will never be too busy to answer an inquiry. Sincerely yours,

STEEL MILL SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

For twenty years I was a sufferer from protruding and bleeding piles. During that time I constantly sought a cure, but never saw the time that I thought I could spare the time for a surgical operation. Dr. C. H. White has cured me. This was done painlessly and rapidly. I have renewed my age more than twenty years and can cheerfully recommend him and his methods to all sufferers.

E. J. MOSES, Supt. Cal. Ind. Steel Rolling Mills, 4th and Mateo Sts., Los Angeles

PROMINENT REAL ESTATE MAN CURED.

I desire to say to my friends everywhere that during the last few months I have been cured of an old and annoying fistula, which had baffled all treatment heretofore employed. This fistula was cured without pain, and without loss of time, by Dr. C. H. White.

POVERTY-STRICKEN PARIS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, July 11.—Owing to increasing expenditures and decreasing receipts, Andre Messager and L. J. Broussan, lessees of the Paris Opera, have given notice of their withdrawal after August 31, under a clause in the lease.

The opera has been running for some time at an average loss of $12,000 a month, and the capital of $320,000 provided by a syndicate of patrons of the opera has been all expended.

WARBURG'S MOVE, SAYS SENATOR.

PUBLICITY IN RELATION TO WILSON'S NOMINEES SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Publicity of all facts ascertained by the Senate Banking Committee relating to the nominations of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago and Paul M. Warburg of New York, as members of the Federal Reserve Board, is sought by Democratic and Republican Senators who oppose their confirmation.

An effort will be made next week to have the ban of secrecy lifted on this testimony taken by the committee in Mr. Jones's case and also to have published all correspondence involved in Mr. Warburg's refusal to appear before the committee.

Senator Hitchcock, acting chairman of the committee, when he makes the committee's report adverse to Mr. Jones's nomination, proposes to move that the testimony in full be made public and also that all the facts regarding Mr. Warburg's case be aired.

Nearly every member of the Banking Committee today received scores of letters and telegrams from individuals and business associations throughout the country urging the confirmation of Mr. Jones and Mr. Warburg. No messages have been received, so far as could be learned, opposing President Wilson's nominee.

Members of the committee today said no further action would be taken on Mr. Warburg's nomination unless the New York banker should consent to appear before it.

"It is Mr. Warburg's move," one Senator declared.

TOBACCO IN THE NAVY.

Daniels Decides to Let Lady Nicotine Stay Aboard Ships and He Will Probably Retain Guns and Engines.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—General satisfaction was expressed today throughout naval circles when it became known that Secretary Daniels, contrary to expectations, had authorized the retention of popular brands of tobacco and articles which it had been rumored would be denied admission to the commissary stores.

The action of the Secretary following the enforcement of his order abolishing the officers' wine mess, officially upset what had become a general belief among the enlisted men that they too would be denied certain proprietary articles which they had heretofore enjoyed. Under the new order not only will those articles which have been carried in the commissary departments be retained, but it is intended to assure greater latitude of choice to the men by admitting additional brands of tobacco and personal commodities. In announcing his decision, Secretary Daniels said:

"I firmly believe that the enlisted men of the fleet should be allowed to buy what they want. I feel that in purchasing these supplies I am acting as trustee for the men and that it is my duty to make this possible so far as lies in my power."

RATE ORDER ADVANCED.

Interstate Commerce Commission Modifies Boundary Lines in Zones on Diagonal Traffic to Pacific.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The effective date of the Interstate Commerce Commission's intermountain rate orders recently sustained by the Supreme Court, has been advanced to October 1, to enable the railroads to compile and publish the tariffs to be put into effect.

Slight modifications of the zone boundary lines fixed in the official order have been made to make the zones on diagonal traffic from the Lake Superior region to the South Pacific Coast and from Galveston to the North Pacific Coast conform to the zones already fixed in tariffs applicable to class rates.

At a hearing early in October the railroads will be afforded an opportunity to show that on certain articles which take a through rate to the Pacific Coast of $1 or less for carloads and $2 or less for less than carloads, greater relief ought to be granted.

Some articles excepted from the operation of the long and short haul provision of the law after October 1, follow:

Sulphate of ammonia, chloride and carbide of calcium, canned fruits, corn, meats, mince meats, tomatoes, green coffee, cotton piece goods, hardware and tools, pig iron, structural iron, iron fence, iron posts, iron pipe, wire fencing, paint, paper, rice, radiators, sectional boilers, pig and slab tin, and insulated copper wire.

These articles will take a higher rate to intermediate points than to Pacific Coast terminals, chiefly because of the water competition to the Pacific Coast.

LOOK AT M'ADOO GALLIVANTING.

AND HE'S DOING IT ALL IN A GOVERNMENT REVENUE CUTTER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Representative Good, Republican, of Iowa, made an attack in the House today on the use of government revenue cutters as "pleasure craft" by Secretary McAdoo. Representative Good declared that the revenue cutter Onondaga made regular week-end trips out of Boston to accommodate "parties of Democrats." He quoted an article from a newspaper saying Mr. and Mrs. McAdoo had made a cruise to Mattapoisett, Mass., in the Onondaga.

Mr. Good read a statute enacted some time ago prohibiting the use of revenue cutters except for government business.

"If the public had the power," he concluded, "it would demand the removal of the Secretary of the Treasury who not only fails to enforce the law but himself violates it."

Representative Burke of South Dakota said Mr. Good had "made charges here which, if true, amount to malfeasance in office. "I'd like to know," he declared, "how much truth there is in them."

Representative Glass of Virginia declared he believed the Secretary paid out of his own pocket the expenses of his cutter transportation when on private business.

United States Treasury Statement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business today was:

Total balance in general fund, $156,734,930.

*Total receipts yesterday, $15,042,487.

Total payments yesterday, $2,374,149.

The surplus this fiscal year is $13,872,406, against a deficit of $8,114,862 last year, exclusive of Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

*Including $12,535,275.96 from sale of battleships Idaho and Mississippi.

HAS OLD BIBLE FOR SALE.

Sacramento Woman's Book Is Two Hundred Years Old and Said to Be Very Valuable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) July 11.—Mrs. M. F. Haynie of this city has left for San Francisco to dispose of an antiquated Bible, published in London in 1712, the property of her husband, an employee of the Sacramento postoffice. The Haynies have been offered $22,500 for the oblong bundle of holy writ, which reaches to the reign of George III. Florence E. Miller of Oakland has a purchaser for the two-century-old masterpiece of an old English shop in Mill street. Mrs. Haynie declares there is but one other such Bible in the world and that one of the treasured volumes in the English Queen's library. It came to the Haynies through Stephen W. Haynie who recorded in the front page of the book a brief family history, relating incidents as far back as the revolution of 1776.

The book has fallen to pieces, yet every page is full and well preserved. It is elaborately illustrated with chalk, wood and steel engravings, and the old Chaucer letter "S" which looks like the "F," is used throughout. The troubles of Lazarus and Dives, the building of the ark, and the ascension are profusely illustrated in the volume.

NOMINATION PETITIONS.

Thirty-two Aspirants to Represent California in Congress Have Filed the Documents.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—Thirty-two nomination petitions for Congressmen, representing California's eleven Congressional districts, have been received by Secretary of State Jordan, and the list will reach forty by July 16, by which date all nomination petitions must be filed with the Secretary of State. Here is the list of those who seek to represent California in Washington:

First District—Edward H. Hart, Ross, Republican; O. F. Melden, Sausalito, Democrat; William Kent, Kentfield, Independent; W. S. Riley, Crescent City, Progressive.

Second District—John E. Raker, Alturas, Democrat.

Third District—Charles C. Curry, Sacramento, Republican; David Ross, Stockton, Socialist.

Fourth District—Julius Kahn, San Francisco, Republican and Progressive; Henry C. Colombat, San Francisco, Democrat and Progressive; J. C. Westenberg, San Francisco, Prohibitionist.

Fifth District—John R. Jones, San Francisco, Republican; George B. Benham, San Francisco, Republican; John I. Nolan, Republican, Democrat and Progressive; Frederick L. Head, San Francisco, Democrat.

Sixth District—Phil M. Walsh, Oakland, Republican; Dr. N. C. Garrick, Oakland; Arthur M. Elston, Berkeley and William R. Geary, Oakland, Progressives.

Seventh District—L. L. Dennett, Modesto, Republican and Progressive; A. M. Drew, Fresno, Republican; Denver S. Church, Fresno, Democrat; Don A. Allen, Fresno, Prohibition.

Ninth District—E. C. Roberts, Long Beach; C. H. Windham, Long Beach, Republicans; Charles W. Bell, Pasadena, Progressive; Charles H. Randall, Los Angeles, Prohibition.

MORE PETITIONS FILED.

A South Pasadena Man With Aspirations to be Associate Supreme Justice Announces Himself.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—With the filing of the petition of Winfield Scott Riley, Progressive, of Crescent City, Del Norte county, for the office of Congressman from the First District, Congressman William Kent has a third opponent in the field. The others are O. Meldon of Sausalito, a Democrat, and E. H. Hart, a Republican.

A petition containing 135 names of Sacramentans for F. V. Keesling, aspirant for the nomination for Governor on the Republican ticket, was received.

W. T. James of South Pasadena also filed his petition for associate justice of the Supreme Court.

OAKLAND, July 11.—An "unloaded" rifle, in the hands of Frank Andrada, 11 years old, sent Mrs. Cora V. Lessing, his father's housekeeper, to a local hospital today, dangerously wounded.

POLICE AFTER UNION BARTENDER.

TREASURER IS CHARGED WITH TAKING FUNDS AND DISAPPEARING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 11.—Wanted for the alleged theft of $1200 belonging to the Portland Bartenders' Union, Local No. 349, of which he was treasurer, W. H. Strong is being sought by the police, and a warrant was issued today for his arrest on a charge of grand larceny. Strong served a term as treasurer of the union and in that capacity handled the funds. At the recent election of officers, he was ousted from office and instructed to turn over the books and funds on July 7.

July 7 came, but Strong did not. Investigation disclosed that the books had been taken from their place and the funds of the union had disappeared. Strong did not appear at his place of business for work and his rooms in a downtown hotel were found vacant. Strong left no trace and the detectives have besought the other Coast departments to be on the lookout for him.

LOTUS POOL ON STAGE

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, July 8.—India of two milleniums ago, with all the brilliant barbarity and promitive gorgeousness of a king's life of that age, is to be presented on July 18 at the Greek Theater of the University of California, when "Shakuntala," a play translated from the Hindu by Prof. Arthur W. Ryder of the university will be given.

The big stage at the Greek Theater offers extraordinary opportunity for scenic display, and the old drama, which deals with King Cophetua and the beggar, a maid theme, with the customs of India of a past age and the human emotions of all ages, lends itself to stage effects of marvelous colorings and rare designs.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature will be the lotus pool on the center of the stage, wherein will be lotus of India and into which a waterfall will play during the entire performance. A second cascade will fall over the edge of the stage into the diazoma, where a thicket of tropical plants will carry out the illusion. The end of the stage will represent a forest, and here all the trees of the tropics will be gathered. Two trees have been ordered cut down on the campus, in order that their luxuriantly flowered branches may color the scene.

Here parrots and brilliant birds of India will be seen, and two of the marvelous white peacocks of Burmah will play a part in the drama. A chorus of Hindu maidens will loose a whole flock of brilliant little birds of the tropics. A faun and a bear cub are also part of the properties and these animals are being rehearsed with daily. King Dushyanta, the hero of the play, will ride a horse, caparisoned in the ancient Hindu manner, upon the stage.

When this drama was presented by the Mountain Players' Club on Mt. Tamalpais some months ago a Hindu student of the university opened and closed the play with an old invocation in Hindu. This feature will be repeated at the Greek Theater, and one of the Hindu students will appear in native costume for the rite.

Critics have said of this play that, although its age is almost unreckonable, is nevertheless as alive and vital as a drama of today. Prof. Ryder has gained an enviable reputation in this translation and many others from the ancient Hindu. His translation of "The Little Clay Cart," which was presented at the Greek Theater some years ago, was one of the most prominent successes of that place.

The cast of "Shakuntala" will remain almost the same as at its first presentation. Many of the university students will have roles.

Registrations.

REPUBLICAN LEAD GROWS, FURTHER GAIN IS EXPECTED

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11. — With three of the fifty-eight counties of the State failing to report registration returns to July 6 this year, tabulations made today by Secretary of State Jordan show Republicans leading Progressives by 201,132 and Democrats by 181,523 out of a total registered of 921,581. All three of the counties outstanding, Calaveras, Plumas and Nevada, are Republican. When they report the Republican lead will be increased approximately 2600 over the Progressives and 1000 over the Democrats. Comparative figures announced today by Secretary of State Jordan show that in the fifty-five counties thus far reporting this month the three principal parties have registered the following number of voters since March 16:

Republicans, 151,403.
Democrats, 68,267.
Progressives, 56,752.

County—	Rep.	Dem.	Prog.	Soc.
San Bernardino	8446	4000	2019	1235
Madera	1296	1706	509	140
Shasta	2346	1902	816	505

Republicans lacked only 2225 of equaling the combined registration of the Democrats and Progressives. The receipt of returns from the three outstanding counties will cut this number down to approximately 1800.

Shipments.

BEST YEAR FOR APRICOTS IN HISTORY OF STATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—With the shipping season for apricots ending this week, the total on that variety of fruit for 1914 is 382 cars, the largest by nearly 100 cars of any year in the history of the State. This is the more surprising because fruit men have generally held the belief that owing to the poor quality of apricots, when received on the eastern market, shipments would continue to decline. Last year's total was 158 cars, and the previous high mark was made in 1909, when about 290 cars were sent out.

Total shipments of all fruits for the year show 1914 about 600 cars ahead of 1913. The comparative figures as given out by the California Fruit Distributors today, are:

Long Beach.

COUNCIL ORDERS AUDIT OF BEACH CITY BOOKS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, July 11.—No report having been made this year by the City Auditor on the condition of the municipal strongbox, which is deplorably low in funds, former Mayor C. H. Windham last night made a demand upon Mayor Whealton for an audit of the various funds. He wants a public statement of the condition of the finances of the city. After spirited verbal passages between the present and former municipal heads, the City Council ordered the audit, to be made by one outside the official family.

Windham, although kept in the dark in common with the mass of citizens regarding the true status of the city funds, has reason to believe that there is less than $4000 in the City Treasury, if there is any money at all. Judged by other years there should be from $50,000 to $75,000. He called the attention of Mayor Whealton to the statements alleged to have been made by the latter during his campaign that he would have an audit made every year on July 1.

City expenses continue to climb. The salary of the president of the Board of Public Works was boosted last night from $150 to $200 per month, and each of his assistants were given raises of $25 a month. And the three members of the board need not walk either. They are to ride, as an allowance of $40 per month was made for the conveyance of each of the lords of streets and alleys.

Santa Monica.

ORDER INVESTIGATION ON WATER, GAS, LIGHTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 11.—At the request of many leading citizens of this city, Mayor T. H. Dudley today forwarded to the State Railroad Commission a formal application for an investigation and adjustment of electric light and gas rates in Santa Monica.

Monday afternoon the Civic Betterment League will come before the City Council and request that body to take like action in regard to the same public utility rates and service.

The Consumers' Public Utility League was organized lately and has authorized the employment of an attorney to draw up six complaints against as many service companies in this city and ask the commission to make a thorough and rigid investigation, the object being to lower the rates for gas, water and electricity.

The Southern California Edison Company is mentioned in two of these complaints and the complaints contain the question of rates and service, both for gas and electricity. They think that the rate should be less than 80 cents a thousand feet, which is the present charge for gas. The other complaints include the water companies now operating here and demand lower rates.

G. M. Jones, head of the City Water Company, said that the commission would probably increase the rates instead of reducing them, when the bare facts in the matter were uncovered. He said that the company did not make as much as it should on the amount invested

COURT SUSTAINS BOARD IN NOTORIOUS ONTARIO SCHOOL CASE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, July 11.—Prof. W. J. Alexander, former supervising principal of the Ontario schools, ousted several months ago when charges of incompetency, falsehood and undue familiarity with school girls brought by the Parent-Teacher organizations of the city were sustained by the County Board of Education after a long hearing, lost his long suit with the county board yesterday, when Judge F. F. Oster granted a non-suit upon motion of Dist.-Atty. Goodcell.

Alexander sued to collect salary from January 1 until the time he quit the job. Up to the first of the year he taught under a temporary certificate and when that expired the board refused to renew it. Alexander was told that he would not be paid, but refused to quit.

In court he failed to show that the law permitted the payment of his salary without a certificate, and the case was stopped, with the County Board of Education victorious.

THE TRIAL OF JEFF M'CARN.

There's Nothing Much Else Going on in Honolulu, so We Get an Item About It Nearly Every Day Now.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) July 10.—The trial of Jeff McCarn, United States District Attorney, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was set today for August 10 in the United States District Court.

Judge Charles F. Clemons, in setting the time of trial, announced that the case would be heard by Judge Sanford B. Dole. Judge Clemons may be a witness. He recently refused to grant application of McCarn's counsel for a change of hearing on charge of prejudice.

McCarn is accused of attacking Claudius McBride, an attorney, with a revolver. His own account of the affair is that he was attacked by several man, and when lying on the floor, attempted to draw a weapon in self-defense.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Stock Market Maintained Its Mood of Doubt and Hesitation Throughout the Week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—The stock market maintained its mood of doubt and hesitation through the week, influenced by confusing factors. These were balanced in financial, industrial and political affairs. The government's July crop estimates were supplemented by good weather conditions since that date. The firm undertone of speculation for the greater part of the week was due mostly to that cause. Day by day expectancy of the rate decision was a constant constraint.

Importance was attached to the fortyfold applications for the French loan. Applications unfilled may be said to measure the resources of investment demand for future capital issues. The drawback was in political rumblings in Eastern Europe, the aftermath of the Austrian assassination, and also in trade depression abroad, as a result of reduced borrowing power of importing nations.

Quick sale of the Northern Pacific bond offering and movements in old syndicate holdings of some other bonds marked a better turn in investment conditions here. On the other hand, large July maturities of short-term notes kept call money rates stiffer. Belated liquidation in low-grade special stocks and bonds was unsettling.

President Wilson's friendly professions for big business and the conferences at the White House over the trust bills were a market subject, but Wall street sentiment was sensitive as to the course of the Senate on Federal Reserve Board nominees.

Steel reports were better, United States Steel's unfilled order tonnage being read in the light of increased shipments, while new orders were growing and prices advancing. Copper statistics, however, were unfavorable. Railroad gross earnings reflect the start of the grain movement, which is expected to be very heavy. Exports of grain promise a reflux gold import movement.

FAMOUS FLOWERING PLANTS BULBS & SEEDS

ANNOUNCEMENT

To Our Friends and Customers:

During the next fifty-two weeks in each Saturday's and Sunday's issue of The Times there will appear under the above caption and design offers of seasonable plants, bulbs and seeds.

The year of 1915 bids fair to be a red-letter one in the history of California. There will be hundreds of thousands of visitors within our gates and the impression formed by them will be lasting whether for good or bad.

We have no exposition to offer as an attraction in Los Angeles County, but we have a County, which, with a little attention to detail in regard to the embellishment of our homes and gardens, will offer an exposition along horticultural lines not surpassed, if equaled, in the civilized world. With our gardens a mass of flowers and our orchards and farms models of thrift and cleanliness, more will be done to leave a good impression of our resources and possibilities, than all the expositions in existence. It will be a demonstration in fact.

California is primarily a land of fruit and flowers. The fertility of its soil, responding in fullest measure, has made it in its attractive beauty, the garden spot of the world, with Los Angeles as its center. Local horticultural development in the past twenty years, covering the periods of our activities, has been unparalleled, and we can review with pardonable pride the cooperation and incentive that we have given to this accomplishment.

The logical lines of travel entail the passing through Los Angeles of visitors to San Francisco and San Diego. Anticipating this influx, our own Chamber of Commerce, assisted by the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, have appropriated several hundred thousand dollars for their entertainment and the beautification of our City and County.

If you are interested in plants and flowers; if you are looking forward to improvements in your home surroundings preparatory to 1915, you will find a visit to our Nursery at Montebello well worth while. The fields are a wealth of color. Thousands upon thousands of the choicest decorative plants, both for indoor and outdoor garden ornamentation, are in evidence. A visit will prove of educational value.

The above design was conceived and executed by Mr. O. W. Howard, the head of our Landscape Department. Original pen drawing photographed by Mr. P. H. Meriman, 210 Franklin street.

Our city offices are conveniently located at Ninth and Olive streets.

Our Cut Flower Store at Ninth and Olive is the largest and best equipped establishment of its kind on the Pacific Coast.

Preparation

Is Life's Most Important Event

Success is correctly anticipating how to meet future conditions.

Obviously these anticipations have to be more general than specific. In other words we can anticipate circumstances better than individual acts.

It is our primary training that has to do with our attainments more than we sometimes suspect.

Proper preparation will help us to estimate our strength and weakness, both mentally and physically. Also the peculiar kind of endeavor our ability is best suited to.

The best education teaches us, first, early as possible to fix a definite kind of endeavor as our life's work, and then to do the most important part of our work or play first, and as much of the smaller details as we have time afterward.

The great question of life, like Stevenson says of Happiness, is how to begin, and Happiness is one of the results of proper training.

It is like desirable companions, if too eagerly or directly sought after, never found. In fact, it is always a result, and the most lasting kind comes from the satisfaction of a desire that has to do with the benefit of mankind.

For instance, to know we can have a live nerve removed from an aching tooth without pain is satisfying indeed.

This is being accomplished daily as well as crowning, filling and extracting by Homer's new analgesic method.

Much social unhappiness comes from a bad breath; this is one of the symptoms of Pyorrhea.

Every one should watch for bleeding or receding gums, teeth slightly sore or loose. These are indications of Pyorrhea also.

Dr. Homer's specialties are: Treating Pyorrhea and making teeth without plates; giving a full set of teeth without plates or ordinary bridge work, if two or more roots remain in either jaw.

Associated with him are men who make plates to restore natural expression and prevent shrinking of gums.

DR. HOMER, with offices in the Orpheum Building, 636 South Broadway, says: Getting ready to do is more important than the doing.

REBELS PLAN NEW ELECTION.

Carranza-Villa Confab Like a Political Meeting.

Armies of Three Chiefs to Enter Mexico City.

Agreement of Guadalupe to Be Observed.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TORREON (Mex.) July 11.—At the Carranza-Villa conciliation conference at Torreon an effort to prevent Gen. Carranza or any of the military leaders of the revolution from becoming candidates for the Presidency or Vice-Presidency failed to be adopted, according to a lengthy official statement issued here today.

The motion was made by the Villa delegates. A motion carried, however, demanding that the first chief, as President ad interim, with the triumph of the revolution should call a convention comprised of delegates representing the Constitutionalist army, every thousand soldiers to be represented by one delegate selected by a committee of military chiefs to be approved by the general of the division, which would fix the date and arrange for the election. A list of names was suggested to Carranza by all the delegates from which he could select, if he saw fit, a provisional Cabinet or a consulting committee to act until the election of permanent officers. Resolutions also were adopted condemning what was declared the activity of the clergy in assisting the Huerta government.

CABINET POSSIBILITIES.

This followed a fight in which the Villa delegates attempted to eliminate any military leader, including Carranza, from Presidential possibilities. Those recommended as suitable for the provisional Cabinet were Iglesias Calderon, Luis Cabrera, Antonio Villareal, Miguel Silva, Manuel Bonilla, Alberto Pani, Eduardo F. Hay, Ignacio Pesqueira, Miguel Diaz Lombardo, Jose Vasconcelos, Miguel Alessio Robles and Federico Gonzales Garza.

The convention first agreed that Gen. Carranza was the supreme leader of the revolution and Gen. Villa the chief of the Division of the North.

The internal trouble in the State of Sonora was mentioned in a resolution calling on Gen. Carranza "to obtain a solution of the conflict" in the western State. Gen. Obregon, Carranza's western divisional commander, who was not represented in the conference here, and Jose Maria Maytorena, the Constitutionalist Governor of Sonora, have disagreed. It was suggested also that Maytorena resign if he believed such action would end the trouble.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The two material resolutions adopted at the Carranza-Villa conference were as follows:

"Upon the first chief of the Constitutionalist army taking possession of his office as provisional President of the republic in conformity to the plan of Guadalupe, he shall call a convention which shall discuss and arrange the date on which elections shall be held, as well as a programme of government which shall be placed in practice by all public officials who shall be elected, as well as all other matters of national interest. This convention shall be composed of delegates of the Constitutionalist army selected by committees of military chiefs upon a basis of one delegate for every 1000 soldiers in arms. Each delegate to said convention will be identified by credentials which shall be approved by the commanding general of their respective divisions.

"This being a conflict of the disinherited against the abuses of the rich and comprehending that the causes of the sufferings that afflict our country emanate from pretorianism and the clergy, the divisions of the north and northwest solemnly agree to fight until the ex-Federal army shall disappear completely, to be supplanted by the Constitutionalist army, and to plant a democratic form of government, to procure the enactment of laws for the protection of laborers, economically to emancipate the farmers by making an equitable distribution of the lands, as well as all other resolutions which may solve the agrarian problem, to punish and exact responsibilities from the Roman Catholic clergy, who materially or intellectually have assisted the usurper, Victoriano Huerta."

NEW STATEMENT BY CARRANZA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALTILLO (Mex.) July 11.—Gen. Carranza, the Constitutionalist chief, issued a statement here today reiterating his intention of carrying out the plan of Guadalupe.

He announced:

"I shall continue to struggle to establish peace throughout the republic as soon as possible and will immediately thereafter call elections which will result in the re-establishment of constitutional order in Mexico."

Carranza's statement said:

"As first chief of the Constitutionalists, I have complied and propose to comply to the end, with the plan of Guadalupe, which bears date of March last year. In conformity with this plan, which was subscribed to by the chiefs and officials who surrounded me before I was acquainted with the usurper, Huerta, I then being Governor of the State of Coahuila and accepted by all the chiefs and officials of the Constitutionalist army, I find myself obliged to remove from the posts they occupy unlawfully all the usurpers of the three powers—executive, legislative and judicial.

"As first chief of the Constitutionalists, I shall continue to struggle to establish peace throughout the republic as soon as possible, and will immediately thereafter call elections which will result in the establishment of order in Mexico. For this reason the plan of Guadalupe is not and will not be a plan of government, nor a revolutionary plan, but rather, as it is, a political plan."

Carranza then outlined the history of the Madero revolution, criticising the provisional Presidency of Francisco de la Barra, which preceded Madero's election.

"De la Barra," he said, "was a pupil of the school of dictatorship and proved unsatisfactory both to Madero and to the national interests."

Carranza added he considers himself obligated to carry out the reforms which failed of consummation in the brief Madero regime. His statement continues:

"In a few days the three divisions of Gens. Pablo Gonzales, Francisco Villa and Alvaro Obregon will advance simultaneously toward the capital of the republic. I believe that Huerta, the usurper, will not resist the advance of the Constitutionalist forces.

"If the columns of the northwest, the north and the northeast amalgamate, I shall take direct command of all those forces and will direct military operations in combination with the division in the center.

"With respect of my attitude towards foreigners, it has been and will continue to be one of the most absolute respect and cordiality. I have dictated energetic and explicit orders to all chiefs of the Constitutionalist army that they give all consideration to foreigners without distinction as to nationality, protecting in every possible way their lives and interests. These foreigners, who as a consequence of our civil war may have suffered lamentable loss of property, will have the right to present claims in conformity with the decree which was promulgated the 13th of May of last year, and upon the re-establishment of order all just claims will be recognized and satisfied. The orders which I have issued in respect to protection of foreigners, I have issued without taking into consideration the attitude of some governments in committing the grave injustice and error which they have made in recognizing the government of the usurper, Huerta.

"By good fortune the government of the United States honored itself by working in favor of liberty and on the side of justice and has not recognized the spurious government of Huerta.

"All consular representatives who have approached me have been received with a sincere welcome, and I shall accept all representatives that be accredited to my government, for I desire to demonstrate that throughout the territory under charge of forces under my command, the foreigner is well treated and protected.

"Many more foreigners who have abandoned Mexico are returning to their work, which they are carrying on unmolested and which is very satisfactory to me. Several foreign Consuls have felicitated various Constitutionalist chiefs because of the ample guarantees which have been extended."

DEPORTED PRIESTS REACH EL PASO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 11.—Twenty-five priests of the Roman Catholic Church arrived here tonight from Aguas Calientes, Zacatecas, Torreon and Chihuahua City, having been deported by order of Gen. Villa.

The action followed adoption of a resolution at the recent peace conference at Torreon to the effect that the Catholic clergy in Mexico would be punished for having aided the Federals during the revolution.

Guaymas Financier Makes His Escape, Taking Large Sum of Money From Under Their Noses.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCKTON, July 11.—After outtricking the Mexican rebels, on the border, Horace Bonzi, a banker of Guaymas, Mex., accompanied by his wife are in Stockton today. Bonzi says that he safely removed a large sum of money from his institution the day before the rebels captured the town, but that they took $20,000 that had been left for immediate use of customers. Bonzi is believed to have brought $200,000 into the United States with him.

Bonzi, who is a Californian, only succeeded in getting out of Mexico through the aid of the American Consul.

the Brazilian Minister that De la Lama and Esteva-Ruiz be protected when they reach this port and that all courtesies be extended to them by the American authorities. It is thought these messages were sent at the request of Gen. Huerta. They are the first of the kind Consul Canada has received, although other officials of the Mexican government have passed through the port.

The Finance Minister's statement on his arrival today that secret conferences had been in progress between representatives of Huerta and Carranza in New York, his repeated declaration that peace would soon be restored in Mexico, and his intimation that the fighting would cease before the actual attack of the Constitutionalists on the capital, also are considered significant. It is said here that Senor de la Lama received word of Huerta's intention to resign on Monday, when he stopped over night at Cordoba, on his way to Vera Cruz.

Several of Admiral Cradock's staff officers followed him into the interior yesterday, saying they were going to Orizaba for recreation. All the officers, including the admiral, traveled in civilian clothes. It is assumed that the staff officers will join their chief in the capital if it is true that Admiral Cradock is to escort Gen. Huerta to safety.

REPORT SCORES OF EXECUTIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALTILLO (Mex.) July 10.—(Via Laredo, Tex., July 11.)—Two hundred and thirty persons were reported executed in Mexico City last night by Huerta, according to news from the south received here by Constitutionalists today.

One hundred and seventy of these were said to have been put to death in the Federal penitentiary, and sixty executed in the prison of Santiago Tlaltelalco. Most of the victims, it is said, were officials.

Fighting is reported within the Federal District, the Constitutionalists having attacked Xochimilco, San Pablo and other small towns in the vicinity of the capital.

Huerta, it is reported, intercepted a message from Gen. Obregon, stating that the latter would take Guadalajara before July 10, and had sent a rescue force, which had arrived within about thirty miles of the city when it was taken.

Francisco Urquidi, who had been acting as Constitutional representative in Washington, arrived here last night and conferred today with Gen. Carranza.

THINKS HUERTA MAY STEP ASIDE.

DE LA LAMA SAYS NEGOTIATIONS WITH CARRANZA ARE GOING ON.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, July 11.—Gen. Huerta would step aside from the Presidency provided a man agreeable to the various factions could be found to take his place, according to Adolfo de la Lama, the Mexican Minister of Finance, who arrived here today from the Federal capital on his way to Europe.

The Minister asserted that secret conferences between representatives of Gen. Huerta and Venustiano Carranza, the first chief of the Constitutionalists, were now in progress at New York and he had reason to believe that unless an agreement was reached with Carranza, Huerta would not surrender the Presidency.

Senor de la Lama will go to Paris to attend to financial affairs for the provisional government. He expects to return to Mexico within six weeks.

Querido Moheno, former Minister of Commerce, whose resignation was recently demanded by President Huerta, will sail on the same steamer as far as Havana with Senor de la Lama, and another passenger probably will be Roberto Esteva-Ruiz, the Subsecretary of Foreign Affairs, who is on his way to Vera Cruz and will proceed to Europe on some unknown mission for the government.

A report was current here today that the train on which Senor Esteva-Ruiz is traveling had been attacked by a band of revolutionaries near Apizaco and the track torn up, but the rumor has not been confirmed.

REVOLUTION PLAN STILL UNALTERED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 11.—The conferences of the Constitutionalist leaders at Torreon to adjust the conferences between Gen. Carranza and Gen. Villa did little to alter the plan of the revolution, according to the long official statements of the delegates, given out today. The tone of the document, however, indicated that the differences between the revolution's head and his northern leader had been adjusted satisfactorily.

The unsuccessful attempt of the Villa delegates to amend the plan of Guadalupe, under which, the revolution has been operated, was deemed here as the most interesting point of the conferences. The amendments as proposed by the delegates of the division of the north would have prevented Carranza or any other military leader from becoming provisional President. The plan of Guadalupe calls for the revolution head to act as President until elections may be called, and his successor chosen.

The resolutions were considered as generally acceptable to the Carranza faction.

The Villa element, however, succeeded in passing a resolution recommending that Carranza select his provisional Cabinet from a list of names they gave. None of those mentioned at present are members of the provisional Cabinet.

Gen. Villa was reported today as having reached Chihuahua City, whence a large portion of his troops had preceded him after his latest victory at Zacatecas. The plans of the division of the north in the projected campaign against Mexico City were not hinted at by any telegrams received from the south. The belief that Gen. Villa would not participate further in the movement against Mexico City grew in some quarters. The Carranza men predicted that Gen. Obregon would push on after his recent success at Guadalajara and that the attack on San Luis Potosi by the forces of Gen. Pablo Gonzales was not far distant.

Guaymas Still Holds Out.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SALTILLO, July 9.—(Via Laredo, Tex., July 11.)—Previous reports that the seaport of Guaymas had been evacuated by Federals were in error according to advices today from Gen. Alvarado, commanding the Constitutionalist besieging that city.

SPEECH UNRESTRAINED.

New York Police Permitted the Anarchists to Say All They Wanted to at a Funeral.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, July 11.—Free speech was allowed to anarchist and radical organizations in their demonstrations today for their three adherents killed in the dynamite explosion on July 4. No disturbance resulted from the voicing of radical views by speakers who were greeted with cheers of approval by bands of red and black-creped followers and met by curiosity or indifference from the larger number composing the crowd of several thousand persons drawn to Union Square by announcement of the demonstration.

Seven hundred policemen mounted guard during the meeting.

Complying with the two restrictions imposed by the authorities, the demonstrants did not bring to the square the urn with the ashes of Arthur Caron, Charles Berg and Carl Hansen, three victims of the explosion, nor did they form a parade.

HONOR MILWAUKEE EDUCATOR.

C. G. Pearce Elected Chairman of Board of Directors of N.E.A. at St. Paul Business Session.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL, July 11.—C. G. Pearce, Milwaukee, was elected chairman of the board of directors of the National Education Association at the business session of the board today.

Oakland, Cal., was approved as the meeting place of the 1915 convention.

After the women succeeded in defeating J. Stanley Browne of Joliet, Ill., for re-election to the board of trustees, Vice-President Joseph Swain gave Browne a still greater field of activity by appointing him acting president of the N.E.A., in the absence of President David Starr Jordan, who is touring Europe.

MELVILLE E. INGALLS DEAD.

Financier and Organizer of the Big Four System Passes Away at Hot Springs, Va.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

HOT SPRINGS (Va.) July 11.—Melville E. Ingalls, financier and railroad man, died here early today of heart failure. The body will be taken to Cincinnati tomorrow and the funeral will be held Monday at the Unitarian Church there. Among the pallbearers selected are Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati and George Stimson of Los Angeles.

Besides the widow and a daughter, Mr. Ingalls is survived by four sons, Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., and Fay Ingalls of New York; George H. Ingalls of Chicago, and Albert S. Ingalls of Cleveland.

Until two years ago, he was chairman of the board of directors of the Big Four Railroad, the transportation line with which his name was most closely identified, although he was a powerful figure in what generally are known as the Vanderbilt group of railroads. Besides his home here he had a home in Cincinnati and a new one in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Ingalls was born at Harrison, Me., in 1842, was reared on a farm and educated at Bowdoin and Harvard. His career as a railroad man and financier began in 1870, when he became president, and a year later receiver of the old Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad.

In the reorganization he created the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago and later consolidated it with other railroads, forming the Big Four system, of which he was chairman. He was president of the Chesapeake & Ohio from 1888 to 1900; was Democratic candidate for Mayor of Cincinnati in 1903 and president of the National Civic Federation in 1905. He was interested in banking in Cincinnati.

PRINTER BADLY FRAPPED.

Sacramento Typo Accidentally Locked in Refrigerator Car Is Nearly Turned Into Cold Meat.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURGH, July 11.—Daniel Smith, aged 25 years, of Sacramento, Cal., is a patient at the Presbyterian Hospital suffering from badly frost bitten fingers and feet. Smith, a printer, was making his way East, when he caught a refrigerator car bound to this city over the Pennsylvania Lines West. When rescued, his strength was nearly spent in vainly calling help and striving desperately to drive away the coma which was slowly overcoming him. Smith forced the automatic catch on the ice box door and entered the compartment as the train was leaving Chicago. The door then snapped shut, holding him a prisoner.

AVIATORS IN CONSULTATION.

Curtiss and Lieut. Porte Seek to Get More Results from Hull of Flying Boat.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HAMMONDSPORT (N. Y.) July 11.—Glen H. Curtiss, Lieut. Porte, Dr. A. F. Zahm, Elmer Sperry and Irwin Chase, a designer of racing hydroplanes, were in earnest consultation tonight on new systems for getting the desired results from the hull of the Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic flying boat.

A short flight this morning satisfied all concerned that the heavy pontoons were more of a failure than auxiliary fins had been, and the workmen began the construction of new sets of planes. These were in accord with a new theory, but its fallacy was quickly proved in tonight's experiments. Further changes in the America's hull are to be made at once and the trials continued at top speed.

The drift recording instruments constructed by Mr. Sperry for the America were tested by him today, in a hydro-aeroplane trip with Lieut. Towers.

PURPLE, WHITE, GOLD BUNTING.

DENVER A CITY OF BEAUTY FOR THE ELKS REUNION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER (Colo.) July 11.—Denver tonight inspected the preparations for the twenty-eighth annual reunion of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Grand lodge officers and early arrivals joined citizens of Denver in making sure that everything was in readiness for the week of fun and frolic which opens formally Monday night.

Flags, purple, white and gold bunting, and Elks' insignia, festooned and draped on buildings and streets for fifteen blocks along five of the principal business thoroughfares, formed lanes of brilliant colors through which thousands made merry. As night came on, Grand Master Edward Leach of New York, pressed the button that transformed the setting into one of vari-colored electric beauty.

It was estimated that 1,063,760 candle power was used in this illumination.

Sunday and Monday the railroads have prepared for the arrival of scores of special trains that will bring the thousands of Elks together for their annual fete.

MARRIED WOMEN AS INSTRUCTORS.

NOTHING IN THE SCHOOL LAW TO PREVENT, SAYS HYATT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, July 11.—That there is nothing in the State school law to warrant the discrimination by school trustees and principals against the engaging of married women as instructors, was the word sent today by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Hyatt to Albert L. Barrows of the University of California, who inquired whether or not it was possible for a married woman, a mother, to successfully apply for a position in any of the schools of the State. Hyatt replied that he could not tell what districts drew the line on married women as teachers.

"Several districts do," he wrote.

Miss Pearson appeared last season with Sam Bernard in "All For The Ladies." Mrs. Pearson announced today that her daughter had given up the stage.

TO SEND CRUISER TO MEET HINDUS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 11.—The Rainbow, a cruiser purchased for the imperial government for service on the Canadian Pacific Coast and later dismantled, is being fitted up for the purpose, it is said, of going out to meet the second Hindu immigrant ship now on the way here, and intercepting her. Militiamen here have been asked to volunteer to go aboard the Rainbow. It is said that the plan also involves the conveying of the Komagata Maru back across the Pacific, as well as the second boat.

The Herrick Saves Ice

We are giving this fine Refrigerator away to advertise the fact that we are factory agents for the famous Herrick line; also to show how the perfect circulation saves ice. In the event of a tie guess, the first nearest guess to be opened will win. No member of this establishment or of the ice company is allowed to participate.

Guess How Much Ice This Herrick Refrigerator Will Use in FOURTEEN DAYS and Get It Free

Each day (except Sunday), beginning Thursday, July 9, this Herrick Refrigerator will be iced and sealed up by the Los Angeles Ice Company, who will keep an exact record of the amount supplied each day. To the person whose guess is nearest this amount the refrigerator will be given absolutely free.

It Costs You Nothing

—All you need to do is come to the store and place your name and address on a slip provided for the purpose and the amount of ice you think will be consumed in the 14 days of this demonstration. This slip will be sealed up and placed in the ballot box, where it will remain till Thursday, July 23, at 10 a.m.

See Our Window

During this 14-day demonstration the refrigerator will be kept in plain view in our display windows and the ice chamber will not be opened by anyone except the iceman until Thursday, July 23, at 10 a.m., at which time the ballot box will be opened and the winner declared.

GREAT PUZZLE OF THE NEWS.

REACHES FROM ATLANTA, GA., TO PORTLAND, OR.

It Reads as Interesting as a Tale by Eugene Sue or Jules Verne, but What It Is All About and Why It Is at All a-Tall Is Not So Easy to Divine.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) July 11.—Flat contradiction of the statement of Victor E. Innes, made at Portland, Or., today, that he had never been in Atlanta and had not engaged in business dealings with her daughters, was made here by Mrs. John W. Nelms, who has enlisted the aid of the police in a search for the missing women, Mrs. Elois Dennis and Miss Beatrice Nelms.

Mrs. Nelms said that Innes, who assisted Mrs. Dennis to obtain her divorce in Nevada, was in Atlanta early in June. She said today that she believed Innes exercises a hypnotic influence over Mrs. Dennis. Mrs. Dennis also insisted that Innes had promised to turn over to Beatrice Nelms deeds for Mexican property he was supposed to have bought for Mrs. Dennis, and that the missing woman went to Houston, Tex., to get the papers.

The mother today asked the aid of Gov. Slater in the search for her daughters.

STATEMENT OF INNES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 11.—Victor E. Innes, a former United States Deputy Prosecutor of Nevada, who is named in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis and her sister, Beatrice Nelms, today repeated his denials that he knew of the whereabouts of the women.

In 1911 and 1912, he said, he had acted as attorney for Mrs. Dennis in a divorce suit at Reno. Mr. Innes said since the divorce details were settled he had heard nothing from Mrs. Dennis, the last being a year or more ago. He said he never knew any of the other members of the family. He was preparing today to remove his family to Salt Lake City to take up a permanent residence there. That Mrs. Dennis had confided to him in 1911 that she had several times attempted suicide so she could leave $20,000 or $30,000 life insurance money to her son, was asserted by Mr. Innes. Three attempts to kill herself, she had told Mr. Innes, failed.

The Mrs. Mims, or Mines, mentioned by Mrs. Dennis's mother, Mrs. John Nelms, at Atlanta, Ga., was Mr. Innes's aunt, is unknown to Mr. Innes, who also denied he ever had been in Atlanta to talk business with Mr. Dennis. Mr. Innes characterized as infamous the assertion that he once had been engaged to Mrs. Dennis or that he had ever been sought for bigamy. He also denied he had ever negotiated any investments for Mrs. Dennis or her family. Mr. Innes and his family reside in Portland, having come here in 1912. Until recently, however, Mr. Innes had retained his charge as Deputy Federal Attorney in Nevada.

Mr. Innes made specific denial that he had ever had any business dealings, involving checks for investment, with Mrs. Dennis or Miss Nelms. He said the only money ever turned over to him was his fee for obtaining Mrs. Dennis's divorce, which was paid in cash.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) July 11.—Excessive humidity combined with high temperatures in Kansas, and Western Missouri today combined to bring much suffering. In a few places the season's temperature record was equaled. But one death was due to the heat, although several cities reported prostrations.

HELD ON LOTTERY CHARGE.

Manager of Railroad Land Association Held in St. Louis on Alleged Victims' Complaint.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—William C. Uphoff, local manager of the Railroad Unimproved Land Association, was arrested here today on charges of "conducting a lottery."

The complaint was made by several St. Louis men who declared, although they "won" in the drawing of lots said to have been conducted by the company, they could not get their land.

Uphoff said he and his forty agents in St. Louis had sold stock to at least 500 persons and had received from $3 to $15 from each. He estimates that about 50,000 persons in various parts of the country had invested money in the proposition.

Uphoff was released on $200 bonds.

Travelling Man Recommends Duffy's

MR. CHAS. W. GITTLEMAN.

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicinal tonic since 1906. I had pneumonia and was directed by my family physician to use Duffy's. It did me a great deal of good and ever since it has been used by my family. I am 38 years of age and a commercial traveler. Am outdoors a great deal, and find this medicine a worthy stimulant and good preventive of colds, etc., for which I cheerfully recommend it."—Charles W. Gittleman, 1684 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The merit and honesty of a product that has been before the public for more than half a century cannot be questioned. Its fame has spread the world over; it stands today a most celebrated and successful medicine. It is a great remedial agent in the treatment of summer colds, pneumonia, and in all stomach troubles.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American War.

Sold by most druggists, grocers and dealers in sealed bottles only, price $1.00. If you can't procure it, let us know and we will tell you how to obtain it. Write for free doctor's advice and book of recipes for table and sick room. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Splendid Medicine Stomach Trouble

I Suffered for Several Years Peruna Restored My Health

Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, No. 508 Twelfth St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I am pleased to endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered for several years. I took it for several months and at the end of that time found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies.

Over Ten Years Ago.

"I would not be without Peruna. Although it was over ten years ago that I first gave you my testimonial, I am of the same opinion as when I wrote it, and give you the privilege to use it as you see fit. I still use Peruna when I think it necessary. I am recommending it to my neighbors whenever a chance occurs."

I Still Praise Peruna.

Peruna is undoubtedly a splendid medicine for the stomach. A great many people after years of searching for a remedy finally try Peruna and are cured. This remedy is especially helpful in cases of weakness of the stomach. Those who prefer to take tablets instead of liquid medicines can get Peruna Tablets.

MEXICO SENATE IN SHORT SESSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, July 11.—The Senate held a short session today behind closed doors. It is believed that the Niagara protocol was discussed. Francisco Carbajal, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, met the members of the diplomatic corps today.

The remnant of the garrison at Guadalajara arrived here today. The officers report that Gen. Jose Maria Mier, Governor of Jalisco, and commander-in-chief of the Federal forces at Guadalajara, was captured by the Constitutionalists and they fear was shot. Gen. Lucio Blanco, one of the Constitutionalists chief, they also report, was mortally wounded before entering Guadalajara.

The general belief is that unless the Chamber of Deputies takes action with reference to the recent elections no action will be taken toward the establishment of a provisional government.

Wilson, Deciding Not to Press a Salute Out of Huerta, Sends Aero Squad to Pacific Coast.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) July 11.—The First Company of the First Aero Squadron, Signal Corps of the United States Army, which has been in camp at Ft. Crockett, near here, since April, will leave for San Diego, Cal., Monday. The company, composed of six aviators, all army officers, and forty men, was ordered here from San Diego when Gen. Funston's command was ordered to Vera Cruz.

MOCTEZUMA THREATENED.

Irregulars Reported Active and Force of Rebel Troops Will Be Sent After Marauders.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 11.—Jose Teran and Jesus Valencia, residents of Bacadehuichi, who late last week were captured by Cayatano Montenegros and a band of Federal irregulars and held for ransom until their townspeople paid 1400 pesos for their release, arrived tonight at Agua Prieta and officially reported the affair. They also reported that Montenegros is moving eastward and threatening to attack the town of Moctezuma, the largest city in the district of the same name.

Tepachi, an agricultural town near Moctezuma, already has been taken. Montenegros's strength is variously estimated from one to three hundred.

Col. Sameniego and 100 Constitutionalist troops will leave Agua Prieta tomorrow in search of the marauders.

ULSTER MAY PAY BILL.

Sir Hugh McCalmont Sues Antrim County for Destruction of His House by Suffragettes.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 1.—The whole taxpaying population of Ulster probably will have to pay for the damage done in that province by the militant suffragettes. Maj.-Gen. Sir Hugh McCalmont, a former Unionist member of Parliament, has brought action against the county of Antrim for $55,000 for the destruction of his house, "Abbeylands," which was burned by the militants in March. The action is brought under a law that applies only to Ireland, and which was enacted at the time the Nationalists were carrying on a militant campaign in favor of home rule. Under this a county is responsible for any damage done by mobs or persons and must also pay for any extra police protection sent in anticipation of violence. Should Gen. McCalmont be successful in his claim, the taxpayers of Antrim will have to pay an extra tax of nearly eightpence in the pound next year.

Autonomous Government Is Approved by Wilson.

Jones Introduces Bill for the Administration.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An administration-approved plan for a more autonomous government in the Philippines as another step toward independence was laid before Congress today.

Representative Jones of Virginia introduced a bill covering the subject. Mr. Jones is chairman of the House Insular Committee, and his measure, declaring the purpose of the people of the United States as to the future political status of the Filipinos, follows a long series of conferences with President Wilson, Secretary Garrison, Manuel Quezon, the Philippine resident commissioner to the United States, and Democratic members of the Insular Committee, all of whom informally have approved it.

The bill makes no attempt to fix a date for Philippine independence. Its preamble recites that it was never the intention of the people of the United States in the incipiency of the war with Spain to make it a war of conquest, or for territorial aggrandizement. It asserts that it has always been their purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine Islands "as soon as a stable government could be established therein." It declares it to be desirable to place in the hands of the Filipinos as large control of the democratic affairs as may be consistant with the Legislature in the exercise, in the meantime, of the right of sovereignty by the United States.

JONES EXPLAINS.

Mr. Jones, explaining his Philippine bill tonight, said:

"Generally speaking, the bill provides for the Philippine Islands the most liberal form of a territorial government. Its principal features affecting the more important changes in the existing organic act, are those relating to the enlarged powers conferred upon the Governor-General and the abolition of the Philippine commission as such and the substitution therefore of a Senate, the members of which, representing Christian provinces, shall be elected by popular vote.

"The non-Christian tribes are to be represented in the Legislature by two Senators and nine Representatives appointed by the Governor-General. The Governor-General is to appoint the heads of the executive department. The only officials to be appointed by the President are the Governor-General and the members of the Supreme Court.

"The Governor-General is given a limited power of veto over the acts of the Legislature, but the President would have the power of absolute veto.

"The Legislature, both branches of which are to be elective, with the exception of members representing the non-Christian territory, is given authority to legislate as to all of the affairs of the islands, except that it cannot pass any law affecting the trade relations with the United States, and cannot pass any tariff or currency act, nor any act disposing of public lands, timber or mining rights without first securing Presidential approval.

"As an additional safeguard and in the interest of the Philippine people, the right of Congress to annul any act of the Philippine Legislature is expressly reserved.

"A permanent bureau to have general supervision over the non-Christian tribes is provided.

"The right to vote is confined to citizens of the islands and the educational qualifications of the present law is so enlarged as to embrace those who can read and write a native language instead of English or Spanish, as at present.

"The two resident commissioners to the United States now elected by the Legislature would be elected by popular vote. The present law restricting the Legislature as to those whom it may admit to citizenship is so broadened as to confer power to admit Americans residing in the islands to become citizens thereof."

Speaking for the millions of Filipinos, Resident Commissioner Quezon, an active advocate of Philippine independence for years, gave the bill his approval tonight.

"The bill," he said, "represents far less than ought to have been considered, but I strongly favor its enactment because it is a step in the right direction, granting as it does autonomy to the Filipino people and pledging the people of the United States to recognize the independence of the Philippines as soon as a stable government shall have been established.

"I do not, of course, profess to regard this bill as a finality. Did it debar from continued agitation and effort to secure the enactment of final independence legislation I should oppose it to the uttermost. But, such is not the case. The issue now presented is that of securing some forward step, while a party friendly to the aspirations of the Filipino people is still in office. If the measure is enacted it shall have my hearty and sincere co-operation to the end that it shall be put into effect in good faith without reservation and with every presumption in its favor. That, both now and ever, it will be the duty, as it is undoubtedly the intent, of all the Filipinos to continue undiminished effort for the actual establishment of independence, free of all foreign control, must be taken for granted."

CARRANZA ORDERS COAL FOR VILLA.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SALTILLO (Mex.) July 9 (Via Laredo, Tex., July 11.)—The shortage of coal for moving troop trains, from which Gen. Villa is said to have suffered recently, is to be relieved immediately. Gen. Carranza has given orders to allow coal trains to be run from the Coahuila coal fields near Sabinas to Torreon, where it was said traffic had been interrupted because of lack of fuel.

A report was also received from Templaderas, Vera Cruz, that fully half the Federal forces were ready to join the Constitutionalists. Gen. Garcia Pena of the Federal garrison at Tembladeras has been ordered to Mexico City to reinforce the garrison there.

gard that with comparative indifference because they would have gained another three years' respite before Parliamentary act comes into operation and anything may happen in three years.

Last week the Unionists professed peaceful sentiments, but Lloyd George's difficulties over his supertax legislation and the reduction of the government majority on Tuesday to twenty-three instantly changed the whole Unionist attitude.

Therefore next week will be the most critical in the history of the home rule bill, when the amending bill, as transformed by the Lords, is presented to the commons.

Asquith will open conversations with Bonar Law, offering as a compromise that the government will abandon the time limit for the exclusion if the Unionists will agree to limit the exclusion to the four Ulster counties where the Unionists are in a majority. If Bonar Law rejects this overture and insists on the bill as amended by the Lords, the government will then propose the withdrawal of the amending bill altogether, leaving the Unionists face to face with a home rule bill without amendment. In this eventuality extreme Unionists think the King would refuse to sign the home rule bill or only do so on the understanding that there shall be dissolution in the fall.

Thus Ireland, as ever, is merely a pawn in the office-seeking game of British parties. But the appearance on the scene of the Irish National volunteers is a factor that confounds the Unionist. One result of the army lining up with the Orange men and the organization of the National volunteers is that recruiting for the British army has come to an end in Muster, Leinster and Connaught, while Ulster never counted as a recruiting ground.

DANGER POINT IN ULSTER CRISIS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BELFAST, July 11.—If the celebration of the battle of the Boyne passes without a collision between Orangemen and Catholics, the home rulers of Ulster will have passed another critical danger point.

The anniversary of the battle falls on Sunday, and every Protestant church in Belfast, particularly the Presbyterians, will have references to the day in the services. The demonstration in honor of the day will take place on Monday, when a great procession will march to Drumbeg, four miles distant, to hold the customary celebration.

The Protestant section of Belfast is decorated more lavishly than in former years. Flags and banners bearing inscriptions defying home rule are displayed everywhere. The presence of Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and armed guards surrounding his headquarters at Capt. Craig's house, together with a review of battalions of volunteers, which several of the leaders held today, caused much excited talk, but despite such exhibitions of high feeling, men in closest touch with the people of both factions predict that the occasion will pass without any conflagration.

The Nationalists assert that the Covenanters are working up a purely artificial crisis to frighten the government into accepting the Lords' amendments for the exclusion of the whole of Ulster from home rule.

Thousands of members of the constabulary have been brought forth to preserve peace on Monday, but this is about the number usually mobilized to repress the feelings of the wearers of the orange and of the green on the most contentious day on the Irish calendar.

TAKES UP BOALT'S CASE.

Washington Representative Demands That Details in Case of Newspaper Faker Be Made Public.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Representative Falconer of Washington introduced a resolution today calling on the War and Navy departments to make public details in the case of Fred L. Boalt, an American newspaper correspondent credited to the Cleveland, O., Press, with Funston's brigade at Vera Cruz, now under order of deportation and to have placed in the record the charges relating to his news dispatches.

Meanwhile, under orders of Secretary Daniels, Rear-Admiral Badger is conducting an inquiry into Boalt's story, which declared that a navy ensign had applied the Mexican law of flight to Mexicans at the taking of Vera Cruz. Boalt's defense is that he secured his information from Ensign Richardson, of the battleship Arkansas. The order of deportation is stayed, meanwhile.

FINE LEGAL POINT.

Is Girl Guilty of Attempted Murder Who Shoots Pistol Charged With Bulletless Cartridges?

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

VIENNA, July 1.—A fine point in law has been raised here as to whether a person can be convicted of attempted murder when blank cartridges have been fired in the belief they had bullets.

The case is that of a young woman who bought a pistol from a dealer, who prudently charged it with blank shells. The girl then shot at her lover without doing him the slightest harm. On arrest she admitted her intention to murder the man, but her lawyers have now a point of law that a person cannot be convicted of "shooting with intent to kill" when it is impossible to carry out the intennamely, that the vessel changed her course, not by reason of any willful alterations of her wheel, but in consequence of some uncontrollable movement."

This, it was suggested, might have been due to an insufficient area of rudder or some mishap to the steering gear, but, says the report, "we are of the opinion that the allegations as to their conditions are not well founded."

TURBINES AND OIL SHIPS.

Latest Devices of Motive Power Will Be Exploited in the Wonderful Battleship Nevada.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

QUINCY (Mass.) July 11.—Turbine engines and oil fuel will furnish the motive power of the 27,500-ton battleship Nevada, launched today at the yards of the Fore River Ship Building Company. This latest addition to the United States navy is a sister ship of the Oklahoma, launched at Camden, N. J., last March. It is said that she will be placed in commission next January. The Nevada has a length over all of 583 feet, beam 95 feet and mean draft of 28½ feet, and her estimated speed is 20½ knots an hour.

The arrangement of the main battery of ten fourteen-inch guns will be different from that on any other American battleship. Two turrets will carry two guns each and two others will have three guns each, an arrangement which it is thought will give a concentration of fire superior to that of the five two-gun turrets exemplified in the New York and the Texas.

The weight of armor is greater than that carried by any ship previously built for the navy. The muzzle energy of the fourteen-inch gun to be carried on the Nevada is about 66,000 foot tons and its shell will weigh 1400 pounds.

Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, Gov. Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada and Senator Pittman of that State, were the principal invited guests at the launching. The sponsor was Gov. Oddie's niece, Eleanor Ann Siebert, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Siebert of Reno. Another guest was Edward H. Gisburne of Quincy, who was given a medal of honor a few days ago by Secretary Daniels for gallantry in the fighting at Vera Cruz. Gisburne, who was wireless operator on the battleship Florida, was wounded while signaling to the fleet from a hotel roof and it was found necessary to amputate one of his legs.

TWO WHOPPERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Battleship No. 39, christened the Arizona by Secretary Daniels, and her sister ship, the Pennsylvania, when completed, will be the two largest fighting craft ever built for the American navy, it was announced today. Each of these vessels will have nearly 4000 tons greater displacement than the Oklahoma and the Nevada, both of which are still in the hands of the builders.

With her sister ship, the Pennsylvania, battleship No. 39, will carry two more fourteen-inch guns and one more five-inch gun than any of their predecessors. The two dreadnoughts will have a displacement of 31,400 tons each, a length of 600 feet, a beam of 97 feet and a draft of 28 feet, 10 inches.

WINE IS USED AT CHRISTENING.

"DRY NAVY" RULE FORGOTTEN WHEN BIG OIL TANKER IS LAUNCHED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VALLEJO, July 11.—The "dry navy" rule did not extend to the christening of the navy oil tanker Kanawha at Mare Island navy yard today, for Miss Dorothy Bennett, daughter of the yard commandant, sent the big hull speeding down the ways to its baptism with the crash of a bottle of wine across its bows. Miss Bennett also christened the keel of the Kanawha's sister ship, the Maumee, which will be laid July 20. A large crowd watched the ceremony.

The Kanawha, the largest oil tanker ever built at a government yard, was 50 per cent. completed when launched. She was built in the record time of seven months.

Orders call for the completion of both the Kanawha and the Maumee by January 1, 1915. The limit of cost for each is $1,200,000.

SCOTCH ORANGEMEN IN DEMONSTRATION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GLASGOW, July 11.—Twenty-five thousand West Scotland Orangemen held a demonstration at Blantyre, Lanarkshire, this afternoon. The grand master of Scotland, the Rev. David Ness, declared their policy regarding home rule was "no surrender."

Great crowds witnessed the procession through the streets, and lively skirmishes occurred, but only four persons were arrested.

CUBAN KILLS AMERICAN.

SOUL SOAKED IN YOSEMITE.

Where Nature Gives Joy to a Tired Body.

The Maddening Trot of the Trail Mule.

Uncle Sam's "Dry" Rule Is Rigidly Applied.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

I have just returned from Yosemite. For a brief ten days I fled the carping cares of the world of conventionalities and formalities and soaked my soul in the rest and recreation provided in God's world, following the advice of John Muir—"Climb the mountains and get their good tidings. Nature's peace will flow into you as sunshine flows into trees. The winds will blow their own freshness into you, and the storms their energy, while cares will drop off like autumn leaves."

The words of this great-souled nature lover are true as gospel. I went up there with a sprained brain, a misplaced set of nerves, a lost appetite, and sundry and numerous other defects in my physical system. I returned to town a new creature—insomnia replaced by a tendency to immoderate sleep; the appetite of a husky hay-maker, the brilliantly burned complexion of an athlete, and muscles hardened by close contact with the ribs of a mule—my faithful Peacock, who bore me miles and miles over crooked trails, skirting precipices through winding mountain paths, climbing the heights into the fastnesses of the Sierras.

Leaving Los Angeles on the evening train, we arrived at El Portal the following noon, where we found a fine, modern hotel perched on a cliff overlooking the rushing Merced River in the gorge below. Rooms with private bath and other modern accessories of the world outside are to be had at this gateway of the Yosemite. You pay $5 per day for these accommodations and next morning bid farewell to such luxuries and set off for camp, henceforth to sleep in a tent and live in the great out-of-doors. Embarking in the motor stage, within two hours you are in the valley and we arrived at our first destination, Camp Ahwahnee, a tent city among the giant pines with Yosemite Falls in plain view. This is one of several camps in Yosemite—the rates a trifle higher than at Camp Curry or Lost Arrow, but the exclusiveness and quiet more than repays for the trifling difference in expense.

All afternoon we loafed about camp, shaking off the world and its worries, intent on acquiring the proper mental attitude to enjoy nature—lying in the grass on the banks of the river, which at this point broadens into a quiet, swift-flowing current between cool, green meadows its boisterous rush hushed to a mere murmur of rippling water. In the foreground, beyond the meadows, dashing down from the lofty cliff, 160 feet above us, tumbles the cascade of waters from Yosemite Falls. This is pre-eminently the spot to invite your soul, for peace is here under the quiet shadow of the trees. Involuntarily, as you lie there with your cheek pressed close to nature, gracious mother of us all, you recall Longfellow's lines in "My Cathedral:"

"Like two cathedral towers these stately pines
Uplift their fretted summits tipped with cones;
The arch beneath them is not built with stones,
Not art, but nature traced these lovely lines,
And carved this graceful arabesque of vines;
. . . The pavement, carpeted with leaves,
Gives back a softened echo to thy tread.
Listen, the choir is singing; all the birds,
In leafy galleries beneath the eaves.
Are singing. Listen, ere the sound be fled,
And learn there may be worship without words."

TAKING THE TRAIL.

Next morning we are up at 5 o'clock for our first strenuous work—a trip to Eagle Peak, 4000 feet above the floor of the valley. A stage takes us to the foot of the trail and here we are mounted on horses and mules for the climb. Camp etiquette forbids any choice of animals. The guides—there is one to every seven climbers—select the animal you are to ride. When a black mule fell to the lot of the Kentucky girl, who was born and bred in the Blue Grass State, famous for its superb horses, she accepted her fate with a grim face. My portion happened to be Pete—a horse who had many years of mountain climbing to his credit, and, as developed later, a will of his own and considerable speed when properly encouraged.

The cavalcade started and we wound slowly up the steep trail, mounting higher and higher till we reached the head of Yosemite Falls, where we felt the cool, wet, spray in our faces and welcomed the moist atmosphere and damp earth in place of the hot and dusty trail. At noon we reached a level space beside a rushing mountain brook of clear, cold water under the great pine trees where we stopped for lunch and rest. A mile further on and we are at the summit of Eagle Peak and stand on the huge rocks at a dizzying height, overlooking the valley, 4000 feet below, spread out like a panorama, the river winding its way between green meadow banks, the tent villages—the entire floor of the Yosemite. To attempt a description would be folly. You must see it yourself. You notice at once that, on the slightest exertion, your heart pumps furiously, owing to the altitude, for you are now 8000 feet above sea level—the valley itself is 4000 feet above the sea and you have climbed an additional 4000, so it is no wonder that your heart protests against violent exercise.

On the return trip we are inspired to test the speed of our animals when we reach the stretch of level trail through the meadows above the top of Yosemite Falls. Hitherto, Pete has steadfastly refused to be urged off a moderate, even gait except, now and then, under the spell of my earnest solicitations, when he has broken into a reluctant and ungainly trot—that most maddening of paces that sends you up like a rocket to fall like a Plummet on the unsympathizing saddle, with results that are keenly felt next day. Pete is a slow old beast, I thought, and asked the guide to get me a persuader in the shape of a limber little switch which I applied briskly to Pete's flank. The effect was magical. Instantly, with a suddenness that was fairly bewildering, Pete was off on a mad gallop. I was surprised but exhilarated—at first. The farther and faster Pete cantered the more he seemed to enter into the spirit of the thing and his speed increased accordingly. Trees and trail swept past me in a dizzying panorama; one foot became disconnected with the stirrup; my khaki hat threatened to fly off; it seemed to me that the saddle was turning; I grasped the reins, which had been hanging loosely over Pete's neck, and endeavored to check his mad career. Not so. Pete's racing blood was up. He'd catch the other horses in the cavalcade or die in the attempt. My feeble clutch on the reins and my impassioned appeal to Pete to slow up were of not the slightest avail. On he sped like the wind. I shrieked for help—not a soul in sight.

Finally my agonized cries reached the watchful ears of the guide and he flew to my assistance.

"Make him stop!" I yelled frantically, as I breathed a prayer to Allah.

"Turn him 'round," called the guide. "He's trying to catch the others—turn him 'round."

Blindly I pulled on the right rein and Pete obediently "turned 'round." In fact, he kept turning 'round continually—he was a regular merry-go-'round, whirling rapidly 'round and 'round with me on his back yelling every minute. He did a graceful little tango dance, and a two-step, and it was not until the guide seized the reins and brought him to earth that Pete and I ceased our mad gyrations amid the cheers and jeers of the crowd.

My faith in Pete had been rudely upset, and he evidently had no respect, whatever, for me or my equestrianship. He tossed his head contemptuously, and leered wickedly at me with his left eye and held his nose uppishly in the air. When, therefore, the Kentucky girl to whom Peacock, the mule, had fallen in the first deal, magnanimously and sympathetically offered to swap beasts with me, I made haste to accept her proffer and from that time forth, such was the exemplary conduct of Peacock, he was my animal for all our trail trips.

PROHIBITS ALCOHOL.

There was a brisk demand for liniment and soothing lotions when we reached camp, tired, dusty, lame and sore from our first day's experience in the saddle. Hot baths and a liberal application of alcohol mitigated our sufferings to some extent. And right here, let me remind you that such are the rules and regulations of Uncle Sam, who owns Yosemite Valley, that not a drop of alcohol may be bought, begged or borrowed in all that domain without a physician's certificate. Prohibition with a capital P reigns. So if you want alcohol for bathing purposes when you go to Yosemite, better take it along.

Next day most of us limped, some of us were compelled to come downstairs backward, and all of us groaned when we sat down or got up, but we were encouraged by experienced climbers that this condition was merely temporary and our ultimate salvation was to keep moving otherwise we would surely get stiff. Therefore with considerable effort and only by strict moral discipline we compelled ourselves to exercise to the extent of tramping four or five miles about the valley, visiting Yosemite village, the numerous camps and studios and other near-by points of interest.

Next morning we were fine and fit for the tramp again and were off for Glacier Point—conceded to be the finest trail trip in Yosemite. We passed Mirror Lake and saw the sunrise reflected in its smooth surface, and Vernal Falls, where the water flows like a broad, white sheet of tapestry over a cliff eighty feet across with a fall of 300 feet. Up the zigzag trail we went, our cavalcade of fifty-five animals being on seven different levels at once, and on to Nevada Falls, where the water drops 600 feet over the sheer precipice, hanging in midair a misty cataract and then shooting into space like snowy meteors. These are two of the four great waterfalls in Yosemite—the other two, Yosemite Falls above mentioned, and Bridal Veil Falls, which you see at once as you enter the valley from El Portal, the name being especially appropriate from the lace-like appearance of the water which falls in misty, undulating folds caught and swayed by the breeze.

Shortly after noon we reached Glacier Point. It is of this spot I believe that Emerson said, "It comes up to the brag"—one of the seldom occasions when that eminent philosopher and scholar indulged in anything approaching slang vernacular. Barnum, the great showman, added his testimony in characteristic fashion when he said, "It is the greatest show on earth." It is conceded to be the greatest trip in Yosemite—this trail of eleven miles climbing the south wall of the valley to the magnificent height which oversweeps the whole. Perched on top is a hotel—and a good one—a somewhat rude frame structure with a woman manager and a Chinese chef who certainly knows how to cook. The delicious beefsteaks and pear pie of Ah Wong are famous among tourists the world over who have been lucky enough to sit at table at Glacier Point.

CURIOUS COMPUTATION.

By a curious arrangement which I do not understand, a premium in price is placed on the indoor sleeping apartments and dining-room. For these formal accommodations you pay $4 per day and sleep in close little bedrooms, the walls papered with a lovely pattern in conventional design. You eat in a dining-room securely walled off from the magnificent view of mountains, and valley, and God's great out-of-doors. You sit at small tables, and have finger bowls, and all the modern appliances.

For a less sum—$2.50 per day, to be exact—you sleep in a tent perched on a cliff in plain view of Nevada Falls, Vernal Falls, and with the stately Half Dome, which dominates the valley mounted guard on the opposite wall. You dine in the open—on the broad porch of the hotel overlooking all the glories of Yosemite. You watch the sunset over the peaks of the high Sierras as you sip your coffee—the changing tints of vivid rose on the snow-capped peaks melting and softening into prismatic shades of violet and opalescent hues until it darkens into royal purple and gray.

By what possible method of reasoning the proprietor of this hostelry arrives at the conclusion that the inestimable privilege of thus sleeping and dining in the open is of less value than being shut away from nature is a mystery to me—but to the glorious opportunity of the public such is the fact. As a matter of simple justice, however, the scale of prices should be reversed.

ON THE HEIGHTS.

But the place where you feel "spiders of ice crawling down your spine," as one tourist expressed it, is out on the tip of Glacier Point Rock where you stand on the huge boulder looking over a sheer precipice 3250 feet into the valley below—its entire floor spread out before you. Rise early in the morning as I did, "at 4 o'clock," go to the tip of the point, which is protected by an iron railing—view the galaxy of glory in the sky as the sun, still below the horizon, begins to throw his rays over the dome of heaven, and when his first shining arrows flush the snow-capped peaks of the high Sierras and tip with golden glory the forehead of the goddess of the valley—gaunt, gray, old Half Dome—you'll exclaim with reverent voice as did that other nature worshiper, "Good morning, God."

We sat on the rocks that night under the moonlight when her white rays bathed all the mountain peaks with a silver radiance. From far, far below in the busy camps we heard the faint halloos of distant signalers. We saw the glow of camp fires, and the electric lights beading the valley. Mirror Lake caught the reflection of the moon and gave back the glory of earth and sky.

Next day we were off through the forests to Wawona and the Mariposa grove of big trees, mounted on the box seat with the driver of the splendid four-horse coach—but that is another story.

Violence.

UNIONISTS AND I.W.W. IN A RIOT AT TONOPAH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 11.—One man was shot and his assailant was put in jail for protection here tonight in a riot between members of the Western Federation of Miners and their sympathizers and men said to belong to the Industrial Workers of the World.

The fighting occurred in Miners' Union Hall. Fifty Western Federation men, seeking to tear from the walls placards put up by the Industrial Workers' faction, proclaiming three miners' hotels "unfair," met resistance from the I.W.W. supporters. Instantly the hall rocked to an all-around fight. In the melee one man drew a revolver and fired. Jack Whiting, a miner of the Western Federation crowd, was shot in the leg. There was a rush for the man who did the shooting, which was quelled by the police and he was hustled into jail.

Industrial Workers of the World have been holding meetings here for about three weeks. They have effected an organization among restaurant employees

BIG STEAMER ASHORE.

German Vessel Mendosa Aground in Fog off Argentina, Is in Dangerous Position.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUENOS AYRES, July 11.—The German steamship Mendosa went ashore today in a fog off Negotes Point on the Argentina coast. She has 275 people on board, including passengers and crew, and advices by wireless are that her position is dangerous.

The Argentinean gunboat Patri and two tugs have gone to the assistance of the Mendosa, which is lying about five miles to the south of Cape Corrientes, where there are many sunken rocks near the shore.

MUSKRAT INVADES GERMANY.

Animal Imported from America Spreads Over Austria and Is Preying on All Game Fishes.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, June 28.—The American muskrat is invading Germany. He has not come directly from America, but by way of Austria. About nine years ago a large land owner of Bohemia imported ten pairs of the animals from America and turned them loose on his estate, which lies some twenty-five miles from Prague. They propagated rapidly and soon overran all Bohemia. Recently they have crossed the Saxon frontier into Germany, and now it is regarded as only a question of time when all German streams and lakes will be infested with them.

The spread of the animals is regarded with alarm by fishermen, for it is claimed that, although a vegetarian in America, the muskrat has become carnivorous in Europe, and the whole tribe of fishes, from the delicate brook trout to the heavy, mud-sodden carp, is preyed upon by him indiscriminately. Another of the evil habits of the animal is that he burrows into the dams of fish ponds and lets out the water.

While the American visitor was at first regarded as a valuable acquisition to the fauna of the country, and was protected against poachers, there is now a general demand that he be declared an outlaw, against whom everybody shall be invited to make war.

IRISH PLAY IN LONDON.

Son of Sir Edward Carson and a Nephew of John Redmond in Diverse Roles.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 1.—A short play called "The Irishman's Home," shortly to be produced at a local theater, is sure to attract interest; however it may fail from the point of view of technique, for its joint authors are relatives of the opposing Irish leaders and they appear on the stage in parts each has written for the other. Harry Carson, the eldest son of Sir Edward Carson, does the role of an agitator who belongs to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, "full of sentiment and traditional bigotry." L. G. Redmond-Howard is a nephew of John Redmond, and he plays the part of the son of a North Ireland general, a college student who is "impatiently viewing contemporary problems from the economist standpoint." The scene is the drawing-room of a house in Belfast.

The play has its climax in the entry of a cardinal of the Roman church, who exclaims:

"Peace in the name, not of the King, nor of country, but in the name of that God who said 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

MOTOR-'BUS VIBRATION.

Experiments at Giant Landmarks of London Show Marked Effects When Speed Is Rapid.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 1.—The effect of motor-'bus vibration, which threatens the safety of such giant landmarks as St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey and the clock tower of the House of Commons, is being made the subject of careful tests by the National Physical Laboratory.

Investigators have learned through delicate instruments placed in those buildings that the amount of vibration is largely a matter of speed of the 'buses. When three 'buses were driven past the cathedral at six miles an hour no disturbance was recorded. But at twelve miles an hour the vibration was marked. Both vertical and horizontal movements were noted.

Plans for a system of steel supports have already been found necessary for St. Paul's, owing to the disintegrating effects of a traffic on which Sir Christopher Wren did not reckon.

Moslems As Art Fanciers.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 28.—The old Moslem prejudice against portraits is disappearing from Turkey even to the extent of printing the likeness of his sacred majesty, the Sultan. Pictures of the reigning sovereign have at present an immense vogue in the orothodox near-east and are very popular in the Turkish regiments.

FREDERICKS TO INVADE NORTH.

Southland Republicans Back Up His Candidacy.

Much Interest Is Manifested All Along Line.

New Members of Committee Are Nominated.

With Southern California Republicans almost solidly supporting him in his candidacy for Governor, Capt. Fredericks leaves today upon an invasion of the northern part of the State that will keep him in the field practically until the primaries, August 25.

The first part of the journey will land Capt. Fredericks in San Francisco for a great meeting at Dreamland rink on July 23, after which he will tour the counties north of the Bay City. His itinerary includes all of the important cities in the State and besides the regular set speeches he will make, there have been planned a great number of gatherings where Capt. Fredericks will meet the people in heart-to-heart talks.

The Fredericks party will cross the Tehachepi in an automobile. With the candidate will go Mrs. Fredericks, who accompanied him on his southern tour during the week, and C. J. Sullivan, secretary of the State committee, who is directing the campaign.

All along the line great interest has been manifested in the coming of Capt. Fredericks. He goes into the territory of three opponents for the nomination, where they have been campaigning for weeks, but he does not go as a stranger, for his name and his fame have spread over the north as well as over the south. Behind him will go the almost undivided sentiment of Republicans of Southern California. Indorsed by scores of organizations and encouraged by big meetings of citizens of all parties, Capt. Fredericks is traveling northward as essentially the choice of Southern California, where in Los Angeles county alone there are more Republican votes than in any other two counties of the State.

While at San Francisco the Fredericks headquarters have been the base of operations of one of the most active and effective political campaigns ever waged in Northern California, the headquarters in Los Angeles has been the scene of industry and the effectiveness of the work accomplished here is seen in the accomplishments of the powerful organization of Republicans in a dozen counties.

Republicans, and politicians generally, who have been watching the gubernatorial contest within the Republican party, assert that Capt. Fredericks will be nominated, with Francis V. Keesling as runner-up. The talent doesn't figure W. C. Ralston or C. M. Belshaw to have a chance for the nomination. However, their presence in the race, it is said, will have the tendency of dividing the northern vote and that will be good for Fredericks, for the reason that he will have a great majority of the votes from the southern part of the State.

The complete itinerary is as follows:

July 13—Bakersfield. Night meeting.

July 14—Leave Bakersfield 9 a.m., arrive Porterville 12 m., address 1 p.m.; leave Porterville, arrive Lindsay 2 p.m.; leave Lindsay 2:30 p.m., arrive Exeter 3 p.m.; leave Exeter 4 p.m., arrive Visalia 5 p.m., night meeting.

July 17—Leave Modesto 9 a.m., arrive Stockton 4:30 p.m. Night meeting.

July 18—Sacramento. Night meeting.

July 23—Night meeting, San Francisco.

NEW COMMITTEEMEN.
REPUBLICANS NOMINATE.

The Young Republican Club, working in harmony and co-operation with the Women's Republican Club and the Republican League of Los Angeles county, yesterday completed a list of the candidates for county committeemen. Most of the petitions have been filed. This list is entirely different from the tentative list submitted a fortnight ago by a conference of various organizations. At that time the Young Republicans stated that they would prepare another list.

It is hoped by the three organizations, members of which are to be found upon the list of nominees, that the Republicans will support their candidates for positions on the new Republican county committee. The list, by assembly districts, follows:

Sixty-first Assembly District—Charles F. Parker, Charles E. Donnatin, Horace Donnell, H. E. Glidden, Mrs. Mary Garrett, F. J. Walker, Peter L. Ferry and Frank E. Middleton.

Sixty-second Assembly District—Charles S. Thatcher, Carlos L. Smart, H. B. Eakins, J. Wellington Deyo, Arthur L. Walton, Robert M. Miller and Joseph B. Michaels.

Sixty-third Assembly District—Spencer Thorpe, Samuel H. Pardue, Lewis H. Brown, Erwin W. Widney, Frank W. Richards, Lloyd A. Duncan, Charles F. McDonald, Douglas L. Edmonds and Nicholas J. Cordary.

Sixty-sixth Assembly District—William C. Mushet, Joe H. Martin, Morrison M. Ferguson, Will H. Willis and Dan Eagen.

Sixty-seventh Assembly District—John W. Wood, W. F. Knight, Edwin F. Hahn, Peter Orban and Milton Halsey.

Sixty-eighth Assembly District—Russell Graham, Charles M. Holton, Mrs. Mary Dixon, Lee R. Mathews, Dr. F. W. Thomas, J. L. Mathews and J. W. Calvert.

Judge Louis W. Myers,
Candidate for re-election to the Superior bench, who has filed his nominating petition.

Sixty-ninth Assembly District—Frederick C. Fairbanks, John H. Wright, Sloan Pitzer and Gilbert B. Ocheltree.

Seventy-first Assembly District—Mrs. W. C. Mullen, Charles Brazee, Fred J. Spring and Dan Mulherron.

Seventy-second Assembly District—Oscar L. Horn, Albert H. Loeffler, William M. Bowen, Leonard G. Husar, E. I. Troan, A. G. Meyran, Herbert White and C. R. Luton.

Seventy-third Assembly District—Owen McAleer, George Thornburg, Otto Reinen, Henry Yonkin, H. E. Dennison and C. A. Olivier.

Seventy-fourth Assembly District—R. R. Breeze, Mrs. M. C. Culberson, James Alexander and Dr. W. E. D. Morrison.

MYERS FOR JUDGE.
HIS PETITION IS FILED.

Nominating petitions of Judge Louis W. Myers, candidate for re-election as judge of the Superior Court, were filed yesterday with the Registrar of Voters.

Judge Myers was born in Lake Mills, Wis., in 1872. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin with the degrees of B.L. and LLB., and received the distinction of being admitted to the Honor Scholarship Society of Phi Beta Kappa. He received his first training in the office of two lawyers of national reputation, John C. Spooner, United States Senator from Wisconsin, and Arthur L. Sanborn, now judge of the United States Court at Madison. After a year in their office he removed to Chicago where he became associated with Jesse A. Baldwin, now judge of the Circuit Court there. After two years with Judge Baldwin he removed to California, locating in Los Angeles, where he was engaged in general practice of the law sixteen years prior to being appointed to the Superior bench.

When Judge Conrey was appointed presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal, the judges expressed their confidence in Judge Myers by assigning him Judge Conrey's calendar, which included cases of exceptional importance and difficulty. Among the cases of public importance now pending before Judge Myers may be mentioned the ones of the Title Insurance and Trust Company vs. California Development Company, involving the administration through a receiver of the canal system supplying the entire Imperial Valley; City of Los Angeles vs. Outer Harbor and Dock Company, involving the title to land in the outer harbor, valued at $5,000,000; Sepulveda vs. City of Los Angeles, involving the title to land in the inner harbor, valued at more than a million dollars.

Judge Myers has taken an active interest in civic matters and has been identified with most of the non-partisan movements for civic betterment since coming to Los Angeles. He was for several years a member of the Executive Committee of the Municipal League, and was vice-president of that organization at the time of his appointment to the bench. When the Municipal Conference of 1913 was organized he took an active part and was elected to the chairmanship of its Executive Committee. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Municipal League, Bar Association, Psysopathic Association and of the City, University, Union League and Gamut clubs.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

Next Thursday is the final day for the filing of nominating petitions by candidates. Under the primary law, which imposes a burden upon the people that seems humanly impossible to bear, the registrar of voters, with whom the petitions must be filed, has five days in which to check the names of signers and forward the certified petitions to the Secretary of State, if they are for State offices, or issue certificates of nomination here if the petitions are for county or judicial offices.

Aside from whatever I may think of the infamous direct primary and the thoroughly ridiculous conditions it imposes, it is no exaggeration to say that the situation is very serious at this time. It is estimated that 700 candidates will file nominating petitions in Los Angeles county. This includes candidates of all the parties for county committeemen. Yesterday at noon only 100 of the petitions, or one-seventh of the number expected, had been filed with the Registrar of Voters. Most of them have been verified. County Registrar McAleer has a force of several hundred employees working day and night. The offices are cramped; the work is coming in faster than it can be handled, and with the tremendous flood of petitions for measures, I predict that it will be a human impossibility for a force of any size to do the work required within the space of time allotted by law.

Failure to do so will mean that many of the candidates who are late with their petitions may not get upon the ballot at all. Mr. McAleer points out that no matter how large the force at his command there is only one set of registration books which must be referred to to check each name upon every petition. The law leaves no alternative in the matter of completing the work within the five-day limit and a proper construction of it would be that those petitions not completed within five days must be laid aside and not certified at all.

Since the authors and sponsors of the fool law disagree upon salient features of it and fail to harmonize upon the interpretation of vital sections, it is little wonder that the candidates or the general voting population are befuddled.

But since we have to stand for it this year, after which it will be amended or abolished entirely, I want to impress upon every candidate the necessity for getting into the office of the registrar of voters early Monday morning, or as near that time as possible, with nominating petitions.

Forty-four counties in California are Republican. Thirteen are slightly Democratic, and only one—Alameda—is "Progressive," according to the registration figures of the week. And in Alameda county there is a nasty scandal over the mutilation of registration blanks with the evident intention of perpetrating frauds in behalf of the "Progressive" party.

The ringing message of the registration figures means that California is on the verge of a Republican triumph. Certainly, with the issues so well defined in this State, with the "Progressive" party of pretense in the throes of dissolution, no appreciable number of persons who have registered Republican will vote any other ticket. I have made inquiries among all classes and have yet to find more than a few persons registered as Republicans who have in their acquaintance voters who, registered like themselves, have any intention of voting for candidates of other parties.

Republicans are registered 200,000 stronger than the "Progressives" and this plurality will be increased to over 300,000 by November.

The State Board of Equalization is composed of five members—four representing districts and the fifth an ex-officio member in the State Controller. Southern California at present has one member on that board, whereas the northern part of the State, with 80,362 votes less in the Fourth District, has four members. Southern California pays taxes out of all proportion to its representation on this important board. One way to improve this condition is to elect from Southern California a State Controller, which will give added representation.

And that being the preamble, let it be said that the person to elect is J. E. Stockwell, for eight years chief accountant in the County Tax Collector's office, and a Republican of long standing.

Mr. Stockwell is the only Republican seeking the office and is opposed by the incumbent, a "Progressive," who, like other "Progressive" officeholders, holds his place by reason of the political treachery that followed the election of supposedly Republicans in 1910. Mr. Stockwell has lived in Los Angeles thirty years, is a capital fellow and would make a splendid, able and efficient Controller. He ought to be supported not only by Republicans generally throughout the State, but by every taxpayer in Southern California.

Every Republican paper in the Ninth Congress District and five of the so-called "Progressive" papers are supporting the candidacy of F. C. Roberts, Republican aspirant for Congress. Included in the list of Republican papers are the two dailies at Pasadena and Long Beach owned by Mr. Roberts, and there is common gossip about the district that whenever Proprietor Roberts uses his influence he can induce his editors to put in an occasional lick for the Republican party and perchance for himself, which is as it should be with proprietors and well-ordered newspapers.

Nearly two score women friends of J. Vincent Hannon, candidate for Superior judge, have organized the Women's Hannon Club to further his candidacy. Miss Lucy McGowan is chairman and Mrs. R. S. Saunders, secretary. Social gatherings will be held by the club, the first of which will be next Thursday at the home of Mrs. S. Whalen, No. 185 South Normandie.

Judge William M. Conley, candidate for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, invaded Southern California the past week and opened headquarters in Los Angeles, from which will be conducted his primary campaign in the Southland. He will not return north until August 1, in the meantime visiting every place of importance south of the Tehachepi.

The nominating petitions of Capt. H. Z. Osborne as candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, required under the primary law, have been signed by double the number required. Sufficient names have been subscribed in Los Angeles, and a petition was left at the Soldiers' Home for a few signatures and enough were appended to it to have answered the requirements of the law at the Soldiers' Home alone.

Nominating petitions of O. R. W. Robinson, former Receiver of the United States Land Office, as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, appeared during the week. Robinson is running as a Republican and has as his opponents Capt. H. Z. Osborne and Gen. Frank C. Prescott. Nathan Newby has no opposition for the Democratic nomination and Congressman W. D. Stephens is running both as a Republican and a "Progressive." And he is not a Republican.

The Young Republican Club of San Diego has passed the following resolution:

"Whereas Hon. W. P. James has received the unanimous support and indorsement of the members of the San Diego Bar Association for the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of California, and

"Whereas, Hon. W. P. James has made an honorable and enviable record as Associate Justice of the District Court of Appeal in and for the Second District of the State of California,

"Now therefore the Young Republican Club indorses and pledges its every effort and support to the candidacy of the Hon. W. P. James for election to the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of California, at the ensuing election."

"We're going on without you, Hiram." This battle cry of Republicans has stilled the exhortations of Gov. Johnson, and the general adoption of the slogan in the Southland has struck terror to the heart of the fuzzy administration at Sacramento.

Members of the San Diego bar have unanimously indorsed the candidacy of Justice F. M. Angellotti for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

WOMAN AS MANAGER OF FORD'S CAMPAIG

FIVE HUNDRED prominent women of the county have been selected as a Woman's Campaign Committee to work in the interest of Chief Deputy District Attorney Ford, who is a candidate for District Attorney. Yesterday, Miss Josephine Neil of Pasadena avenue was selected chairman of the committee, and arrangements were made to carry the reasons why Mr. Ford should be elected into every home in the county.

Miss Neil, who has been a resident of the city twenty-two years, has the distinction of being the first campaign manager to handle organization work since suffrage was granted California women. She will have complete charge of Mr. Ford's campaign among the women.

"The fight which Mr. Ford is making," said Miss Neil yesterday, "is unique. It is based entirely upon efficiency in the public service. No attempt is being made by him or his workers to belittle We are asking for Mr. tion because of make him the logical

POLITICAL TIPS.

Mr. Ford tells President Wilson that business is all right. The other automobile manufacturers are yet to be heard from. The manufacture and sale of autos has to do with the people who can afford such luxuries, not with the working people, except those who work in the automobile establishments. Mr. Ford is the maker of a low-priced machine, and he hits more customers than the others for that reason, the same as the sellers of other low-priced goods in any line. He is a better organizer than the majority of business men, and for these reasons should not be held as proof that the condition of business is only psychological. He considers that he has made enough money for himself already, and he is, therefore, giving his profits to his working people and to his customers. Mr. Ford is all right, but as a money-maker he has known how to take advantage of opportunities the same as Rockefeller, and if he went on piling up his wealth the public would soon be finding fault with him the same as they do with the oil magnate.

Happenings in Washington are considered evidence that President Wilson is looking forward to a renomination in 1916. He has never indicated a purpose to be a one-term President. Mr. Bryan probably regrets this, but Mr. Bryan has killed himself anyway by his foreign policy, his Chautauqua lectures, and his general inefficiency in the State Department. The glamor of Bryanism has been thoroughly dissipated.

George Fred Williams, United States Minister to Greece, shortly after he received his appointment, wrote a friend saying: "I am sure it will prove a most delightful and congenial post." In the light of recent events Mr. Williams may have changed his mind.

The voters of Missouri at the November election will have to vote on fifteen measures, eight of which relate to taxes and two relate to the construction of good roads. It is proposed to raise $50,000,000 for good roads and a companion amendment provides that bonds for good roads purposes must be voted upon by 51 per cent. of the voters of the State, county or political subdivisions. Two of the petitions contain over 46,000 names each, for which the circulator is said to have received 10 cents each, or 20 cents for two, every circulator carrying both petitions and thus earning good money.

The Senatorial contest in Georgia is between a rich man and a poor man. Gov. John M. Slaton, who is supposed to have the inside track, married a lot of money. Thomas S. Felder, former Attorney-General, is a poor man after fifteen years of politics, and one of the arguments in his favor is that he established the precedent, when Attorney-General, of refusing to accept fees for special work.

In Oklahoma if either of the Senatorial candidates now asking for Democratic votes could show that he was the cause of the large potato crop now being harvested in that State, there would be no question of his nomination and farmer who is digging he is getting 160 and sold eleven for $5200, and a day more for $2300. $16,000 for his potato er ranchers are also returns, and are, to talk politics. blind incumbent returned, but Judge ing the support of Democrats through

LIGHTNING SETS FIRES IN FOREST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BANNING, July 11.—Lightning, which struck a tree in the Angelus forest reserve, two miles north of Banning today, caused the most serious forest fire of the season.

A strong west wind fanned the flames, which traveled at a terrific rate towards the headwaters of White River and San Dorzonio Creek, where valuable government pine abounds, and water rights worth $2,000,000 are jeopardized. More than 100 men have been taken from the fruit harvest in automobiles to the scene of destruction, and a commissary camp has been established in case the fire rages several days.

All available forest rangers have been called to take the lead in forming a fire company, and the Indians from the Morongo reservation have been rushed to the scene to aid the whites. Unless the fire is gotten under control it will cross the San Dorzonio Creek and sweep into the Indian country. Notwithstanding the terrific play of lightning there was very little rain and the forest is dry and burns like tinder.

ANGELENOS GET WATER CONTRACT.

INSTALLATION OF PENSTOCKS TO GENERATE ELECTRIC CURRENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ESCONDIDO, July 11.—For a consideration of about $10,000 the directors of the Escondido Mutual Water Company have awarded to the American Steel Pipe and Tank Company of Los Angeles the contract for the installation of two penstocks for the electric-generating plants of the company, one at the Rincon Indian reservation, where the fall from the flume line is 825 feet, and the other at a point near the impounding reservoir, five miles east of the city, where the drop is 428 feet.

As one of the important improvements to be undertaken by the water company, the water, before it is used for irrigation purposes, is to be employed for generating electric power, which will be sold to the stockholders for the operation of pumping plants and lighting, thus making it possible for all of the ranchmen to have electric lights in their houses and buildings.

The necessary consent of the stockholders for the issue of bonds sufficient to cover the expenses of this and other improvements has been secured. The first series of bonds is for $60,000. Much of the preliminary work for the installation of the electric light and power plants has been completed.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee of five to have charge of the interests of Escondido in the preparations for the $1,000,000 bond issue for the construction of roads and bridges, the membership of the committee being W. L. Ramey, W. H. Baldridge, W. E. Alexander, Arthur B. Jones and W. N. Bradbury.

Jack Wettenhall, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wettenhall, United States agent at the Rincon Indian reservation, has been brought here for treatment on account of serious injuries sustained when the little fellow fell from a post and struck on a jagged stick which pierced his leg near the hip, making a deep hole.

SANTA ANA, July 11.—In the fight being made for Frank C. Kent, Garden Grove ranchman, accused of the murder of I. O. Wilson, who was struck over the head with a rake, an important point has been made by the defense. Wilson did not die until a month after he was struck. Dr. H. S. Gordon testified that death was due to an inflamed condition of the brain. The prosecution held that the blow caused the condition. On cross-examination the physician stated that the condition might be brought about by Bright's disease, inflammation of the inner ear and by other ailments, and not necessarily from a blow. Kent's preliminary examination was continued to July 16.

HERMOSA BEACH, July 11.—The improvement of El Camino Real from the schoolhouse on the south to the corporate limits on the north has been ordered by the Trustees. This means the expenditure of $50,000 more for street improvements. The plan of improvement for this boulevard is rather unique and provides for a thirty-foot cement walk in the center and wide parkings on each side, to be planted with trees. So enthusiastic are the property owners affected that every lot owner signed a petition. Proceedings have been started and the work will be rushed as fast as possible. This roadway will be the connecting link of the Ocean View boulevard, which will connect Hermosa Beach, Redondo Beach and Santa Monica.

Santa Barbara to "Know Own County First."

Charter Revision Committee Gets Down to Work.

Tacks in Road Blow Out Automobile Tires.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—The big days of the month with Santa Barbara county will be July 21-22, when the Commercial Club will start on an automobile trip of two days over the country. Plans are being worked out and enthusiasm prevails over the venture, which initiates a campaign on the part of the people of the county seat to knit closer the ties that bind the county together.

"Know your county first" is the slogan of the campaign, which is expected to end in the carrying out of plans for reciprocity districts. It is expected also to give the county-seat people a clearer idea of the needs of the country sections that bond matters for roads and bridges can be decided more reasonably in the future at the polls.

The route over which the automobiles will travel is known as a loop of 10,000 wonders. At Lompoc, Santa Ynez, Santa Maria and other towns the visitors are to be welcomed with public demonstrations. Every owner of a machine will be urged to make the trip, which will require two days.

MORE ELASTIC CHARTER.

The Charter Revision Committee, appointed months ago by the Chamber of Commerce, is considering the report of a subcommittee which has recommended consolidation of city offices, and suggested such a change as will secure a more rapid transaction of municipal business. The larger part of the subcommittee's recommendations have been received rather unfavorably.

The rapid growth which has featured Santa Barbara in the last two years has demonstrated the cumbersomeness of the present charter, which will not permit of the letting of contracts for sums over $100 without advertising and considerable red-tape, which occasions long delays. This has resulted in retarding large improvements and some of these have been abandoned.

Judge R. B. Canfield is chairman of the committee. Considerable interest is awakened as to the sort of a revision the committee will recommend. The general demand is for a more elastic charter, one that will facilitate city work and increase the city's bonding limit.

TACKS IN ROAD.

Sharp-pointed tacks strewn in the dust at the eastern end of the east main artery have been playing havoc with automobile tires. The dust is being sifted to remove the tacks. It is believed that they were strewn along the road by some resident of that section, who took this means of solving the dust problem.

Recently the main artery was paved to the eastern limits of the city, and from the end of the Coast highway there is a stretch of about three blocks unpaved. Machines have been diverting to the main artery at that point instead of taking the east boulevard, which is wrecked. The authorities are making an effort to locate the tack-thrower.

ARGENTINE MEAT.

That Argentina meats are being sent from the South American republic to San Francisco and from there distributed through the State is the report made officially here by Dr. R. F. Winchester, city Health Officer. The meat, according to the inspector, is coming in frozen shiploads, and the report calls for added precaution on the part of all health officers, as the meat, coming from such a long distance under refrigeration, is subject to quicker decay than otherwise.

MILLIONAIRES IN CALICO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CORONADO, July 11.—Tired of Turkish balls, children's parties and other fads, Coronado millionaires will now begown themselves in calico and in this humble garb dance the tango, the hesitation, the one-step and so on. It was first planned to give a great Grecian ball August 1, for the society people that are filling the big hotel for the summer, but plans have been changed by the host, William Ramsey Heberhart, and calico is the thing. Hence tailors are fashioning wealthy patrons' suits of strangely-figured calico and modistes are amazed at the orders of society belles for frocks of calico by the first of the month.

DOG MOTHERS KITTENS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COVINA, July 11.—A female Boston bull and a Maltese cat gave birth to puppies and kittens, respectively, on the Fourth of July at the home of V. R. Long on Cypress avenue. A few days ago the Maltese mother was killed while foraging for food. Her friend, the dog-mother, was made restless by the pitiful crying of the starving kittens. She moved the puppies to the nest where the kittens lay, and both kittens and puppies are now nursing from the same breast. The mother of the puppies seems delighted at the increase in her family, and Mr. Long says the kittens are getting fat as butter balls.

PYTHIANS PLAN JINKS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 11.—Members of Aetna Lodge, Knights of Pythias, are making great preparations for the celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the institution of the local lodge next month, when all of the charter members possible will be present from this vicinity and from a distance. Some of the members have enacted the drama, "Damon and Pythias" before the grand lodge of the State with great success. One of the propositions to be considered at the thirtieth anniversary celebration will be the changing of the name of the organization from Aetna to Pomona Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

KILLS BUCK IN BACK YARD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—George Lambert journeyed seventy-five miles over the mountains and spent a week in a vain effort to hunt a deer, and during his absence a neighbor, Thomas Hicks, Jr., son of Supt. Hicks of the County Hospital, dropped a big buck in Lambert's back yard. Lambert got home this morning, disgusted with the trip, and chagrined when he learned it had been taken in vain when he had a big buck within 100 feet of his home waiting for a lucky hunter.

SEARCH FOR SUFFRAGETTES HAS QUEER ANGLES.

One Lady Is Told to Leave Her Fan in the Cloak Room—Another Middle-Aged Dame With Old-Fashioned Wide Skirts Inspected for an Ax.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 1.—The last court of the season at Buckingham Palace appears to have been a disappointment to many who attended in the expectation that Mary Blomfield's precedent in interrupting the previous court by a suffragette demonstration would be followed up at the next court with more excitement. The occasion brought out almost everybody entitled to tickets. One guest who found amusement in the precautions taken, said:

"Everybody, even the male guests, had to run the gauntlet of inspection, and one lady was told she must leave her fan in the cloak-room, as it was so massive in the handle that it might be used as a weapon. Several people said their bouquets were peered into, and one middle-aged dame, who came in rather old-fashionedly wide skirts, declared that they were obviously pressed against by the detectives to see that they concealed no ax."

The King and Queen were remarkably isolated, so there could be no repetition of the previous incident, when Miss Blomfield beseeched His Majesty to stop the forcible feeding of women prisoners.

As to the ball following the court, society critics said that it did not go any too well. "Political feeling is running so high just now, that it was quite a case of sheep and goats," said one. Prince Arthur of Connaught, who was looking rather bored, is said to have drawn the Queen's attention to the fact.

While there has been a temporary slackening of militant activity since the raid on Buckingham Palace, it seems to be only because the Pankhurst organization needs a little rest from the physical and financial strains.

An enterprising grocery clerk in a middle-western town has written to an American official, offering to come to London and put down the suffragette campaign. He does not say how he expects to accomplish it, but he guarantees success. All he asks is that his expenses be guaranteed, and that he be paid a bonus if successful. The offer has not yet reached the British officials.

MAKE HOME COMFORTABLE.

The Katathermometer and the Hypocaust Are Latest Inventions of Professor in London Hospital.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 1.—No home in the future will be complete without a katathermometer, says Prof. Leonard Hill of the London Hospital. Also, the futurist home must be equipped with a hypocaust to meet futurist conditions, which demand warm feet and a cool head.

Prof Hill's invention, the katathermometer, tells whether the temperature indoors approximates that out of doors, his theory being that it is wrong to mantain a level summer heat in rooms. This is responsible, he believes, for the prevalence of nerve troubles. Houses should have plenty of air in circulation to match the air outside.

The hypocaust, to keep the feet warm while the fresh draughts cool the head, is an idea borrowed from the Romans. It is a plan for keeping the floors warm by flues from a furnace.

THE EUGENIC LAW.

Gets on the Nerve of Justice Timlin of Milwaukee, Who Says Some Things About Such Legislation.

[Milwaukee Sentinel:] "The foolishest imaginable law may still be absolutely constitutional," once said a justice of the national Supreme Court of a bad law that had been impeached on constitutional grounds.

A striking illustration of that rather obvious principle is Justice Timlin's savage scoring of the preposterous Wisconsin "eugenic law," whose constitutionality has just been affirmed by the State Supreme Court. Not unconstitutional, but absurd, abortive, shallow, mischievous in tendency; that seems to be about the long and short of it.

The "eugenic law" has been severely handled by the medical faculty and the press of the State. But all former attacks pale beside the invective of Justice Timlin in a concurring opinion.

The form of the certificate required is characterized as "a sort of insult," the statute as "about as silly and obnoxious a piece of legislation as could be devised," one which "tends to discourage marriage rather than to prevent the spread of disease," etc.

The "bill factory" that incubated, the Legislature that passed, and the Governor who failed to veto, the mass of rubbishy and expensive legislation that has been dumped on this State in the name of "progress" should be called sharply to account in the next election.

Justice Timlin is a master of invective. It was an unpleasant duty, no doubt, to admit the constitutionality of this silly and abortive statute; and the hot dressing down he gave it as a piece of legislation aside from that point must have been a very considerable relief to his feelings.

Los Angeles Harbor.

QUICK JUMP OVER TRACKS.

Work to Be Begun Tomorrow on Timm's Point.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, July 11.—Two steam shovels brought down from the Los Angeles Aqueduct over a year ago to cut down Timms Point are ready for use. Monday morning work will be begun removing dirt to make the fill back of municipal dock No. 1 in the outer harbor, which was completed this week.

To get the steam shovels on the ground it was necessary to cross the track of the Pacific Electric to the property of the Outer Harbor Dock and Warehouse Company. Acting under instructions from the Harbor Commission the harbor engineers did without the formality of a permit from the State Railroad Commission.

Securing the permit, however, would have been a mere formality, but it might have meant considerable delay. President Shoup of the Pacific Electric notified the Harbor Commission yesterday that he would approve the request of the Harbor Commission for permission from the Railroad Commission to lay the track, but before this information reached the City Hall the work was already done.

The narrow neck at Timms Point affording at the present time the only outlet to the outer harbor has been the scene of numerous coups in the past. Railroad tracks have been torn up and fences built, but nothing was ever executed with quicker dispatch than the action of the harbor engineer in getting the steam shovels ready for business at the foot of the bluff.

At the time the shovels were brought to the harbor plans and estimates were made for taking down the entire property owned by the city and filling in a part of the city's 146-acre tract in the outer harbor, but this improvement has been deferred, and present plans call only for removal of enough dirt to make the fill back of the wharf and prepare for the erection of the new 1800-foot steel freight shed.

PILOT RESIGNS.

Capt. Victor Johnson, dean of the municipal port pilots, today sent his resignation to the Harbor Commission. Capt. Johnson was on the bridge of the American-Hawaiian steamer Nevadan when the vessel rammed the breakwater in a thick fog recently. Although the responsibility for the accident has not been fixed, Capt. Johnson took the accident very much to heart and finally decided to resign. This was the third accident to an American-Hawaiian vessel since the steamers of that line began calling here last April.

Capt. Ansell and Capt. Lenhers, local United States inspectors, held an investigation following the accident, but withheld their decision upon instruction of Capt. John J. Bulger, supervising inspector for the Pacific Coast, who ruled that the Harbor Commission had jurisdiction in the case. Since then, however, Capt. Bulger has reversed his decision, and today the local inspectors were ordered to render their opinion in accordance with the evidence.

RATE CONTENTION.

The American-Hawaiian Steamship Company has declined to absorb the local freight on shipments from municipal pier A to San Pedro station as requested by the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce. The local rate to Los Angeles is absorbed, but San Pedro merchants are compelled to drive seven miles around the west basin for their freight or pay the regular Southern Pacific local tariff of 4½ cents per hundred between Wilmington and San Pedro.

The San Pedro Chamber of Commerce will probably appeal the case to the Interstate Commerce Commission as soon as the steamers of the line begin using the Panama Canal. Under the canal bill the commission has jurisdiction over rates partly by water and partly by rail.

WATER'S FIRST GUSH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—The first gush of Santa Ynez River water to be diverted for Santa Barbara's $1,000,000 impounding reservoir slipped through the sluice excavated by the contractor this morning, above the site for the core-wall of the reservoir at Gibraltar. Next week actual work on the excavation to receive the concrete for the core wall will be begun across the river.

TELEPHONE EXTENSIONS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TULARE, July 11.—Work was completed this week on the extensions of the Tulare Home Telephone Company's equipment, made at an expense of $15,000. Improvements include the addition of 15,000 feet of cable and changes in lines to put wires inside the curb lines in residence districts.

SHORTAGE OF LABOR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, July 11.—Shortage of experienced help, it is feared, will somewhat interfere with the output of canned goods at the Porterville cannery. Despite considerable advertising throughout the valley the Porterville cannery will start a run on Tuscans next week with 150 hands short.

BONDS FOR SCHOOLS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NORDHOFF, July 11.—A tax levy of $2000 will be voted for on July 20 for the purpose of installing sanitary equipment, sewer system and the like in the grammar school here. The matter has been under discussion for some time and public sentiment is favorable to the issue.

PIONEER MERCHANT DIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 11.—John Johnston, one of the last of the pioneer merchants of this city, where he had resided for thirty-one years, passed away late last evening at the home of his grandniece, Mrs. M. Lord, No. 349 West Center street, after an illness of some months, at the age of 84 years. Johnston was one of the first hardware merchants here and had a store on Second street.

STANDARD KICKS ON ASSESSMENT.

ASKS EQUALIZATION BOARD TO REDUCE TAXES ON ITS HOLDINGS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, July 11.—The Standard Oil Company today petitioned the Board of Equalization to reduce the assessment of eighty acres known as the Emory lease. The Standard paid $45,000 mining rights taxes on this property, under protest.

Its representatives today declared that the assessment of $2,560,000, put up by County Assessor James Sleeper should not have been over $400,000. Sleeper replied that an assessment as low as that requested by the Standard would be ridiculous. The equalizers will act upon the petition on July 16.

Judge Thomas has granted F. W. Mansur, deputy for the State Building and Loan Commissioner, the right to accept $1000 in compromise of the claim of the wrecked Orange County Mutual Building and Loan Association against S. Baker. Baker declares that of notes totaling $1900, he paid N. A. Ulm, the secretary, who committed suicide, all but $900.

VACATIONS ON COAST.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, July 11.—The heated weather of the last few days is driving the valley people out to the coast or to some of the elevated towns. The evening train out of the valley just now is carrying six coaches. Each coach carries on an average of forty people out of the valley. The morning trains are carrying about half of that number. This means that about 300 persons leave the valley each day to enjoy a few weeks on the cool coast. This exodus will continue until about the first week in August. It is doubtful if any other county in the State sends as many of its people on summer vacations. It is also doubtful whether any other county in the State spends as much of its hard cash at the summer resorts as Imperial.

JAP BREAKS NECK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EAGLE ROCK, July 11.—While walking down a hill today at noon, S. Oda, a Japanese, 57 years old, fell and broke his neck and died shortly afterwards at his home. Oda, with several others, were called out by the police to fight a fire which had started in the hills south of Colorado avenue, and after putting it out they were returning to their homes. One of the Japs spoke to Oda and receiving no answer, looked around to find that he had fallen and was dying.

PLANS NEW BUILDING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 11.—G. Fred Voester has vacated his locksmith shop on the lot he owns near the postoffice on South Thomas street, and workmen are demolishing the old building preparatory to the erection by Voester of a modern brick business structure. This is a desirable location and there is only one other frontage on Thomas street between Second and Third streets that does not at the present time contain a business building. Work is progressing well on the brick buildings being built at the corner of Second and Louisa and Second and Gibbs streets. There are prospects of two other business buildings being started here soon.

BOYS INJURED UNDER MOTOR.

One May Die and Another Is Badly Bunged Up.

Lads Coast Down Incline on Their Bicycle.

Crash Into Auto at Venice Pier Approach.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, July 11.—Two boys of Los Angeles who rode to this beach on bicycles were seriously injured, one perhaps fatally, just before noon today when the single bicycle on which they were coasting down the incline from the Ship cafe collided with a laundry motor-wagon being driven slowly along the speedway.

Waldo Stewart was on front, while his chum, Melvin Fuchs, was behind. They were coasting down the steep incline and were about to cross the speedway when T. T. Goodwin, driving the wagon, passed by. He did not have time to slacken his speed, for the two lads were upon him and crashed into the front of his car before he could see what was coming.

When the wrecked bicycle had been pulled from the side of the car it was found that Waldo had sustained a concussion of the brain, severe cuts and bruises and was unconscious, probably having internal injuries. Melvin suffered from cuts and bruises, knocked out teeth and a bad shaking up.

The boys had been enjoying the sport for some time and were on their last "coast."

The lads were taken to the Police Hospital where Drs. J. B. and Ray Sands attended them. Later young Stewart was taken in an ambulance to the St. Catherine Hospital, where he now is. Stewart lives at No. 218 East Thirty-ninth street with his parents. Fuchs lives at No. 297 East Forty-Seventh street.

Late this afternoon Mrs. Stewart, mother of the injured boy, came to the hospital with the boy's brothers, and tonight the father visited him, but he could not communicate with the little fellow, as unconsciousness still keeps him from telling his part of the story.

Both boys are 14 years old and were passing the day at the beach. Young Fuchs returned to his home in the city late this afternoon.

DEPOT AT PERRIS

Where the Farmer Gets Off

—that's the whole question. There is no class of people who will endure hardships with better grace than the farmer—provided he "gets off" right financially.

But why go off into a desert or isolate yourself in the mountains, hoping that a move involving great effort and sacrifice will bring health and wealth?

Why buy where there is personal discomfort, even though the soil itself be good? Where you have all the advantages of good soil, water, climate, right location and transportation, there you may expect crops, accessible markets, future outlook and prosperity.

All these are available at Perris Irrigated Farms. These watered lands are so close to Los Angeles that you can see them and return in a day. Rich soil and two big irrigation systems. See for yourself.

It is right at the gates of the city of Perris—bustling and growing, with every convenience, including a $20,000 high school, lumber yards, shops, churches, fraternal orders, etc., etc. Beautiful Riverside, with its great tourist hotels, is but a few minutes ride by auto.

The land is even, gently sloping and has been plowed. It has a deep rich soil, fine for peaches, apricots, pears, farm truck and the heaviest and sweetest crops of alfalfa. Altitude about 1400 feet. Great dairy section. A region good for crops and beast is also good for man.

$150 an Acre

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Fertilizer to Panama.

The American Agricultural Chemical Company of this city yesterday made the first shipment of chemical fertilizer to Panama that ever left this harbor. It was consigned to the Boston-Panama Company, and will be used experimentally on that company's cocoanut plantation.

Retail Grocers' Picnic.

The Southern California Retail Grocers' Association will hold its annual picnic at Redondo Beach on August 20, according to plans just completed by officials of the organization. On that day all stores, including many of the butcher shops, will close in order to give not only the dealers, but their clerks and other assistants, a day's outing. The committee in charge of arrangements is made up of P. F. McCarthy, S. G. Johnson, C. Mottaz and Secretary N. P. Olsen.

WOMAN LOSES JEWELS.

Arrest of Another Woman Who Spent Afternoon With Her Is Ordered by Police.

Jewelry valued at more than $600 was reported stolen from the home of Mrs. George McKay, No. 960 West Forty-third place, last night, and detectives were detailed to run down a suspect whom they believe guilty of the crime.

In her statement to the officers, Mrs. McKay said that she had worn the jewels on the night of July 8, but had not seen them since. While dressing to attend an entertainment last night, she discovered that some one had broken open a bureau drawer and taken four diamond rings, a gold necklace set with diamonds and a number of less valuable pieces.

After looking over the premises the officers ordered the arrest of a woman who is known to have left the city several days ago, after having spent part of the afternoon with Mrs. McKay.

HAS STOLEN WATCH.

Mexican Arrested for Minor Offense Bears Valuable Time Pieces; Detectives Investigate Record.

While being booked at the Central Police Station on the charge of disturbing the peace, Anselmo Mendez, a notorious Mexican character, was found last night, in possession of two valuable gold watches and was subsequently held without bail to enable detectives to look up his record.

The books of the police department indicate that one of the watches was stolen from Louis E. Gaffney, No. 924 Blaine street, on February 15, 1912, and subsequently was traced to Emilio Lopez of No. 725 East Seventh street, from whom Mendez is said to have stolen it.

The prisoner refused to give an account of his actions, except that he had bought a knife yesterday afternoon to kill Lopez.

It is believed that Mendez may know about other robberies that have been perpetrated on residents of the Plaza district.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

There are telegrams at the Western Union for Mrs. F. H. Allen, Mrs. C. V. Ally, A. D. Anderson, C. C. Sancroff, Milton Brill, Mrs. G. N. Clark, Harold Dean, Dr. William G. Davies, Saul Griesman, Mrs. W. S. Jeffreys, Mrs. Charles Jones, M. M. Kondo, Charles A. Kilbaum, Jenn E. Lee, John S. Nishan, James B. Overton, Mrs. Metta Ross, Edith Shifflet, Joe Sturgis, W. L. Tipton, Rev. William N. Taft, Lee Updegraff, J. E. Vrooman, Mrs. W. M. Whitman, Joseph Washerman, N. O. Watson, Mrs. M. Wolfe; at the Postal for Albert Levy, M. L. Effinger and Joseph Tausek.

"SUICIDE" NATURAL DEATH.

In the mistaken belief that she had swallowed carbolic acid, Mrs. George Dunbar, 52 years old, of No. 3031 Eagle street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital last night, and died within a few minutes, without having regained consciousness. An investigation indicated that Mrs. Dunbar had been suffering for several months from a natural ailment. When she was found by her daughter in a state of coma, the officers of the Boyle Heights Station were notified. It was decided that no inquest will be necessary.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR BIG QUARRY.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY CONTRACTS MAY BE FULFILLED BY OTHERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 11.—It is stated here that J. W. Bowden has been appointed receiver of the San Dimas Quarry Company at the request of some creditors of the company which has been through various vicissitudes.

There is no desire on the part of the stockholders to make the property ready for business and because of the liabilities and the fact that the property was damaged to the extent of about $20,000 by last winter's floods.

It is thought that the lease under which the company was operating will be offered for sale and the contract which the company had with Los Angeles county for the delivery of crushed stone for use on the roads will be assumed by other parties.

ANGELENOS WIN TENNIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CINCINNATI (O.) July 11.—Before the largest crowd that ever attended a tournament in this city, Los Angeles tennis players came out victorious today in the first day's playing in the fifth annual open tournament for the clay court championship of the United States. Nat Browne of Los Angeles won his match with ease, defeating Wentworth Baker of this city by the scores of 6-1, 6-0. His strokes were a trifle off on account of the lay-off necessitated by the long trip.

Claude Wayne of Los Angeles and Clarence Griffin of San Francisco, who were scheduled to play their first match, did not play, but they took part in exhibition doubles with Browne and Ella Fottrell of San Francisco, and acquitted themselves in excellent manner.

Ella Fottrell of San Francisco had little trouble defeating Dr. Wesley Furste of this city.

Several of the out-of-town stars have not arrived, but are expected Monday.

NAME RECEIVER FOR GIBRALTAR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, July 11.—To satisfy an alleged debt of $300,000, the Brookings Lumber and Box Company of this city today filed suit against the Gibraltar Investment and Home Builders' Company, and at the same time asked that a receiver be appointed. The defendants agreed to the proposal and S. F. Kelley was named.

On Monday a motion will be filed in the Federal Court at Los Angeles to dismiss a similar action filed there by C. Edgar Elliott of Chicago. The Gibraltar company claims that $250,000 of the debt is secured, and that its total assets are $1,310,200.

The excitement of the electric celebration today was too much for Michael Hayden, aged 66 tomorrow, had he lived, and he fell dead as he was turning homeward from the parade this afternoon.

He had been a resident of the city for 40 years, and was one of the pioneer band that came across the plains. One of the sections of the parade showed the early settlers in prairie schooners and other primitive conveyances. Hayden leaves a widow and three sons.

SHOW OF BABIES EXCITES MOTHERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, July 11.—The most interesting and exciting event of Alhambra's eleventh birthday celebration today was the baby show, which was won by Eloise Hovey, Miriam Cuthbert and Lee William Risler, who were three of the thirty-seven babies exhibited.

In the water battle fought by firemen, Maurice Grensted won for his company. The punishment meted out to the others was severe. In the evening the young folk enjoyed to the fullest the confetti battle, carnival and dance.

EASTERN STAR PICNIC.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, July 11.—About 200 ladies of Pasadena Chapter, No. 108, Order of Eastern Star, assembled at the beach today for an outing, coming in a special car via the Santa Fe Railway. They were met by a delegation from Carnation Chapter of Redondo Beach, and the day was spent in various amusements, lunching in the picnic grove, bathing in the plunge and visiting the other attractions. The officers of the lodge who served as a committee, are Mrs. Don Chapman, Worthy Matron; Mrs. O. Demerrt, Assistant Worthy Matron; Mrs. John Simpson, Conductress; Miss Maud Glenn, Associate Conductress.

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

If you have a persistent cough or cold, take warning before it is too late. Eckman's Alterative has restored to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read of this case:—

Pleasantville, N. J.

"Gentlemen:—During the winter of 1911 I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. Eckman's Alterative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give no relief, in fact, I seemed to feel worse, but I kept on using the medicine and found out the first bottle had really started me on the road to recovery by loosening the mucus and making me expectorate freely. After using the medicine for some time, my cough ceased, I gained flesh and today I am a well man."

(Abbreviated)
(Signed) GEO. M. BATES.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by The Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

CHILDREN VISIT SOLDIERS' HOME.

VETERANS WELCOME TOTS AND W.C.T.U.—OTHERS GIVE ENTERTAINMENT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, July 11.—The number of entertainments that have been crowded into the latter part of this week, leaves no room for veterans to complain of ennui or any similar French affliction. On Thursday afternoon the W.C.T.U. of Sawtelle attended by a long line of that city's school children, bearing flags, paraded from Sawtelle to Memorial Hall in the Home, as a guard of honor to Mrs. Hester T. Griffith, State vice-president of the W.C.T.U. An address by Mrs. Griffith was followed by a programme of music and recitation by the children.

The evening of the same day, a band concert and moving pictures were the attraction at Memorial hall. Friday afternoon, as before referred to, Hon. S. M. Shortridge occupied the stage.

On Friday evening the stage of Memorial Hall was occupied by a company of amateurs, comprising Sawtelle's most exclusive young people which, under auspices of the Woman's Club of Sawtelle, gave a most excellent presentation of the comic opera "H. M. S. Pinafore." Mrs. R. S. Putnam, as Josephine; Mrs. Thomas Price as Little Buttercup, and Mrs. Duane Ballard as Cousin Hebe, were especially good, and the work of the large chorus of young folk gave evidence of excellent training. A baseball game on Saturday afternoon wound up attractions for the week.

Cornelius Duncan, formerly of Co. G, Ninth United States Cavalry (Spanish-American war,) a native of Georgia, admitted from San Francisco in 1914, died July 11, aged 37.

BOYS CONFESS TO STONING TRAIN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, July 11.—Raymond La Rock, Leslie Luc, Cecile Minier and Tom Minier, lads ranging in age from 11 to 14 years, were turned over to the Juvenile Court this morning on a charge of having thrown rocks at a Santa Fe passenger train.

A short time ago as the Overland Limited passed through South Pasadena a rock was thrown through one of the windows. Owing to the fact that a few days before a tramp had stoned the same train while passing through Lamanda Park, it was supposed he was guilty of the offense in this city. One of the boys confessed, it is related, and implicated his companions.

South Pasadena is to enter the "City Beautiful" contest, according to an informal decision reached by the members of the Home Trade Association. The city has been placed in a class that gives it only nine competitors, and as the county has offered a prize of $1000 for cities showing the greatest improvement in beauty, the association alleges this city should find no trouble in winning in the class which includes the beautification of municipalities. The plan is to make the city beautiful for 1915, but permanent effects are to be worked as much as possible.

Co-operation of the Women's Improvement Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Lincoln Park League, the Oneonta Civic Association and other organizations of the city will be asked to join in the contest.

After the Indians came the first picture, Capt. de Anza, with his pack mules, entering the valley, as he did on March 18, 1774. Then, borne high aloft by a weary Mission Indian, came the cross, the limbs of trees fastened together by withes. In its wake walked the Mission fathers, led by Father Dumetz, weary and footsore by his long journey from the San Gabriel Mission, and followed by a meager detachment of Spanish soldiers and attended by a small but devout company of Indian neophytes. Then followed a wondering wake of tribal Indians, whom the good fathers hoped to convert to Christianity, and then the lone carreta in which the padres carried their stores.

It was a cross-section of a life that has gone from us—a life that is rich in romance, and that has added an indefinable atmosphere to the land formerly known as Alta California. It was as if the padres of old had come to life again and all were participants in that sorrowful year, 1810. It was as if one was looking upon the events which preceded the founding of San Bernardino by the Mission fathers.

DAY OF THE DONS.

With a burst of splendor, the next picture unfolded itself as a gay party of Spanish ladies and gentlemen on their way to a fiesta in honor of Gobernador Pio Pico, the last Mexican Governor of California. In the procession were Don Pio Pico, Don Antonio Maria Lugo, Monsieur Louis Rubidoux, Don Juan Bandini, Don Jose Estudillo—all names to conjure with in those remote days, accompanied by the ladies of their families, and by a merry rout of gallant caballeros. In nearly every case these mighty Spaniards were typified by descendants still living in the San Bernardino Valley. As these notables passed, cascarones and flowers were showered on the gay caballeros by pretty senoritas.

In the next picture, the first of the pioneer era, one looked upon starvation. Emaciated, the first American, Jebediah Smith, came over the mountains into the valley of the Cajon Pass. Then followed the real pioneers, Pablo Belarde, Sheldon Stoddard and Sydney P. Waite, with their pack train, and that advance guard of the American invasion, the United States mail.

CUTS A MILLION FROM CONDEMNATION COSTS.

Jury, in Deciding City's Suit to Open South Broadway from Tenth to Eleventh and from Twelfth to Pico Streets, Reduces Owners' Figures—Cost to Be Million Two Hundred Thousand.

THE cost to the city to open South Broadway from Tenth to Eleventh streets and from Twelfth to Pico streets will be $1,209,569.17.

This is the award made yesterday by the jury which tried the condemnation suit in Judge Wilbur's court. It cuts $1,000,000 from the amounts the owners of the seventeen parcels asked.

The largest cut was made in the three parcels owned by the Rindge Estate Company on Broadway at Tenth street, which extend from Tenth street to an alley, comprising 24,036.6 square feet. The owners placed a value of $1,034,205 on the entire tract and for the part taken, 14,004 square feet, they asked $602,000. Damages to the part not taken were fixed at $208,000. The jury awarded the total damages at $426,605.84; cut the value of the part taken to $344,145.84, damages to the remainder to $81,235 and gave $1025 for the improvements. The city's experts were about $80,000 less than the jury awarded for the part taken and about $16,000 less than given for damages to the remainder of the tract.

BY THE SQUARE FOOT.

The jury found the value of the Rindge Estate Company's parcels on Broadway to be $24.58 a square foot. The owners put in experts to show that it is worth $41. The Rindge Estate Company will appeal from the judgment of the jury to the Supreme Court.

The land taken by the city approximates 166,633 square feet. The approximate value placed on it by the owners was $2,000,000. The lowest aggregate was $900,000 by experts.

A summary of the findings by the jury is:

Total damages, $1,209,569.17.

Part taken, total value, $906,116.10.

Damages to remainder, total damages, $282,297.37.

Total damages for improvements, $14,109.

AWARDS IN DETAIL.

The jury awards are:

Parcel One—Alvina M. and John A. Murphy—part taken, $1746; damage to remainder, $2200; total damages, $3946.

Parcel Two—H. S. Williams and S. W. Mudd—part taken, $72,000; damage to remainder, $27.33; total damages, $72,027.33.

Reclamation.

SCIENCE TO RESHAPE COUNTY'S WATERWAYS.

Preliminary Surveys for Flood Control Will Be Started Tomorrow, With Fourteen Parties in the Field—Important Work Outlined Will Cost Ten Millions of Dollars and Is Potent in Promise.

AN INTENSIVE study of the idiosyncrasies of the meandering waterways of Los Angeles county will be started tomorrow, when fourteen survey parties will leave here under the direction of the Board of Engineers which has been appointed by the Board of Supervisors to supervise the expenditure of $9,500,000 for flood-control work.

"It will take six months to complete the surveys," said H. Hawgood, the chairman of the engineering board, yesterday.

Some idea of the magnitude of the work may be obtained from the assertion by Mr. Hawgood that between 1500 and 2000 square miles of territory will be critically examined, while the value of all land and property affected is in excess of $500,000,000.

It is also a work of vast potentialities. Of the 441,986 acres in the San Fernando, San Gabriel and San Jose Valleys and the Los Angeles coastal plain, but 167,454 acres are irrigated. It is possible that the flood-control work will provide water for the larger percentage of the remaining 214,000 acres.

A certainty is the remaking of the entire hydrographic map of the county and the reclamation of 11,762 acres of land now subject to overflow.

The motive force for the undertaking was provided ten days ago when 200 representatives of varied interests, civic and otherwise, met with the Board of Supervisors and sanctioned the imposition of a direct tax to provide funds to begin the work.

State and National aid will be sought in furthering the work. The formation of a district similar to that governed by the Sacramento River Regulation Commission is being considered.

Los Angeles county has over 500 miles of waterway, perhaps 200 miles of which will come under the survey of the engineering board, as in the dangerous class; that is, subject to the sudden inrush of destructive waters.

Last year, according to the preliminary report of the engineering board, whose official title is Board of Engineers, Flood Control, the flood damage within the county was $10,000,000. A portion of this damage was forecast by similar damage previous years. An equally important portion was unexpected, the result of the carving of new beds by streams

Ready for 1915.

NETWORK OF HIGHWAYS MAKES COUNTY RICH.

WITH seventy-five miles of county highway to be completed this year and nearly forty miles of State highway, Los Angeles county will be prepared to greet its 1915 visitors with more than 500 miles of paved roads, a network of level thoroughfares that link the county communities into closer and more profitable relationship with each other and with outside territory.

Chairman Pridham of the Board of Supervisors declared yesterday that, considering quality and extent, Los Angeles county leads all the counties of the United States with its highway system. He further said that the investment of $5,000,000 to date has been fully justified in the results, that the direct and indirect returns are bringing to the people of the county big dividends every year.

The State from its appropriation of $18,000,000, will build in this county about 100 miles of macadam highway at an expenditure of $1,250,000 to $1,500,000. Of this about thirty miles will be completed by January 1, next, and fifteen miles more will be under contract. The county's programme for the year adds more than seventy-five miles of paved road and the general programme contemplates about 100 miles per year hereafter.

Much of the county roadbuilding is being undertaken by property owners who are aided and encouraged by the Supervisors to build roads through territory that will be benefited by them. It is the policy of the board, after rights of way have been secured, to provide rock and oil, leaving the labor expense to be borne by the people who are most directly interested and who will be most benefited.

RECENTLY CONSTRUCTED.

Among the important roadbuilding achievements by the county is the four-and-a-half-mile stretch from Lankershim to San Fernando and the beginning of construction on the extension of Pico street to the ocean front by way of Fremont avenue, Santa Monica. Proceedings are now before the board for the extension of West Adams street to provide another outlet to the sea.

A petition that is being favorably considered by the board is from the people of Van Nuys, who ask to have every street in the town macadamized. According to Chairman Pridham and others who are familiar with the system Los Angeles county roads are of superior quality. The average cost now is about $8500 per mile. Early construction of some roads was considerably higher, so the 500 miles of paved highway that will be completed by the end of this year represent a total investment of $5,000,000.

Scenic beauty and utility are being combined in two new mountain canyon roads under construction by the county. The Topanga Canyon road that will connect San Fernando Valley with the coast boulevard north of Santa Monica is well under way. Two big steam shovels, one to work at each end, were ordered last week and this fourteen-mile stretch of highway through the mountains will be completed early next year.

The other mountain route that is being considered by the Supervisors will go through Benedict Canyon, this side of Topanga Canyon, and will also provide an interesting variation to motorists.

CITY SCISSORS READY TO CUT.

Way Is Clear for Mountains to Sea Boulevard.

Several Historic Landmarks to Be Obliterated.

Every rosebush, tree, square foot of lawn and cement sidewalk, wall and house, and all other physical objects on the twenty-foot ribbon of land on each side of Vermont avenue between Griffith Park and Sixth street, the distance of three and one-half miles, have been counted and estimated in value by experts in the proceeding to clear the way for the first link of the proposed great, broad, thirty-mile boulevard from the mountains to the sea.

The final reports of the experts for the city—Robert M. Allen and Percy Eisen—have been completed. The referees, appointed by Judge York of the Superior Court—Robert Campbell, G. S. Johnson and T. C. Gould—completed the taking of testimony yesterday and will be ready to make their final recommendations so the court by about August 1.

The referees have held daily sessions in the Temple block for two months, during which time they have listened to the arguments of sixty attorneys, representing the owners of 325 parcels of land.

EXPERTS' FIGURES.

Mr. Allen fixed the value of the land sought to be condemned at $309,362.56, and the damages to the land by reason of severance, $35,342.22. Mr. Eisen fixed the damages to improvements, including houses, lawns, trees and shrubs, at approximately $90,000.

Mr. Eisen reported to the referees that in the property sought to be condemned there are affected forty-five houses, 32,843 square feet of lawn, 64,144 square feet of street sidewalk, 16,229 lineal feet of curbing, 670 ornamental trees, and 1958 rosebushes.

The municipal scissors will cut away a number of interesting landmarks and expensive improvements to give the boulevard the required width of 120 feet. The widening of the street will obliterate the rustic mission wall on the east side of John W. Mitchell's grounds at First street and Vermont avenue. The wall was built about twenty years ago at a cost of $7000. The laborers to put it up were imported from Mexico.

Arthur Letts will lose a row of handsome pepper trees on the west side of Vermont avenue, between Los Feliz and Franklin streets. The widening process will take away the front porch, chimney and study of the home of J. A. Cook at Vermont avenue and Finley street and twenty feet of a two-story brick block at the corner of Vermont and Melrose. Mrs. Bell Rogers placed a "sentimental" value of $1000 on a large rubber tree in her front lawn at Vermont and Los Feliz. The appraisers valued the tree at $25.

The proposed mountains-to-the-sea boulevard is one of the largest projects of the kind undertaken by any American city. The proceeding to widen the avenue was instituted October 29, 1912, at which time the ordinance of intention was passed. Ten days later the notice of public work was published and the work formally started. After a number of other necessary legal steps the case was referred to a board of referees, April 7, last.

In the hearing before the referees, the city's interests were handled by Deputy City Attorney Whitehead, under the direction of City Attorney Stephens.

"The way is legally clear now for the first link of the great boulevard," Mr. Whitehead said yesterday. "The defendants' time to protest has expired and they now have no legal right to set aside the proceedings. The only protest that the property owners affected may make from now on would be in reference to the levying of the assessment for the payment of awards.

"If no exceptions are taken to the report of the referees soon to be filed, the case should be closed and the awards paid to the property owners by January 1, 1915, leaving the way clear for the city to begin the actual work of construction. The assessment district comprises approximately two blocks east and six blocks west of Vermont avenue."

schooner of the Argonaut days. Of this company was also the prospector, the lone man with his burros and the grubstake on which he was staking his life in the gamble for gold. Then along the blazed trail came the stage coach, the old one that began service in 1854 between San Bernardino and the pueblo of Los Angeles, carrying passengers for $5 apiece. In its wake, presaging those dark days of the Civil War, came the army trains with their cavalry escort, treking eastward, ever eastward.

RAILWAY ERA.

Last came the railway era, which began in 1887, with the Monrovia horse car. In the post of honor as driver of the horse car stood L. Barnes, who for eighteen years was combination motorman and conductor on this line. Then came the Ontario mule car of the same date—the one where the mule mounted behind at the summit and rode down grade to the starting place. Other cars, resurrected as relics of the old days of the mule and horse as motive mediums, followed, while in the rear came the big red cars of the Pacific Electric, the modern stage of transit across the orange belt, a far cry from the travois of the Indians of the first picture.

Staged by John S. McGroarty, the author of the "Mission Play," with the aid of the Pioneer Society of the Orange Belt and many organizations and the Pacific Electric, the pageant was of surpassing beauty and interest and was greeted with tumultuous applause. It was the crowning glory of the celebration, the fillipe to the whole. So far as possible, persons actually connected with events were given the posts of honor in the pageant, which added immeasurably to the cerisimilitude of the whole.

Officially, the celebration, which extended through the day and will be supplemented today by a Pacific Electric picnic at Urbita Springs, began shortly before noon with the arrival of the first train from Los Angeles over the new line. This train carried the Mayor and City Council, as well as city officials of various towns along the line, and a long list of invited guests. One of the largest delegations was from Venice, headed by Mayor Gerety, and accompanied by the Venice band.

MEET FIRST TRAIN.

A vast host greeted this first train, which was bannered from pilot to tail lights, and surged from there to the front of the joint Pacific Electric, Southern Pacific and Salt Lake stations, where the last spike was driven.

"We present this spike with the hope that it will prove to be the material token of a new solidarity of interests through orange land," said Capt. P. A. Demens on the part of Alta Loma. "We are the baby sister of the towns linked together by this new line and we are proud and grateful.

" 'Charge all the traffic will bear' has been the motto of many railroads," he continued. "But in the Pacific Electric and in President Shoup we have found an eagerness for co-operation and fair dealings."

"By their works ye shall know them," said President Shoup in accepting the spike, "and the lofty and generous sentiment to which Capt. Demens has given expression on behalf of himself and his neighbors is in keeping with the great work they have done in making it possible for the Pacific Electric to serve the San Bernardino Valley. On behalf of the officers and stockholders of the railway company, I make acknowledgement in deep appreciation of that partnership—a partnership in sentiment as well as business."

President Shoup, a San Bernardino boy, was accepted home again, right royally. Twenty years ago he started his railroad career as a ticket seller and general boy of all work in the old Union Motor depot in that city. Yesterday, as he rode in the procession in a replica of this old depot, he was subjected to an ovation.

The spike-driving and the parade over, the scene shifted to Lugo Park, where commemorative exercises were held. Addresses were made by Mayor Rose, Acting Mayor Davidson of San Bernardino, President Shoup, General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric, and John S. McGroarty. Sports in the business district followed.

In the afternoon there was a concert at Urbita Springs Park and a baseball game between county officials of San Bernardino and Riverside counties, and in the evening a concert by the Cantadores Club of Riverside.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Saggy Skin

The famous saxolite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing distended pores, can be easily made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, 1 oz., and ½ pint witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable, and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck, cheeks or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid.

One feels much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful and harmless wash lotion. Its continued use once a day for only a short time makes the average person look ten or fifteen years younger.

Boynton Invincible Vacuum Cleaners Win Again!

IN selecting Vacuum Cleaning Systems for the new State Normal School buildings at Los Angeles, the Engineers of the State Board of Control conducted one of the most severe tests to which Vacuum Cleaners have ever been subjected. As a result, the BOYNTON INVINCIBLE was chosen over all competitors. The contract was awarded to the H. R. Boynton Company for the installation of eight Machines.

Another Proof

As a result of the competitive test in Los Angeles conducted for the Mason Estate, the Boynton Company sold them five Invincible Vacuum Systems, one of them for installation in the thirteen-story Mason Building now being erected on Spring street.

And Another

When the School Board of San Diego ordered competitive tests to determine the Vacuum Systems to be installed in the Lincoln and Washington schools, we demonstrated the Invincible System, distanced all competitors, and secured the contract.

Still Another

At a recent Test of Portable Vacuum Cleaning Systems in the East, the U. S. Government awarded a contract for 50 Vacuum Cleaners to the Invincible Manufacturing Co. The Government has also installed many Invincible Stationary Systems in public buildings, among them the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

530 SOUTH SPRING ST.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The city lot-cleaning bureau has begun its activities and will put twelve laborers at work as a starter, in cleaning up properties whose owners ignore notices served upon them.

The Fire Commission yesterday took steps to have the public more closely observe the ordinance giving the fire department right-of-way over all other vehicles.

Appearing drunk the second time at a firehouse will be cause for instant dismissal from the fire department, decided the Fire Commission yesterday.

The Board of Public Works will prosecute offenders hereafter who place advertising matter on bridges and other city properties. The political advertising matter that was placed on the Buena Vista bridge has been ordered removed.

At the City Hall.

BRIGHTEN UP OR MUST PAY UP.

NEW LOT-CLEANING BUREAU STARTS CAMPAIGN.

Sends Out Notices to Property Owners to Get Busy—Will Follow With City Corps of Laborers if Ignored, and Charge Costs as Lien Against Lots.

The lot-cleaning bureau of the street department, under supervision of the Board of Public Works, and in direct charge of Thomas Moore, chief inspector, has gotten "down to cases." It began to serve notices on property owners to clean up their vacant lots on July 2. The work has been in progress daily since that time.

Ten days are allowed the property owner to comply with the order after notice is served upon him. Then an inspector makes the rounds and if he finds that the order has been ignored or the work has been improperly done, the city corps of laborers is put on the job, and the costs are charged against the property, becoming a lien the same as taxes.

The bureau's first batch of notices to property owners covers 175 lots. The time limit for their cleaning will have expired tomorrow morning. From this time onward the time on new lots of notices will be expiring, so that the inspectors and laborers of the new bureau will be kept busy. As a beginning, twelve men will be put on the lot-cleaning corps. These will be added to as the demands increase.

Inspector Moore yesterday called attention to the fact that in many cases property owners are simply burning off the grass and weeds from vacant lots, leaving the ashes and other rubbish lie. This is not considered a lot-cleaning, and the bureau will insist that the premises be raked after the vegetable growth is burned off.

Within a few weeks the efforts of property owners and the lot-cleaning bureau are expected to bring about a general transformation of appearances in vacant properties in the city.

RIGHT OF WAY. FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Right of way for the fire department over street cars and all other vehicles is to be insisted upon by the Fire Commission. Its secretary will send at once to the railway companies and to the police department the action of the commission at yesterday's meeting in protest against the lax observance of provisions of the city ordinances which give the fire department precedence over all others.

Acting Fire Chief O'Donnell called attention to the situation yesterday, and urged that it be remedied. He declared that it is sheer good luck that serious accidents and loss of human life have not occurred because of the failure of vehicle drivers to clear the right of way when fire apparatus is approaching. Mr. O'Donnell says in his report:

In regard to the attached extracts from the traffic ordinance, giving right of way to the fire department, and the apparent growing disregard for same so noticeable in this city as to be remarked by visitors from other cities, I wish to say that I do not know whether it is ignorance or simply the belief that the ordinance will not be enforced that causes drivers, chauffeurs and motormen to pay not the slightest attention to the fire department; but certainly they have caused serious delay to fire apparatus while responding to alarms. We find it is the exception rather than the rule when cars stop, and many vehicles do not pull to the right-hand curb, as must be done in other cities on the approach of the fire department apparatus.

"POST NO BILLS." HANDS OFF CITY PROPERTY.

In response to the appeal in the editorial columns of The Times yesterday, Commissioner O'Brien of the Board of Public Works took speedy action to prevent the defacement of city properties, bridges, etc., by posting of bills and advertising matter.

O'Brien visited the Buena Vista bridge and ordered the offending advertising matter removed. He stated upon his return to the City Hall that the city will prosecute offenders of this character in future, and that political candidates will be held responsible for the acts of their agents in slapping their advertising matter upon bridges and other city properties.

CHARITIES DIRECTOR. POSITION IS NOW OPEN.

F. M. Dee, chief examiner for the Civil Service Commission, issued the following statement yesterday regarding the new position of director of charities:

The city Civil Service Commission of Los Angeles announces an examination for the position of director of charities. This examination will be held early in August and appointment will be made from the list of eligibles to fill the newly-created position of director of charities, which will be under the jurisdiction of the Municipal Charities Commission. This position will be permanent in character and pay a salary of $200 per month. The examination will be of the non-assembled type and open to all citizens of the United States above the age of 21 years, regardless of sex, and will be so arranged that the various candidates may take the written part of the examination at home.

The Civil Service Commission has decided on the following subjects and weights in the examination:

First, education, experience and personal qualifications, 40 per cent.

Second, a thesis on some subject pertinent to the work of the department, 30 per cent.

Third, general fitness (oral,) 30 per cent.

Owing to the fact that the greater number of candidates will probably be drawn from the eastern coast, for the reason that this work has become more of a recognized profession in the eastern part of the United States, the oral examination will be held by the Civil Service Commission of Chicago, which has consented to act as an examining board for the local commission. The oral examination will be open to the five passing highest subjects.

The director of charities will be the executive officer of the charities de- above 80 per cent. in the first two partment, will have charge of the charity organization work, the conduct of the city employment bureaus, and will generally act as adviser of the Municipal Charities Commission in carrying on its work.

The Civil Service Commission is desirous of obtaining the best possible material for the examination and only persons who have had practical experience in organized philanthropy will be considered.

Tunnel Paving Progresses.

Bryant & Austin, who have the contract for the repaving of the Third-street tunnel, have the work well under way. The tunnel is closed to traffic, and this diverts a vast volume of traffic down Hill street that heretofore has used the bore through Bunker Hill. Commissioner O'Brien of the Board of Public Works has secured changes in the specifications for drainage so that a twelve-inch drain will be placed along one side of the flooring to carry off the seepage. The entire work is to be completed within thirty days.

Must Toe the Mark.

Fireman must eschew the flowing bowl if they would make certain of retaining their positions in the fire department. A first offense in appearing at an engine-house while intoxicated will subject the offender to a severe reprimand. A second offense will be cause for instant dismissal.

The Fire Commission gave this subject serious consideration at yesterday's meeting. Recently there have been several reports of men having been disciplined because of appearing at their headquarters while intoxicated. The case that brought matters to a head was that of a fireman who was suspended two days and fined three days' pay.

The commissioners were inclined to insist upon a public reprimand in all such cases, but finally decided that this should be left to the chief, but that when there were second offenses no palliating circumstances would be considered and the offender would be promptly dropped.

Minor Hall Reports.

The city has accepted, after the usual tests, two eighty-horse-power Seagrave city service ladder trucks.

The Fire Commission yesterday approved the action of acting Fire Chief O'Donnell in supplying a reel and 5000 feet of fire hose for the volunteer hose company of the Atwater District Improvement Association. The commission also asks the Public Service Commission to provide for an extension of four-inch water mains into this district, in order to give better fire protection.

Fred Fischer, chief engineer of the city water department, is a candidate for the position of trustee of the National Association of Stationary Engineers. The local chapter, California No. 2, met Friday evening and appointed ten delegates to attend the meeting of the national association in Milwaukee, beginning September 3. More than 1000 delegates will be in attendance. The Los Angeles delegation will work with others of the Coast to bring the 1915 meeting to San Francisco.

At the Courthouse.

COURT ASKS TO SEE HER FEET.

SHOES SOLVE VEXING PROBLEM OF CLOTHES' COST.

Young Colored Mother, Haled by Probation Officer Before Bachelor Judge Because She Does Not Pay Child's Allowance, Proves that She Spends Her Income on Apparel.

A colored woman, who had an incumbrance in the shape of a pickaninny, was taken before Judge Jackson, sitting in the Juvenile Court, because she had not kept up her payments of $15 a month for the support of the child. She said she earned $30 a month and did not have the money.

It looked as though it cost a heap of money to clothe her. The woman probation officer could not account for the money she spent within $9.

"Let me see if I can't solve this matter," said the court, a bachelor. He asked her what she paid for each article of clothing.

"Put out your feet," ordered the court when he had reached that article of wear.

"What you want to see my feet

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double-strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

A Single Application Will Remove Hairs

(Toilet Talks)

A smooth, clear skin is Nature's gift to every woman, and by exercising a little care and judgment it is an easy matter to banish all complexion upsets. There also is no longer any need for a woman to countenance ugly, disfiguring hairy growths, for a simple method for their removal is now used successfully, and the most interesting part of it is that the treatment is painless and can be used in the privacy of the home.

A thick paste is made by mixing some powdered delatone with water, and this is spread over the hairy surface for about two minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This not only completely removes hairy growths, but leaves the skin free from spot or blemish. Care should be exercised to see that you get genuine delatone, and to be doubly sure, buy it in an original package.

FREE FARES To LOS ANGELES and RETURN EVERY DAY

Important to Visiting Buyers

When you have purchased your goods from the first merchant, ask him to enter the sale on a transportation check. He will do so and give you the check, on which you will have recorded any subsequent purchases you may make in other FREE FARE STORES.

When your shopping is finished, present this check at the refunding office, The Los Angeles Times (First and Broadway) and they will cash it without red tape; delay, or formalities. They will refund the full amount of your round trip fare if your purchases are sufficient; and if not, the percentage to which you are entitled.

The Los Angeles market offers an assortment of merchandise at all times equal in extent and variety to all possible demands of all classes of buyers. Los Angeles merchandise is suited to the special requirements of the people living in Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. It is sold at prices, quality for quality, at least as low, and in many cases lower, than the same class of goods can be obtained from any other available source of supply. The visiting buyer in Los Angeles will be treated in such a way that he will come again. He will see and examine the merchandise before parting with his money, and a responsible local dealer will be answerable for its quality. The visitor will be considered as under the protection of the merchants whose names appear in this advertisement, and each one of them will see that his visit is made both pleasant and profitable. Moreover, each merchant will be as much interested in protecting the interests of the visiting buyer while he or she is in Los Angeles as the visitor himself could possibly be.

A CITY ENDANGERED.

Denver must look well to its alfalfa fields these next few days. Not a sprig of grass will be left on Sixteenth or Seventeenth streets from the depot to the Capitol if the citizens do not remain on strict guard. The Elks are holding the golden jubilee of their Grand Lodge there.

PAYING FOR THINGS.

A man tried to save the price of a hat he needed and burned up $10 worth of property in his attempt to make an old hat as good as new. Buying what one actually needs is seldom expensive. Makeshifts are extravagant because they don't last. In the end they are a dead expense, for the real need has to be met after all.

DARING FATE.

A bachelors club was organized here. From the start its thirteen members were doomed men. It was bad enough for them to be in a state of single cussedness, but for them to have been proud about it and to have formed a sort of boastful trust of selfish misery and miserable selfishness was more than life could stand for. Even in the twentieth century pride still goes before a fall.

DANGEROUS DOCTRINE.

In the name of love the serpent is concealed. In its haste to get away from narrowness, bigotry and lack of charity a large part of humanity has substituted a fatal creed. The doctrine that anything is right between two persons so long as they care enough leads to dangerous comradeships among those who do not care enough and these compacts strew the way with the wreck of lives. Ah, love would indeed be its own justification in all things, but can a man hurt what he truly loves? What sick lies men and women have told themselves and one another, thirsting for the wine and hating the dregs. True faith never asks and surely love will not destroy.

CYNICAL SAM.

It is sad to see the poison of suspicion enter the soul of a pure youth of high ideals. We have been deeply hurt to find the pen of Samuel G. Blythe dipped in the ink of distrust. He has an old Senator giving strange advice to a youngster who threatens to become a Senator himself. He tells him to always talk about the rights of the people when he is speaking in the Senate, but to remember what he owes himself when it comes to voting. Somebody has been misrepresenting Washington to Sam Blythe. We exceedingly regret his credulity. When, in the history of this proud young land, has an office holder ever proven untrue to his published ideals or the true interests of his constituency?

THE CORNER-STONE.

It looked like marble, but it was crystallized tears. They placed it for the new Florence Crittenton Home at Avenue 33 and Graham street Friday afternoon. It will be a refuge large enough to shelter all of the unfortunate girls who have the courage and the conscience to permit themselves to be drawn within kindly doors that shield and welcome. The necessity is to be deplored, but the fact to be treated unblushingly and with great sympathy. No one dare smile at or condone the irregularity of lives, but the consequences of such unwisdom must be met with reason and love. The sin of being found out has always been the object of the world's harshness. People have quarreled much more with detection than with vice. Our failure-hating world is impatient with all mistakes.

A NEEDED REFORM.

Now that Legislatures are engaged here and there in reforming codes of procedure, there should be a provision allowing the prevailing party in an action—whether plaintiff or defendant—to receive from the opposite party a reasonable sum—to be fixed by the court—for a counsel fee. Such is now the case in divorce actions, in actions for the foreclosure of mortgages, civil actions under the Sherman law, and, sometimes, by contract between the parties in actions on promissory notes. But there is no allowance made to a defendant for his counsel fees even in an action where it is conclusively demonstrated by the evidence at the trial that the action was brought without cause, or for blackmail purposes, or in order to harass the defendant and subject him to needless cost and expense.

THE VAMPIRE.

The world has a curious misunderstanding of this word. Perhaps it is not fully cognizant of any word. Indeed, this may not be since such a conception rests only in spirit. The word vampire has come to mean a woman who takes where she does not give—takes from the many and leaves but emptiness. Vampirism is more than physical, at least it is more than sensuousness. Neither is it confined to the one sex nor is it so apparent as to be always detected. Instead, men and women live in a reckless whirl, scattering and devouring. They assault their own integrity and that of others at a thousand points. This is not maliciousness, but only ignorance. It is unthinking and unheeding. It is the multiplied division of all potent force. Like the drowning man who drags his attempted rescuer with him to a grave in the waters so people grapple and strangle each other in their misunderstanding.

FINANCE TAKES A STEP AHEAD.

Forward-looking men are to be found in Wall street, despite the atmosphere of opaque depression with which that interesting place is supposed to be surrounded. From no other part of the country has there come lately an announcement containing so much of optimistic business purpose as that which is disclosed in the informal statement of the plans of the National City Bank of New York for the establishment of branches and agencies in South America to promote the growth of the Pan-American trade relations, carrying with it logically a development of better understanding between the North and South American peoples.

Here is proof of the most practical character that Wall street is not altogether the abode of reactionary spirits which politicians pretend to see there. Anything but an effort to discredit the Wilson administration is implied in the contemplated investment of capital to assist the expansion of commerce between the two Americas. On the contrary, the project in question makes use of what is likely to be the principal achievement of the Wilson administration, the Federal reserve act, to do whatever capital can accomplish in the direction of establishing the foundation of a greater prosperity for the country in a broadening of American markets and new opportunities for wideawake Los Angeles business men.

This is perhaps the most striking immediate aspect of the New Yorkers' proposed undertaking. Moreover, the enterprise is conceived in terms of a service to American business which is not to be measured only by the possibilities of banking profit that may accrue. What else does this exemplify than the idea which Mr. Wilson has exalted in his proclamations of opportunity for American trade and industry?

For the rest the broader relations of this South American branch bank and agency scheme are those which appear in its response to the steadily-increasing demand of American merchants and manufacturers for a provision of banking facilities which will enable them to compete on even terms in the Argentine, Brazil and other South American countries with European manufacturers and traders. Every foreign trade convention held in this country of late years has ended in the conclusion that South America offered the most hopeful field for commercial cultivation, but that little headway could be made without a banking organization which would permit exporters and importers to adapt themselves, as have European traders, to the trade and financial customs of Latin-America.

This seems to be a notably propitious time to make the beginning of those banking relations with South American countries that have long been desired. Up to a year or so ago a boom prevailed in the principal South American countries which had been inflated with European capital. Today depression, following heavy liquidation, has succeeded an exaggerated expansion in Brazil and Argentina. Europe is not purveying capital lavishly to its former customers, whose activities it had overestimated, and the entrance of American bankers into South America can be more safely made than at any previous time in recent years. Furthermore, it will be effected at a juncture when Latin-American business will be all the more inclined to welcome new commercial friendships, backed by large supplies of fresh capital, greatly needed for the exploitation of South American resources.

Given capital and local banking facilities in American hands and the never-tired "Yankee drummer" will do the rest.

A GREAT ELECTRIC LINE.

Electric railways have been called the nerves of cities. Radiating from the marts of commerce they establish communication in every direction. A new and a great nerve of this character has been added unto Los Angeles and San Bernardino by the Pacific Electric Railway Company. It extends through the rich section sixty miles long which connects the capitals of two of the most wondrous counties in California. Embraced in that district is the world's finest and richest citrus land. Not fair Sicily, nor old Spain, nor any gracious area in the New World can rival this lovely stretch of land which has been reclaimed from barley field and desert within the memory of the older generation.

At either end of this new electric railway are cities which have won fame. Los Angeles at one end, is large, bountiful, a Juno among cities; San Bernardino at the other end possesses a beauty, a charm, a prosperity and a romantic history all its own. Lines of steel upon which travel swift cars of the finest and newest type form a tie which binds the two cities closely together. They join the richest county in the United States to the largest.

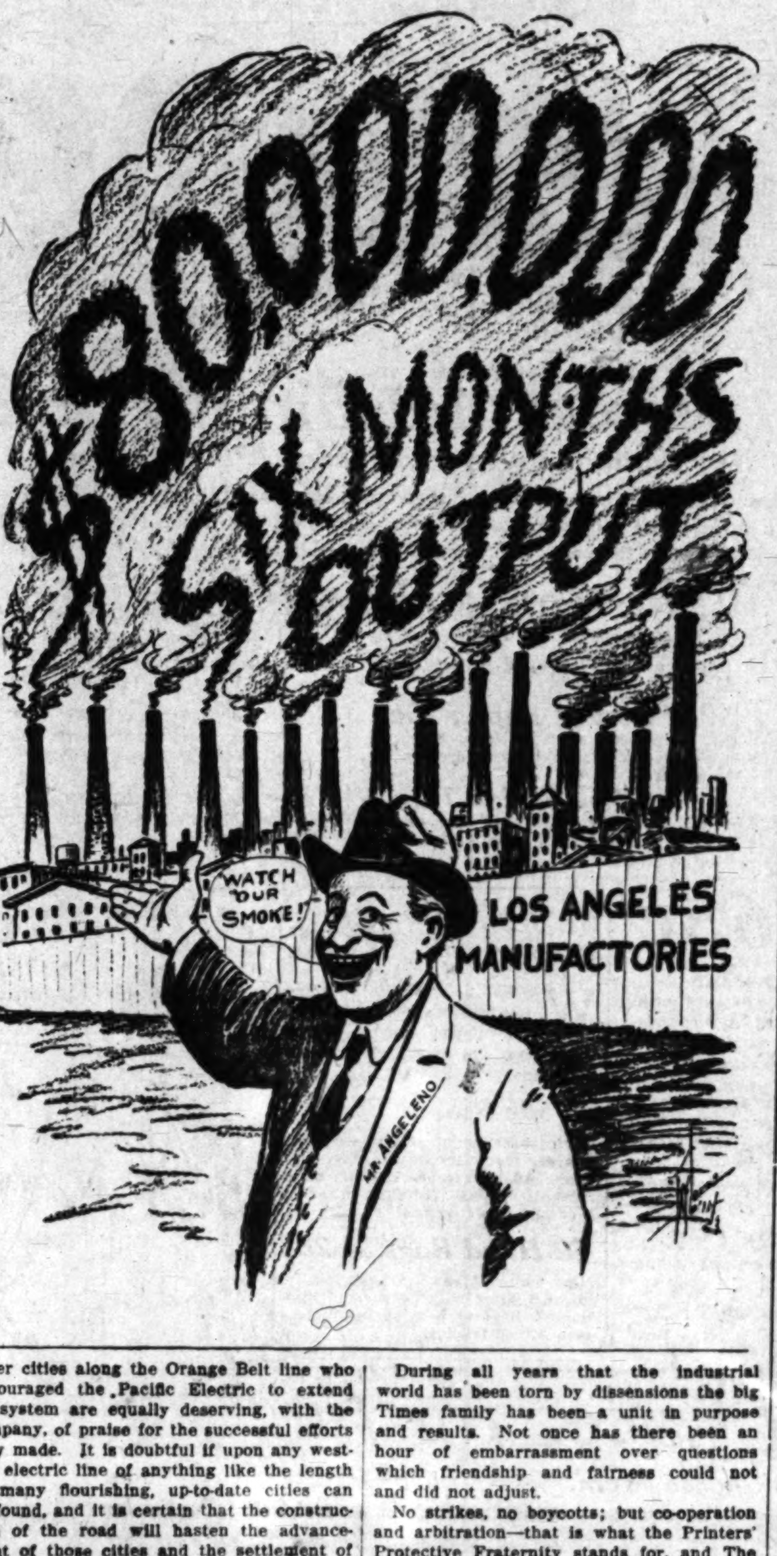
The Pacific Electric Railway has been a bold pioneer in the transportation world of the Great Southwest. It has opened up an empire around Los Angeles which slumbered until it came and gave electric energy. Its steel strands radiate like a gigantic web from the heart of Los Angeles to the ocean on one side and to San Bernardino on the other. An English traveler who recently visited Southern California declared that the Pacific Electric system of trolley cars is, in its scope, management and comfort, the best he has seen in any land. And since he was here it has been extended to the firmly-established city which the Mormons laid out nearly seventy years ago.

This is a daring enterprise upon which the Pacific Electric has embarked, the linking up of two cities sixty miles apart. But daring has ever been characteristic of this distinctively Southern California company and it is certain that deserved success will be the reward. The company was obliged to overcome many difficulties in putting the new line through. It was all but ready to open the road five months ago, but the February storms undid some of the work, besides disturbing the system in other parts of Southern California. The obstacles which nature placed in the way have all been successfully overcome and the Los Angeles and San Bernardino electric line is a tribute to the faith, energy and work of President Paul Shoup and the officials of the Pacific Electric who so faithfully labored for the development not only of their company but of the Southland.

The people of San Bernardino and the other cities along the Orange Belt line who encouraged the Pacific Electric to extend its system are equally deserving, with the company, of praise for the successful efforts they made. It is doubtful if upon any western electric line of anything like the length so many flourishing, up-to-date cities can be found, and it is certain that the construction of the road will hasten the advancement of those cities and the settlement of the country districts between them.

Now that this swift electric service between the two cities has been established it is to be hoped there will be no persons with souls so dead to the romance of both as to talk of going from "Los" to "San Berdoo" or from "San Berdoo" to "Los." Hanging, drawing and quartering would be too good for such people. Anybody who would cut off sections of those beautiful names would deserve to be cut off himself from the use of the great utility now thrown open to all.

Pointing With Pride.



FRATERNITY AND UNITY.

Fellowship and gladness marked the annual picnic of The Times compositors and printers at Redondo Beach on Wednesday. It was like a big family reunion, this sunny holiday so happily engineered by a live committee representing the Printers' Protective Fraternity. A quality of good will, unstrained and undoubted, bound employer and employee on this day of recreation, as it does through all the work days of each succeeding year.

Each summer these outings have taken place with increasing pleasure in the ripening kindness which long and satisfactory association has brought about. It amounts to the maturity of a friendship which has brought pleasure and profit to all concerned, without bickering, without suspicions, without doubts and distrust.

The Times is steadfast in its attitude on the so-called "labor question," but it has a great pride in the actual demonstration of its working principles and an affection for the men who have made this relation a sustained and practical ideal.

The Printers' Protective Fraternity has for its principles the only groundwork of fair organization. These are co-operation and arbitration. Under such a system there can be no strikes nor boycotts. Fair hours, fair pay and fair service—surely, this is an exchange with which there can be no quarrel. There never has been any on this newspaper since the independent banding of its men into such a brotherhood. They give the best they have to offer in labor and they are paid wages that satisfy. They work with intelligence, bringing to their task both sympathy and loyalty, and they are held in corresponding esteem.

It is only in such a spirit that men give of their best. Only a genuine heartfelt interest and loyalty on the part of workmen and a reciprocal appreciation on the part of employer can make the relationship between the two parties to this important contract all that it should be. Such a compact presents to the world an unbroken alliance and gives the world the fair fruits of an intelligent plan and of honest toil. Only such co-operation can produce the results the world demands. It means the efficiency of the employee and the prosperity of workman and employer. Indeed, it yokes the two in an even partnership of production, unifying them in purpose and giving both a position that gratifies.

Best of all, the relationship is both pleasant and permanent. It is a joy to work with such men, and the employer feels that he is working with them. They have a real part in what is accomplished, and they do not have their mental and physical vitality sapped by the uncertainty that they may be here today and somewhere else tomorrow.

During all years that the industrial world has been torn by dissensions the big Times family has been a unit in purpose and results. Not once has there been an hour of embarrassment over questions which friendship and fairness could not and did not adjust.

No strikes, no boycotts; but co-operation and arbitration—that is what the Printers' Protective Fraternity stands for, and The Times stands with them and by them for the same ideals.

THE CULEBRA CUT.

Some day the inside history of the building of the Panama Canal will be written. Then the story of persistent hard work, privation and self-sacrifice put into the completion of that gigantic undertaking by thousands of indomitable Americans will be more glorious than that of any army on the red field of battle.

The conquest of the Culebra Cut alone is one of the finest monuments to human perseverance in the records of the race. For years nature struggled savagely to thwart the efforts of man. Time after time overwhelming landslides blotted out the work of excavation already accomplished. Against the avalanches of dirt and rock that continually poured into the freshly-scooped cut even the power of the finest steam excavators ever devised by engineering skill seemed impotent. It looked like attempting to empty the ocean with teaspoons.

Yet in the sticky, enervating tropical climate, where fever and malaria had to be beaten back before any work was possible, our American army toiled day after day, doggedly, resistlessly, with confidence, only redoubling their efforts as the difficulties increased. It was an instance of devotion to duty and to country to stir the blood of every American, as great a victory as the victory at Yorktown.

What must these bronzed and work-worn heroes have thought when they heard a cool, scholastic gentleman seated in an office chair had decided to give away the fruits of their sweat and toil and privation to a foreign government? What did President Wilson know of the brain and brawn and heart that had gone into the conquering of the Culebra Cut alone? A heavy price, indeed, for the country to pay because in their foreign policy a handful of near-statesmen had egregiously blundered.

John Bull, by grace of his friend, Woodrow Wilson, becomes a partner in the canal; but he can have no share in the honor and glory of having won the fiercest battle ever waged against the forces of nature, of having set an example of indomitable pluck to every nation on earth, of having achieved this wonderful victory against back-breaking, heart-racking odds.

Some day by an inspired patriotic pen will be written the story of how the Panama Canal was built. Some day the mighty battle will be sung in national verse, pictured in deathless prose; the tribulation, the despair, the rage, the fury, the determination, the grim purpose, the renewed hope, the increased energy, the final triumph. The record of Woodrow Wilson's administration will appear tame and sapless in comparison. Titans sweating blood in the Culebra Cut; pigmies watchfully waiting on a helpless Mexican dictator. And the Panama victory must pay the price for the Mexican muddling. The years of canal work must be signed away. The pen is mightier than the steam shovel.

But our people will never forget that the Culebra Cut was never excavated by a policy of watchful waiting, the spirit that delights in achievement will find no pleasure in contemplating the work of Woodrow Wilson.

THE PETITIONER.
BY EUGENE BROWN.

These petty petitioners keep a fellow so busy with his fountain pen that he hardly has any time to spare to write bright pieces for the paper.

When a man cannot make a living any other way and is conscientiously opposed to manual labor in any form he puts on a red necktie and starts out gathering signatures to the election petitions of candidates whom he neither knows nor respects. As an occupation it is a few degrees removed from opium smuggling and check raising, but it is hard to dignify it as a calling, although calling is the heavy end of the business.

The public petitioner is made possible through the tangled operations of the craziest bunch of election laws that ever infested an American State. To a man in the middle of the road it would appear that about half the acts committed by St. Hiram's deform Legislature have some brand of petty graft in the contents thereof. The joker in the revised primary law is the petition monger.

The large army of innocents who gave approval in a general way to the principles of the primary law dreamed that good citizens would turn out spontaneously to circulate the petitions and cast the votes for worthy candidates. But it was only a dream.

Now practically every man who projects himself into the arena of politics is at the mercy of these professional petitioners. Companies and firms engage in the business on a large scale and will supply signatures to anything from an appeal for a constitutional amendment down to a petition for a sewer connection on your block. The stores and office buildings are being invaded by these pilgrims of the pen, and choice sidewalk locations are claimed and tables set up for the display of their wares. Over these they preside after the boisterous manner of the barker and pedestrians are urged to save their country by adding their names to the choice list already at hand.

Personally I had quite an exciting session the other day with a human being who bore a referendum petition on the proposition to give drugless doctors a right of way. This party was equipped with a hare lip and, although I agreed with him heartily on his mission, the temptation to engage in conversation was irresistible. There is nothing more fascinating than an argument with a man with a hare lip. This one talked passionately and eloquently with both hands and his elbows, but every now and then his voice would rip open in the middle and run all over his face to the accompaniment of a fine spray. Then he would have to stop and gargle his throat for a fresh start.

He was trying to tell me that the drug trust bossed the State and was seeking to run the national government with representation in the Cabinet, but he couldn't get it all off his chest very well. He was a good deal like a fellow who got to first base as the first man up and then had to hang around until the side was out. When I suggested that he whistle it he got mad and made signs that I was an idiot. I fancy that if he had tried to do what I told him his revenge would have been sweeter.

Some of these seductive street walkers also carry the literature and pictures of their candidates, and these are distributed at the same time the voter is approached for his signature. Take the State over, there are several thousand candidates for office of one kind or another, most of whom have to use publicity stuff ranging from a circus poster down to a modest visiting card. Therefore, it looks like a fair year for the printer even if the oat crop is a bit peaked. The petition industry itself has headquarters in the larger cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco, where a persistent type of circulators is created.

About all the equipment a he-siren needs in plying his trade is a few sheets of greasy foolscap paper and an indelible pencil. Thus accoutered, he is prepared to hold up any sovereign voter in the land and take away his good name—on his petition. For this species of brigandage he will tax the candidate all the way from 3 cents to 25 cents for each signature—according to the standing of the signer or the unpopularity of the candidate. The volunteers who are circulating the Fredericks petitions appear to be having the easiest time of it. Many voters are seeking them out and insisting on getting their names down on the muster roll, but some of the candidates and some of the proposed legislative measures are having hard sledding in securing the required number of names.

The professional petitioner seems to be a foolish and unnecessary cog in our already costly and complicated election machinery. Even a frivolous newspaper man can figure out that it is vastly more expensive to run for office under a harlequin primary than by the old method of party nominations. At the same time no one will have the hardihood to assert that better material or better results are to be had.

I'll be doggoned if I'll run for any office until the method is simplified or changed. It would wreck my sangfroid to have one of these public petitioners tell me that I was so unpopular that he would have to charge me two-bits a name for getting the signatures of the hoi polloi to my nomination papers.

He Knew the Answer.

[Lippincott's:] His name was Tommy, and he came home from school looking so down in the mouth that mother asked him severely what was the matter.

Out of his little trousers pocket he fished a note from the teacher, which said: "Tommy has been a very naughty boy. Please have a serious talk with him."

"What did you do?" asked mother.

"Nothing," sobbed Tommy. "She asked a question, and I was the only one who could answer it."

"H'm," murmured mother. "What was the question?"

"Who put the dead mouse in her desk drawer?" answered Tommy.

Fast Growers.

"P'taters is good this mornin', madam," he said, casting an admiring look at the basketful he had brought.

"Oh, is they?" retorted Mrs. Wiggins. "that reminds me. I want to have a word with you about them you sold me last week. How is it that them at the bottom o' the basket is so much smaller than them at the top?"

"Come about like this," replied old John, a knowing look on his face.

"P'taters is growin' that fast now that by the time I get a basketful dug the last ones is about twice the size of the first!"

Reshape Waterways.

or their diversion by seemingly trivial impediments.

The survey parties will study both the usual and the exceptional in the mind-structure or temperament of streams. It will trace the more important rivers, as the Los Angeles, San Gabriel and Rio Hondo, to their headwaters and thence downward to their mouths, locating or designing an official bed, or else seeking out one in which to put the stream so that it will stay put.

The general object of the board will be to provide channels of moderate width and depth for low-water flows, with levees of such height and set o- at such distances apart as will provide an adequate flood channel, with the dimension of the channel, varied from place to place in accordance with hydraulic requirements.

In the case of the Los Angeles River, the plan is to carry this stream to a connection with the San Gabriel River through an open ditch, running on an air line, and dump the waters of both streams into Alamitos Bay. In other cases, it will doubtless be found advisable to interrupt the flow of streams by spreading the waters over gravel or boulder washes. This system will be generally applied to the feeders of the main streams, with the idea of reducing the flow of silt oceanward and also providing reinforcement for the underground reservoirs on which so much of the increase in the prosperity of the southland in an agriculture way must depend.

The San Gabriel River, for instance, rolls from its canyon heavily impregnated with silt. A portion of the heavier stuff is deposited in detritus cones just below the gorge. The lighter stuff is carried down and forms drifts and bars—gravel bars above and sand bars near the ocean outlet.

The history of this stream has been that of the slow, but certain, accumulation of impediments, which has thrown the stream crisscross of the country in various directions. For instance, during the early occupation of the country by the Spanish, the river emptied into San Pedro Bay. By 1867 it was emptying into the same bay through the present channel of the Los Angeles River, having deserted its own course due to the formation of a vast detritus cone.

The following winter, the San Gabriel River broke south through a small draw at Potrero Chicog, another detritus cone having formed, and went careering into Alamitos Bay by an absolutely new channel.

What can reasonably be expected to be the next move or the logical move of the San Gabriel River will have to be studied out by the survey parties. The testimony of the oldest inhabitant will have to be sought. But more than anything else, the river will be subjected to close scrutiny to devise means by which it can be thrown across country without taking up too much room and also sans silt.

LEVEES A PROBLEM.

One of the serious problems now confronting the board, a problem that it will have to wrestle with for many months, is that of levees. The well-known method of protecting earth levees by fascines and mattresses of willows cannot be adopted, except in a few spots, for the compelling reason that the country does not as yet afford a sufficient growth of willows to supply the necessary material.

The board will advise their planting, however. In fact, their plans contemplate willow-lined stream beds that will give the Southland an appreciated touch of Lombardy, where every stream is tree-bordered. Near the mountains the heavy gravel and boulders of the locality can be used to form substantial levees which can be strengthened by concrete wherever necessary. Nettings filled with stones will also be tried, also concrete slabs linked togethep by chains to protect banks and levees at points where the water flow will be strong.

An increase in the good road's system of the county is also contemplated in the board's plans. It is suggested that the levees throughout their length should be prepared with particular regard to their use by heavy motor trucks, which are necessary in maintenance service. In making these roads oil will be used. It is even planned to investigate the value of extending oil to the water face of the levee to furnish resistance to erosion of the light soils, of which many of the levees must necessarily be built.

The board's work will also extend to the supervision of all bridge construction over official waterways, a necessity as one pier ill-placed in a stream may divert the flow and do much damage to the channel outlined. The members of the board are H. Hawgood, Capt. C. T. Leeds, J. B. Lippincott, Frank H. Olmstead and J. W. Reagan.

First in importance is the work connected with the Los Angeles River, a stream that last winter did enormous damage to a harbor through which $100,000,000 in merchandise annually passes. Its method of handling has been outlined. But the other streams of the county have been carefully considered.

Among the tentative suggestions are: shorten the San Gabriel River to thirty-four miles in length from its canyon to the sea and protect it with levees throughout its entire course; divert Little Dalton Creek into Big Dalton at the mouth of the canyon; place retarding dams in the Arroyo Seco and rectify its channel and strengthen the banks from Devil's Gate to where it empties into the Los Angeles River; swing the Tejunga into one channel; divert the Pacoima to the Tejunga, and revet the Santa Clara River.

Gude's Greater Shoe Store

Announces its readiness—

GUDE'S (Inc.) announce the formal opening of their "Greater Shoe Store" on Tuesday, July Fourteenth, Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen. You are cordially invited to inspect this Greater Shoe Store, which we positively believe is the handsomest, the best appointed and most conveniently arranged establishment of its kind anywhere.

The store now occupies double its former space. The entire ground floor is devoted to Women's Footwear exclusively. On this floor is a separate department for Evening Slippers, and another for hosiery. The Men's Department is down stairs, where it occupies the entire floor. While the scope of the business is broadened—stocks increased, and new lines added—the POLICY of the business remains unchanged. Stability—shoes of standard merit, priced within moderation—courteous and efficient service—these have been, and will continue to be the underlying principles of this store.

A Shoe Store for Everybody

Women's Shoes

Price Range $3 to $10

We intend that this Greater Shoe Store shall be a Store for Everybody. Shoes are priced at $3, and at $10. Particular stress is laid on grades to sell at $3.50, $4, $5 and to $6.50.

The entire facilities of this Big Store are exerted to the utmost in providing Shoes of Standard Merit, in every style that's new, to sell at these moderate prices. In each grade the variety offered is broad and satisfying; and the values, we positively believe, are unsurpassed anywhere.

Men's Shoes

Price Range $4 to $7

With particular stress on $4, $5 and $6 grades. Our entire buying facilities are exerted to the utmost in providing Shoes of Standard Merit, that combine quality of material with perfection of workmanship, to sell at these moderate prices.

The result is that we are offering values that you will find it difficult to duplicate in this day and age. The variety in each grade is very large, embracing every style from the more extreme English lasts to the broad and conservative models.

Conspiracy?

SAYS WIDOW WHO ASKS HEART BALM PROPOSED.

ALLEGING that a woman thirty-five years his junior proposed marriage to him, giving the name of Mrs. Katie Hoffman, and, when he refused, she brought a $50,000 breach of promise suit against him under the name of Mrs. Katie Curland, Reuben Melenky, 70 years old and wealthy, reported the matter to the District Attorney's office yesterday. He asked that an investigation be made, alleging conspiracy.

The breach of promise suit was to have begun before Judge Houser yesterday, but at the request of the attorneys it was postponed until Thursday.

Mr. Melenky tells a decidedly different story from that of Mrs. Hoffman-Curland-Coleman. The gray-haired defendant admits he accepted "her proposal," but vehemently denies that he ever asked her to pass over the grape nuts every morning for life. On the other hand, Mrs. Hoffman, who is an attractive brunette, vigorously declares that Mr. Melenky pursued her with proposals of marriage until she finally accepted. She asserts that fifteen witnesses will testify that they heard Mr. Melenky pop the question.

According to Mr. Melenky, whose affections she asserts turned turtle when they reached the altar, he first met Mrs. Hoffman on New Year's Day, 1913, at No. 410 Centennial street, where she conducted an apartment-house. Mrs. Melenky had just arrived from his old home in Rochester, N. Y., and engaged a room at her place.

"When she found out I was worth some money," said Mr. Melenky, "she proposed. I hadn't known her very long. I considered the matter for some time and finally accepted. She objected to being married in Los Angeles, so we went to San Francisco on April 1, 1913. When we reached the clerk's office to get the license she told me that she would like to use the name of Coleman in the license, as she had a 'loving husband by that name.' I was greatly surprised to hear she had another husband, but gave in to her and she used the name of Coleman.

"But the rabbi refused to marry us when Mrs. Hoffman was unable to show when or where her husband died. We returned to Los Angeles. She promised to secure papers from the East, showing when her husband died."

Mr. Melenky declares that a few days later she told him that she did not love him any more, and that she had decided to sue him for breach of promise. He says that a few days later he was made defendant in a breach of promise suit for $150,000 by a woman named Mrs. Katie Curland. He asserts he was very much surprised to learn that he was sued by a party unknown to him. Mrs. Hoffman used the name of Curland in her first suit.

The $150,000 case was later dismissed from the Superior Court and she filed a new suit for $50,000, under the name of Katie Hoffman. She also brought suit for $300 against Mr. Melenky in Justice Forbes's court, but it was decided against her.

"Mr. Melenky said I was 'the sweetest woman in the world,'" said Mrs. Hoffman, "and I took him at his word. He has treated me shamefully and I intend to make him pay for it. I never have been treated this way before. His charges against me are untrue. I was divorced from my husband, Mr. Hoffman, before Mr. Melenky even suggested marriage. His wife had been dead only a short time before he proposed."

Goldflam & Hardy are looking after Mrs. Hoffman's interests and Swanwick & McCormick are attorneys for the defendant.

Family Differences

Nothing is more distressing than disagreements arising in families over the interpretation of Wills and the distribution of property. An unequivocal, contest-proof Will, naming as executor an impartial trust company, will guard against the frittering away of money in litigation.

PLAN ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

To Connect Griffin Avenue at Avenue Forty-three With Proposed Amusement Park On Mt. Gillig.

There are new converts to the theory that the longest way 'round may also be the shortest way home. Three of them turned up yesterday, when W. D. Larrabee, E. T. Wright and Ross Welch, all of this city, applied to the State Railroad Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct an electric railway, two and four-tenths miles in length, to connect points that are but one mile apart as the crow flies.

The points are the intersection of Griffin avenue and Avenue 43 and Mt. Gillig. Between lies much rolling country and arroyos of some depth, hence the reason for the meandering tendencies of the railway, which is intended as the traffic artery for an amusement park, which Messrs. Larrabee, Wright and Welch plan to locate at the upper end of the line.

The line will be built in the name of the Montecito Railway Company and will cost, according to estimate, $32,000. The company was recently incorporated, with $50,000 of capital stock.

YOUNG FINGERS PEN GRATITUDE.

Children Thank "The Times" for Beach Parties.

Sincerity and Enthusiasm Inspire Missives.

Directors of Orphan Home Write Appreciation.

Full of thankfulness and picnic pie, dozens of youngsters wrote to The Times last week about the pleasure they had on their trips to Venice. "Neptune," the big deep-sea-going auto and the high-voltage chauffeur came in for their share of praise, but young Coney Island at Venice was what principally inspired the epics. Sorry we can't print 'em all. Here are some chosen at random:

"Dear Sir Times: I wish transfer to you some few joyfuls which receipted from you by means of honorable gasoline hay-wagon. Me with populace of other free enjoyers, sought ride on auto-car. On trip the whole firm regale with loud song, self-made and with great glee made noise of My Country Home of Thee and Star-Spanked Banner. When we descend on Benice, hon. cop attainted us with too great commotions. But we orate. It are the honorable Times, and he insure 'All right.'

"On merry-go-round we gallop, after which with no shoes and stockings we walk on water; then we see Rubetown, which are very restless and puts giggles on our face; and then Race Throw the Clowds, which is full of joyfuls like bottles to drink. Then to honorable homes we deploy, and thank The Times, for whom comes all joyrides and such. So no more."

Though the following is anonymous, it does not partake of the nature of most anonymous letters by any means. It is from a little boy or girl at Amelia-street school:

"We thank you very much for your kindness by takeing us to Venice. Furst we went to merry land, and we saw Uncle Sam and we sa wthe devel. Then we went on Seenic Railway. Oh we had such fun that you can never think about it. Then we went to race for life and a motor cycle ran around a walk."

DRAMATIC AND SINCERE.

Richard Verdugo's letter is quite dramatic and evidently sincere, despite some vagueness in regard to moods and tenses. Richard also hails from Amelia street:

"Yesterday you send your truck to Amelia-street school, and after yow came up stair you told us how to do the thing. When we was going to Venice we had a nice ride. When we were in Venice we went to Merryland. After we went out we went to Chinese town, there was Chinise inside. I said look look! the Devil, and had too horns. And we had sum fun inside. When we was come home we song on the street. We thank you for the ride."

"The Times, Gentleman: Yesterday you sent your passenger truck down to our school. We enjoid the ride to Venice and we had a nice time. The air was so fresh and we enjoid the good time we had. And we had a good time in the water and cakes and candy. We went to the undown ground Chinia Town and we saw Chinese and little cat. Thank you for your kindness. Goodby, truckman."

Geatabi Martino varied the excitement of the trip by getting lost. He does not state the nature of his rescue, but, like a true artist, leaves the fact to be inferred:

"I thank you very much for your kiness. We went to the beach and had a very nice time. And we went to Chinatown and I got lost their. And we went Raced Throw the Clowds. The first thing we went Throw Merryland, and the second was Chinatown. And we saw two mans racing for life. And when the motorsikle man got to the top I got a scared. And did not like Chinatown. And I wish you could come and git us again. And when I got to the beach the first thing done I tuck off my shose and went to the beach and got all wet. And when we got to the beach we saw two man coming with a boat and they got stuck and we help them out. Sincerely yours."

"The Tangle Dance" is maybe a better name than Tango, anyhow. And at any rate, Marwood Czernewski writes a nice letter from Amelia street:

"The Times, Gentlemen: Dear Sir: We think that it was very nice to send your truck Over to the School we went to Vesice And we went to merryland. And then we went to the Race through the clouds. And then to Tango Dance. We went to the Race for Life we thank you for your kindness Very Mutch."

CROWDED, NOT CALLOUS.

Harry Reyes got more out of the ride than heaps of people see in their whole lives, and if his description of a Chinaman being killed seems callous, it's only because he has so much to tell about he can hardly cram it all in one short letter:

"The Times Gentlemen: We thank you very much for coming to take us too Venice we had a joy ride eighteen miles we went in Maryland it was dark there were Skeletens and Uncle Sam and caming out there was a board that moved and some girls almost fell and then we went to China Town Underground and a Chinaman was killing Another chinaman. I went in Rube Town and when we were coming out the put us in a cage and turn us around and we came at the door and we went to the beach and the teachers gave us some cookies and some boy and girls got barefoot and went in the water and then we went Race for Life and we went Race Thru the Clouds and the girls won."

The mysterious "Richard" in the following was very callous, wasn't he? However, Cheteko Koga got safely home, and wrote the following graphic letter:

"The Times: Gentlemen: yesterday we went to the Venice and we went to the Chinatown and we see the Chinese houses it was so dark and we was very afraid and I said please take me Richard but he didn't take me. Then next we went to the Ocean and I take off my shoe and stocking, and we went to the water side. And I and Aurora play into the water side. And then we went to the race to the cloud. First time I am Afraid but second time I'm not Afraid and boys and girls Race to the Cloud girls sid is won. Then we are going home. Thank you for your kindness. Goodbye."

At the Los Angeles Orphan's Home are many wee tots whose thanks have been expressed for them in this letter from Mrs. Emma R. Dawson, corresponding secretary:

"Of all the children in the city to whom The Times has given beach rides, I think there are none more grateful than our children of the L. A.O. Home.

"The board of directors appreciate the kindness and the generous spirit that prompted the outing and it is with pleasure I extend to each one who had any part in it the earnest thanks of the board of directors.

"We feel we are indebted to The Times for many favors during the year and are duly appreciative."

Just one of many loads of "Times" beach joy-riders.

TO MAKE WEST FIFTH LARGE TRAFFIC ART

Plans Drawn Provide for Widening from Grand and a Short Tunnel to Create Outlet-Inlet Wilshire and Other Western Districts—Prop ers Directly Affected Will Be Organized.

MAKING Fifth street west a main artery of travel by widening it, building a very short tunnel and generally extending it to create an outlet-inlet for the Wilshire and other western districts of Los Angeles, is a project already well under way. It is backed principally by some of the property owners in the district which would be primarily benefited.

The improvement would not only add materially to the private property values, but would enhance greatly the Normal School property, now owned by the municipality, paving the way for making this a beautiful art center, for which reason the Art Center Club, the Friday Morning Club and several other organizations have indorsed the plan.

John Harlan, Fawcett Robinson, the artist, and a number of other interested parties commissioned Architect Charles Gordon to draw the preliminary sketches after securing the proper engineering figures to proceed with. According to his completed drawings, the plan contemplates the widening of Fifth street from Olive to Grand into a thoroughfare having a width of 150 feet between the building lines, which is regarded as feasible because the city already owns the southwest corner of Fifth and Olive, having a frontage on the for-

A. Burlingame Johnson,

Between two almost priceless Chinese vases. The smaller is worth possibly thirty thousand dollars and is one of the finest examples extant of the "sang de boeuf" or ruby-red glazed vases. The taller one, also of the celadon class, is of deepest sapphire brilliancy. Both will soon be shown at the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, where Mr. Johnson is installing a Chinese exhibit worth nearly a quarter million dollars.

One of them was an altar piece of the Keen-lung period.

Two of the glass cases contain wonderful kimono robes, exact facsimiles of those belonging to the nobility. The first has a white background with the principal color in blue giant lotus flowers and other strange blossoms are worked through the garment, which is a replica of one worn by an Empress in the Ming period. The Emperor's robe of the same time is largely in gold. A raised dragon head in the center of the rear and front of the robe is the principal decoration.

The collection is loaned for an indefinite period and will probably be on exhibit for about two months, according to Curator Daggett, who is also supervising the completion of a salon of old masters in the picture line, at this time.

Patronize Home Industry.

AMERICAN FOOD PRODUCTS BEST.

OUR FACTORIES SHOWN TO BE MOST SANITARY.

Chasing of Fabled Green Pasture, the Belief that Imported Goods Are Better, It Pays to Patronize Pure Food Law Respecting Home Industry.

Much has been written with regard to the adulteration of food products in this country; pure food laws have been generally passed, in addition to those placed upon the statute books at Washington, by the many States of the Union. So much have we heard with regard to our own shortcomings that we have frequently been too ready to assume that the imported article, particularly that from "the old country," must be purer and superior to those made in this country—distant pastures have looked green.

The following extracts taken from a list recently published by German (Prussian) State authorities as a result of their investigations into the food supply of that country, fully demonstrate that adequate food laws are certainly needed in Europe also. It is interesting to note that the report states that "up to the present the penalty for using such adulterants has not been clearly defined, because the law has not been properly explained."

Artificial butter (margerine) was found produced frequently under far from cleanly conditions and the raw material used needed purifying; while the tallow employed in the manufacture was often condemned as containing hair, flies, splinters and other foreign matter; and benzoic and sulphuric acids were largely used as preservatives.

Sand, weed seeds and mites were found in bakery products; talcum to adulterate flour; mites, worms and spiders in flour bins; so-called egg mixtures to resemble eggs in color only and that to be given by means of a coal-tar product.

Fruit juices were artifically colored often with poisonous matter; marmalades and jellies often were found to consist almost entirely of artificial ingredients.

Adulterated vinegar was held accountable for two deaths.

In addition the report notes that lead was found used for coloring cooking utensils in daily use; that a substance advertised as nickel consisted of a strongly-poisonous quicksilver solution. In a baby's rubber nipple 40 per cent. of zinc was found.

That Germany is the sole culprit among those exporting food products to the United States is not to be considered; as a matter of fact conditions there are probably better than in many other countries. These reported conditions, however, must serve to forcibly and convincingly drive home to the housewife the wisdom of confining as far as possible her purchase to the products of her home country.

Without question American food product factories are the best equipped and most sanitary in the world. The larger and best-known factories today guarantee the purity and excellence of their products, and rely upon the product itself to drive from the market inferior goods which contain either adulterants or inferior raw material.

Economic.

COST-OF-LIVING PANACEAS FAIL.

PRICE SCALE A WORLD PROBLEM, STATISTICS SHOW.

Canada, Great Exporter of Foodstuffs, Has Highest Range of Necessary Expense, and Free Markets and Other Experiments Don't Reduce It.

The Republican tariff has been made the scapegoat for many of the ills to which we as a nation have been heir, not least of these being the "high cost of living." Many panaceas and "cure-alls" have been and are now, advocated to reduce our grocery bills—from virtual free trade to municipal markets—but so far with no success. The cost of living has increased the past few years the world over, whether under free trade, tariff for revenue only or under the most drastic of protection. Commissions have been appointed, investigations made, but all to no avail, for the trouble is universal and dependent upon the economic condition of no one nation or country.

Our neighbors to the north have keenly felt it, even more than we have in this country, and this in spite of the fact that they export enormous and increasing quantities of foodstuffs. The following extracts from a recent report on the conditions as they exist today in Canada are of great interest, in face of the efforts now made on all sides to bring down prices.

"The Dominion government has a commission investigating the causes of the high cost of living, and this subject has been discussed frequently by various organizations and by the newspapers and periodicals of the various provinces. By opening free markets and a municipal abbattoir, and by aiding in the erection of cheap houses for mechanics, Toronto has endeavored to reduce the cost of living, and other cities have also been trying to solve the problem, but so far all efforts in this direction seem to have produced little or no reduction. A good deal has been expected of the parcel post, introduced in February of this year, but for any appreciable result there needs to be an extension of the first zone, which now has a radius of only twenty miles, and an increase in the maximum weight of parcels, now fixed at eleven pounds.

"While Great Britain has to import most of its foodstuffs, Canada has a surplus for exportation, and yet the prices of foodstuffs are cheaper in England than in Ontario. It is asserted on good authority that bread made from Canadian wheat is sold at a lower price in London than in the larger cities of the Dominion."

It will be noted from the above that neither the municipal market, the municipal abbattoir or other like innovations have proved of any benefit in Toronto or other of the Canadian cities, while in 1912 the Dominion headed the list of the world's more important countries in the "high cost of living."

DEATH OF CAPITALIST.

Well Known in Southern California Railroad Circles Passes at Hot Springs, Va.

Melville E. Ingalls, brother-in-law of Charles M. Stimson of this city, and of George W. Stimson of Pasadena, died at his summer home in Hot Springs, Va., yesterday, aged 72 years. The deceased was well known here, having spent a number of winters in Pasadena. He was a native of Maine, practiced law in Boston and was a member of the Massachusetts Senate in 1867, during which year he married Miss Abbie Stimson. He was perhaps best known as organizer and president of the Big Four Railroad, and president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, after his removal to Ohio. He was also president of the Merchants' National Bank of Cincinnati, and was the builder of the first concrete building in that city. Two of his sons are lawyers in New York City, and Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., is president of the Hot Springs Company, Va. Another son, George H., is freight manager of the New York Central Railroad at Chicago, and Albert S. is general superintendent of the Lake Shore Railroad at Cleveland.

HE WAS DEAF

Astonishing Improvement in Hearing. Edward Gregory, Engineer, Gives Information Free.

An engineer who had ear trouble for years finally became so deaf he could not hear the sound of a steam engine, bells or voices. After vainly seeking relief he was compelled to give up his position. His case seemed hopeless. His deafness was aggravated by head disturbances, dry catarrh, nervousness and despondency.

To the surprise of all, he began to hear and continued improving until he could listen to conversations, could hear a train at a distance, and even the singing of birds in the trees. His head and nerves became tranquil. He got his position back again. This was no miracle; no surgery, no artificial hearing devices, no electric appartus, no loss of time. Whoever is deaf, can obtain particulars free by writing to Edward Gregory, 107D, Forbes St., Jamica Plain, Mass.

Chew Pack,

A leading local merchant, who is going to China to colonize along American lines.

Home Again.

CHEW PACK TO BE PLUTOCRAT.

CHINESE MERCHANT WILL BE LAND BARON IN CHINA.

Made His Pile in Los Angeles and Will Apply American Knowledge and Methods to Increase His Fortune in the Flowery Kingdom. Four Sons Go With Him.

Chew Pack is going back to China. The leading merchant of Chinatown has arranged to dispose of his extensive holdings in Southern California and return to his native land. He has acquired interests there in an extensive tract of fertile land, which he will develop by the most progressive methods of colonization.

Negotiations are already under way for the sale of his big wholesale and retail store in Chinatown. It is the largest mercantile establishment in the colony. His extensive orchards and market gardens have already been placed on the market. Within three months he expects to leave America, a rich man, and begin the greatest business effort of his life in introducing Southern California methods into the horticultural districts of China.

For thirty-eight years, he has been prominent in Southern California. He came to Los Angeles when he was 20 years old, and immediately began the business of gardening and fruit raising. So expert did he become in the work, improving the American methods with the knowledge that he had brought from China, that he set a new standard for productivity in the soil which he tilled.

His efficiency brought immediate prosperity. After he had been here a few years he returned to China and married, bringing his bride to Los Angeles. He then resumed his farming and continued at it for a total of eight years.

By that time he had acquired considerable acreage, and had so thoroughly mastered his work that he found more profit in supervising the work of others than in actual labor. To handle his affairs with more expedition, he moved to Los Angeles and opened a drug store in the Chinese business colony on Marchessault street.

For thirteen years he managed the drug store, one of the important features of his business being the sale of Chinese medicines which he compounded. He had brought the prescriptions for many efficient remedies from China and his trade prospered until he established a wholesale office.

He disposed of the drug store in 1897, and moved across the street to open a large general merchandise store, which also had a wholesale department. In the rear of this store, in a small office, he has established his headquarters. Gradually he has become one of the powers in the political and financial affairs of the American Chinese.

More than a year ago a progressive Chinaman came to Los Angeles from China to investigate the California methods of fruit and produce raising. He was referred to Chew Pack for information, and the two established a friendship which resulted in a business partnership. While expanding yearly in a business way, Chew Pack had always been a close student, and had found time to compile a book of detailed information for gardeners and fruit growers.

This work has never been made public and is retained for Chew Pack's exclusive use. Americans have endeavored to induce him to have the book printed, but he has refused. It is the information in this book which he believes will revolutionize the horticultural industries in China.

Chew Pack is the father of four sons: Chew Hong Hay, Chew Ying Hay, Chew Kow Hay, and Chew Loy Hay. All four boys are to return with him. They were born in America, but are anxious to go to China and remain there permanently. The oldest, Chew Hong Hay, has been in China three times. He was married there and has a wife and two children living there.

In all, Chew Pack has made eight trips to China, but this will be his last. He never wishes to return to America, he said.

TO DISPOSE OF STOCK.

About 40,000 shares of Los Angeles Investment stock given as security by the former directors of the company for advances made by Home Makers, a subsidiary, are to be sold at auction the 20th inst. by Frank Simpson, secretary of the latter concern. Twenty thousand of the shares were security furnished by Mr. Elder, and the remainder by C. L. Bagley and G. M. Derby. Besides these shares there is also a certificate to be sold entitling the holder to 29,000 shares in any dividend disbursed from the guarantee fund. The sale is a fulfillment of a plan of the new directorate for improving the financial status of the Los Angeles Investment Company.

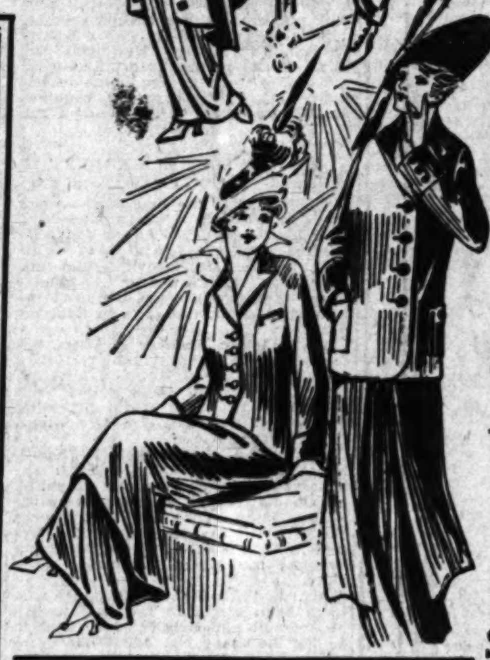
—And it would be difficult to explain in an advertisement.

—Suffice it to say that two years ago the demand for new fall suits at $25.00 in July was so great as to be inspiration for one of the most strikingly successful suit event, in July, 1913, that Bullock's has ever held.

—And that great distribution of a year ago was the spur that urged Bullock's buying chief to even greater efforts in completing his plans for the present month. Plans, the success of which is evidenced in this very exceptional opportunity that will be ready for Los Angeles women to share on Monday morning.

—Come to the new suit salons on the new third floor. Come prepared to buy.

—Note the pictures above. Plan to see the windows of $25 fall suits fronting on Broadway today.



Half Saturdays

—Bullock's will be open only until 1 P.M. Saturdays during July and August—Shop early.

—The Saturday early closing during July and August has commenced—Remember—Bullock's will be open Saturdays only until 1 P.M. during July and August—Plan to do the buying usually done on Saturday early in the week—Friday or Saturday morning—Watch for Bullock's Special Saturday morning features.

We Are Painless Dentists
And yet there are people who go to their dentist, wait in an agony of apprehension for their call to his chair and sit in justified fear and trembling while he probes and grinds, and cleans and scours and hurts, hurts, HURTS! Simply because they have not been made to appreciate to the full how absolutely unnecessary is any pain. Yale Dentists, 444 South Broadway, Third Floor, Parmelee-Dohrmann Building.

SOCIETY.

J. Muller, of San Gabriel. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Muller left for a sojourn in the mountains near Ventura and at its conclusion will make their home in San Gabriel, to the delight of their many friends in that locality.

Mrs. Herbert J. Goudge of No. 333 North Vega street entertained a few friends at a charmingly-appointed luncheon recently in the Japanese teahouse, which is one of the most delightful spots in the beautiful grounds surrounding the Goudge home. Covers were laid for eight, and the guests included Miss Orlie Mason, Mrs. J. B. Sexton, Mrs. John Mason, Mrs. Sterns Hutchins, Mrs. S. F. Shute, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff.

An informal dinner giving much pleasure to their friends was given recently by Mr. and Mrs. John Hess, No. 105 South Fifth street, previous to their departure for Alaska, where the summer will be spent. The guests invited to share the hospitality on this occasion included Mrs. Agnes Hill Runkle, E. A. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Smith and Miss Ada Parrish.

The Alhambra Whist Club was pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Goble, No. 207 South Cordova street, Wednesday evening, when the election of offices was held. All of the members were present and after the business of the occasion was finished the usual games of cards were enjoyed until adjournment, when a dainty luncheon was provided by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Travers, who have been spending the spring and summer leisurely visiting the many delightful resorts of Southern California, are at present in Alhambra, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Laurence. They will return to Boston about August 1.

Monrovia.

CHIEF among the affairs of the week was the charming and unique garden party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spinks at their beautiful country home east of Monrovia, on Tuesday evening. The date of the affair had been planned so that a full moon would greet the guests upon their arrival at the wonderful gardens of the Spinks rancho. These gardens, with their lakes, bridges, little islands and masses of tropical flowers, are in the daytime remarkable for their beauty, but by night, under the white limelight of the moon, and glowing with hundreds of rosy and amber Chinese lanterns, the place seemed a veritable fairyland. A dancing pavilion had been erected for the occasion and here soft-voiced Hawaiian singers furnished music well in keeping with the tropical setting. An elaborate supper was served at a late hour. Included in the list of guests were many prominent theatrical and society people from New York, Los Angeles, Pasadena and local society. A partial list of the guests includes the following: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Harry O'Fallon of St. Louis, Mrs. Edwards, New York; Mr. and Mrs. R. Herrick Hoag, New York; Stanley Anderson, Brawley. From Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. George Middleton. From Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. William Sibbald, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Engstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Woody, Mr. and Mrs. William Saurette, Mr. and Mrs. Harry White, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rivers, Jr., Miss Florence Simkins, Miss Hilda Simkins, E. G. Hart, L. Russell, George Roberts, George Roberts, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hagan. From Duarte, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan Munro, Miss Mary Munro, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bihn, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Morgan, Miss Edith Morgan, Miss Marjorie Morgan, Mrs. A. W. Savage and daughter, Miss Geraldene Heisley. From Monrovia, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bartle, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rivers, Henry Rivers, Mr. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Vollmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chess, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Renaker, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Graham, Dr. and Mrs. K. V. Price, Dr. B. C. Davies, Miss Margaret Jaycox, Mrs. Kenneth Carter, Miss Hilda Carter, Rev. Father J. J. Sheehy, R. Walsh.

For the benefit of the Relief Fund of the Visiting Nurse Association, Monrovia's unique civic charity, a delightful afternoon and evening musicale was held at the La Vista Grande Hotel this week. The programme was divided into two sections, afternoon and evening, and a varied musical offering was given to a large and appreciative audience. The beautiful grounds of the hotel were profusely decorated, and a neat sum was added to the treasury of the relief fund.

A "white elephant" social was the unique form of entertainment at the Methodist Church Tuesday evening, when the members of section three of the Work Society met for their regular session. Each guest brought with her something she did not want, and presented it to some other guest, receiving in turn something the other had no use for. These "white elephants" caused a great deal of fun. Refreshments were served to the company at the close of the evening.

Summer weather has sent hundreds of Monrovians scurrying to beach and mountain resorts, as well as off upon journeys of greater distances. Hermosa Beach has a regular Monrovia colony this summer, the list at this time including Mrs. F. M. Pottenger and daughter, Mrs. L. N. Wheeler and children, Mrs. O. W. Bryan and children, Miss A. Kate Collins, Mrs. F. O. Eager and son, Miss Carolyn Swain, Miss Bernice Bennett, Miss Violet Larson, Mrs. H. S. Woodrow and daughter, Mary; Mrs. Gertrude Wilson and children, Mrs. H. Zerell and children, Dr. J. L. Pomeroy and W. T. Adair.

Glendale.

MISS HELEN BURTON of Redlands was the honoree at a charming dancing party given recently at Verdugo Park. The hall was attractively decorated and a stringed orchestra furnished music for the evening. Punch and ices were served. Those present were Misses Helen Burton, Ruth Cowles, Wanda Billington, Beatrice Cowles, Messrs. Albert Stoffel, Warren Cowles, S. McMullan, Ferdinand Regalli, Raymond Allan and Messrs. and Mmes. Joseph Finn, C. A. Hall, C. L. Peckham, William Dunham, E. O. Stoddard of Redlands, and Mrs. E. H. Cowles.

Tropico.

THE lyric section of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club, of which Mrs. Tom Thornton is chairman and Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper musical director, gave a French fete on the beautiful grounds surrounding the home of Col. and Mrs. Tom C. Thornton, Thursday evening.

The twenty-four members of the lyric section appeared in costumes and powdered wigs, copied from the styles of 1774, using all of the beautiful pastel shades. Miss Cooper, director, and Mrs. Helen De Gaston, accompaniste, wore gowns of old rose of the Marie Antoinette age. Following the rendition of a splendid musical programme, dancing was enjoyed on the tennis court. Other guests enjoyed cards at tables arranged on the wide veranda and throughout the beautifully-decorated rooms. The committee having this recherche social event in charge consisted of Misses Helen Beatrice Cooper and Lydia Payre, Mmes. Willis M. Kimball, Eustace B. Moore and E. J. Pruess.

Mrs. Myra C. K. Shuey, who left for Eugene, Or., Wednesday to spend two months as the guest of her daughter, entertained at cards Monday evening, at her home on Columbus avenue, complimentary to Mrs. Samuel A. Pollock and Mrs. James L. Fishback.

winsome bride, whose wedding veil, caught with orange blossoms, fell in filmy lines over the wedding robe of white crepe de chine, exquisitely trimmed with lace and passementeries. The bridal bouquet was of lilies of the valley. Eck Lacy was best man. Serving at the wedding supper following the ceremony was a bevy of white-gowned maidens, classmates of the bride, who was a recent graduate. The girls waiting were Misses Dixie Perkins, Varrian Cravath, Violet Twist, Emily West, Fern Smith, Faria Bemus.

Mrs. Alfred Partridge was the attractive hostess at a pleasant porch party recently given at her Fairhaven-avenue home, Mrs. Alice Harnard, sister of the hostess, assisting. Bunting and flags adorned the massive porch, and under the patriotic colors merry pastimes were enjoyed. In a lively auction game, prizes were awarded to Mrs. Will Blakeman and Mrs. Hupp. The delightful afternoon was closed with the serving of cooling delicacies, tiny flags waving from the ices. Besides the hostess and her sister, those enjoying the afternoon were Mmes. A. M. Robinson, Frank Holbrook, Charles Beaton, Byron Johnson, Edward Gray, A. Frazier, Will Stearns, Roland Stearns, C. St. Arnold, Heiser, Henry Wiseman, Will Blakeman, Drake, Hupp, Charles Johnson, John Adams and Rudolph of Orange; Miss Gray and Miss Caroline Gray of England.

Santa Monica.

THAT summer has arrived is definitely proved by the large number of regular and first-time summer visitors who have arrived during the past week. The Fourth always brings the three-months' visitor, and now the beach is well filled with people from all parts of the land. Mrs. V. J. Moore and daughter, Charlotte Anne Moore, of Bakersfield, are guests of Mrs. Moore's aunt, Mrs. Mary A. Suits of Second street. Mrs. Clarence Suits is also here on a short visit, having come from Blythe. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cochrane and sons arrived Tuesday from Fresno and are living at the McLeod apartments. They have passed several seasons here, and always return for the summer.

The new board of directors of the Woman's Club was organized Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. D. G. Stephens. There were many members present, and all were ready to start in working. A committee composed of Mrs. E. J. Vawter, Mrs. William Davies, and Mrs. T. J. Stephens will consult with Maj. and Mrs. H. P. Schofield in regard to the lawn fete to be held on their premises August 4.

Miss Jessica Parks of California avenue entertained with a Fourth of July party in honor of Miss Clara Hamilton, who is soon to become the bride of Clarence Thompson of this city. Twenty young people were delightfully entertained, Miss Laura Anderson winning the prize at the guessing game. The young folks enjoyed needlework during the afternoon. The decorations were characteristic of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris W. Taft, baby daughter, and Mrs. Taft's mother, Mrs. Sharp, have gone to San Luis Obispo to visit friends and relatives for a few weeks.

Mrs. Margaret Cunningham and daughter, Elizabeth, and sons Daniel, Hugh and James, have come to the beach from Los Angeles, to spend the summer at the seashore. They will occupy the Hurlburt cottage on Dwight avenue. Mrs. Cunningham's daughter is Mrs. J. P. Hogan of Santa Monica, and is well known at the beach. The sons were former students at St. Vincent's College.

Wednesday evening the local lodge of Elks entertained the ladies and a great time there was. The entertainment committee for that night was made up of Neil Nettleship, A. E. Jackson, Robert M. Miller, and Dr. W. H. L. Symington.

Mrs. S. C. Frost, who recently went on a visit to her old home in Missouri, has just returned.

Ocean Park.

MRS. FLEEK of Marine and Eighth streets entertained the Thimble Club of the Pythian Sisters at her home last Friday. A most pleasant session was enjoyed by a number of members. At that time arrangements were made for an all-day picnic to be held on the 16th inst., at the home of Mrs. Nettie Barrett of Sawtelle. The picnic will be held under the sycamores in the yard of Mrs. Barrett's home.

A new departure has been inaugurated at the dance hall box parties given by the Woman's Club. Last Friday evening the Kitchen Committee entertained, and as an innovation, refreshments were served to the merry dancers. The club dances are well attended by the young folks of the north bay, and many small parties go under the care of the club.

Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Thomas, Mrs. Frank Kegley and Mrs. R. D. Beckon returned Monday from a delightful automobile trip through the northern part of this State and Oregon. They brought with them Mrs. O. H. Dupuy and Miss Martha Dupuy of Portland. They will be guests at the Thomas home on Sunset avenue for the summer. The party made the trip in plenty of time to see many sights along the route. They report the roads as being comparatively good.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bullard, daughter, Corine, and son, Allen, and Mrs. Bullard's mother, Mrs. James Ferman, all of Porterville, motored down to the beach and put up at the Merritt Jones Hotel, where they will be at home for a month. Many of the famous Porterville orange groves belong to Mr. Bullard.

Mrs. George Cameron and daughters, of South Fifth street, Alhambra, have arrived at the beach, where they rented a cottage for the summer. Mr. Cameron accompanies them. The party will stay the entire summer at the seashore.

Mrs. Joseph Fausett of No. 19 Thornton avenue has decided to take a long vacation, and has gone up into the Tehachepi Mountains, where she will live until next fall, returning to the beach to again join in the many social functions of this beach.

Venice.

MRS. C. B. M'CARTEY of Sierra Madre Villa entertained with a pansy luncheon last Saturday, the affair being in honor of Mrs. Gordon of Venice and Mrs. C. F. Kemper of Los Angeles. Luncheon was followed by an hour of good music.

A wienerwurst bake was enjoyed on Friday afternoon last by a number of jolly girl students of Cumnock School. They held forth at the foot of Ocean Spray avenue and enjoyed the delicacies which were served hot from a sand oven. Misses Dorothy Gill, Florence Wilson, Claro Wilson, Flora Smith, and Frances Wallace were the hostesses.

Little Miss Ada Carey, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey of No. 111 Wavecrest avenue, celebrated her eleventh birthday last Friday with a party for twelve little playmates. Games and amusements were indulged in and later on refreshments were served. Mrs. Carey also had a birthday anniversary on the same day, and the celebration was for that reason a doubly merry one.

Mrs. Mary Wooliscraft of this beach who has been for some time visiting in San Francisco, has returned to her home here. She was accompanied on the homecoming trip by her nephew, H. A. Johnson, and his wife, who will take a trip through Southern California before going back to their home in the north.

Prof. and Mrs. W. Y. Thornbury of the local schools leave this week on an automobile tour of the Yosemite Valley. The principal of the grammar school is a great outdoor man and he takes this form of vacation for this summer.

Mrs. M. R. King and Miss Helen King have gone to La Jolla to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams, formerly of this beach. They will be gone for over a month.

Long Beach.

A SOCIAL event of unusual interest here was the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hendry, No. 117 Paloma avenue, Wednesday evening. Many long-time friends of the couple accepted an invitation extended them by the popular couple, supposing that the affair was a housewarming. When they arrived they were introduced to a bride and groom of twenty-five years ago. Miss Augusta Hendry played the wedding march, as it was played so long ago, to the music of which the guests walked to their places at the table. Pretty bouquets of sweet peas marked the places, and white roses made the living-room exquisite.

Mrs. Charles F. Ross, No. 1820 Atlantic avenue, was hostess Wednesday afternoon to members of the Stitch and Chatter Club, the afternoon being passed informally. The Kensington was followed by the service of dainty refreshments. Guests invited were Mrs. Ben Smith, Mrs. W. L. Porterfield, Mrs. George Beatty, Mrs. A. S. Adams, Mrs. Winn, Mrs. W. B. Julian, Mrs. Fears, Mrs. E. C. Dunn, Mrs. E. J. Starr, and Miss Mary Adams.

Mrs. W. G. Hanson, No. 1242 Pacific avenue, presided at a pleasant affair Thursday afternoon at her home, bridge being the diversion. Shasta daisies were profusely used in the pretty decorations, and kewpies peeked from Japanese baskets filled with the blossoms. A delicious collation followed the cards. The guests were Mmes. P. T. Gregory, W. W. Hawk, William Llewellyn, Roland Swaffield, F. A. McKenzie, T. E. Dean, J. R. Pickering, J. H. McGarry, A. L. Becker, Reginald Skinner, A. B. Austin, George La France, O. E. Beeks, F. Jaques, Ernest Bartholomew, F. Damron, Guy Russ, Clyde Trumpower, Clark Shaw, George P. Peck, George Besancon, Ray Clark, George Cover, W. O. Fleming, J. N. Cage, Raymond Kent, Phillip Swaffield and Miss Daisy Bridge.

Mrs. Herbert Browne entertained the local chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in the amusement-room of the Alberta apartments, Wednesday afternoon. The reception was followed by a picnic on the beach when the women were joined by their husbands, making a party of forty or more. The chapter will meet with Mrs. M. E. Wilson of the Southern Home next week.

At the home of Grace and John Mosher, Wednesday evening, the members of the Y.P.B. Society met for an unusually interesting affair. The rooms were prettily decorated with the national colors, and red and white flowers. Guests were dressed to represent the month in which they were born. Fourteen of the fifty members present had birthdays in July. After refreshments an auction sale was held.

Mrs. Claude Hagle was pleasantly surprised by a number of her friends Tuesday evening, the affair being

A Face Powder That Beautifies the Complexion

MME. ISE'BELL

THERE IS A RIGHT and a wrong way to apply face powder. Some women merely "dab it on" to cover a "shiny nose," or to give a white appearance to the skin.

Others apply a face powder to actually improve the complexion. And they succeed. But these first get the right powder.

Mme. Ise'bell's Exquisite Face Powder will improve any complexion. It softens the skin while beautifying it. It is so pure and wholesome that it will not harm the tender skin of a baby.

Mme. Ise'bell's Exquisite Face Powder comes in three shades—Naturelle, Brunette and White. You can get just the shade you should have and it will blend so perfectly with the natural tone of your complexion that its use is not detected—yet it gives your face that fresh, soft and delicate loveliness that every woman desires.

Mme. Ise'bell's Turkish Bath Oil, 50c and $1.
Mme. Ise'bell's Exquisite Face Powder, 50c.

SOCIETY.

planned by her husband. The guests gathered outside the cottage in the moonlight, the hostess viewing the gathering without being enlightened as to what the thing was all about. Her curiosity was soon satisfied and games and music formed the chief features of the evening of pleasure which followed.

A group of young men were hosts to a merry party at Balboa the last part of the week, Mrs. C. H. Windham being the chaperon, and the guests including Misses Clara and Marta Windham, Glen Massie, Ruth Adams, Helen Keller, Levere Bates, Messrs. Max Wallace, Clarence Bennett, Gordon Grundy, Thornton Allen, J. H. McKinley, and A. Tinsman.

Members of the Friday Morning Club enjoyed hugely a picnic on the beach at noon Friday. Each of the members brought their own silverware, plate, napkin and dainty lunch. The group spread their lunches under the trees of Bixby Park, and after the collective collation, a pleasant chatter vied with that of the birds overhead.

Mrs. J. F. Driscoll was pleasant hostess to a merry group of neighbors Thursday, the occasion being a birthday anniversary of Mrs. Driscoll. The guests assembled at the Driscoll home on Cherry avenue. Music, needlework, games and fortune-telling were the pursuits of the pleasant afternoon, and refreshments were served.

A joyful occasion was that given at the Ringheim home on Fifth and Termino streets, Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Jennie Ringheim entertained a group of fifteen outside friends, all from the town of Nevada, in Iowa. Mrs. W. H. Newman and Mrs. Charles Tessler, daughters of the hostess, assisted her in receiving. The home was a bower of floral beauty. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hoover presided at a dinner of excellent appointments given in honor of Miss Ruth Merrick of Medford, Or. The guests were people who, with the Hoovers, were members of a camping party in Oregon last year. The center of the table bore a huge basket of Shasta daisies.

Redondo Beach.

THE Wednesday Bridge Club was delightfully entertained this week at the home of Mrs. L. J. Perry on Pacific avenue and Garnet street. The rooms were prettily decorated with carnations and ferns and light refreshments were enjoyed after the game. The members present were Mrs. L. J. Perry, Mrs. P. C. Ridgely, Mrs. Ed Metzger, Mrs. J. C. Gillispie, Mrs. E. H Amet, Mrs. William de Garmo and Miss Annie Barrett

Mrs. Edward Coane of Pasadena was the complimented guest at a luncheon given by Mrs. Harry Brolaski, Thursday afternoon, at her home on the Esplanade. The rooms where the affair was held were profusely decorated with Shasta daisies and yellow nasturtiums, yellow and white being the color scheme. The guests who enjoyed the hospitality were Mrs. Edward Coane of Pasadena, Mrs. O. P. Brady, Mrs. M. B. Brolaski, Mrs. Al Protsch and Mrs. Marshall Craig of Redondo Beach.

A Five Hundred club was organized Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Wolfsberg on Garnet street. Mrs. Al Protsch was elected chairman, Mrs. Howell McCreary, president, and Mrs. Harry Brolaski, secretary and treasurer. After the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The members include Mesdames Chlorin, Marshall Craig, Howell McCreary, Ed Durlin, Al Protsch, Brooks Moffett, Harry Brolaski and R. Wolfsberg.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Brady and Mr. and Mrs. E. Pendleton were guests Tuesday evening at a dinner given by Mrs. Ed Duffy at her home in the Marshall Apartments. Cut flowers gracefully adorned the table and dining-room where the dinner was served.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Stickle of San Dimas are occupying the Albee home on the Esplanade for the summer with the hope that the change will be beneficial to the reverend, who is slowly recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. W. R. Albee and son, Merton, left the beach the first of the week to spend a short time with friends in Pasadena.

Dr. F. J. Tower and family of Pasadena have leased the Aumock home on West Guadalupe avenue for the season.

Hermosa Beach.

THE many friends of Miss Hilda Heindrich of this place were very much surprised to learn of her marriage to Edwin N. Husher of Redondo Beach, an employee of the Edison Company at that place. The young couple are very popular here and how they happened to elude the Argus eyes of their many friends as to the marriage is a mystery. But while Mr. Husher was on a two weeks' vacation they took the opportunity and quietly hied themselves away and were made one. A number of receptions are being arranged for the happy couple, who will reside in Redondo Beach.

John Summerville entertained a number of his near relatives this week. There were house parties, automobile rides, fishing and other enjoyments. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Thompson, Los Angeles; the Misses Edna and Lois Thompson, Mr. and Miss Rugg, Kansas City; Miss M. Miller, Berkeley; the Misses Ewing, Los Angeles; the Misses Rankin, El Monte; Capt. John Rankin, Dr. Rankin of Los Angeles and Harold Rankin of El Monte.

The Women's City Club on Thursday heard papers read by Mrs. Theo H. Haneman and Mrs. W. Andrews. The clubhouse was tastefully decorated for the occasion and after the short programme a light luncheon was served. The club will not meet again until next month, on the first Thursday.

Judge and Mrs. J. Hester of Pasadena are domiciled in their cottage on Manhattan avenue for the next ten days.

Mrs. O. P. Hart of The Needles has taken apartments at the "Heartsease" for the summer.

M. Marlin and family of Pasadena have rented the Collins cottage and will enjoy the cooling breezes here for the next two months.

S. Bradbury and family from Monrovia have leased the Parks cottage on Tenth street and Summit avenue and will remain here for the summer. They contemplate entertaining extensively.

Samuel Brown has engaged the Grannis cottage on Tenth street for the summer. The family will arrive here the first of the week.

Among the Monrovians here for a visit are Mrs. L. W. Wheeler and children, Mrs. O. A. Bryant and children, Mrs. M. V. Guest and children, Mrs. W. Pottinger and daughter and Miss A. Kate Collins.

East Newport.

JUDGE AND MRS. B. F. BLEDSOE of San Bernardino have been entertaining a number of San Bernardino friends at their home on Montero avenue. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Norman, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Duckworth. The members of the party were all guests of Mrs. Lyman King one afternoon during their stay for tea.

Mrs. Susan V. Gibbs and daughter, Miss Edith Gibbs, and niece, Miss Ruth Morris, have returned to Los Angeles after occupying their home on Surf avenue for the past week.

Prof. and Mrs. J. C. Cook and little daughter are here from Los Angeles to spend the month of July in their summer home on Lindo avenue.

Covina.

A CHURCH wedding with distinctive features was solemnized on Wednesday evening in First Methodist Church, when Miss Sylvia Johnstone, daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Paige, was married to John D. Bixby, son of J. D. Bixby of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. J. McConnell, with friends present from Covina, Pasadena, Pomona and other Southern California points. The wedding march was played by Miss Phoebe Bowler, and vocal solos, consisting of "Oh, Promise Me," and "Beloved, It Is Morn," were sung by Richard Draper.

The bridesmaid was Miss Rachel Atkinson of Pasadena, and the best man was Waldo Bemis of Covina. The bride was gowned in a costume of ivory-white charmeuse, trimmed with fancy Princess lace, and wore a veil of white tulle, carrying a bouquet of white Frau Carl Drusky roses. The bridesmaid wore pale pink chiffon over pale pink messaline and carried pink Madame Chatenay roses. Miss Mildred Bleeker, maid of honor, wore white silk voile with a sash of pale pink. Mr. and Mrs. Bixby will be at home in August at a residence they have taken on South Third street.

Buena Park.

MRS. GEORGE DURGAN entertained the members of the Ladies' Mutual Aid Society in a delightful manner at her charming country home on Wednesday afternoon. After the regular business of the society had been transacted an hour was devoted to music and readings, to be followed by a prettily-appointed collation. The prevailing color note was lavender and green, a profusion of lavender blossoms intermingled with feathery fern having been used in decorating the rooms. Cleverly-etched place cards with harmonizing tints marked covers for the guests.

The Parent-Teacher Association met on Friday evening, at which time Miss Harriet Eddy, a prominent educationalist, was the guest of honor. A number were present from out of town. Miss Eddy gave a pleasing address, after which a dainty luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bennett have returned from an extended wedding tour and are the recipients of hearty congratulations. Their marriage early in the season was one of the happy surprises and Mrs. Bennett will be welcomed in the social circles as a charming addition.

Anaheim.

ONE of the season's prettiest weddings was that of Miss Clara Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson of this city, and George Peterson, which occurred at the home of the bride's parents Saturday morning. A profusion of pale pink blossoms, intermingled with fern, was employed in decorating the spacious living-room, where the ceremony was performed. An elaborate breakfast was served at the conclusion of a short reception. Later Mr. and Mrs. Peterson left on a wedding tour that will include the popular beach cities and they will be at home to their many friends in Anaheim after the first of August.

A delightful surprise of the week was the announcement of the marriage of Miss Joanne Segelhorst of Olinda and Alfred Heying of this city, which took place at St. Vibiana's Cathedral in Los Angeles. Attired in a tailored suit and carrying a shower bouquet of bride roses and ferns, the bride, who is a strikingly beautiful blonde, presented a picture of rare beauty. Later the young couple left for an extended trip, which will terminate late in August, when they will return to Anaheim, where Mr. Heying is a popular druggist.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolfe Rimpau entertained with a beautifully-appointed dinner at their charming home on East Center street Sunday. Long-stemmed roses and ferns were used in decorating the stately rooms, while in the dining-room, where covers were laid for eighteen, fragrant masses of sweet peas prevailed. Mrs. Rimpau was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Edward L. Olmstead.

Complimentary to Miss Marie Finney, whose engagement to Roger C. Dutton was recently announced, Miss Mary Grim entertained with a kitchen shower Tuesday afternoon. Golden-hued blossoms tastefully arranged transformed the delightful home into a maze of gold and green for the occasion. The wedding will take place during the early autumn months and will be one of the most brilliant of the season. Miss Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Finney of this city, possesses beauty, charming personality and the love and esteem of a wide circle of friends in Anaheim. Mr. Dutton is a popular young attorney here and they will be the recipients of many social favors during the summer.

Members of the East Side Thimble Club assembled at the charming country home of Mrs. Paulus Wednesday afternoon. After a pleasnt time, devoted to dainty needlework, the guests were served with a delightful collation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Duckworth returned during the week from an extended eastern tour. They will be the complimented guests at several social functions in the near future.

Duarte.

ONE of the most picturesque and thoroughly enjoyable fetes of the season was given at the beautiful foothill home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spinks Tuesday between 4 and 10 o'clock. The setting for a garden party was ideal and the brilliant moonlit scene was an altogether charming one, with the gay galaxy of guests who were graciously received by Mrs. Spinks and her assisting coterie of friends. The fine trees of the grounds offered sheltering nooks for tete-a-tete visiting, and the flower-bordered parks delighted the guests who came from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Monrovia and other neighboring cities. Between 6 and 7 o'clock an al fresco supper was served, and during the afternoon and evening the Hawaiian Orchestra discoursed vocal and orchestral music. The lovely outdoor dancing pavilion was the favorite resort of the younger set, throughout the evening hours. The pavilion was prettily decorated and lighted and refreshment tables near by were presided over by assisting matrons.

Guy Dickey, whose parents left recently for their new home in Riverside, and who followed them on Tuesday, was tendered a jolly farewell party Monday evening by the younger set at the home of Mrs. Mary Hoagland on Fallingleaf avenue. Thirty young ladies and gentlemen gathered to have a share in the games and contests that provided the evening to repletion with fun and frolics. Much regret was expressed over Mr. Dickey's leave-taking.

Among those who are spending vacation days at Santa Monica are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Young and family, and Mrs. A. J. Maddock and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine motored to Long Beach for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Beardslee and children spent the Fourth of July with Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee, returning to their San Bernardino home Sunday.

Mrs. Eugene Howard and two children of Highland are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee were the host and hostess of the Duarte Five Hundred Club Thursday evening at their pleasant home on Buena Vista avenue. Summer's rich offering of garden blossoms were used in the decoration of the living-room where the guests spent a happy evening over the cards followed by a collation.

The July reception tendered the ladies of the Methodist Church and their friends Friday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock by Mrs. Steinkey on Mountain View avenue was an enjoyable affair, which was attended by about forty ladies. Needlework, music and serving of 4 o'clock tea were the attractive features of the afternoon.

Among those who entertained with patriotic parties on the great Independence Day were Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, who entertained a number of friends at their new home, and Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Milliken, who had as their guests a group of eastern friends who are living in Southern California.

The Duarte Reading Circle is one of the few organizations which continues its always delightful meetings throughout the summer, and on Tuesday two new members were elected to fill the only vacancies in the limited membership. The ladies elected were Mrs. Carrol Fowler and Mrs. Cook. The hostess on Tuesday was Mrs. John Badgley, who extended delightful hospitality to the thirty-five members. The readings of the afternoon were contributed by Mrs. C. H. Sarwine and were selected from "The Making Over of Martha." Needlework and the concluding social hour with afternoon tea were the other features of the pleasant programme

Among the festivities that characterized the celebrtaion of the glorious Fourth was a notable family picnic which was enjoyed by the Blain clan in Bradbury Canyon. Just one less than two-score members of the Blain family who live in this vicinity were present, and the thirty-nine participants had a splendid Fourth of July celebration. After the noonday repast the time was spent in reminiscence by the elders, while the children enjoyed games and frolics and mountain climbing.

San Dimas.

WEDNESDAY of last week the M. H. White and Frank D. Miller families went into camp in Live Oak Canyon. On the Fourth they were joined by a jolly party of thirty-four friends, who entered into full enjoyment of a day in the woods and a picnic dinner.

Thursday evening the last of this season's meetings of the Good Time Club was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shields.

The Enewah Club met on Wednesday in San Dimas Canyon. Five Hundred was played and a jolly time enjoyed amid the wilds of nature. Refreshments were served.

Miss Margaret Sharpe of Los Angeles, a former schoolmate of Miss Margaret Kepner, was a guest at the Kepner home last week. Friday afternoon a bevy of young ladies met there and enjoyed a social time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler, G. W. Hosford and family, with the C. W. Hightower family and house guests, the Misses Clanton, spent the Fourth at the beautiful picnic grounds on the Highland home ranch. "Dewdrop Inn," in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Spicer was most appropriately decorated and the guests certainly enjoyed the hearty welcome extended. The long table fairly groaned under the burden of good things to eat and the picnickers were unanimous in the decision that this was the best ever of the many happy gatherings at that place.

Mrs. J. S. Billheimer entertained the members of the State board of the Christian Women's Board of Missions at a four-course luncheon Wednesday. The decorations were pink roses, Shasta daisies and fern. The following guests were present to enjoy the day: Mrs. Annie Paul Cason of Pomona, Mrs. Nettie Poor and Mrs. John Hall of Long Beach, Mrs. Annie Lohinger of Santa Monica, Mrs. G. M. Anderson of Whittier, Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Mrs. L. G. Thompson, Mrs. Reeta Geedy, Mrs. S. J. Chapman and Miss Thompson of Los Angeles.

Hourly Bargains at Eilers

I Am Determined to Sell a Piano Every Hour Tomorrow

To accomplish this I have cut still deeper into the low prices that I have heretofore offered on the largest, finest, highest grade stock of Pianos and Player Pianos in California. It is not necessary to have all cash to take advantage of these wonderful offers. In fact, we have reduced terms to suit every man, woman and child. Bring $5.00 and secure a good piano; bring $25.00 and secure one of the finest pianos in the world. In addition to the regular bargains in new and slightly used pianos we are offering these special hour bargains:

WHOEVER IS HERE AT 8 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING will have a chance to buy a brand new upright piano, seven and one-third octaves, for which small dealers are compelled to ask $275.00, at the unbelievable price of $135.00, stool to match free.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT 9 O'CLOCK TOMORROW MORNING will have a chance to buy a brand new 88-note Player; first-class in every respect, and one which other dealers are compelled to ask $650.00 for, at the unheard-of price of $285.00, which includes free bench and music roll.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT 10 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING will have a chance to buy a beautiful brand new seven and a third octave Upright Piano in mottled mahogany, walnut or oak case. Continuous nickel hinges, three pedals, automatic fall board and music desk, fully guaranteed, for which other dealers are compelled to ask $350.00—our closing out sale price $167.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK will have an opportunity to buy a brand new high-grade mahogany case Baby Grand Piano, full scale, wonderful deep tone so characteristic of baby grands; in short, a thoroughly high-grade Grand that will sell by other dealers for $750.00—our closing sale price $340.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT TWELVE O'CLOCK TOMORROW will have an opportunity to secure a genuine Weber Pianola, which has been used slightly for demonstration purposes only, in every way as perfect as new; your choice of Circassian Walnut or Satin Finish Mahogany, which sells the world over for $1125.00. These are superb instruments, fit to grace the finest homes in Los Angeles, and can be purchased at a tremendous saving—our closing out sale price $485.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT ONE O'CLOCK will have the opportunity of purchasing a brand new 88-note Player Piano, thoroughly guaranteed by the manufacturers for ten years, as well as Eilers famous money-back guarantee; a player piano that other dealers are compelled to ask $750.00 for—our closing out price, including free bench and music rolls, $345.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT TWO O'CLOCK will have a chance to buy a genuine Knabe-Angelus, regular $1000 value, which has been used very slightly for demonstration purposes only, in beautiful San Domingo mahogany finish, a really artistic piano combined with one of the greatest players of the age, a credit to any man's home, and fit for the finest musician—our closing out sale price, including free bench and music roll, $435.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT THREE O'CLOCK will have the opportunity of securing one of the most artistic, handsomely designed, true tone, Parlor Grands ever exhibited on the Pacific Coast. This is in the true Mission finish, Stickley designed throughout, and aside from being a wonderful case creation is superb in depth and a richness of tone that will appeal to all true lovers of music. This Grand piano has been sold the country over for $1250.00, and is worth it. Monday at 3 o'clock this beautiful Grand piano will be reduced $500.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT FOUR O'CLOCK will have a chance to buy a genuine Steinway Upright Piano, used, but in perfect condition, a piano that retails on the Pacific Coast for $550.00. Eilers great closing out sale price $165.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT FIVE O'CLOCK will have a chance to buy a genuine Weber Upright Piano, in beautifully grained mahogany case, a piano that has been used very slightly for demonstrating purposes, in every way like new, a regular $550.00 value. Eilers great closing out sale price, $265.00.

WHOEVER IS HERE AT SIX O'CLOCK will have a chance to buy one of the highest grade Player Pianos on the market today. A piano of true musical merit, one which will fulfill the requirements of the most particular and discriminating musician, combined with a truly wonderful artistic player. One which will answer your every mood and whim in expression and in the intelligent reproduction of your favorite selections. This Player Piano has never been offered for less than $850.00. Eilers great closing out sale price, at 6 o'clock tomorrow only, $425.00, including free bench and music rolls.

Don't overlook Eilers Great Hour Sale. Come early to secure your favorite bargain and remember cash is not necessary.

SOCIETY.

Corona.

ONE of the most enjoyable social affairs to be given this summer was the luncheon given to Miss Catherine Scoville by her mother, Mrs. Charles M. Scoville, at their beautiful country home Friday noon. The rooms were artistically decorated in yellow and white. During the afternoon games were enjoyed as well as vocal and instrumental music. The invited guests were the following young ladies: Misses Catherine Vedder of Texas, Genevieve Dean of Los Angeles, Fanny and Vivian Ryan, Katherine Sias, Ethel Somerville, Helen Holt, Ethelyn Hampton, Dorothy Tuthill, Hetty Jameson, Jessie Hunt, Irene Scoville and Miss Catherine Scoville. Mrs. A. B. Tuthill and Mrs. C. M. Scoville were present as chaperons.

To show in some measure their appreciation of the excellent work done while a member of the Women's Improvement Club the members of the board of directors and the members of this year's board of directors gave a delightful 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday in honor of Mrs. O. C. McNary at the home of Mrs. L. L. Andrews. The luncheon was perfect in all its appointments and proved a very delightful affair.

The members of the Corona Country Club are to be royally entertained Monday evening at the club's home. The affair is in charge of a committee composed of the following ladies and its success is already assured: Mrs. Fred E. Snidecor, Mrs. Frank B. Miller, Mrs. George R. Freeman and Miss Elizabeth Andrews.

D. M. Browning and daughter, Miss Erma, of Long Beach, former residents of this city, were visiting friends here this week. Miss Ruth McNeil entertained Miss Browning at her home Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Byrkit, assistant city librarian at the Public Library left Wednesday morning for Los Angeles where she will visit friends and relatives for several days. She was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Gertrude Byrkit, who will visit her father in Glendale.

George E. Snidecor, Mrs. Overhalser, Master John Snidecor, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Snidecor, Misses Elizabeth Rudesill and Elizabeth Andrews, Frank Harlow and R. L. Willits formed a merry party that spent a few days the first of the week camping out in Dark Canyon and Idyllwild in the San Bernardino Mountains. The party made the trip in autos.

Miss Carolyn Frankum left Tuesday morning for Los Angeles where she will visit a few days before leaving on the steamer Governor for Seattle, where she plans to spend the rest of the summer.

Mrs. Samuel Baxter left on Tuesday for San Francisco for a visit with friends in the northern city. She made the trip by boat. Mrs. Baxter expects to remain for several weeks.

Mrs. Olivia Barber left yesterday for Montreal from which place she will sail for England to spend several months visiting friends and relatives in Liverpool and other cities.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Myren and children of Los Angeles are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Myren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Bert, on East Sixth street. For a few days this week the two families enjoyed an outing at Frazier's camping grounds, north of Corona.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Key are entertaining Mrs. Charles A. Vedder, a sister of Mrs. Key, and daughter, Miss Catherine Vedder, who arrived in Corona the first of the week from home in Galveston, Tex., to spend the summer.

Clifton-by-the-Sea.

THE Sunshine Society of Venice was the guest of Mrs. E. S. Hill at the pretty Country Club Thursday afternoon. The guests arrived in the morning via the Pacific Electric in a special train, and disembarked right at th eclubhouse. The reception-rooms and parlors were decorated for the occasion with roses, geraniums and greenery. Dr. Campbell of the Campbell-Beatty Company, addressed the society and extended them a warm welcome to Clifton-by-the-Sea, incidentally complimenting the club upon the good work it was doing for humanity. After an auto ride showing the pleasant environments, luncheon was served in the large dining-room, the tables being decorated artistically with flowers and ferns. Mrs. Hill was a most charming hostess and the luncheon, while informal, was heartily enjoyed.

During the luncheon the president read a letter from the Chamber of Commerce of Venice congratulating them for the work done as well as for the winning of the first prize for the best decorated automobile in the parade on the Fourth. After luncheon the afternoon was spent in various ways, such as social chat and discussions as to ways and means to carry on their work.

Those present were Mrs. J. M. White, president; Mrs. J. D. Blanchard, first vice-president; Mrs. Harry S. Mason, second vice-president; Mmes. Paul M. White, William Richardson, J. F. Trauter, A. C. Schaub, C. H. Ritchie, Harry S. Mason, Laura Bryant, M. P. James, H. A. Issard, Maud Alison, H Clark, H. A. Morton, Elizabeth Adams, Effie C. Webster, A. C. Keady, Josie L. Harrod, Amos Graffeur, Linda M. Bell, J. D. Blanchard, F. F. Ward, R. Z. Gill, Berdella Evant, Miss Geraldine Jennings, Miss Marjorie Bell and Mrs. E. S. Hill.

Azusa.

MRS. W. J. Evans entertained the Stitch and Chat Club very delightfully at her pretty home Wednesday afternoon. The ladies were given cosy seats on the lawn, where they stitched and chatted, passing a pleasant social time. Guests of the club for the day were Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Mills.

The Comrades Class of the Methodist Church, numbering in all about sixty, celebrated a sane Fourth in Mr. Greenors's grove. A bounteous dinner was served at noon, after recovering from which many games were played and a general good time was enjoyed.

Mrs. W. A. Davis entertained the afternoon Bridge Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on San Gabriel avenue. Mrs. Davis made every effort to give the ladies a pleasant time, in which she certainly succeeded. Guests of the club for the afternoon were Mrs. Julien C. Wright of Alosta avenue, and Mrs. F. C. Ritley of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lindley and Mrs. Dr. Hill gave quite a pleasant whist party Monday evening at the Woman's Club House, for the purpose of preparing the club grounds. On account of the warm weather there was not as big a crowd as had been expected, though the evening was passed quite delightfully.

Mrs. F. L. Dingman attended the all-day executive meeting of the W.C.T.U. at the W.C.T.U. Temple in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Miss Rachel Atkinson came up from Long Beach Wednesday to attend the Covina wedding and returned Thursday.

Laurel Canyon.

THE Laurel Five Hundred Club was most delightfully entertained on Thursday by Mrs. Foster M. Price at her artistic home, "The Sycamore." The house was beautifully decorated with Tiger lilies—one of the many beautiful wild flowers of which the canyon boasts—and the dainty luncheon was served from small tables in the dining-room and on the spacious balcony porch. At a business session the resignations of Mrs. F. M. Rublee, Jr., and Mrs. M. H. Boehner were accepted with regrets, and Mrs. J. W. Park and Mrs. J. M. Pomeroy were elected to fill the vacancies. The prizes for the afternoon were won by Mrs. K. V. Redpath and Mrs. Gerald Tully.

Miss Virginia Baldwin was a house guest for the week of Miss Virginia Platt, and a large party of young folks motored out from the city to be their guests at the club dance July 3.

The monthly dance of the Mountaineers' Club was a most enjoyable affair, as several special parties were arranged for the evening. Miss Charlotte Tully and Miss Gene Webster had quite a party up from Hollywood, the young folks enjoying a midnight supper at the home of Miss Tully. Miss Celeste Withers also entertained a jolly crowd from Los Angeles.

Mrs. R. D. Vercler gave her husband a pleasant surprise on his birthday by entertaining the members of the Monday Night Card Club at a 6 o'clock dinner. Those enjoying the affair were Messrs. and Mmes. K. V. Redpath, F. J. Ephlin, D. M. Small, F. M. Rublee, Jr., and E. C. Comer of Hollywood. Mrs. Vercler was assisted by the Misses Ethel and Florence Redpath and Phillis Ephlin.

Mrs. Charles F. Norton, the newly-elected president of the Laurel Canyon Women's Club, entertained her board at an afternoon chocolate, and plans for next year's work were discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. O'Herron and mother, Mrs. Hines, and Mrs. Guy D. Sisson were guests of W. H. Ferris and mother at their canyon home over the Fourth.

Pomona.

Miss Hazel Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Reed, of No. 208 West Sixth street, was married on Monday evening in the garden of her parents' home to William Blakemore, Rev. T. T. Creswell officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Mattie Limbesty of San Bernardino and the groom by Robert McMasters of Los Angeles. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served and then Mr. and Mrs. Blakemore left for their new home, No. 1456 Milford street, Glendale, where they will be at home to their friends after August 1. Mr. Blakemore is a manual arts instructor in the Los Angeles schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Dewey left on Friday for a vacation trip to Lake Tahoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil P. Steffa have returned from Coachella to their home here for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Avis and Mrs. H. P. Wilkinson will arrive in New York on Monday from their trip around the world. They left Pomona on January 26.

Miss Effa Kelly left on Monday for the Yosemite Valley and will go from there to Agassiz, B. C., for the rest of the summer, returning here in time for the opening of the public schools.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hoffmaster and daughters are enjoying an outing at little Camp Baldy for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Evans and son and Mrs. A. T. Combe of St. Joseph, Mo., passed part of the week at Catalina.

C. N. Wallace and son, William Wallace, left on Thursday for a trip to Seattle, Wash.

Miss Sadie Lewis, librarian, of Corvallis, Or., is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. B. Chaffey Shepherd.

Miss Marjorie Androus of East Third street has been entertaining her friend, Miss Evelyn Loop, of Los Angeles, the past week.

Mrs. E. M. Washburn and Miss Stella Washburn left on Tuesday for a three months' trip to Chicago.

Mrs. J. M. Mitchell of East Holt avenue returned on Monday from a vacation trip to Yosemite.

Rev. Percival Smith and wife left on Wednesday for a summer vacation at Newport Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Thomas are passing a week in San Francisco.

Mrs. May C. West returned to her Long Beach summer home on Wednesday, after visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Zilles.

The engagement of Miss Etta L. Slanker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Slanker, to Fred W. Ryan of Claremont, was announced at a birthday surprise and "shower" given partly at Ganesha Park and partly at the home of the prospective bride's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Clark, on Kenoak drive, on Monday evening. Supper was served under the shade of the park trees and then the party adjourned to the Clark home, where much merriment was caused by the introduction of a clothes basket full of gifts to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

Mrs. J. G. Boake of No. 533 West Center street, and her mother, Mrs. P. Magnes, left on Tuesday for a visit with relatives in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Mrs. Sylvia Powers accompanied them as far as Kansas City, where she will visit friends.

Mrs. J. Ransome Casey and son and Mrs. George Hill went to Catalina on Wednesday to be guests at the summer home of Mrs. W. L. Wright.

Rev. Paul M. McReynolds, who has been minister of the First Unitarian Church for four years, has tendered his resignation, to take effect September 1, and he will pursue advanced university study.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Mary Oathout and Donald K. Dike of Northfield, Minn., on July 18 in the late afternoon at the home of the prospective bride's mother, Mrs. M. Oathout, No. 209 East Jefferson street. Miss Oathout has been teaching school at Laton, Cal., and Mr. Dike has a farm in Minnesota, where he will take his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Jacobs of No. 825 Randolph street, Ganesha Park tract, have left for Denver, where they will pass the summer.

Mrs. J. F. Hicks of No. 915 South White avenue entertained a number of young girls at a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Frances Hicks, who was 13 years old on Monday.

The members of the "Merry Wives" Club enjoyed a pergola party at Ganesha Park on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. May, who recently returned from their honeymoon, received about thirty of their friends at their home, No. 686 North Park avenue, on Tuesday evening.

The newly-formed Ladies' Orchestra, of which J. H. Hopkins is the leader, gave an enjoyable concert at Ganesha Park on Friday evening. Mrs. E. T. Burditt was the vocal soloist. The orchestra is composed of some of the best young women musicians of Pomona, San Dimas and Lordsburg.

Oxnard.

A PICNIC and barbecue were enjoyed at the S. L. Gisler ranch, east of here, July 4. Tables were set on the large porches surrounding the house, and a menu replete with warm-weather dainties and barbecue meats was served. Dancing, games, egg races and other sports occupied the afternoon. The guests numbered about forty, and came from Ventura, Oxnard and other towns in the county; also Mr. and Mrs. Wright Daily and daughters of Los Angeles, and Miss Delia and Walter Gisler of Santa Ana.

Santa Cruz Island was chosen for a two weeks' camping trip by a merry party of Oxnarders, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. McCandlish. They returned this week.

Miss Grace Grubb entertained Tuesday evening with a beach party and wienie roast. About eighteen guests enjoyed an evening of games, stories and refreshments. Out-of-town guests were Misses Nellie and Ruth Daily and Miss Bess Olsen of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Meechum of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Fitzpatrick have returned to their country home after a winter spent in Vienna with their daughter, the Countess Hans von Larisch, and other relatives, including the Duchess of Westminster and the Princess of Plesse, Mr. Fitzpatrick's nieces.

Mrs. Homer Markwell and Mrs. B. F. Pitts entertained at Five Hundred Thursday afternoon on Hueneme beach. Tables were placed in the palmhouse on the beach. Refreshments and score cards suggestive of the Fourth of July were used, and the affair was both unique and enjoyable. Dainty prizes were won at the game of the afternoon by Mrs. F. H. Walker and Mrs. S. Rummelsburg.

Max Liberman was guest of honor at a reception given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Abrams of San Francisco, the occasion being the announcement of his engagement to their daughter, Miss Lena Abrams, a popular debutante of the bay city and of Hayward.

Tapo ranch, the Gillibrand country home, was the scene of an enjoyable chicken dinner July 4, the guests being principally from Oxnard and Santa Susana. Tables were set under the heavy shade trees on the ranch.

Miss Florence Taylor and guest, Miss Estelle Taggart of Los Angeles, were week-end visitors at the home of Miss Georgiana Stephenson in Nordhoff.

Mrs. George P. Austin and Mrs. Evelyn Scarlett Boyden were hostesses at a delightful afternoon party Tuesday at their cottage, "Park View," Wheeler's Springs. Auction bridge was played.

Miss Gertrude Cohn entertained ten young ladies Wednesday for her cousin, Miss Dagmar Cohn of San Francisco. Following the playing of the game of the afternoon, Five Hundred, an informal musical programme was enjoyed, with tea and dainty refreshments.

Members of the Priscilla Embroidery Club were entertained Tuesday in the Casitas by Mrs. Earl Hart. An elaborate dinner was served under the trees, and jolly games made the afternoon pass quickly.

Santa Paula.

MRS. CARLYLE THORPE of Los Angeles, house guest of Mrs. M. N. Shedenhelm, was entertained by her hostess at a dainty affair given with members of the Friday Embroidery Club as guests, Mrs. Thorpe having been a member of that club during her residence here. Roses were tastefully used in the decorations. Ten guests were present.

Mrs. D. A. Webster entertained at dinner Monday evening for her son Millard, the occasion being his seventeenth birthday. The table was beautifully decorated with pansies. Covers were laid for six.

A delightful social afternoon was spent by members of the Friday Reading Club on the Butcher ranch, with Mrs. M. H. Butcher as hostess. An enjoyable feature was an inspection of the spacious new country home now under construction on the ranch.

The lawn of the C. C. Teague home was the scene of a neighborhood picnic July 4, which was a most enjoyable occasion. About twenty-five guests ate dinner under the trees, and an afternoon's good time followed.

The Current Events Club and a number of guests spent a social day at Mill Park Friday, when a picnic dinner was served and an interesting programme given.

Mrs. William McKinley of Long Beach and Mrs. Roy Crumrine and daughter Pauline of Whittier were week-end guests at the H. R. Crumrine home in Santa Paula Canyon.

Orange.

ATTRACTIVELY decorated with pink roses and Shasta daisies, the home of Mrs. C. C. Youngs was attuned to the note of hospitality recently, when Mrs. Youngs and Mrs. H. Lucy were assisting ladies to Mrs. A. H. Small in entertaining the degree staff and others who have assisted Mrs. Small in her duties as Noble Grand of the local Rebekahs. After a series of entertaining pastimes, which included a mock track meet, the guests were served with rare refreshments, small tables being placed for their convenience. Those in the company were Messrs. and Mmes. R. F. Dreyer, C. J. Porter, William Varcoe, William D. Peterkin, G. W. Christensen, S. A. Vernoy, W. C. Waechter, C. A. Palmer, D. P. Crawford, C. C. Youngs, Mmes. E. T. Lee, J. S. Zuckerman, C. T. Tompkins, H. A. Brown, Mable Kressen, B. Heitschusen, N. Frankforther, L. B. Gitchell, A. H. Small, H. Lucy, Ed Barber, H. Z. Adams, and Misses Carrie Bowen and Anna Heitschusen.

Following the late commencement of the Orange High School, the annual banquet of the alumni was held in the High School building with a large attendance. The event was really a brilliant one and was participated in by representatives from almost every class that has been given diplomas from this school. Miss Vera Johnson, '13, was toastmistress and welcomed the alumni, Herbert Bierwagon, 1914 student-body president, responding. M. M. Fishback responded to a toast to the faculty, and Miss Florence Flippen, vice-president of Occidental College student body, talked on "High School and College." The class of 1914 rendered a school song; Mrs. A. Walter Kogler sang "Spring," and Miss Ruth Benson gave a piano number. Officers of the alumni were chosen as follows: Earl Campbell, '07, president; Mrs. Owen Murray, '09, vice-president; Miss May Paterkin, '11, secretary and treasurer; Executive Committee, Mrs. E. B. Peers, Miss Vida Morrison, '14, and Glen Shoemaker, '12. A dancing party followed the banquet.

Tustin.

TUSTIN society looked forward with much interest to the arrival here of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips, recently wedded in the Church of the Angels at Garvanza with Miss Ray Bond as the lovely bride. They spent the week here with Mrs. M. E. Phillips at her beautiful home, where the groom has resided for many years with his mother and his charming sister, Miss Ethel Phillips. Mr. Phillips, who is a prominent member of the Santa Ana Polytechnic School faculty, has indeed spent much of his life here, and it was in Tustin that he became the protege of the great dramatic actress, Mme. Helena Modjeska, who spent some of her most happy years here. During her famous last tour of the United States, Mme. Modjeska had Mr. Phillips as a member of her company, bestowing on him her close personal friendship. His dramatic talent has often been placed at the disposal of his Tustin friends, and his bride was warmly welcomed here. It is with regret that Tustin learned of the decision of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips to reside in Santa Ana on their return from a tour in the North which they are now taking.

The beautiful grounds of the Charles Eels home on Newport road were the most alluring attraction to the Berean ladies of the First Presbyterian Church when they were recently entertained by Mrs. Eels. Marvelous roses and other lovely flowers make this almost a show place. The rooms of the pleasant residence were also gay with flowers, splendid Mamam Cochet roses being aided by the more humble geraniums in developing a color scheme of pink. A brief business period, during which plans were perfected for an early autumn picnic, soon gave place to a most enjoyable social hour, during which frozen delicacies were served with cake, the hostess presiding. The guests included Mmes. S. Earl Tingley, George Pollard, L. A. Cook, C. E. Utt, C. P. Marshall, E. Elofson, Effie Slusser, Sarah E. Moores, John Dryer, W. L. Leihy, and Miss Carolyn Bentley. Mrs. Chamberlain of Santa Rosa was a guest of the club.

Glendora.

THE first wedding to take place in the newly-dedicated First Methodist Episcopal Church of Glendora occurred last night, when Miss Margaret Fenton, eldest daughter of Mrs. Margaret Fenton, became the bride of Darrow H. Sellers, a prominent young business man of this city.

At 8 o'clock Mrs. Grace Wentworth Whitehorn sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." Then the sounds of the Lohengrin bridal march signaled the bridal party of six young girls carrying a daisy chain and singing the lines of the bridal chorus. The young ladies were followed by two flower girls, little Miss Barbara Wentworth and Maurine Lowell, preceding the bride. The groom, unattended, awaited the bride at the altar.

The bride was gowned in a handsome white satin bridal robe and wore a bridal veil of tulle decorated with lily of the valley. The shower bouquet was of Cecile Brunner and lily of the valley.

The couple will be at home to their friends at their home on the boulevard after July 30.

Upland.

MRS. C. M. SIKES acted as hostess to the Merry Wives Embroidery Club on Friday afternoon of this week. The members were entertained on the lawn and refreshments were served to the guests appropriate to the season, after the time was passed away happily in working on fancy work. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Sikes's hospitality were Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. W. C. Cline, Mrs. J. M. Collins, Mrs. Paul Cushing, Mrs. D. D. Crew, Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Mrs. George Gregg, Mrs. Perry Long, Mrs. E. B. Reynolds, Mrs. W. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Walter Slugg and Mrs. Fred Wing.

The pupils of the Sunday-school classes belonging to Miss Laura Rice and Miss Mary Tweed, in company with their teachers and the Rev. R. C. Stone, climbed Old Baldy Thursday and Friday of this week. A delightful time was had. These same classes enjoyed a "weinie bake" at the home of Miss Rice on Nineteenth street Tuesday night, the boys entertaining their girl friends of the same classes.

The last meeting of the summer of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday afternoon at the church parlors. Fruitade and wafers were served to those attending.

Claremont.

MRS. JAMES A. BLAISDELL and small daughter, Barbara, left for Oakland last week to join President Blaisdell and son Allan, who is taking the summer school course at Berkeley. President Blaisdell is occupying a pulpit in Oakland for the month of July.

A charming farewell breakfast in honor of Mrs. H. D. Roe was given by Mrs. J. D. Johnson and Mrs. Rose Bradley at the home of the latter Tuesday. Mrs. Roe and her daughters, Margaret and Katherine, left the same day for New Jersey, where they expect to spend some time with relatives and friends. The prevailing color scheme of the breakfast was yellow, carried out with lovely pansies. After an enjoyable social hour, the guest of honor took away with her several letters to be read en route. The other guests were Mmes. J. B. Anderson, W. N. Beach, Charles Boynham, R. D. Chisholm, R. A. Carpenter, Howard Gur, L. M. Hudson, H. B. Harwood, A. B. Joy, J. D. Johnson, E. E. Jones, C. R. May, J. H. McConnell, W. D. McConnell, L. A. Koch, Fred Lewis, F. F. Palmer, Amy Bradley, Walter Stoll, A. L. Sturges, C. C Johnson and S. E. Storer.

Mrs. R. D. Russell and Miss Gail Russell have returned to Claremont for the summer from Sonora, where Miss Russell has been engaged in the domestic science department of the High School.

Mrs. Thomas Swick entertained quite a number of guests over the Fourth and Sunday. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Gaul and baby of Long Beach, Inda Dillingham of Long Beach, Range Ezell, Joe Ezell, Stanley Bushnell of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. William Kent of Charter Oak.

The Five Hundred Club met for a delightful evening at cards with Mrs. Howard Gur at her home on College avenue. The guests of the evening were Mmes. and Messrs. J. B. Anderson, W. N. Beach, R. D. Chisholm, L. M. Hudson, Fred Lewis, J. D. Johnson, J. H. McConnell, Walter Stoll and S. E. Storer.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Duvall and daughter, Florence, with her guest, Elsie Bell, motored to San Diego Wednesday to spend two weeks at Coronado.

Mrs. C. I. Lorbeer was complimented Tuesday by a very agreeable surprise party planned for her by the Berean Bible class, of which she is a member. The affair was something in the nature of a farewell party as well, as Mrs. Lorbeer and her family contemplate moving to Berkeley in the latter part of the summer. The guests met at the home of Mrs. Curtiss and from there went in a body to Mrs. Lorbeer's home and completely surprised her. Mrs. Helen Renwick read a letter from John R. Motts, telling of his expected tour of the Orient during the coming fall and winter. The guests later adjourned to the dining-room, where the delicious refreshments were served cafeteria style. The members of the Bible class present were Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Brackett, Mmes. John E. Utt, L. N. Pierce, Anna Clark, Mary Lyman, W. S. Humphrey, Calhoun, Mabon, A. D. Thorburn, Grove, Phelps, Pollock, R. A. Carpenter, Pease, Roth, Burnell, Tracy, A. G. Daniels and Miss McCord.

Mrs. J. B. Anderson entertained the Afternoon Five Hundred Club at her home Thursday. A pleasant time was spent by the guests, who included Mmes. L. A. Koch, Walter Stoll, J. R. Bradley, Amy Bradley, R. D. Chisholm, L. M. Hudson, Fred Lewis and S. E. Storer.

Miss Lillian Street gave a most enjoyable slumber party to a number of girl friends Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Mabel Allen's birthday. The guests were invited to a birthday supper first, which proved to be very delightful. The guests included Misses Mabell and Ethel Allen, Margaret Spayth, Gladys Hoskins, Ruth Neely, Grace Ingham and Helen Powell.

La Habra.

MRS. L. J. WESTER was hostess for the La Habra Embroidery Club last Tuesday afternoon. Those present were Mmes. E. L. Leuhm, Ralph Glazier, Clarence Glazier, C. L. McGill, F. R. Aldrich, Graham Koenig, V. C. Charleston, Emory de Gray, R. Frantz, Margaret Gates, W. C. Stanford and Cope, and Misses Wanda Davis, Maribell York and Marie Schnieder. The time was taken with all kinds of needlework. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. F. E. Proud and Mrs. W. L. York returned the first of the week from San Juan Hot Springs, much improved in health.

A. Fadder left Thursday morning for South Dakota. He will stop off at Idaho Falls to visit his son, Charles Fadder. From there he will go to Wentworth, S. D., to visit his son, C. T. Fadder, and Sight-seers Hoaxed.

Some 3000 people were attracted to Irvine Harbor to witness the departure of a shipyard worker in a sixteen-foot open boat in an attempt to cross the Atlantic. At the time announced for his departure there were no signs either of him or his craft, and all inquiries failed to discover his whereabouts. Among the crowd were many camera man, some of whom represented newspapers, while many of the spectators had traveled as far as from Glasgow to witness the departure.

Army Recruits and Cigarettes.

Speaking at a Boys' Brigade inspection at Edinburgh, Col. Thompson, D.S.O., Deputy-Director of Medical Services, Scottish Command, who was the inspecting officer, warned the boys against the practice of cigarette smoking, which he characterized as a dangerous and poisonous habit and one which was ruining the recruits for the army.

Admiralty Yachtsman's Gallantry.

Robert McLean, engineer, Troon, was drowned in Ayr Harbor. Two seamen from an Admiralty survey yacht heard cries for help, and one of them, Thomas Blay, dived into the harbor and reached the side of the struggling man just as he sank. The seaman dived for him and brought him to the surface, but he was dead.

Girl's Jump from a Train.

While the express from Stirling to Aberfoyle was passing through Gartmore Station at a speed of about thirty-five miles an hour, a domestic servant named Margaret Edmiston, 16, who had expected the train to stop, jumped from the carriage on to the platform. She fell and rolled over, but escaped with trifling injuries, being able to proceed home with the next train.

Child Falls Forty Feet.

Charlotte Thomson, 6 years old, daughter of a carter, of Castlegate, Lanark, while hanging on the parapet of the bridge that crosses the Clyde at Kirkfieldbank, and which is about forty feet high, fell over into the river bed below. Two men ran to her assistance, and she was conveyed to the Lockhart Hospital, where she was found to be suffering from a fractured leg and bruises.

Motor Falls Twenty Feet.

An extraordinary motor smash occurred at New Machar, Aberdeenshire. A motor-car driven by Peter M'Connachie, and containing William Littlejohn, 36A Powis place, Aberdeen, dashed over the embankment at the overhead railway crossing and fell a distance of over twenty feet. Both occupants were thrown out and escaped injury, while the car was thrown on to the railway line and completely smashed. The railway emergency squad had to be brought from Aberdeen to remove the car from the line.

IN ENGLAND.

Mobilization of Fleet.

All the British fleets and flotillas in home waters, which nowadays means practically the whole of the British navy, has been ordered to be at Spithead on July 17 to spend a week-end and pass in review before Admiral of the Fleet King George V.

The mobilization, which is in the nature of a test, is this year taking the place of the usual maneuvers, which the present Admiralty Board has decided can teach the officers nothing that they do not know already, besides being a very heavy expense. The ships and auxiliaries, which will number some 400 craft, the largest fleet ever assembled, will include every class of vessel from the big dreadnought battleships to the smallest submarines, aeroplanes and hydroplanes.

The spot is an ideal one for the assembling of a great fleet, the one stretch of water in the world that seems to have been designed by nature as the frame for great naval pageants. It gives the public, as well as the officers and men, an opportunity of seeing the great fleet, the upkeep of which costs the British taxpayer so much, gathered together as though ready for actual warfare, for every ship will be so manned and outfitted that she could go into immediate battle. The reserves will be called out and the cadets from Osborne and Dartmouth Colleges will be embarked, as they would in war time, and after the King has concluded his visit, they will go for a short cruise with the entire fleet.

Sight With the Ears.

Seeing with the ears is the latest triumph of science in the invention of the optophone, which has been demonstrated before the Royal Society by Dr. Fournier d'Albe, an Englishman of Huguenot descent. Dr. d'Albe says that a blind man should be able to read ordinary books and newspapers by sound, on the principle of translating light waves to sound waves. While the doctor's instrument, which effects the translation, is not yet developed to its potential capacity, it enabled a blind man in Birmingham not long ago to count the number of nurses before him, and investigators of the Royal Society have even made out lines of print.

The device consists of a perforated disc which rotates in front of a powerful Nerust lamp. The type to be read is placed facing the light upon a rest. A small, intensely bright line of light, passing through the holes in the disk, travels from one letter to the next, and the type reflects the light on to a selenium bridge. Each letter gives a characteristic sound, which is heard by means of a telephone. The reader must know the sound of each letter to be able to follow the print.

School for Taxi Drivers.

A report from the Knowledge of London School, where taxicab drivers are trained, shows that the best pupils are those who come from other places. The born Londoner is so used to moving by instinct in his own quarter and so little interested in remembering the various points by name that he is easily outclassed by the man new to the city.

The school gives training indoors with maps, and bus excursions to different centers of interest. London has 33,000 streets for the students to learn. Examinations are conducted by Scotland Yard, and are so difficult that not more than half of those taking the course succeed in passing.

Women applicants are denied taxi licenses in London on the ground they would be unable to handle disorderly patrons.

Come-to-Church Campaign.

The Free Churches are embarking on a campaign to secure the attendance at church of every man, woman and child in England and Wales on a Sunday in January next year. Representatives of the churches will visit every home throughout the country and leave a personal invitation for every inmate to put in an appearance at church. Thousands of visitors will be requisitioned in the accomplishment of this task, and there will be an army of superintendents and officers to engineer the undertaking.

The preliminary steps in this "come to church" campaign have already been taken, and the proposal has been received very sympathetically by all denominations.

IN WALES.

Statue to Inventor.

Merthyr Corporation has accepted the offer of D. A. Thomas of a statue of Trevithick, the inventor of the locomotive, who ran his first steam engine in the neighborhood.

Widow Killed on the Line.

A tragic discovery was made on the railway line rear Pontnewydd Station, the body of a woman named Ann Owen, aged 57, the wife of the late Humphrey Owen, a contractor, being found terribly mutilated. It is believed that she was run down by a passing mail train. Mrs. Owen was left a widow only three months ago.

Gipsy's Tragic Death.

In a Rhyl hotel Mrs. Sarah Antrobus, a gypsy, asked for a glass of rum and said, "Oh, dear, there is no cab to take me home." Before she could be served she fell back and expired. She was 50 years of age, and with her family occupied a van on the outskirts of Rhyl.

Double Bathing Fatality.

Tom Brown, who was employed at the Aluminum Works, Dolgarrog, and his nephew, who is a son of Mrs. Jones, the wife of an attendant, went to bathe in the aluminum reservoir. Some time afterwards Mrs. Jones was walking in the neighborhood of the lake, and finding no trace of her brother and son, commenced a search. Later she discovered both bodies at the bottom of the lake.

A Bird the Thief.

The residents of Port Eynon, Gower, have been mystified by the disappearance of handkerchiefs from clothes lines, and they communicated with the police with a view to the discovery of the thief. Now the thief has been discovered. A Swansea boy was birdnesting round Port Eynon, and found in a large oak tree a bird's nest constructed of the missing handkerchiefs, twisted into knots, among the twigs.

"Snail" Egg.

Mrs. Gamlin of Dudley street, the Docks, Cardiff, who has kept poultry for forty years, found a remarkable egg in her fowl coop a few days ago. One of her sons threw a fine, healthy-looking snail to the fowls, and it was gobbled up. Shortly afterwards there was laid a peculiarly-curved egg—just the shape and size of the snail. The shell was slightly cracked, and inside could be seen the usual yellow yolk.

IN IRELAND.

Statue to Late Lord Mayor.

It has been decided that the memorial to the late Lord Mayor of Belfast (Councillor R. J. McMordie, M. P.) shall take the form of a statue.

Three Daughters at a Birth.

Mrs. Anna Graham, Park Corner House, Clogher, near Dromore, County Down, has given birth to three baby girls, all of whom are doing well.

Calves in Carriages.

In Limerick M. O'Grady, Blackwater, County Clare, was fined 20 shillings for receiving four calves from a scheduled area. The calves were, it was alleged, conveyed in covered carriages.

Burglars Overlooked the Money.

Burglars who broke into the offices in Athlone of Messrs. Wallace Bros., coal merchants, Dublin, and ransacked them, overlooked a drawer in which there was a considerable sum of money. Heavy protection plates in the office window were removed to gain ingress, but no finger-prints were left behind.

Aged Woman Burnt to Death.

An old woman of 90 named, Catherine Igoe, who lived in a small house on the roadside at Ballingad, Roscommon, feeling unwell in the early morning got out of bed to warm milk, and, losing consciousness, fell across the fire. Before the old woman was got out of her burning clothes she was terribly injured, and died soon afterwards.

IN GERMANY.

Germans for Battleships.

A view recently expressed by the British Admiral, Sir Percy Scott, that the development of submarines and hydroplanes made dreadnoughts and large cruisers obsolete has caused much discussion in German naval circles. So far as their public utterances go, German naval experts unanimously reject Admiral Scott's views.

The German Fleet Society has pronounced itself decidedly against it, and now Admiral Von Breusing has published an article taking the same position. He admits that the submarine has recently made great progress and now exceeds the hopes that were first held for it; and he also admits that the means of protection against the submarine has not been developed at an equal pace. Nevertheless, the submarine's range of activity is a limited one. Even if it should put the dreadnoughts out of commission in shore waters, the latter would still be needed for operation on the high seas, where as yet, nobody expects that the submarine can venture, owing to its constant need to replenish supplies.

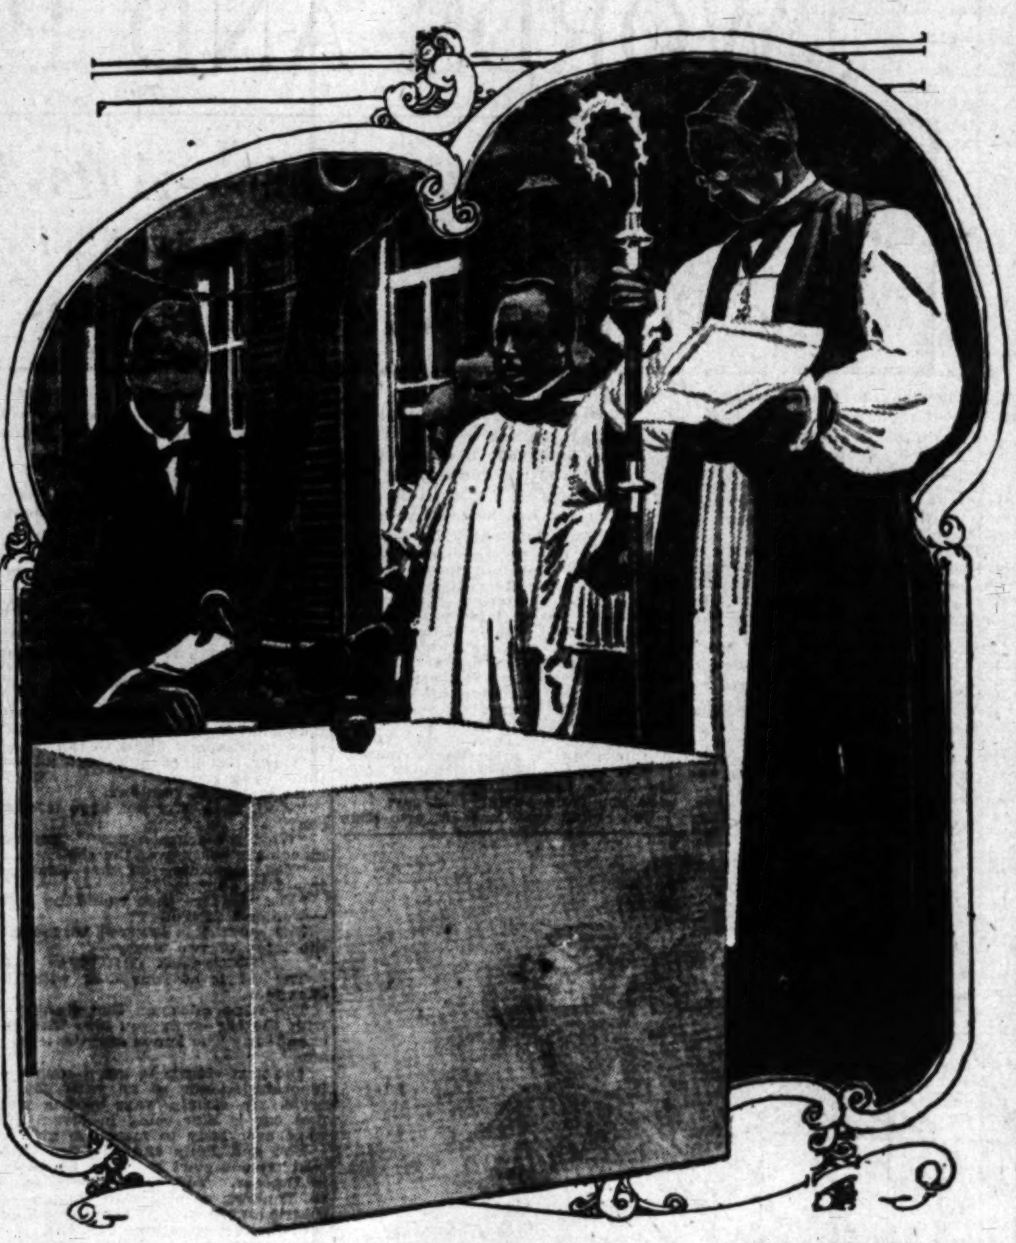
Effect of Buzzing 'Phone.

Buzzing, rattling and other unusual noises in a telephone may so effect one's nerves as to make him an invalid, and such cases are covered by accident insurance policies, according to a ruling by the Imperial Supreme Court. The case came on appeal from a judgment against an insurance company. The defendant contended that the plaintiff was of neurasthenic predisposition and that the effect of unusual telephonic noises upon him was a "psychic effect," which was not covered by an accident insurance policy. It could not be denied, said the court, that many objections could be urged to the plaintiff's claim. It might be questioned whether his invalidism was not due to imagination, following disturbances which—as he asserted—had the effect upon him of a severe electric shock. Nevertheless, it could be assumed that there was a great probability that the noises complained of had such a shattering effect upon the plaintiff's nerves that his subsequent maladies could properly be considered as due to an accident, within the terms of his accident policy.

Weida's Future Wealth.

Herr Seiferth, Mayor of the little Saxe-Weimar city of Weida, has made a donation to the city which has set mathematicians to figuring compound interest problems of an unusual sort. The donation consists of $50, and it is to be invested and the interest compounded regularly for 340 years, or until 2254. In May of that year 70 per cent. of the accumulated interest is to be at the untrammeled disposal of the municipality. The remaining 30 per cent. is to be similarly compounded for a further 100 years, when the total shall vest as an absolute gift to the city. Estimates of the sum that will be available in 2254 vary from $1,250,000 to $15,000,000, always assuming that financial conditions do not vary greatly from what they are today.

The First Public Duty of the Prince of Wales.



"Well and truly laid."

The young Prince of Wales recently performed what he himslf calls his first public duty, namely, the laying of the corner-stone of St. Anselm's Church, Kensington Cross, on the site of the palace occupied five and a half centuries ago by the first Duke of Cornwall, otherwise known as the "Black Prince." The church is for the convenience of worshipers of the Duchy of Cornwall estate.

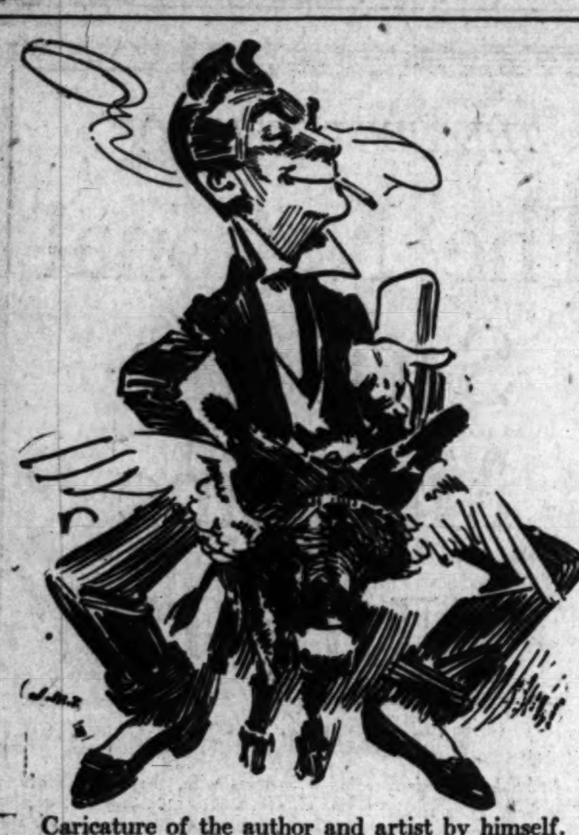
The Point of View Changes With the Income



Caricature of the author and artist by himself.

TEN years ago you and Polly went about in the street cars.

Five years ago you used taxis occasionally.

At that period you said, "If I had an automobile I think I could send for my friends once in a while!" "Why, it would be half my pleasure in having a car to put at the disposal of my friends!"

Polly agreed with you.

You continued, "It isn't as if automobiles could catch pneumonia—"

"I don't think you and I could be as thoughtless and selfish as some of our rich friends, could we?" Polly remarked.

"No," you asserted warmly. "It isn't that we put ourselves up as being saintly, or any rot like that, but—"

"No," agreed Polly. "I know what you mean—we simply aren't built that way. We shouldn't be happy if we thought some of our poorer friends had to struggle up to our house to dinner in the subway when we had a perfectly good motor car!"

That was five years ago.

The awakening of Helena Ritchie was a deep, snoreless sleep compared to yours.

It's a cinch to put a dream-car at the disposal of your friends!

Well, anyhow!

BITTEN BY GASOLINE BUG.

The time arrived when you could not exactly afford, but you could at least buy, a car.

From the moment you are bitten by the great Klaxon-horned gasoline bug the motor car takes precedence of everything else—home ties, duty, the hope of a future life, all are forgotten for the time being.

Your library table is littered with specifications, booklets and photos of every kind of car; so is your desk. Your overcoat pockets bulge with them. You spend hours, which ought to be spent at your desk, standing around on the glassy floors of the motor harems amongst the potted palms, listening to the sirens softly honking of their wares.

You even come sneaking back at night, when the shops are closed, and gaze hypnotized through the Pittsburgh panes at the car of your dreams; then back again after breakfast with the fanatical enthusiasm of the Wagnerite at Bayreuth.

While Polly is trying the seats of the smart town car up near the window, one of the benzine Brummels is telling you something beginning with, "I guess you've heard this one. Stop me if you have—"

This is done to rest your brain from the exertion of trying to understand why the tail light is not attached to the radiator fan.

Otherwise these cataracts of "differentials," "multiple disk," and "cone clutches," "timing-gears" and "splash systems," would rock your mentality and perhaps make it turn turtle and sink at the dock!

They speak kindly of other cars, and tell you in what essentials they are lacking, not knocking, mind you,—or only a little in one cylinder!

They pass debonairly over the stupid and minor considerations of construction and leap, as it were, with a glad cry of home-coming to the important points like the cigar-lighters and the initials on the door panels. There is where they are on safe ground and can become eloquent.

BALES OF TESTIMONIALS.

They show you scrap-books full of testimonial letters from regular business men—regular fellers who sit at desks and have telephones and paper-weights and office-boys and things—letters written on bona-fide typewriters, and they have "PXG" down in the corners just like real letters.

These men write and tell them how crazy they are about their new cars—how they would rather be wrecked in one of their cars than ride safely in any other make. You can't help being impressed.

You put off telling them that you are going to buy a second-hand car as long as you can, and when you tell them what a piker you are, you are awfully surprised they don't throw you bodily through the plate-glass windows.

No, it is really so—they still talk to you as if you were an out-and-out white citizen. These gentlemanly salesmen even gloss over your bad break to the extent of being willing to actually sell you a second-hand car themselves. They speak of them as "rebuilt" cars. They are rebuilt in the same degree that your blue serge suit is rebuilt when you send it around to the tailors to be sponged and pressed. (which by the way, means pressed.)

"Rebuilt cars" are covered by the same guarantee as their new cars. Which guarantee is worth fully eight cents in Confederate money

They show you and Polly the "rebuilt" car. A distinct bargain. Polly had it on the tip of her tongue to say "Why did she leave her last place?" when Brummel anticipated her by volunteering, "Blinkensop is selling this because he wants a more powerful car."

"I thought you said this was a powerful car?" you venture, a shade uneasily.

"Powerful? All the power you'll ever want, my boy! we'll take him up Fort George Hill, eh Bud?" This to the demonstrator, who shifts on to his other foot, and smiles, "Nothing to it!"

You feel rebuked.

You and Polly are given a demonstration.

YOU ARE BEST SALESMAN.

The psychology of the trade starts psyching at the moment you take your seat in the car. The instant the wheels turn you are a goner!

You are now the best salesman they have! You sell yourself the car! You root for that car as if it were something you had invented yourself. You are only too willing to be convinced of its perfections—only too anxious to believe all those Indians tell you in their salaried enthusiasm.

An awful clattering underneath your feet, that in later years of experience would clearly indicate frazzled bearings, you are now eager to have explained away as nothing but the sweet purr of perfect mechanism.

You sit on the edge of the seat, nerves taut, inwardly challenging these men to say anything nasty about their own goods! Their own? Yours! Nothing short of spontaneous combustion or the complete destruction of all the roads in the United States can stop you from buying that car!

You clutch the leather arm-rests with the fierce joy of ownership, and cry, "Gee, some boat!"

"We could a-done that hill just as easy on high!" grins the wicked demonstrator as he looks around for your approval.

"When can I have it?" you hiss, hardly recognizing your own voice.

"By the way," says the salesman, doubtfully, to the wicked demonstrator, "this car isn't sold, it is?"

"Oh, my God!"

"Oh, no, it's all right—I was thinking of that 1911 runabout of Johnson's—no, it's all right!"

"Oh!"

You nearly swallowed your Adam's apple.

"It will take about two weeks to paint it," says the cunning salesman. "You can have it any old color you like!"

You and Polly would like dark blue.

"In that case I'm afraid it would take from four to five weeks, as they'd have to scrape it down to the bone!"

"Gosh, I don't want to wait all that time!" you groan.

He knew you wouldn't.

"Well, then why not have it crimson?"

"Why, it's crimson now!" you say, glancing quickly over the side.

"Yes, something on that shade—it would be stunning!"

"Yes, I guess that would be bully—wouldn't it, Polly?"

The curtain is lowered to indicate the lapse of two weeks.

YOUR CAR ARRIVES.

The car is at your door with the chauffeur.

The same salesman that stung you with the car stung you also with the chauffeur. The lemon and the lemonade.

The next step is to get a couple of innocent friends to go with you to drive. In certain ways owning your first car is like being in love. You want everybody to meet the girl.

You and Polly and the two innocent friends start gaily up Broadway in the car. You have decided to go to Yonkers, a moderate though eccentric ambition. At about One Hundredth street something happens. You don't know what. Neither does the chauffeur. But the beautiful crimson chariot refuses to proceed, and punctuates its refusal with extraordinary noises.

The chauffeur starts it again. Hope is renewed—bang! Stop again. Chauffeur gets out again and lifts up the lid of the trunk at the front end and fumbles around. Nothing. Conversation expires. You laugh hysterically and remark that something must be the matter. Chauffeur says it's all of that, and that you will all have to get out and let him get the car home when he can. That get it home he will, he never having been towed home in his professional life!

As there doesn't seem to be anything else to do, you all get out and go home in the subway. The friends murmur something about enjoying the ride, and you mutter something about having to try it again some time.

After trying in vain to get that car out of town or even past One Hundred and Sixteenth street, it dawns on you that someone has unloaded an acid fruit on you.

The chauffeur (whose salary you paid, by the way, during the two weeks the car was being painted, as otherwise you might not be able to hold him and there being only one chauffeur in the city at the time) suggests your letting him take down the eine. You say, "I don't know what it is, but do it." So he takes down the engine, whose piston rings, had you but known about such things, were draped around the pistons with the same mathematical precision that the rope rings fall around the stake in the game of ring-toss on shipboard.

When friend chauffeur had finished putting the engine together again, he had enough parts left over to make a cheap vacuum cleaner and a pair of colonial andirons.

YOU FINALLY GET A CAR.

You finally get a real car, but you never forgive that agreeable young salesman who sold you the first one. You watch for him in the streets. You wouldn't of course, want to run over him. At least, not a [illegible]

Expansion and Peace.

ple, in fish and seaweed, is drawn from her waters, and a large part of her trade is in products of the sea. The Pacific is also her great highway; no one goes or leaves Japan without using the Pacific. And, again, the Pacific is both her strength and weakness. It offers her immunity from a sudden attack from the outside, but it also gives an open highway to her rapacious enemies.

Japan could not exist without free access to and use of the Pacific. It is the air she breathes, her sky, her pathway to and fro in the world. She must keep it open—by peace or war. But she has no warlike ambitions or designs in the Pacific. The fear of a martial Japan that we hear so much of from Australia and New Zealand and are not only groundless, but are a curious commentary on the boasted self-reliance of those young countries.

Japan has no intention of creating a Pacific controversy with the United States. The questions already at issue between the two peoples are too numerous and too fraught with danger. Nor has she any doubt that all questions present or to arise, may be settled to their mutual satisfaction without war.

The situation in the Pacific is thoroughly understood by Japan. She wishes the privilege of untrammeled commerce with all its people, and for her subjects to have the right to seek new homes and opportunities; but she has never made war for business gain. The conquests she seeks are the conquests of commerce and industry; and in these fields the rare skill, the unequaled patience and the thrift and frugality of her people make her invincible.

Count Okuma, in speaking of the desire of Japan for peace, and of the result of her last war, says: "The effect upon herself will be that she will be able to make still greater progress in the paths of civilization, and the true spirit of the Japanese nations will have more room to display itself. Japan has never been an advocate of war, and will never draw her sword from its sheath unless compelled to do so by the pressure of foreign powers."

It is precisely because her competitors fear her sharp rivalry in business that hey are inclined to pretend she is seeking war and is a ceaseless menace to the peace of the world. The unprecedented developmnt of her merchant marine has aroused jealousies and fears in many quarters. A leading English organ has recently expressed the fear that she is planning to utizile the Panama Canal for checkmating British and German shipping interests.

JAPAN NEEDS A LONG PEACE.

Japan has borne more than her share of the burdens of war in recent years. She exhausted her resources and strained her nerves to the snapping point in her last great conflict. She has by no means recovered from her blood-letting and the treasure waste of that fearful struggle. It will require many more years for her to regain the ground she lost at home while winning victories and provinces in Asia. She is willing to pay the full price, for she was fighting to preserve herself. "Victory from within, or a mighty death from without" is a fine Japanese conception of one of the national ideals.

I have said that Japan first makes on one the impression of hopeless confusion, and that this is not all chaos. When the Japanese prepare to erect a building of some importance they will surround the framewark with a vast and intricate scaffolding, and conceal the whole thing entirely in an inclosure of bamboo screens. We hear the clangor and confused roar behind the long bamboo curtains, and see just enough to get the impression that it is all "sound and fury." They will never build a house in that way, we think.

But one day we see the screens falling away, like leaves covering a flower bud. And then we learn what has really been going on. The bustling and impish little carpenters and artificers in stone have managed to work somethink like a miracle of strength and beauty. Perhaps it may be so with the edifice of national character that the people of Japan, from Premier down to coolie, are now working on with such headlong haste and tremendous noise and confusion.

AD SCHEMES OF PARIS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, July 1.—The latest advertising scheme in Paris, recently launched in the depths of the subway, adds a new terror to underground travel. An elegantly-dressed person, appeaering at one of the main subway stations during rush hours, carried a large leather case, apparently containing photographic apparatus. He touched something at the end of the case, and a strident, metallic voice of some talking machine began to recite a poem celebrating the artistic cut and perfect finish of somebody's clothes. When that was over the waiting passengers were adjured in the same tones of metallic thunder to buy a certain brand of chocolate.

degree satisfies the reader's sense of vengeance by planting a healthy, sound English fist squarely on the nose of cabaret manager. Having practically kidnaped the chorus girl, Lingham finds it just a trifle embarrassing to decide what he shall do with her.

The easy, logical solution is that he falls in love with Meenie and they are married.

Financial misfortune pokes its baleful nose into their dove cote—but love does not fly out of the window yet—in fact, one, after reading is not so sure that love ever does anything of the kind.

They return to England, believing it much easier to starve in France than on their native shore. Pleasant days, however, are far away. Lingham has negligible success with his novels, and writes a play which fares poorly. Meenie returns to the footlights—and husband and wife separate, for his pride is too great to allow himself to be "kept." She wins fame and so does he—and those who would learn what happens then must read.

MYSTERY, GREED, AMBITION.

MYSTERY, priceless jewels, intrigue and ambition are all strongly represented here. A strange, seemingly inexplicable murder case leads on from chapter to chapter, veiling the solution until almost the very close of the book. Mrs. Vanderstein is a handsome young widowed Jewess of great wealth. A member of her household is Barbara, a charming young woman left in her care by her husband. The husband had been overly fond of the game of the race track, having in his employ a man of ill-repute and of criminal tendencies. Barbara is the child of this man, and when her father is forced to leave the country she is taken into the Vanderstein household. There is also a young nephew very fond of the ponies and betting, between whom and Barbara exists a sympathetic friendship.

Madam has a mania for nobility and royalty. Her home being opposite a hotel where these noble beings often lodge themselves while visiting London, she finds great delight in appearing on her balcony that she may gaze upon and be seen by these anointed personages. Her box at the opera, sandwiched between two belonging to titled beings, is a source of delight to her, since she may breathe the same air with these wonderful creatures. This propensity proves to be her undoing. She has in her employ a French masseuse—a soulless, calculating creature, who understands well all of Madam's weaknesses and plays upon them to her own personal advantage. Madam one day catches the eye of a Crown Prince below her balcony. She later receives an ardent letter, on paper stamped with the royal arms, declaring his sudden passion. About the same time the young nephew is stranded financially, having placed all of his money on a last risk. His situation becomes desperate. He appeals to Madam, his aunt, who orders him from the house. But Barbara engages to raise the money to save him from ruin. Then comes the mysterious disappearance of Madam and Barbara. Is there not enough to mystify the reader here? One has no more surmise as to what clue to follow than has the astute detective in the beginning.

LOVE VERSUS DUTY.

GAY MORNING. By J. E. Buckrose. George H. Doran Company, New York.

"GAY MORNING" is the morning of youth, with all of its complex elements of buoyant life, health, impulse and love. Emma is a fresh, sweet, wholesome girl—the child of middle-class English parents, who suddenly comes into great wealth. The beautiful estate which Mr. Bassett has always coveted from boyhood is purchased by him. But somehow he and "ma" do not find the same contentment that they had in their workaday life in the little cottage. Emma has been well educated, but neither wealth nor education is able to make her other than the wholesome, healthy-natured girl she has always been. She is engaged to be married to a rather commonplace young man who attempts to instruct the nobility concerning horsemanship. The extent of his own experience is to have been thrown from a common cart horse and reading a sportsmen's journal. There is a willowy cousin, Sybil, who flirts with Emma's fiance, at the same time that she is laying snares for the young Sir Matthew. On St. Agnes's eve both girls dream of the young nobleman. Sybil is sure of her destiny and dismisses Emma's dream as the result of "pound cake." Emma adheres loyally to her middle-class young man. The two young people bear a most unimpassioned attitude toward each other. They have been betrothed so long that they have the settled attitude toward each other of long-married folk. Emma is intensely practicable.

Then comes the dream—the wonderful friendship between the girl and Sir Matthew, the meetings in the forest, and the final revelation. But Emma suppresses it quickly and turns back to her fiance, of whom she cannot become jealous even when she learns of his lover-like attentions to Sybil.

The author of this story displays a delightful combination of wit, understanding of the weaknesses of human nature on their ludicrous side, and the profoundly beautiful and delicate elements of the association between two intense young natures before passion has crept into it.

SOCIAL MACHINATIONS.

NO. 13 WASHINGTON SQUARE. By Leroy Scott. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston and New York.

THE CENTRAL figure of this story is an extremely ambitious society leader. Mrs. De Peyster has a dangerous rival, and it is quite necessary for her to mind her P's and Q's in order to maintain her social leadership. Mrs. De Peyster reckons everything from a single standpoint, and that a very selfish one. She exercises tyranny of her wealth and position over all of those about her, sacrificing them ruthlessly to her own comfort, convenience and projects. She forbids love or marriage among her servants, discharges her secretary because she finds that the girl is married, disinherits her son because he will not consent to a betrothal with an heiress, since he is already in love with a girl of humbler station. She refuses to marry a man who loves her because he will not add distinction to her name. Suddenly, on the eve of her intended annual trip to Europe she is informed by her lawyer that the dividends upon which she counted for her expenses have been declared temporarily suspended. She has already strained the credit of her bank to the uttermost. Even her jewels are held by a bank in Paris, while she wears most clever imitations. In this quandary, she decides to remain secretly at home, in the boarded-up house, with one servant, while she sends abroad her impecunious relative, Olivetta, arrayed in the De Peyster finery, since the ticket is already purchased. After the disinheriting, the son marries his inamorata, and brings her to the maternal home, thinking everybody departed. Mrs. De Peyster, in her maid's clothing, drives out at evening, and is made love to by the coachman. She is scarcely in the house when she comes face to face with her son and his wife. Luckily she is veiled, and they mistake her for the maid. She and the maid flee from the premises, only to get into worse complications. A not very honest but exceedingly clever young person attaches himself to them, and returns with them to the house. A complex comedy of shuffled identities follows to an excruciatingly funny climax.

ANOTHER DIAMOND TALE.

THE GREEN SEAL. By Charles Edmonds Walk. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

THERE is enough plot and substance in this story for two or three ordinary novels. You come to within a few pages of the end, and into these pages are crowded lengthy and intricate explanations, which furnish reasons for the existence of the situation in the beginning. Of course it is all interesting, but rather hard work for the reader who is perusing the story for the sake of the story, and to be entertained on a summer's day. Plots and counterplots are so thickly interwoven that the reader must follow every line carefully, or he will very speedily find himself in a seemingly inextricable tangle.

The story has to do with a mysterious ring of silver, with a jade setting upon which seems to be carved mysterious, ancient Chinese characters. As a matter of fact, when the stone is touched, the characters are released, and seeming to become embossed, tear the flesh with which they come in contact, and at the same time release a drop of the most deadly poison, which brings immediate death. This ring is left to the hero of the story by his deceased father, who has traveled much in foreign lands. A long history is connected with this ring, which was known in Oriental lands as "The Kiss of the Silent Death." When it causes a death it leaves the imprint of the Chinese characters upon the flesh of the victim.

A large and valuable diamond is sent to the young man, from whom he cannot surmise. It comes through the mail with no explanation, causing the recipient much uneasiness. He has its value appraised, then locks it in his safety box at the bank. About this time a charming young woman applies for the position of stenographer. Young Ferris engages her, although she tells him that she is the daughter of a noted bandit and thief. She is a most charming and well brought young woman, having never seen her supposed father within her memory, since he gave her into the charge of an aunt in her infancy. Wherever the girl finds employment, she and her employer are harassed by mysterious happenings, so that the girl hesitates to make connection with Ferris's law firm. The working out of the enigma, the singular and sinister happenings in Ferris's life after employing the girl have to do with the bandit, and the members of a powerful Chinese tong. The action of the story takes place in Los Angeles and the outlying mountain country.

SECULARIZING A SAINT.

THE HOME OF THE SEVEN DEVILS. By Horace W. C. Newte. John Lane Company, New York.

THE SAINT is a young priest of the Franciscan Convent of St. Bernardine at Ypres. The "home of the seven devils" is the person of a beautiful woman—not a specific beautiful woman, but any beautiful woman—that is, according to the admonitions of the Guardian of the Friary. There admonitions are administered to Father Anselm upon the latter coming into an inheritance of a snug fortune, and the Guardian absolving the young priest from his vows, on condition that he go forth into the world to do good. Marriage is included in the considerations; but he is to select a woman not magnetic and beautiful, but good and devoted to some holy duty.

The young ex-friar's first encounter with charming femininity is on the train bound for London, when he excites the keen interest of Mrs. Chatillon, a woman much older than himself, who dampens the high ardor of his hopes for the future by telling him there is no such thing as happiness. He is exceedingly sensible of the lady's attraction, but does not believe her. The next young woman who crosses his path is a girl of seventeen, whose tremendous assumption of innocence and misfortune induces him to take her into his apartments, with a woman housekeeper. The third woman is the eldest daughter of a family, who has been recommended by a brother friar as exactly the suitable person for Anselm's wife. He engages himself to the pallid, lifeless-looking blonde, tinting her up a bit with his ardor of idealism. But the inevitable happens. He meets the right woman—the one he would like to have "singing beside him in the wilderness." Although he fights it off, love comes. But the girl has engaged herself to an Earl.

The young ex-friar proves a particularly interesting problem to any woman. Where love is out of the question in the nature of things, they bind him in a maternal affection. The complications that arise are entirely absorbing and convincing. It is a well-written and most pleasing story. The author has looked deep into the mysteries of human nature.

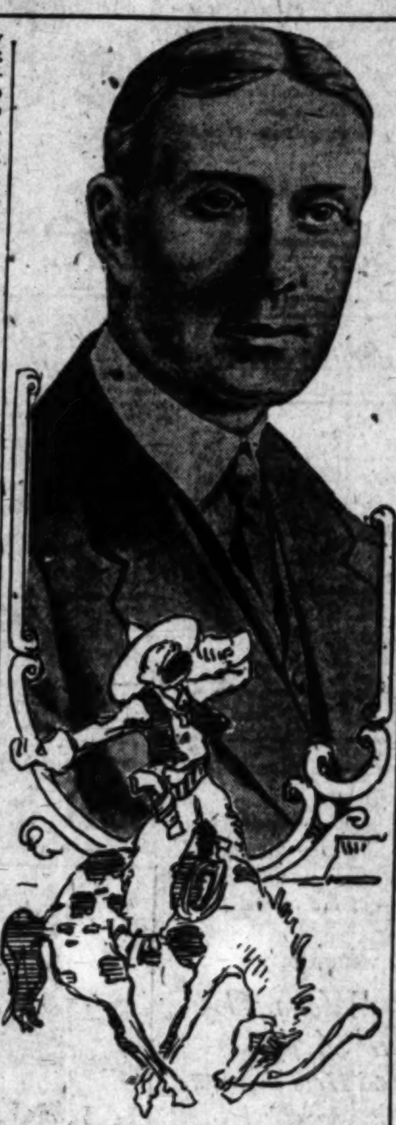
UNCLASSIFIED.

A DOUBLE-BARRELLED TREATISE.

THE GREAT FICTIONS WHICH ARE RUINING MANKIND. By Charles Elihu Slocum. The Slocum Publishing Company, Toledo.

THE intentions of Dr. Slocum are twofold. They are expressed in phonetic dialect with an interling of English to tell exactly what he means. He says "let us at once eliminate from our written pages all of those unnatural monstrosities of words," etc. He also says "let us at wuns eliminat from or ritn pajez ol ov thoz unstural monstrositiz ov wurdz," etc. The double-barreled treatment is to express some good, wholesome advice and to familiarize a portion of the English readers with the oddities of simplified spelling.

The book is difficult to read through the defect of the interline. It is scarcely worth the trouble, for though his condemnation of fiction as "she is written" is justifiable and somewhat accurate, too laborious inspection is required to keep trace of the sense. As a curiosity it has undeniable value.



The author of "Overland Red."

Harry Herbert Knibbs, who lives on a ranch near Los Angeles, has been announced by Houghton Mifflin Company as the author of the popular book, "Overland Red," which attained the "best-seller" division while the name of the author was temporarily suppressed. Mr. Knibbs is the author of two other books, none, however, meeting with the success accorded this one, which has been previously reviewed on this page.

Among the subjects treated are "Fonetik Speling Ov English," "The Greatest of Fikshonz," "Fikshon Reding Iz Banful," "The Maraj Ov the Unfit;" "Sinful Neglekt Ov Children," and "Provurbial Filosofi."

The typographical impression conveyed at first glance is that some Artemus Ward turned philosopher. It looks queer because it is different, and if simplified spelling is ever established then this may be immortalized as a pioneer volume. Pioneers must always expect inhospitable receptions, and we cannot see how any other kind will be accorded this literary monstrosity.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

THE UNITED STATES AND PEACE. By William H. Taft. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT has given in this work as the outcome of a suggestion made to him by the New York Peace Society, an organization which has started many good movements to further international progress and comity. The four chapters were delivered last winter as lectures under the auspices of the society, and later published as contributions to the Independent. The chapter headings are "The Monroe Doctrine: Its Limitations and Implications;" "Shall the Federal Government Protect Aliens in Their Treaty Rights?"; "Arbitration Treaties that Mean Something;" Experiments in Federation for Judicial Settlement of International Disputes." Mr. Taft says pertinently in the first chapter: "The doctrine is based upon a wise policy in our own interest to exclude from our hemisphere the selfish political interference of European governments and their appropriation of territory, not for the purpose of increasing our power or territory, but for the purpose of promoting the prosperity, independence and happiness of the peoples of these two continents, and so of insuring our own peace and safety."

With frankness, and yet with diplomatic care the subject in the second chapter is handled. Mr. Taft calls attention to inadequate protection against mob violence, and punishment for its inquities, financial indemnity for which is so adequate to the extent of the evil inflicted. These, as well as other sources of injustice toward aliens, he believes, should be taken hold of more vigorously by the Federal government, and corrected. He believes that "party leaders should not strain at the gnat of Federal promises, even if it may involve the transfer to the jurisdiction of Federal courts of a comparatively few cases which are now in theory triable in State courts, but in fact are never tried there." It is not difficult to guess at what abuses the ex-President is aiming.

Much consideration is given to the subject of the avoidance of war, "how to induce nations to give up the burden of armanents, and how to broaden and make certain our system of international law."

SUGGESTIONS FOR PARENTS.

THE QUEST OF THE BEST. By William de Witt Hyde. Thomas Y. Crowell Company, New York.

PRESIDENT HYDE of Bowdoin College offers in this book suggestions and advice for all engaged in work with boys. Among the points emphasized are first that the various forms of badness into which all boys who are bright naturally fall are no occasion for alarm, but are rather indicative of the goodness of which they are the negative form; second, that the goodness into which boys are coerced by threats and penalties is unreal and insecure; third, that the only real goodness is sensitiveness to the effect of a boy's acts upon his own future, upon others and upon society, and that the way to awaken sensitiveness to the best for all concerned is to let the boy share intimately with parent, teacher, friend or leader in common work and play.

"Refinement which thrusts coarse, disagreeable facts into the background, and lifts only the attractive and pleasant aspects of our common human life into the foreground, and yet can deal firmly and effectively with disagreeable and even disgusting facts, when they have to be dealt with, is so obviously superior to either vulgarity or affection that it must be included in the equipment of every boy." "The great virtues, like cleanliness, truthfulness, efficiency, thoroughness, honesty and chivalry, are, for the most part, mere empty words to the boy until he has been placed in actual situations where he can see for himself and share with his friends the vast difference in consequences to himself and to others between these virtues and their opposites." And thus the book is packed with practical words of guidance.

ASSISTING EFFICIENCY.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE. By J. Adams Puffer. Rand, McNally & Co., New York.

"VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE" tells in a simple, though interesting manner, how every teacher may become a vocational guide, and offers a rich store for equipment. A multitude of specific examples cover the many phases and peculiarities of the child character and points to an interpretation and correct guidance of child tendencies.

There is an exhaustive classification and review of the various occupations, their opportunities, their drawbacks, and the different abilities they require for success. The author has presented in profusion practical suggestions concerning the vocational problem of the industrial and professional world. The book is amply illustrated with photographs, and helpful diagrams and tables.

SUPER-BRIDGE.

COMPLETE AUCTION BRIDGE. By A. R. Metcalfe. Browne & Howell Co., Chicago.

NOTWITHSTANDING the counter-attraction of the dance, it still behooves us to "bridge it" on occasion and many a faithful author is making it his mission in life to see that we do it well and wisely. The enormous bridge literature has just received another addition to its catalogue, probing the subtleties of the game widely and deeply, yet simply and straightforwardly withal. A distinctly modern treatment, for the very psychology, the hypnotic influences and the feminine intuitions are taken into account!

Decidedly a book to be studied with profit, particularly by society dames and club women who select the bridge method of donating to charity. Even for charity we should do our best.

INTERNATIONAL SPORT.

THE AMERICA'S CUP RACES. By Herbert L. Stone. Outing Publishing Company, New York.

YACHTING is a subject of national and international interest, and cannot fail to lay hold of the attentions in the attractive volume above mentioned. Every American yacht and every foreign yacht that has come into competition with our own are described, and diagrams given. Beautiful sepia plates of the vessels with their swelling sails, are generously distributed throughout. They are reproduced from authentic photographs from the collection of the late J. S. Johnson, one of the earliest marine photographers, and others. The history of American yachting is traced from the decade preceding 1850, when the sport began to be nationalized, the New York Yacht Club having been formed about that time. Very lovingly the author refers to the old America, the first American racer. He gives a sketch of all the yachts succeeding, and the races in which they were engaged, not overlooking the yachts on our California Coast, the Mischief being particularly mentioned, in the races which she won from Canadian yachts. This history, so much of which has filled the daily newspapers, firing readers generally with patriotic enthusiasm, will be read again with pleasure by professional and yacht "fans" alike.

REVIEWS IN BRIEF.

CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN HISTORY. By Charles A. Beard. Macmillan Company, New York.

This history covers a period from 1877 to 1913. It is a fact that in studying the history of our country students concern themselves more with facts previous to this period than they do with that which has taken place since the Civil War. It is this deficiency with which the author of the present work purposes to contend. He says of students, "When they are taken to task for their neglect they reply that there is no text-book dealing with the period, and that the smaller histories are sadly deficient in their treatment of our age." "The Restoration of White Dominion in the South," "The Economic Revolution," "The Revolution in Politics and Law," "Parties and Party Issues, 1877-1896," "Two Decades of Federal Legislation," "The Growth of Dissent," "The Campaign of 1896," "Imperialism," "The Development of Capitalism," "The Administration of Theodore Roosevelt," "The Revival of Dissent," "Mr. Taft and Republican Disintegration," "The Campaign of 1912" constitute the chapter headings.

CAUSES AND CURES OF CRIME. By Thomas Speed Mosby. C. V. Mosby Company, St. Louis.

"The cost of crime in the United States now amounts to one-third the total cost of government, and the burden is yearly increasing," is the startling assertion with which Mr. Mosby introduces his volume. The author goes into the causes of all varieties of crime. Anent their cure he says: "The penitentiary has destroyed more men that it has ever made, and wrecked more lives than it has ever saved. A few have been reformed in spite of it; none because of it. Most men can be led again into the ways of righteousness and peace; none can be driven to aught but savagery. . . . The penitentiary must give way to the reformatory." The book, with its plates of types of criminals, is worth studying for the scientifically and philanthropically inclined, and worth letting alone for the morbid-minded. It is written for the purpose of doing good.

SCIENCE OF ORGANIZATION AND BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT. By Robert J. Frank. Laird & Lee, Chicago.

"More money," the author states, "has often been made or lost through the plans adopted for financing, organizing or re-organizing a business than in its operation; at the same time mistakes in such plans often prevent well-merited success or occasion individual sacrifice." The science of organization is given careful consideration and many valuable pointers are furnished concerning the promotion of enterprises.

THE PEOPLE'S LAW. By William Jennings Bryan. Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York and London.

Discussion of the constitutions of the different States and consideration as to what they may properly contain are contained in this little volume. Important topics treated are the initiative and referendum, the recall, corporations, education and labor, taxation, election, primaries, bank protection, government by injunction are among other subjects treated. "If legislation is necessary to protect the adult man, it is much more necessary to protect women and children," he states, adding, "Investigations have sometimes disclosed conditions which cannot be described in parliamentary language."

THE STORY OF A THOUSAND-YEAR PINE. By Enos A. Mills. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston and New York.

Mr. Mills declares that John Muir furnished him the key by which to "learn the language" of the pine trees. The particular tree in question stands at the corner of four States, within sight of the cliff-dwellers' Mesa Verde. The tree is eight feet in diameter, and towers more than 115 feet above the earth. A history of the pine tree is given, its accidents and vicissitudes, from scientific observation, with an admixture of poetic charm.

THE CHINA YEAR BOOK, 1914. By H. G. Woodhead and H. T. Montague Bell. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York; George Routledge & Sons, London.

A book of this nature will be found particularly useful to bankers, financiers, merchants, manufacturers, shippers and ship owners and all interested in the affairs of the Chinese republic. Maps, tables and diagrams accompany the text.

THE LILAC LADY. By Ruth Alberta Brown. Saalfield Publishing Company, Chicago and New York.

Peace is a very talkative little lassie, bubbling with high spirits and quaint philosophy, but wholesome and loyal, withal. She is one of six sisters who are left orphans, and are taken into the fine home of their grandparents, the grandfater being dean of a college. The Lilac Lady is a young woman invalid, whom Peace finds as a neighbor. A charming friendship springs up between the two. The book is sweet and wholesome, although the story interest is negligible.

THE NEW OPTIMISM. By H. de Vere Stacpoole. John Lane Company, New York and London.

Dr. Stacpoole conjectures as to the heights to which man may yet climb, now that he has developed a universal soul, and a mind that thinks collectively instead of individually. As a philosopher he argues in a strain which is in striking contrast to the gloomy forebodings of those who treat similar topics. "Socialism, syndicalism, and anarchism," he writes, "are all one voice speaking in different tones." Whether he be right or not, his trend of reasoning is interesting to follow.

HEROES OF THE DAWN. By Violet Russell. Macmillan Company, New York; Maunsel & Co., London and Dublin.

Irish mythology is not extensively familiar to the American mind. We have had fairy tales and stories of witchcraft. This volume sets forth the early Irish legends with the charming classic touch, the dignity of simplicity of the sages of more southern countries. The book is pleasingly and uniquely illustrated.

"Any woman who can stand her own company, can see the beauty of the sunset, loves growing things, and is willing to put in as much time in careful labor as she does over the washtub, will certainly succeed; will have independence, plenty to eat all the time, and a home of her own in the end." The woman homesteader describes her experiences from the filing of a claim to its final embellishment, with many delightful side excursions and experiences.

TAATION. By C. B. Fillebrown. A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.

The present little volume is an exposition of the system of taxation prevalent in our country, in a form especially fitted for the reader who has no professional training in economics. The book is of particularly timely interest at this time, when we have recently adopted a Federal income tax, and when the tariff discussion is opening the whole question of direct as against indirect taxation.

ITALY IN NORTH AFRICA. By W. K. McClure. The John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia.

This handsome and dignified volume contains a full and fair account of Italy's war for what she considers her rights in North Africa. It covers the diplomatic history leading up to the occupation of Tripoli, the declaration of war on Turkey, the fighting around Tripoli, and the campaign in Cyrenaica, together with a general review of the campaign. There are interesting and descriptive chapters on the Italian army, the Arabs and the Turks, and a glance into the future of the new colonies.

FORCES MINING AND UNDERMINING CHINA. By Rowland R. Gibson. The Century Company, New York.

Rowland R. Gibson is military interpreter in the Chinese language, and was formerly Chinese inspector under the Transvaal government. He presents in this volume a variety of facts regarding railroad, mining and labor conditions in China, telling "the story of the big loan," and of the rise of the Kailan mining administration, and commenting fairly on the conflicting forces that are actually mining and undermining China. The frontispiece is a handsome photogravure of Yuan Shi-Ki, President of China.

TRAVEL NOTES OF AN OCTOGENARIAN. By W. Spooner Smith. Richard G. Badger Company, Boston.

Written as an inspiration to the elderly, who may think themselves too old for travel, and includes notes on European and oriental localities.

THE NEW POLITICS. By William Garrott Brown. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

Exceptional essays on contemporary political events, including "The White Peril; The Immediate Danger of the Negro," as well as "Greetings to Presidents," and other essays.

Almost Incredible Reductions on Hats

—The most beautiful summmer millinery has taken on new price marks that are so ridiculously low as to be almost unbelievable.

—And the hats are as bright, and fresh, in nearly every instance, as though they were yesterday's creations from Bullock's Atelier. In fact, they are hardly less new than that—and they are, all of them, without exception, the most delightfully charming Bullock hats of summer time—with Southern California's most summery summer stretching out clear through September—at the merest fraction of worth.

—Months of wearing time to come, yet because of the laws of merchandising, women may

PERSONAL— MRS. MASSON, the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life. Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL. MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

PERSONAL—WOULD LIKE TO KNOW ADDRESS of Miss Marie Sinclair. Address Y, box 373, OCEAN PARK.

PERSONAL — MME. ORA, PALMIST, PSYCHIC, best 50c readings in city. 245½ S. SPRING.

WANTED—

YOU WANT TO BETTER YOUR POSITION,

Or you would not be reading these columns; I want you to better your position, that's why I am spending good money to get your attention; if you are the man I am looking for; if you have a little better than average personality, appearance, and good manners, and understand the importance of at all times sticking to the truth, I want to talk to you; I want to show you where other men who are following my instructions are making from $5000 to $10,000 a year. Men all of my own training, who have never sold real estate before, have sold on one subdivision over three hundred lots during the past three months. Connect with a real dynamo. Grab a "live wire." That's what means success. I have been paying both salary and commission for the past three months to the right men. If you are the right man, come in and see me any morning after 10 o'clock.

MR. HAMILTON,
General Sales Manager,
The JAMES R. H. WAGNER CO.

WANTED—

TO LIVE-WIRE SUBDIVISION MEN: A newly-organized firm with the best of financial backing and years of successful experience to back and direct your efforts has opened offices in Los Angeles with the intention of expanding rapidly in every branch of the real estate business.

The best money-maker on the market is at present to be pushed to a whirlwind finish, and nothing but right propositions shall ever be considered by the office. No deal too big if it has merit.

If you desire to form a valuable and lasting connection where you can make big money and work your way into a big job, if you can stand responsibility and prosperity, see us Monday. Several big positions open now. Remember that the members of this firm have been over the trail and know the hard sides and will always appreciate loyal men and try to make the road the easiest you have ever traveled.

MEAD & VAN SUBDIVISION SPECIALISTS, 1136-1138 Merchants' National Bank Bldg., 6th and Spring.

WANTED — DISTRICT SALES MANAGER OF FInancial responsibility capable of organizing a sales force on an article selling for $1500, designated by the United States government as "One of the eight greatest inventions of the decade." We must have a man of broad experience—of such character and standing as to enable him to organize his own selling company for the exclusive sales rights in restricted territory. In writing give us such information (in confidence) about yourself, experience, past and present connections as will warrant us in laying before you a full outline of a proposition which should be worth on our minimum assignment of territory, better than $10,000 annually. Address T, box 38, TIMES OFFICE.

WANTED—PARTNER ON FARM.

60 days ago I made a first payment on 120 acres of fine, level land at $125 per acre, with water. At that time I expected to handle the whole 120 acres myself, but I have since been unable to raise sufficient cash to carry the matter through. I have the land, but no money with which to develop. Therefore I need two partners, willing and able to invest $1500 cash, giving equal ownership.

I am 33 years old, educated and refined. I realize through experience that farming offers great opportunities to the young man willing to work hard and use his brains. I want to carry this thing through, but I must have two congenial, clean-cut partners who are willing to work and are able to invest equally with me.

This is an opportunity to start in business with aggressive company in the most profitable business in California. My plans, already laid, will show a good sound profit on this investment in the next two or three years. I bought the land right in the first place and I've had enough farming experience to enable me to judge of farming possibilities and impossibilities. My plans, however, are not ironclad and fixed. I'll prove to be a good partner and a hard, steady worker.

Address W. R. TOWNSEND, 1306 Bonita place, Hollywood, or Phone Broadway 4575.

WANTED—PARTNER, A FIRST-MORTGAGE BROKERAGE corporation, organized by two experienced, successful bankers with extensive business acquaintances, doing a fine business and wishing to enlarge the scope of its action, desires party, either lady or gentleman, to become associated with them who can invest from $20,000 to $100,000. Ample security, no risk, large profit and good salary if actively engaged. Only strictly legitimate, safe, conservative business handled. References given. Experience not necessary. Address D, box 120, TIMES OFFICE.

WANTED—I WANT A MAN OF ABILITY—A MAN WHO HAS BUSINESS ABILITY—I NEED A MAN IN MY BUSINESS WHO HAS NERVE. FOR SUCH A MAN I HAVE AN ATTRACTIVE PROPOSITION TO OFFER. IT DOES NOT TAKE A GREAT AMOUNT OF MONEY TO HANDLE THIS. I WANT A MAN OF ABILITY RATHER THAN WITH MONEY. A YOUNG MAN PREFERRED. CALL MONDAY MORNING FROM 9 TILL 12. 1022 CALIFORNIA BLDG.

WANTED—I WANT ONE OR TWO PARTNERS who will invest from $2500 to $5000 each in a tobacco factory that will manufacture smoking and chewing-tobacco. FOR SALE—

USED CARS.

We have on hand at the present time a better stock of used cars to offer than we have had for some time past. Something in almost every model from our 20-H.P., two-passenger roadster to a six-cylinder, seven-passenger car, at prices that are right.

We have divided our stock again and you can find something that will suit you either at our retail store or at our old location, 1006-8 South Olive street. Courteous salesmen are always ready to show you what we have and to answer any questions you may ask.

It stands to reason, considering the vast amount of trading we do, on the sale of new cars, that we can give you more for your money in a used car than any concern simply doing a brokerage business. By this we mean any firm that buys second-hand cars to sell at a profit. We also have considerable more interest in how you are taken care of after you buy than any broker can possibly have, and to verify this we guarantee all used cars that we sell.

These are plain facts and we stand behind them. Think it over and you will see that we are right.

Liberal terms are given to responsible people on all models.

Problem That Grows.

SPECIALIST IN SKYSCRAPERS.

Finds Much That's Instructive and Commendable.

At Home Manages World's Biggest Beehive.

The owners of the $29,000,000 Equitable building of New York City, the most expensive and highly specialized skyscraper ever reared, have sent Louis B. Dailey, one of the managers of the thirty-eight-story structure, on a five-month tour of the United States and Canada to study at close range the scientific management of office buildings. The expert is in Los Angeles, registered at the Clark, looking over the city's many offerings in the way of distinctive and efficiently managed buildings.

Mr. Dailey has fifty important cities on his itinerary and when he returns to New York he will have inspected about 500 of the great structures. His information will be the most voluminous and valuable yet assembled on the subject of the equipment and management of the modern office beehive.

For fifteen years Mr. Dailey has made a close study of the towering, complex structures. He was one of three experts who fixed the schedule of rates to be charged in the Equitable building. This was probably the most difficult and important problem of its kind ever tackled.

Mr. Dailey made an enviable reputation as manager of the thirty-story Whitehall building and other office buildings in New York. He has made a scientific study of how to please tenants and his success in this line has added much to his yearly salary.

"The important problem which confronts the manager of an office building is not so much obtaining tenants as keeping them," Mr. Dailey declared yesterday. "The solution of the problem involves two important factors—service and the personality of the manager.

"Most of our study is given to the question of service, which undoubtedly is a main factor in retaining tenants. It is as disastrous to have too much service as too little.

GIVE TOO MUCH.

"I find that too many of the office building managers of the country are offering too many inducements to tenants in the form of reduced rates and other allurements. We must remember, of course, that tenants are going to get everything that they can.

"It is the part of a wise manager to give service which satisfies, but which is not so expensive that it cuts down the desired margin of profit. In some of the cities I find the managers of office buildings giving tenants expensive office safes, hat trees and other movable furniture. We don't do this in New York, because we do not regard it as necessary.

"The personality of the manager is a potent factor in the successful operation of a building. A manager

WILL STAND IN MIDST OF GROVE.

SIGHTLY HOME OF HOLLYWOOD MAN TO HAVE SETTING OF UNUSUAL CHARM.

An inviting natural setting, plenty of room and a distinctly home-like atmosphere will be combined to an unusual degree in a sightly residence place to be established by R. S. McClellan at the southeast corner of Sunset boulevard and La Brea avenue, in Hollywood.

The site, comprising five acres, is largely in lemons and oranges and is one of the beautiful holdings of the northwest suburb. Plans for the house have just been completed by Architects Oliver P. Dennis and Henry Harwood Hewitt, and contracts have been let.

The dwelling will have in it a suggestion of the colonial types, but has been designed primarily to meet local requirements. It will have a shingled exterior and will be stained a weathered gray, being set off by trellises and vines. Neither in the house itself nor in the lawns and gardens around it will there be any striving after formal effects.

The first floor of the McClellan home is so planned that there will be an open vista from the sun porch at one end through the large and comfortable living-room, the spacious entrance hall and the dining-room into the breakfast-room at the other end. All will open on to a brick terrace extending across the entire front of the house. The second story will contain four bedrooms and a sleeping porch. The finish throughout will be in white enamel and mahogany.

The house will be set back 150 feet from the line of Sunset boulevard, and will be framed in a setting of fine old trees.

PURCHASE SIX ADJOINING LOTS.

THEATRICAL MAGNATE AND BANKER TO BUILD HOMES IN WINDSOR SQUARE.

Through the purchase of six large adjoining lots in Windsor square, Oliver Morosco, Los Angeles theatrical magnate, and Irving Hellman, local banker, have between them come into possession of a solid block of property in that fashionable Wilshire subdivision. Both announce their intention of building costly homes.

Morosco's purchase was made last week and included three lots. Hellman bought a single lot at the same time, adding it to two others formerly acquired. Together the two buyers now own all the frontage on Lorraine street between Fifth and Sixth street, comprising a total frontage of 600 feet. R. A. Rowan & Co. handled the transactions throughout.

Morosco, it is stated, will build a house to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and will expend a large sum in ground improvements. Special reference will be given in the plans to a reception hall, a ballroom and an immense studio. The plans for the Hellman home have not as yet been announced.

HOLLYWOOD SALES.

The C. R. Welden Company of Hollywood reports the following recent sales: W. H. Bennett to J. D. Farquhar, northwest corner Hollywood boulevard and Cherokee, 90x105 feet, $17,600; H. W. Wood to D. V. Rieger of Kansas City, 80x100 feet, Poinsettia near Hollywood boulevard, $2800; Mrs. J. R. Cameron to Mrs. Anna Butler, house on Poinsettia, $3000; Paul Compton to F. A. Wilde of Kingman, Ariz., house on Poinsettia near Hollywood boulevard, $5000; Percy L. Perry to J. J. Shannon, lot on Curson, $800; J. D. Farquhar to W. H. Bennett, house on Gardner, $5500; Mrs. Thomas Rattery to J. W. Koepsel, lot on Hillcrest, $800; J. V. Lewis to W. H. Thompson, house on Morgan place, north of Hollywood boulevard, $7500.

GOOD BEGINNING.

Two hundred and ninety building permits, representing new structures to cost in the aggregate $436,792, were issued by the Chief Inspector of Buildings from July 1 to July 10, inclusive. The fact that application was made yesterday for a permit to cover the construction of a new twelve-story Citizens' National Bank building insures that July will boast a high valuation total for the month, as this big item will undoubtedly be added to the present total within a few days. The bank block permit calls for a structure to cost $775,000, exclusive of the cost for the foundations and the general furnishings.

NORTHWEST ACTIVITIES.

Recent sales are reported by P. W. Croake as follows: Southwest corner Fountain and Havenhurst avenues, Crescent Heights, Hollywood, 100x188 feet, Jane Parker to William Grob, $3000 (the purchaser has started a $5000 bungalow;) lot on Winona boulevard, between Hollywood boulevard and Franklin avenue, 60x175 feet, J. L. D. Chandler to Minnie Hance, $2250; lot on same street, 60x175 feet, R. W. Whomes to Stephenia E. Hill, $2250; lots in Glorietta tract, each 50x135 feet, Kingsley drive, between Sunset and Hollywood boulevards, to Arthur J. Mitchell, William A. Kilius, Louisa Kilius and Anton Johnson, at $1400 and $1500 each (all have started homes;) northeast corner Mariposa and San Marino streets, 52x128 feet, Elizabeth Bennett to John Randolph, $2500 (purchaser has started a $4000 residence;) five-room cottage, lot 50x140 feet on Bayer street, between Wilton and St. Andrews places, Gail B. Johnson to Norton L. Francis, $2250; lot 50x160 feet, east side North Park View street, between Council and West First streets, F. A. Laird to W. F. Matthey, $1750, and lot, 40x137 feet, with four-room cottage, East Fifty-third street, between Compton and Long Beach avenues, George L. Jones to John Roberts, $2000.

COKE TO BURN.

Official of Geological Survey Tells of Great Production in New Mexico.

Arriving in Los Angeles from Raton, N. M., E. W. Parker, connected with the United States Geological Survey, brings the news of another supremacy of the Southwest. New Mexico has taken the lead as the coke producing State of the United States, having during the last year manufactured $1,600,000 worth of the burning material, much of which is shipped to Southern California.

"There has been a marked increase in the coke business, despite the heavy oil production of this section," said Parker, who is passing a few days with friends. "The production last year jumped more than 50,000 tons, bringing the total of the State up to nearly 500,000 tons. All of this is made in the Raton fields of Colfax county. The inferior grades of coal, usually slack, are used, so that it increases the value of the original mineral and at the same time supplies the fuel for lighting a number of cities, operating factories and mines."

NEED MORE SPACE.

Preparations are being made by the management of the Bon Ton store at Nos. 345-347 South Broadway to add two additional stories to the building now occupied by the business of that concern. The project is as yet only in its infancy, according to those interested, but is rapidly shaping to the point where definite announcements may be expected.

OPEN FRUIT TRACT.

Los Angeles Men Placing Large Holding Near Beaumont on Market Today—Water Development.

The formal opening by the Orchard Heights Land Company of a tract of 1500 acres of land adjoining the town of Beaumont on the east will take place today, the event being signalized by a special excursion to the property. The tract is the largest of the undeveloped holdings in the immediate vicinity of Beaumont and one of the best known. It is being handled by C. S. Kious of the Monarch Realty Company.

The property was formerly known as the Porter ranch and was purchased by the present owners a year ago from the Porter estate. The improvements made upon the tract in anticipation of today's opening represent an investment of close to $250,000 and include a 3,600,000-gallon reservoir, several miles of pipe and a number of streets. Water has been developed for the entire property and pumps are working daily. The tract has been subdivided into ten-acre plots.

The land is in the midst of a widely-known deciduous fruit center, apples, pears and peaches being grown in large quantity in the immediate vicinity. Several sales of parcels in the tract have already been made to various individuals, according to the announcement of the sales agents, the largest buyers having been H. Belier, C. Micheltree and W. Meadows, all of Beaumont.

CLOSE-IN IMPROVEMENT.

Hundred Thousand-Dollar Hotel Just Completed at Northeast Corner of Pico and Hope Streets.

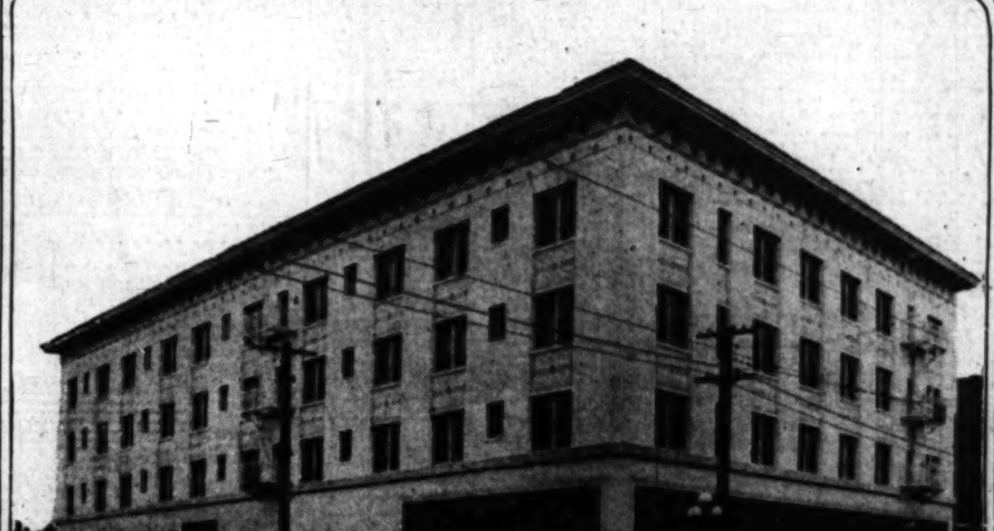
One of the most important of the many new close-in improvements in Los Angeles is a hotel at the northeast corner of Pico and Hope streets, the finishing touches of which have just been made by the contractors. The building, costing approximately $100,000, was planned for the late Victor Ponet, and had been barely started at the time of his death, a few months ago. Morgan, Walls & Morgan were the architects.

The structure is of brick and steel fram construction and four stories in height. It has a frontage of 164 feet on Hope street and of ninety-one feet on Pico. The street fronts are attractively faced with white enameled brick, patterns in polychrome tile forming the ornamentation.

The ground floor is given over to five stores on the Pico-street side and to the hotel entrance, lobby and dining-room on the Hope-street front. The entrance is in marble and tile and the lobby, 50x22 feet in size, has white enamel finish and decorated walls. There are 100 guestrooms on the three upper floors.

JOINS LOCAL FIELD.

William Moore White, formerly of San Antonio, Tex., will engage with his brother, M. K. White, in the real estate business. The firm has offices in the Wright & Callender building.



New hotel at Pico and Hope streets.

ETHELWYN MANOR HEIGHTS

—a spot that should appeal strongly to the millionaire, the artist, the author—to the man or woman who insists upon rising above the commonplace.

This incomparable subdivision stands in the very center of the beautiful valley in which is the internationally-known city of Santa Monica. The great Santa Monica race course circumscribes Ethelwyn Manor Heights on three sides. Los Angeles apears in the distance; mountains, canyons and valleys are on either side, and beach resorts and the Pacific Ocean encompass the view on the west.

Wilshire Boulevard passes the tract on the south, and San Vicente is but a short distance to the north. Look for the big red signs as you pass the tract when en route to the beaches. Our autos at your service by request.

Villa sites here may now be secured for as little as $960, on terms of 10% down and 1% monthly.

If you will but picture in your mind's eye the value of this self-same, this exclusive property when Los Angeles reaches its million mark, you will WANT to own some of it. And we'll make it so easy that you should not defer your decision to grasp this opportunity NOW.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charge for our Architectural services if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

SWISS CHALET.
AFTER YOU SEE THIS HOUSE
YOU WILL NOT BELIEVE THAT WE CAN DELIVER IT AT THE PRICE.
$7000. $7000. $7000.
BUT WE CAN.

And we would like to prove it to you. Another thing we want understood before we proceed further, is, that this is NOT a barn, BUT a house, built like a house should be built.

This lovely new eight-room Wilshire home, of the Swiss chalet type, is built upon a high sightly lot just north of Wilshire boulevard.

Now read this description slowly: The den and main living room are finished in mahogany; the dining room in Southern gum; breakfast room and kitchen in white enamel, and what's more, it has hardwood floors throughout; likewise a large screen porch and two tile baths. And we almost forgot to mention a nice cement basement, automatic hot water heater, furnace and garage.

In the whole Wilshire district there is not a house that compares with this at the price. And we can arrange satisfactory terms too. Now what do you think of that?

ENGLISH-ELIZABETHAN TYPE.
YOU SHOULD SEE THIS ONE
BEFORE BUYING.
PRICE GREATLY REDUCED FOR QUICK SALE.
$12,500. $12,500. $12,500.

Architecture certainly owes a lot to the memory of Queen Elizabeth for the existence of that style of architecture, with its impressive and artistic lines.

This house, designed by an expert, is built of brick; first-story, plaster and English timbered; second story, with immense plate windows, giving the house a very stylish and exclusive appearance.

Now read this very carefully: Plenty of room was the main idea in the construction of this house, there being twelve large, sunny rooms, the walls of which are covered with beautiful silk tapestries. First floor in carefully selected hardwoods, such as oak and curly birch. Second floor white enamel with mahogany doors, making a very attractive interior. Hardwood floors throughout. A large double garage.

It is in the most attractive location in this Wilshire Country Club district. A number of new and expensive houses recently built in the neighborhood insure first-class environments.

We would be glad to take you out and let you inspect this property any time it is convenient for you, as it must be seen to be appreciated. Can arrange very easy terms if desired.

COLONIAL TYPE.
NEW HANDSOME 12-ROOM RESIDENCE.
MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.
AT A SACRIFICE.
$16,000. $16,000. $16,000.

This is the type of house that is always in favor. This particular residence is unusually attractive with its white plaster colonial effect; wide cement porch and tiled vestibule.

To carry out the colonial effect the heavy doors and entrance are in mahogany, also the reception hall and living-room, beamed ceilings and very large windows in the living-room; den in Peruvian mahogany with French glass doors leading into the living-room; dining-room is also Colonial in effect and paneled in Tobasco mahogany with fruit decorations in oil above; elaborate buffet with leaded glass; kitchen and breakfast-room in white enamel; telephone closet; servants' room and bath downstairs. Six large sleeping rooms upstairs; two tiled baths; large dressing-room, all in white enamel; linen closet off the hall; full-length mirrors; all window shades are up; hardwood floors throughout; garage for two machines; beautiful lawns and shrubs; this house will surely interest you. Terms if desired.

MISSION TYPE.
MOST MAGNIFICENT HOME IN THE EXCLUSIVE WILSHIRE DISTRICT.
JUST THROWN UPON THE MARKET AT A BIG SACRIFICE.
$18,500. $18,500. $18,500.

Stately white plaster residence in very choice location. From the 50-foot cement porch you step through a tiled vestibule into a large reception hall in tobacco mahogany; the living-room on the left is finished in mahogany and rich silk tapestry; with its heavy beamed ceilings, grey tile mantel and large mirror, it is a wonderful room. The library at the rear of the living-room is most inviting with its high panels of Peruvian mahogany, a circle bay window at one end and the opposite side lined with book cases and writing desk.

The large dining-room in the front could not be more attractive; paneled in oak high as the doors; very elaborate buffet with mirror and leaded glass and a rich center light.

On the first floor are also the dainty white enameled breakfast-room, the white enamel buffet kitchen, large butler's pantry lined with closed shelves; the servant's room with bath; large screen porch and laundry tubs, large windows throughout the house and finest hardwoods.

Upstairs you will find everything your heart could wish for. Very large bedrooms, solarium and sleeping porch; two pure white tiled baths, with shower; large mirrors, built-in dressing tables and cabinets; the dainty wall decorations done by hand in oil; besides the large closets with drawers and cupboards there is a large dressing-room with full-length mirror; the white enameled mantel is an added touch in one of the bedrooms; the linen closet, furnace, garage for two machines, the beautiful lawns, shrubs, flowers, etc., all help to make this home so complete, and, coupled with a very attractive low price, which makes it well worth investigating.

DON'T FAIL TO READ THIS THROUGH.
BEAUTIFUL WILSHIRE HOME.
JUST FINISHED.
MUST BE SOLD AT ONCE.
$22,500. $22,500. $22,500.

We wish to inform the buying public who are in the market for a high-class home in the Wilshire district, that we have, for sale, a house, the description of which would fail to convey the smallest particle of justice to the finished product.

Built by day labor under the personal supervision of a private party who "knows every nail used in its construction" places it on a level far superior to some, and at a price much less than most of the Wilshire houses.

Placed upon one of the highest points in the Wilshire district with a view of the mountains and surrounding country which can never be shut off, the house is composed of twelve rooms, each unit of which is finished as completely as patience and skill can make it.

Downstairs the living-room, dining-room, den, solarium, breakfast-room, overlooking the most beautiful private gardens in the city, are finished in mahogany with lovely hand-painted silk tapestries.

From the breakfast-room is a large, cool porch, with tile floor, just the kind of a porch upon which one would enjoy a cool smoke, read any of the "six best sellers," or one could loll back in comfy chair on a summer afternoon and enjoy the view across green lawns and pretty gardens with lots of beautiful flowers giving out a fragrance which beggars description.

The most modern and up-to-date kitchen in tile and white enamel, with a specially constructed tile refrigerator with nickel trimmings, all built with the same careful attention given the rest of the house, and will stand the most critical examination of any modern housewife.

A beautiful and big, carefully finished staircase leads the way to the second floor, which contains four large, delightful bedrooms and an enclosed sleeping porch, all exquisitely finished in white enamel; three tile baths with shower, and plenty of roomy closets.

Below is a large basement divided into three rooms with laundry and private lockers. Bund heater, two gas furnaces and a complete vacuum cleaning system, making the house perfect and complete in every detail.

The yard is entirely covered by an automatic sprinkler system. At the rear is a big, well built double garage; lot [illegible].

A special price of $22,500, if sold soon, with very reasonable terms for this style of house makes it the biggest bargain in the city and places it in a class by itself. If you are in the market for a really beautiful home, WE WOULD ADVISE YOU TO SEE THIS AT ONCE.

CONTRACTORS—
And Builders.

ARE YOU GOING TO BUILD?
If so, why delay? You will never build cheaper than at the present time. And if you'll notice these prices you will find they have no comparison in the city. Get the other fellows' figures first, then get ours, and notice the difference. We use the best of material.
We build anything from a two-room California house to a 50-room apt. The following are a few of our prices:
2-room California house, $190.
4-room California house, $325.
4-room plastered modern, $590.
5-room plastered modern, $690.
6-room plastered modern, $840.
6-room two flats, modern, $1650.
12-room four flats, modern, $3140.
Bungalow courts a specialty. We furnish money at 7 per cent.
Before you let your job come in and see us. We'll save you money and trouble.

FOR SALE—
FREMONT PLACE.

A subdivision containing 48 large lots, averaging about 200x200 ft., occupying a ridge in the Wilshire district and fronting on both Wilshire Blvd. and Country Club Drive.

As you know, Country Club Drive is the new and fashionable 100-foot boulevard being opened parallel to Wilshire Blvd.

The lots between Wilshire Blvd. and W. 8th st. face north and south; those between 8th st. and Country Club Drive face east and west, on drives with sufficient curve to avoid monotony. There are no key lots.

The lots are being sold mainly as a whole, but in some instances frontages of not less than 75 to 90 feet can be had.

With a view to making it the most highly improved tract so far known in Los Angeles the owners have expended over $100,000.

The blocks are all so graded that the front yards have a gradual slope down to the parking.

The sidewalks are all 7 feet wide. Cement gutters extend throughout the property.

All the streets and drives, including the adjoining halves of Country Club Drive and Wilshire Blvd., are paved with asphalt.

Sewers, water and gas are brought inside the curb for each building site, so that the pavements will not have to be torn up for connections.

Electric light and telephone underground conduits are installed so that there will be no poles inside Fremont Place.

Street electroliers of classic design, almost entirely of copper bronze, have been placed, supplied with current by a separate system of underground conduits.

Under the direction of a landscape architect more than 1200 evergreen trees and shrubs of over 70 kinds, many rare, have been planted on the lots and parkings.

The usual ditches across street intersections are avoided by underground storm drains.

Four granite entrances have been erected, two on Country Club Drive and two on Wilshire Blvd., each about 80 feet wide and 15 feet high.

The streets and drives of Fremont Place are private. The address of each home is Fremont Place with the number of the lot.

Fremont Place has been carefully planned as a solution of the problem which confronts the man who wants to build a handsome home in a flawless location in the best part of the best residence section.

Liberal discounts for cash and for prompt building.

BEST LOT BUY IN ONEONTA PARK
DISTRICT—$300 UNDER VALUE.
If you desire a beautiful building lot in one of the most attractive districts in Southern California and at a bargain price better investigate this: 50x144; best of street work done; no pioneering; splendid homes all around; every convenience; only twenty minutes from city with choice of seven car lines; high ground (elevation nearly 700 feet) which means health and comfort; one block from new tourist hotel and with seven beautiful new homes now building almost in a stone's throw. Lots in very next block are selling for from $1100 to $1500. All I ask is an opportunity to prove these lots are worth $1100 each. I took them in for an old debt and want my money. Only two left, $800 each, $50 down, balance easy monthly. Will guarantee you can't beat this in the entire Oneonta Park district. Phone for appointment and I will show you.

WILSHIRE DISTRICT.
I HAVE FOR SALE NEW DUPLEX FLAT BUILDING, EACH APARTMENT 5 ROOMS, STRICTLY MODERN, ALL BUILT-IN FEATURES, INCLUDING DISAPPEARING BEDS, BUFFETS, ETC., LOT 50x154, WITH DOUBLE GARAGE. Splendid location, on car line and near new $600,000 Normal School building; flats will rent readily for $40 each. Cash value of property $8000. Will take clear vacant lot up to $3000 as part payment, and give time on balance if desired. For location and other particulars, TELEPHONE 54206.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—ONE OF THE BEST paying propositions in 64-room Apt.-house, furnished, doing business and practically full, scarcely any vacancies. I have the past records to show what the house has done. The location is close in, near Figueroa street. It's a money-maker, and the net income this year will exceed $4500. Remember that's net! The company's price on this property is $55,000, and I am reducing its holdings by exchanging for smaller properties. If you want a sure thing, sure income and an easy life see me about this property. I want to talk to owners direct. No commission on this deal. Will consider country lands, alfalfa or groves. MINER P. GOODRICH, 503 Citizens' Bank Bldg., Main 2043. Home 60654.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—DURING THE PAST week I have closed out for a corporation that I am winding up about $87,000 worth of income property.

In a certain district I have sold during the past four months, seven apartment-houses. I have one left. It has 48 rooms. Lot is 50x140, and it's a splendid income proposition. My client's price is $35,000. They have authorized me to close it out on a quick deal and I want owners who wish to retire from active life and have an easy income to submit me their proposition. No commission charged. MINER P. GOODRICH, Secretary and Attorney, 503 Citizens Bank Bldg., Main 2043, Home 60654.

FOR SALE — A NEW FOUR-FLAT BUILDING LOCATED IN THE VERY FINEST SECTION OF HOLLYWOOD, ON A LOT 50x135, WITH AN INCOME AT THE PRESENT TIME OF $1800. THE OWNER MUST HAVE $5000 CASH, BUT YOU CAN SECURE THIS ELEGANT PROPERTY AT $10,000. POSITIVELY NOTHING ELSE LIKE IT ON OUR LIST. EACH FLAT HAS FOUR ROOMS, STRICTLY MODERN, WORTH AT THE VERY LEAST, $12,000. SEE HORACE H. MULLIN, WITH ROBERT MARSH & CO., 200 MARSH-STRONG BLDG. MAIN 5045; 10175.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—AS ATTORNEY AND secretary of a corporation winding up its affairs I am offering a splendid apartment-house of 210 rooms, the actual cash income of which last year exceeded $14,000. The lot is 60x150, close in, walking distance and the house is furnished, just the place for a man to step in that wants to retire from hard work.

The price of this property is $85,000, but I can accept some exchange on it as I am reducing the holdings of the company. Owners please submit. No commission charged. MINER P. GOODRICH, 503 Citizens' Bank Bldg., Main 2043; Home 60654.

FOR SALE—

THE GARDEN OF PARADISE
is the most beautiful spot in Southern California, with up-to-the-minute conveniences, including electric car line and paved boulevards all the way from Los Angeles. That is "MONTROSE," and it is 1400 feet above the sea, overlooking Los Angeles and Glendale close by, and commanding a magnificent view of the Catalina Islands 60 miles away. The majestic Sierra Madre mountains are on the north and the verdant Verdugo hills on the south make it a distinctively picturesque spot; and because it is 1400 feet higher it is "Cooler Than The Beach;" and it is "Warmer Than The Beach" in winter because it has the protection of the foothills and is away from the damp ocean fogs and mists. Montrose and The Oakdale Little Ranches, that adjoin Montrose, are frostless and fogless. It is an ideal spot, and there is no other like it. Those who buy residence property, or ranch property, will make a mistake if they fail to investigate this unusual "Garden of Paradise" first.

$65 PER ACRE.

How would you like to buy first-class alfalfa and fruit land, with an inch or more of pure, flowing mountain water per acre, that only costs about 38 cents per year. Especially if the price per acre is only $65?

I specialize on lands in the finest valley in California, where water is more than abundant and cheap, where alfalfa makes 3 tons or more per cutting per acre, where the full market price is paid for butter fat by local creameries, and where cattle and live stock are fat the year 'round. Rich summer grazing can be had in neighboring reserves at cost of 25 cents per head for 4 months, and your stock comes out rolling fat. Climate is unsurpassed, water absolutely pure, right from mountain sources, good wells obtainable at low cost, and health conditions perfect. A natural sanitarium. The scenic beauties of this valley are famous, and the tonic qualities of its air well known. Now the home of many prosperous ranchers and orchardists, with room for many more. The finest place for a beautiful permanent home in all California, combined with good profits and a big, certain future. Only reason it was not all taken before was lack of railroad transportation, which it but recently acquired. I have studied this marvelous valley for years, made my own investments there successfully, and know it thoroughly. I can locate you right, on good properties, and at prices that will amaze you (considering the real values.) Titles good. Will show you the valley thoroughly in my auto IF YOU MEAN BUSINESS. I can deliver the goods and if you are "from Missouri" I can certainly "show" you just what I describe. I also have some splendid developed properties that can be had at very reasonable figures, with good reasons for being for sale at all. Real bargains. Write, phone F0658, or call for personal interview at Room 308, I. W. Hellman Bldg. VAN BOKKELEN.

FOR SALE—
5 ACRES AND INDEPENDENCE AT NORTH WHITTIER HEIGHTS.
THE "CREAM OF ORANGE, LEMON, WALNUT AND AVOCADO LAND SUBDIVISIONS.

A personal investigation of the citrus industry on the slopes of the Whittier Hills will convince the most skeptical that a 5-acre orange or lemon grove in bearing in this section will make a comfortable living for any average family, and 10 acres will bring you wealth.
No other horticultural or agricultural district in the whole of the United States can boast as many prosperous ranchers or orchardists who have started with so small an amount of capital.
The North Whittier Heights subdivision is being sold in either planted or unplanted tracts of 5 to 30 acres, and on exceptionally easy terms if desired. We will also contract to plant or care for groves for those who desire to have us do so.
Call at our office and let us take you out by automobile to see the 800 acres of young groves on our property and talk to the satisfied owners.
If you are in the market for an investment in a choice piece of foothill citrus land, and which is also a desirable location for a country home, you will be pleased with North Whittier Heights.

FOR SALE—TO GOOD, PRACTICAL FARMERS, I will sell 160 acres, more or less, choice alfalfa land located in Tulare county, all under water, and some in alfalfa, all ready to make money. If you can show good references I will sell on five years' time on full purchase price at 6 per cent., by paying the interest one year in advance. These lands are all close to stations, school and creameries; water lift 18 to 25 feet. The pumping plants are ideal and up-to-date. Prices range from $175 to $200 per acre. Call Monday. If you have money to stock 40 acres or more, the profits will soon pay for the land.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY—

FOR SALE—

COME IN AND LET US SHOW YOU HOW YOU CAN BECOME THE OWNER OF SOME OF

THE CREAM OF THE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY.
DOS PALOS RANCHO.

We offer in parcels to suit, 15,000 acres of the finest lands for the growing of alfalfa, dairying, fruit trees, grapes, olives, nuts and vegetables, that can be found in the State of California.

It is located in Fresno county, about 55 miles west and a little north of the city of Fresno, being but three miles south of the station of Dos Palos on the Southern Pacific Railroad, and connected by excellent roads, giving good transportation, freight, passenger and express facilities.

The soil of this tract is ideal in texture, being easily worked at practically any season of the year. It is a rich, deep, productive silt about 45 feet in depth and of great fertility, as evidenced by the native growth, and further proved by the crops we are raising there, and the splendid growth of our planted fruit trees.

There is absolutely NO ALKALI, NO HARDPAN, NO ADOBE, on the tract. It lies as level as a floor with a fall of ten feet to the north and 6 feet to the south, making it ideal for irrigation. The cost of preparing for irrigation is thus nominal. The soil takes water easily, retains it a long time and the water table is low enough to insure its never becoming water-logged or sour.

We have a banner stand of alfalfa, planted last April 2, 1913, yielding 7½ tons to date, with another heavy cutting on the way.

Fruit trees of all varieties planted about the same time last year have made a strong, healthy growth.

We have fully demonstrated the water supply as ample as to quantity and excellent as to quality, developed by wells and pumped by electricity.

Experts who have but recently examined our tract report it as one of the finest they have ever examined in California or elsewhere.

We will sell tracts in any size, with or without water development, at very low prices compared with real values.

Call at our office for full information and to see soil and crop samples, or write for descriptive circulars and information.

This property will stand right up to our every representation, and will bear the strictest investigation.

Will sell on liberal terms at $65 to $110 per acre.

If you are looking for the VERY BEST at today's low prices, on liberal terms, do not fail to look into our offer on this property. We will consider offers for large acreage on a basis that will be satisfactory to you.

INVESTIGATE THIS WITHOUT FAIL.
IT WILL PAY YOU.

OWENS RIVER LANDS—

FOR SALE—
The Owens Valley offers to ranchers and homeseekers more practical advantages than any spot in California. Such generous and free water conditions are unknown elsewhere. Snowfed streams from mountain sources are in abundance, and water cost is only for ditch maintenance, averaging 38 cents per acre. Here is one place where you can have all the water you want, all the time, and just when you want it. And the purest and finest water you ever saw. Alfalfa frequently cuts 3½ tons per acre, two and three cuttings per season. Live stock are butter fat, and thrive under ideal conditions. Local creameries pay highest market prices in California. Apples, peaches, pears, apricots and all small fruits and berries grow in astonishing abundance and vigor, giving fruit of the very finest quality and of astonishing size.

This beautiful valley was without transportation up to four years ago, when the advent of the new railroad opened it to markets. Lands of the finest quality can be had there today at prices that are fair to the buyer, insuring him the benefit of big future advances. This is also a fine wheat and corn country, in fact, a natural grain and fruit country. It must be seen to be appreciated.

We are subdividing the well-known Sanger ranch into forty-acre lots. There will be but 50 of them, each one capable of being made into a most attractive and profitable home place. Over 300 acres of finest alfalfa now on the place, and plenty of other crop and fruit demonstration. We want homeseekers and actual developers, and to such will make favorable prices and terms. Party going up there last of this week. Join us and see the garden spot of California. If you haven't seen Owens Valley then you haven't seen the BEST. Every visitor there returns saying: "I didn't know there were such conditions obtainable in California."

You, Mr. Rancher, who is seeking for the best home and profit conditions—You, Mr. Eastern Farmer, who is "homesick" for plenty of water and big trees, and the songs of robins and Baltimore orioles—You, Mr. Investor, who has "seen everything in California" and is not yet suited—come in and get the facts in the case, and then go up there and see for yourself. You will not be disappointed, for the "goods" are there waiting for you. If you, too, are "from Missouri" we can "show you," and for once at least you'll not be disappointed. Phone A2144, or Main 2266. Write, or best of all, call in person at room 601 H. W. HELLMAN BLDG., northeast corner Spring and Fourth streets. Ask for Rea.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

MR. MAN

HERE IS AN OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU.
YOU WHO HAVE NOT USED YOUR CAREY ACT RIGHT.
50 Cents An Acre.
U. S. Government Lands Under
$1,000,000 Irrigation System.

The opportunity to buy this land may be gone tomorrow—act now and avoid disappointment. These lands under $1,000,000 irrigation system, completed and in operation—good, proven alfalfa land at only 50 cents an acre. State of Utah has limited price of water to $30 an acre—$1 per acre cash and 12 years' time to pay the balance. For the land you pay only 25 cents an acre down, the remaining 25 cents an acre in three years.

Good schools, ready markets—in a settled district. Only 5 hours from Salt Lake City and 30 hours from Los Angeles. Delightful climate and good pure water. Water for irrigation system ready for delivery to every acre open to settlement. No speculators wanted—come prepared to settle and establish yourself. By actual registered statistics this land should soon pay for itself. 15 tons of sugar beets to the acre have been raised here; as high as 60 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of oats from land one year from the brush; $75 to $100 an acre netted from alfalfa seed; 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre the first year; $200 an acre would not buy this land from old California ranchers who have bought and settled here. Write or call at once for folder containing detailed information, testimonials, etc. Inquire about the special homeseekers' excursions leaving Los Angeles Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 9 o'clock. Special rates will be given those applying at our office. Remember—title to land is perfect, land passes from Federal government to State and from State to settler. Don't overlook this opportunity. Use your Carey Act right NOW! We will be glad to give you testimonials from former California ranchers. Come into our offices today—look into this opportunity. Delay may mean disappointment.

BUSINESS INVESTMENTS—

WANTED—YOUR TIME AND MONEY.

SUPPOSE a six-year-old established, incorporated industrial company was manufacturing a specialty and selling to merchants and shopkeepers on easy monthly payments, secured by Lease Contract Notes.

SUPPOSE that they had some $13,000.00 in such notes coming in at the rate of $1100.00 per month.

SUPPOSE that the profits were large and they could well afford to allow a man with cash to finance, by discounting or upon a straight collateral loan. A good salary and 1 per cent. per month from month to month on the actual cash used.

SUPPOSE the company had at this time nearly $5000 in unfilled orders secured by contract notes, would your money not earn money?

SUPPOSE that each and every note was indorsed and absolutely guaranteed by the company. Would that not be prime commercial paper?

SUPPOSE that all collections were made by the company at its own expense and full settlement on all notes made by one flat check monthly. Nothing past due, no detail.

SUPPOSE that you were looking for an opportunity to let your money make money. Could you loan or invest your cash at a better rate of interest? And while you are earning a fair salary you can see your money earn money.

SUPPOSE you were a book-keeper, salesman, mechanic, brass worker, cabinet maker or had a certain ability that would fit into our organization, then this is your opportunity.

SUPPOSE that you were made a director and treasurer of the company and signed all checks. Would you have confidence in the management and its expenditures?

SUPPOSE that you were interested in manufacturing—a specialty "Made in Los Angeles." Could you find anything better? The opportunity is before you and worthy of your immediate investigation. Why not call at our main office and salesroom, 202 SOUTH LOS ANGELES ST. Ask for H. A.

WANTED—

OIL! NEW OIL FIELD HAS BEEN DISCOVERED and is being extensively developed in Western Canada. The oil is of highest grade that has ever come out of the earth. The first strike made but a few weeks ago. You can get in now on ground floor. Already profit of over $6,000,000 has been made in purchase of oil shares, and the start has only been made. We are offering at $1 per share a limited amount of stock in the Clarke Mitchell Oil Wells, Ltd., with a capital of $500,000 organized under the strict Canadian Company Laws. This company owns and controls 2880 acres all in the accepted oil zone. The fortunes that were made in the other oil districts will be duplicated in Western Canada. We have prepared a well-illustrated circular with a reproduction in two colors of the latest map of the oilfields. It gives up-to-the-minute information, and contains all the facts about Clarke Mitchell and oilfields in general. We will send you this circular free, postal card will do; just say, send me circular No. 42. Address BRITISH COLUMBIA ESTATES, LTD., BOWER BLDG., Vancouver, B. C., Canada.

HER FAITH IN JURIES.

So the Woman With the Diamond Tooth Demands That Kind of a Trial.

Anna Baker, conspicuous because she wears a half-carat diamond in a front tooth, was arraigned in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday to answer the charge of having conducted a disorderly house at No. 610½ South Spring street. She demanded a jury trial, which will be held the 27th inst. Bail is fixed at $200.

Several jury trials have resulted in the acquittal of the woman with the diamond tooth, when the charge was equally serious. She has great faith in juries. In the past, the jurors have declared that she couldn't be as bad as she was represented to be.

Miss Bobbie Gale and Miss Alice Lawrence, caught in the same raid, will have jury trials the 28th and 30th insts., respectively. Both are released under $100 bail. Miss Nellie Watson, also one of the raided, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and promised to leave the city if her sentence was suspended. She immediately went out and bought a suit case.

WOULD DEEPEN CHANNEL.

The United States Engineer gives notice that an application has been made by the San Pedro Reduction Company for permission to deepen the channel leading from the East Basin, Los Angeles Harbor, to their plant on Terminal Island. Persons having objections, based on navigation interests, must file them in duplicate on or before 11 a.m., July 17.

Preventive Work.

THIS OFFICE IS AN INNOVATION.

OFFICIAL HOUSEKEEPER MAKES FIRST REPORT.

Tells How She Has Not Only Given Advice, but Has Rolled Up Her Sleeves and Done the Work of Cleansing Filthy Homes and Encouraging the Poor.

The plan of Mrs. A. I. Bradley of the juvenile court staff, to keep hundreds of boys and girls out of the hands of the court and have them live together in their own homes, as they should, through the employment of an official housekeeper, has worked out satisfactorily.

One month ago, she appealed to the County Supervisors and presented her proposition for the saving of money to the county, and Mrs. Olive Slipp was appointed housekeeper, under the juvenile court, at a salary of $60 a month. Under the direction of Mrs. Bradley, who, through her long experience, knows just where such services are needed, the work has been prosecuted.

Mrs. Slipp, a sunny-faced, prepossessing young matron, made her first monthly report to Mrs. Bradley on Friday, showing many families visited and residences renovated, with the desired result. It would be unfair to give names and locations, but the following three sample cases will serve to illustrate what is being accomplished in the district northeast of First and Main streets:

Living in one little room, in indescribable filth, were four children and their grandfather; the father dead, the mother in a hospital. The eldest is a girl of 15, who is the "little mother" of the family. Mrs. Slipp rolled up her sleeves, after tenderly winning the sympathy of the children, and helped the girl clean up. Telling the latter she would return the next day and would expect to find the house as clean as she left it, she was surprised to find that the girl and her grandfather had continued the polishing process, and her visits through the month have transformed the place into a neat home, where the children live in comfort.

The second case is that of a sick mother, four children and the father, living in two miserable rooms. The eldest of the children is a girl of 12, and she and Mrs. Slipp cleaned up the rooms and the latter washed up the mother and the children. The father, being out of work, lent a hand the next day and the place has been kept in shining condition ever since. This mother had been urged to go to a hospital and have her children cared for through the juvenile court, but she refused to do so, declaring she wanted to keep her children. Her health immediately began to improve and the whole household is in vastly better condition.

In another case the housekeeper found three children in a filthy room caring for themselves, the eldest being a girl of 13. The mother is dead and the father was at work, and the only article of food in the house was some flour. There was practically no furniture and the bed on which they all slept was filthy. The floor was strewn with cigarette stumps and burned matches and had not been cleaned up perhaps for months. Mrs. Slipp aided the little girl in renovating the place and left word for the father that he must be more careful and that she would call again the next day. To her surprise when she went back, everything was tidy; new pillow cases, a white sheet and a white spread on the bed, additional food on the table and, most wonderful of all, a new broom in the corner.

The neighbors at all the places Mrs. Slipp has visited have taken an object-lesson from her example and have also cleaned up their own homes, so that the results are most noticeable.

Mrs. Slipp is supposed to be the first official housekeeper in the United States, under pay of the county, and Mrs. Bradley is so greatly elated at the outcome that she is convinced that many others might be employed to a great saving of money to the county, keeping families together and improving living and health conditions.

EIGHT THOUSAND MORE ENROLLED.

GREAT INCREASE IN THE CITY SCHOOL PUPILS DURING PAST YEAR.

A little body of nearly 8000 was added to the school population of this city last year, the total enrollment being 87,209. This is an increase of nearly 10 per cent. over enrollment for the last school year of 1912-13, the total enrollment for that year having been 79,887.

According to the annual reports of Deputy Superintendent Monlux, for the school year 1913-14, just completed, there were 290 more teachers employed last year than during the preceding year, the total number during the last year being 2380, while during the preceding year it was 2090. The increase in average daily attendance is in proportion to that of enrollment, being 57,201 during the past year as against 51,452 during the year preceding.

Following are the figures as set out in the report for school year 1913-14: Kindergarten—total enrollment, 7897; average daily attendance, 3607; number of teachers, 202. Primary and grammar grades—total enrollment, 63,185; average daily attendance, 44,-908; number of teachers, 1690. High School—total enrollment, 16,227; average daily attendance, 8696; number of teachers, 488. Totals, all schools—enrollment, 87,209; average daily attendance, 57,201; number of teachers, 2380.

Mr. Monlux prophesies a much higher increase in enrollment at the beginning of next year, owing to opening of the Panama Canal and the San Francisco exposition, and states that the corps of teachers will probably be enlarged to at least 2500 to begin the year 1914-15.

HIS POINT OF VIEW.

Australian Finds Etiquette of Pullman Cars in This Country Sadly Lacking in Morality.

Looking as if he had spent a sleepless night, a stranger drifted into one of the local hotels yesterday and registered from Sydney, Australia.

"How do you like our country?" queried the clerk.

"I cawn't say that I do."

"Why, what's the matter. Climate's all right, isn't it?"

"Yes, climate's fine, but I was terribly shocked coming down from San Francisco last night, you know. The men and women both slept in the same car. I think you are terribly deficient in morals."

No Longer a Democrat.

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] On the eighth day of July, for the first time in my life, I registered as a Republican, or rather, I changed my registration from Democrat to Republican.

I have left the Democratic party while it is proud and dominant. Possibly I could never have had the heart to leave the old party while it was down and in distress.

I am joining the Republican party when it has a smaller per cent. of the members of Congress than ever before in my lifetime, and I reside in the Ninth California District, which is represented by a Progressive.

(1.) Why did I do this? I have come to believe in protection. And I, therefore, am opposed to the present tariff reductions on sugar and other products of our State.

(2.) I favor free toll for our coastwise shipping through the Panama Canal. And in this connection I favor a line of government-owned merchantmen to carry mail, passengers and freight in time of peace, and for use as transports in time of war. And I assume that such a line of vessels could and would be permitted to pass through the canal without paying tolls.

(3.) Our country should maintain a navy in the Pacific Ocean stronger in all sorts of ships and airships than any other navy on the Pacific.

(4.) We should have a mobile, regular army, permanently located on the Pacific Coast, equal in numbers to the troop capacity of the transports of any other nation on the Pacific Ocean.

(5.) We should hold the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska and all our other possessions in and on the Pacific by adequate armies and fleets and fortifications. And to make this possible we should lead the world in fleets of airships and submarine vessels. At the same time not ceasing our construction of dreadnoughts, until other nations begin to reduce their navies.

There are other measures that I believe in, but I have gone far enough to show that what I want for my country cannot be had in the Democratic party.

As for the Progressive party, I am for progress. But not for Roosevelt—nor for any other man for a third term. The Republican party refused a third term to Grant and to Roosevelt, so I feel that the Republican party can be trusted to abide by the American idea of only two terms for any President.

MILK FOR BABES.

Station to Provide Better Food for Children of the Poor Will Be Opened Tomorrow.

The new station to provide modified milk for the babies of the poor will be opened tomorrow at No. 121 South Utah street in a bungalow furnished by the Woman's Maternity Hospital Association. A municipal child's welfare bureau, which will be operated in conjunction with the station, will be opened at the same time.

For one hour, beginning at 12:30 p.m., physicians from the city health department will give expert advice to mothers on the care of their babies. During the rest of the afternoon visitors will be received and the work of the milk station and the welfare bureau systematized. Mothers will have the advice of both physicians and graduate nurses.

The new milk station, the first of its kind in the East Side, was made possible through the generous gifts of the Scottish Rite Masons and the assistance given by the city health department, the Nursing Commission and the maternity hospital.

Dr. L. M. Powers, Health Commissioner, has been especially interested in the enterprise. The welfare feature will be under the general supervision of Mrs. F. M. Birch, chief nurse of the city health department. Miss Ella Bates will be the nurse in charge of the milk station and Miss J. L. Breed, also an expert in her line, will have the direction of the welfare bureau.

The "Times" Camp.

PARADISE FOR BOYS IN CATALINA'S VALE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AVALON, July 11.—Many hundred visitors have been attracted to the camp in the last two weeks by the neat group of tents situated among the trees, where all facilities have been provided for an ideal camp for boys.

Visitors are always welcome and a visit to the camp is enough to convince anyone that it is the best of its kind and a mecca for all the live youngsters of the Sunny Southland.

The well-known interest in boy life and boy doings is evident in a walk baths, where hot and cold showers baths, where hot and cold showers may be enjoyed, to Chef Jackson's large range, where only the very best of wholesome food is cooked for those live young guests of the camp.

In a visit to the camp, W. L. Williams, manufacturer's agent of Los Angeles, commended the Times Camp as being better equipped to take care of the little fellows than any one he has ever seen.

"My interest in boys has caused me to take some interest in this special outdoor camp before, and I have read the accounts in The Times with great pleasure, but never realized that you were attempting so much and that such an ideal camp was possible," he said.

"The Times certainly deserves a great deal of credit and much praise for what it is doing for the boys of Southern California. The whole plan is modern and up to date, by which the boys are able to enjoy the many pleasures the camp affords. Not a boy in all Southern California should miss the opportunity of enjoying an ideal vacation as a guest of The Times."

Among the many outdoor pleasures to be enjoyed at convenience are the boating trips in the glass-bottom boat Empress, to the marine gardens, sailing, swimming, fishing, hiking, and all athletic sports such as baseball, track events, quoits, soccer, etc.

Oran Wakefield, better known among the boys as the "Judge," the experienced superintendent of the camp and a corps of ten assistants maintain the necessary discipline among the boys, keep them out of danger, arrange for all athletic contests and games and see that they are well taken care of in general.

Chef Jackson, who in the past four years has had the pleasure of feeding over 5000 guests of The Times, has never heard a boy complain about the menu or has seen one sick on account of the food. Of course, there have been many cases of overeating, but a hike to the hills in search of wild goats or a dip in the briny soon dispells such cases.

Only the very best of wholesome foods are served and when a man or boy puts his feet under Chef Jackson's table he is certain he is going to enjoy a sumptuous meal cooked and served as it should be.

The camp can provide for about forty boys on each trip; it isn't large enough to take care of them as they secure their necessary subscriptions, so that reservations must be made in advance.

The fifth contingent of boys that leaves on Monday is practically full. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth trips are also well under way, so if you anticipate going on one of these trips, boys, make your reservations now, as a delay of a few days might alter your plans.

For every six new subscriptions to the Sunday and Daily Times for one month or longer, you will be awarded a four-day vacation outing to The Times Catalina Camp for Boys all expenses paid from Los Angeles to Catalina and return.

You are not required to bring a thing except a mind fully made up to enjoy the best vacation outing of your lives.

The following visitors registered at the camp today: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Williams, Mrs. J. Brucker, Miss Theresa Brucker, Miss Rose J. Brucker, Miss Rosa Brecker, Mrs. Pendleton, Mrs. E. Malcolm, Miss Eva M. Boggs, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Middleton of Alhambra and Mrs. Henry Musick, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Brewer, Mrs. Virgil R. Sutliff of Pasadena.

NO MONEY FOR WITNESSES.

Federal Officers Vouching for Meals and Lodging Pending Arrival of Funds From Government.

The spectacle of United States Marshal Walton and Dist.-Atty. Schoonover vouching for sleeping quarters and meal tickets for a number of the witnesses subpoenaed in the case of the American Brokerage Company is now thrown on the local canvas.

With the close of the fiscal year, June 30, the United States Marshal found that he had just $2.17 to draw on for the expenses of his office, and the corridors full of witnesses summoned in the pending trial. Since that time the bill of expense has been piling up at the rate of about $100 a day, due to great expense the government is incurring in the hearing.

The appropriations for the support of the Federal Courts expired with the close of the fiscal year, but a resolution was adopted by both branches of Congress extending the old appropriations until July 15. Usually, when the Marshal is out of funds a delay of but a short time ensues, or until a few thousand dollars can be secured from San Francisco, but for some reason nothing has been sent to the local officials.

The California witnesses in the case who have testified and been discharged, managed to get money enough to get home, and their checks will be sent to their address later on, but a score living in various parts of the country, whose bills will amount to several hundred dollars each, and who have testified cannot be discharged because Uncle Sam cannot pay them, and they have been compelled to call for assistance.

SUSPECTED OF BURGLARY.

Postoffice Inspector Lowe is investigating the case against P. F. Kavanaugh and William R. Kerr, who are held at San Bernardino, on the charge of burglary. In Kerr's possession 500 1-cent and 300 2-cent postage stamps were found, and it is believed that the stamps were taken at one of the recent postoffice robberies in this vicinity, presumably from the Van Nuys office.

WON'T WEAR THEM NOW.

Alfred Brown and Frank Kent, 15 years old, were fitting themselves early yesterday in the nattiest outfit of suits they had ever worn when detectives walked in upon them at the tailoring shop of Wolf & Figleman, No. 422 West Fourth street. They were disputing about the possession of a pair of checked trousers when they were stopped and taken to the Central Police Station. They had entered the shop by forcing a door.

NEW FLIM-FLAM ARTISTS AT WORK.

FALSELY REPRESENT AGENTS OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

There's a new trick to catch a sucker every day of the week, and in the last few days the trick has been the bait for numerous wholesale grocers, commission and dry goods merchants, who have fallen for the clever representation of a pair or more of bunko artists who are working Southern California as representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

They carry a full line of fictitious documents giving them full and complete authority to represent the commission in the investigation of freight and express bills which they assume to check up for the detection or errors or overcharges on the part of common carriers.

Nine times out of ten they discover very serious discrepancies where they are allowed to go ahead with the work. They make a brief report and at the same time a charge of from $2.50 to $5, always in cash, for work that takes them from fifteen minutes to an hour in each place.

Police and Federal authorities have been notified of the flim-flam and are on the lookout for two plausible, well-dressed and educated young men. Several dealers who took the reports before the railroad to secure a rectification of errors, were shown that their reports were all wrong and this created the first suspicion.

Inquiry revealed the fact that as far as ascertainable, there are no special inspectors of this character employed by the Interstate Commerce Commission working in this territory. The same game was lucratively followed, possibly by the same young men, through the Middle West, according to Secretary Olsen of the Southern California Retail Grocers' Association, who has issued a public warning through the Commercial Bulletin and called in the authorities in an endeavor to catch the sharpers.

SCHOOL MA'AM TO BIG FINANCIER.

"FRECKLED CANDID SUE" MADE FORTUNE IN GUAYULE RUBBER TRADE.

Some years ago there was a farmer's daughter living in the Fox River bottoms of Clark county, Missouri, who was known far and near as "Freckled Candid Sue." After teaching school for a few years the young woman—Miss Sue Greenleaf—came out of the backwoods and startled her old-time friends by raising $8,000,000 in New York to finance the guayule rubber industry of Mexico. The heroine of this financial exploit is in Los Angeles, registered at the Alexandria.

In the women's "Who's Who," Miss Greenleaf is rated as one of the most successful business women of the country. She is also an accomplished linguist, writer and conversationalist. Her home is in San Francisco. Her mother, 82 years of age, lives with her.

"I am glad that a number of years of friction with the world has erased neither my freckles nor my candor," Miss Greenleaf declared yesterday. "My success in business has been predicated on honesty.

"When I am presenting a business proposition I first talk the strong points and then I show the weak points. Most of the big business men with whom I deal discover the weak points in time, anyhow. It is my theory that the sooner they know them the better. My friends have told me that I am foolish for following this policy, but I believe that it is the secret of my success."

Ten years ago Miss Greenleaf acquired one-third interest in a process for manufacturing rubber from the bark of the guayule, a low shrub which grows abundantly in several parts of Mexico. She shipped rubber to rubber companies in various cities in America and abroad. Previously she had obtained options on 2,000,000 acres of land in Mexico.

Miss Greenleaf went to New York City and in a few months interested capital to the extent of $3,000,000. Later she and her associates sold their interests to a group of men, headed by Senator Aldrich, who formed the Continental Mexican Rubber Company. The Senator's son, E. B. Aldrich, is now president of the company.

After Miss Greenleaf's success in Mexico she added to her reputation by concluding a number of big business transactions with financiers of international reputation. She is in Los Angeles on a business deal.

A Real Prize.

N BERNARDINO LOOMS BIG ON INTERURBAN MAP.

t Community to Come Under Trolley Suzer- of Los Angeles Possesses Everything That Goes ake Up a Modern City—Is Metropolis of Great d Empire.

RNARDINO, Gate City of rn California, and metropo- at of government of an pire of its own, is at one of al periods of its history. For e bustling city at the very to "summer-land" has of the trolley line from Up- missing link in the Pacific world-beating chain of in- roads that has just been traffic. Entirely sufficient though they have al- , the people of San Bernardino have longed to really "belong" to the sisterhood of interurban cities, and to enjoy and profit by that daily touch with the Southwest metropolis that the advent of the swiftly-moving red cars has given to so many other Southland communities.

It is a mistake to say, however, as so many newspaper writers have been saying in the past few days, that as the result of the final completion of the Los Angeles-Gate City electric line, "San Bernardino has come into its own." San Bernardino came into its own years ago, before the trolley extension from Upland eastward or ever the trolley to Upland itself was ever discussed. It became a city and an important commercial center and trading point as the result of the natural growth of the vast and wonderfully productive territory immediately tributary to it, and needed no trolley connection with Los Angeles or anywhere else to insure its constant growth along the permanent lines.

The people of San Bernardino, nevertheless, are keyed to a feeling of lofty optimism over the new trolley line that has just entered their business section. In it they see the promise of a future growth and development such as would never have been possible without its coming. They see themselves benefiting directly from the new road by being able to get to and from Los Angeles, and all the intermediate points along the sixty-mile stretch of track with the comfort, dispatch and convenience of schedule that is to be found in an interurban electric service. Of even greater significance to their city, they realize, will be the building up along suburban lines of the beautiful and fertile country through which the new railway extension penetrates.

As an acquisition in its field of interurban contact Los Angeles must look to San Bernardino as one of the greatest of the prizes that have been brought under its suzerainty in all the years that the fleet red cars of the Pacific Electric have been pioneering through the Southland. San Bernardino is itself an interurban center with lines radiating in every direction, and in adding the Gate City to its chain of electric railway "suburbs," Los Angeles may be said to be adding Redlands, Riverside, Colton, Arlington and a host of smaller places as well.

THOROUGHLY MODERN.

San Bernardino has long since ceased to be the old "San Berdoo" of the miner and the railroad man. Its business district is as modern as that of any city of its size in the country, it has miles of beautifully payed streets, thousands of attractive homes and the varied commercial and industrial interests of an important center of population. Four thousand persons are employed in its various business and manufacturing establishments. The shipping center for a large part of the citrus belt, it boasts the largest precooling plant in the world.

Its 20,000 inhabitants enjoy educational and social advantages unsurpassed among Southern California cities. San Bernardino has churches of every denomination, beautiful edifices that are a credit to the city. It has a splendid Y.M.C.A. It has seventeen well-equipped schools and is on the point of beginning a new $250,000 High School and several new grade buildings. Its public library is one of the finest in the State. Its five banks are strong institutions that command the respect of financial men throughout the Southwest. Its business blocks are up-to-date and substantial and its merchants are prosperous.

Handsome additions to both the business and residence districts of the city have been made during the past year and building activity generally

RED CARS MAKE SUBURBS OF RICH COMMUNITIES.

Completion of Los Angeles-San Bernardino Electric Line Brings Peerless Developed Territory Into Close Contact With Business and Social Life of Southwest Metropolis—Future of District.

FIVE years of progress and hundreds of thousands of dollars in enhanced property values have been bestowed upon one of the fairest and most fertile sections of Southern California through the opening to traffic yesterday of the long-waited-for link of the Pacific Electric Railway connecting Los Angeles with San Bernardino. This is a modest statement of the actual value of this new railway construction to the territory to which its service is henceforth dedicated, if one may accept in the broad sense the testimony of the enthusiastic populations of such bustling communities as Upland, Cucamunga, Etiwanda, Fontana, Rialto, Bloomington, and San Bernardino.

Two or three years ago, before this railway extension from Upland to San Bernardino had advanced beyond the stage of discussion, there were "doubting Thomases" who had too little faith in the signs that foreshadow great constructive movements to realize that this particular bit of railway track—some twenty-two miles long—was the most natural as well as the most needed thing in that section of Southern California. The road was finally built, not merely because a railway system wanted it to complete a quota of track, but because thousands of busy, earnest men and women, whose activities covered such fields as citrus fruit grower, ranchman, orchardist, storekeeper, clerk, railroad man and a hundred other lines, had brought this fertile country into that condition of development which brings transportation to its beck and call. The fact that the road is now a living, moving part of this rich section's manifold advantages has caused a burst of public approval the like of which has not been exceeded since the familar "red car" became a factor in Southern California's daily life.

Four years ago were heard the first whisperings of this projected railway. It was then broached by President Paul Shoup himself, who had grown up in San Bernardino before launching upon the career that was to make him the head of the great interurban system, and who understood more clearly than any of his colleagues the vital needs of the little communities comprising what has come to be known as "the sisterhood of citrus cities." There followed a lengthy period of waiting while the ranchers and fruit growers took turns at fretting and casting their eyes longingly at Monrovia, Pomona, Ontario, San Dimas, Azusa and Glendora, and saw in these places the practical benefits of being linked to bigger outside activities by this selfsame railway.

Eighteen months ago, when the people between Upland and San Bernardino read the announcement that the Pacific Electric had the money available and ready for the piece of railway construction, they so much desired, they gave vent to their satisfaction by smoothing the way and making easier the important matter of rights of way. When, on June 7, 1913, exactly one year and thirty-five days ago, the first spade of dirt marking the actual beginning, was turned by President Shoup at Fontana, several thousand of these same well-wishers and hearty co-operators gathered at the ceremonial to pledge support to the enterprise.

Coincident with this big Fontana celebration it was announced that the railway company would construct twenty-two miles of standard gauge track connecting with the existing line from Los Angeles to Upland and extending to the business section of San Bernardino. It was to cost approximately $1,250,000, and it was to be as modern in trackage and equipment as present-day engineering skill could make it.

All this has been done, the last spike has been driven and the people are in possession of electric railway facilities that pave the way for a greater development than this country has ever known. Now, instead of having to depend wholly upon steam railroad service for the shipment of their freight and their passage to and fro, nearly 100,000 people have at their disposal, day or night, the sort of transportation that forever puts to rest the thought that they are "detached" or even "remote."

THROUGH SOIL EMPIRE.

The new railway link opens up to the suburban development that is always made possible by the advent of the speeding electric cars a group of most promising little communities, clustered along the base line of towering, rugged mountains. From four to six miles apart, they are bound together by steel rails, by numerous county roads and by a State highway. Each has its own identity, its own character and beauty, but all have their foundations on the same kind of permanence and security.

The soil is their mainstay. They form an important part of the agricultural and horticultural back country, which helps Los Angeles to maintain her bigness and importance in the business of this hemisphere. Thousands of carloads of oranges, lemons, grapefruit and other products of the field go annually into the markets of the East from this district to swell the total of California's wealth.

Among the communities that are served by the new link of railway there is hardly any difference in outward appearance, except those differences which result from age or from the character and effort of their inhabitants. All have the advantages of fertile soil, beauty of surroundings, mild and exhilarating climate, excellent educational facilities and that progressiveness of spirit which is born of rugged and independent life. In point of age San Bernardino is the oldest of the "sister cities" on the new railway line, and Fontana the youngest.

Because of their close association and the affinity of their interests, Upland, Ontario, Cucamonga and Etiwanda are generally regarded as being in one district. In this combined district there are some 16,000 acres in bearing citrus groves, in addition to which the section boasts of extensive vineyards and deciduous fruit orchards. In the Cucamonga section one winery has 4000 acres planted to grapes. The population of the territory, taken unofficially through Chambers of Commerce, is estimated at from 18,000 to 20,000. Fine foothill homes, surrounded by productive citrus groves, dot the district.

FONTANA-RIALTO LANDS.

The next district on the east toward San Bernardino includes Fontana and Rialto, which are separated by about four miles of level farming

IN FULL SWING.

Summer Building Activity in South Pasadena Unsurpassed by that of Any Other Period of Year.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, July 11.—Prosperity is in full swing in South Pasadena, according to the report of the building inspector, John W. Moore. Although June is generally a poor month for building, this year it has surpassed the records of all other months. Twenty-eight permits were issued during the month, with a total valuation of $31,245. This does not include the permit taken out by A. C. Ong for an office building to cost $10,000, which, although it was taken out the first day of June, was applied for in May, and accordingly added to that month's total.

J. W. Fowler took out the largest permit of the month, calling for the erection of an eleven-room residence at No. 1727 Fair Oaks avenue to cost $10,000. The house will be modern in every particular and will be surrounded by beautiful terraces.

Sarah Banfield was issued a permit for a two-story $4000 residence to be erected at No. 1519 Fremont avenue, while W. F. McNeil was granted a permit for a double bungalow to be built at No. 856 Monterey road at a cost of $2400. Simpson & Baxter were given a permit for a $2500 brick store building to be built at Nos. 305 and 309 Pasadena avenue.

Permits for several four-room bungalows were taken out by C. Morrill, who is building for investment. The sites are along Meridian avenue. H. L. Payne of Los Angeles took out a permit for a $2200 seven-room bungalow which he has started at No. 1146 Meridian avenue. A permit was issued to Matt Wachtel for a four-room cottage costing $1200 and to be erected at No. 1123 Glendon Court.

ADD DEPARTMENT.

An insurance department has been inaugurated by the Janss Investment Company, covering every branch of insurance writing, but specializing in fire, compensation and liability. The new department is under the management of C. A. Schallenberger. Schallenberger was special agent and adjuster for the Hartford Fire Insurance Company for sixteen years and was for five years secretary of the California Insurance Company.

"HELLO NILAND!"

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NILAND, July 11.—Niland will soon have its own telephone system, Manager Bezdecheck, of the Imperial Telephone Company, having been here and approved a report for the immediate opening of a city exchange, connected with the valley system. A building will be erected to house the exchange. Work has been started upon the La May building, a two-story structure to cost between $7000 and $8000. The first floor will be arranged for retail stores and the upper floor for living-rooms. Work has also been started on the foundation of a new cement building for Mrs. L. Legge.

PLAN SUN PARLOR.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 11.—The Board of Trade at its last meeting took up the project of constructing a sun parlor at the ocean end of the new concrete pier. The suggested plans call for a permanent structure of concrete, steel and glass.

RUINS MAY GO.

Site of Old Decatur Hotel at Ocean Park Likely to Be Improved With Dance Hall.

OCEAN PARK, July 11.—The average traveler who comes to this beach would not realize or even suspect that there was a devouring fire here two years ago but for the unsightly "Busch Sunken Gardens," as the blackened cellar marking the site of the Decatur Hotel has been ironically dubbed by those who want the place cleaned and put in order. This one ruin is about all that remains to tell the tale of devastating flames, ashes, twisted steel, falling walls and the staggering loss of the big conflagration.

The "sunken gardens" are to be filled in and beautified, if the plans and specifications that were submitted to the Venice Trustees last night go through. The city of Venice controls that part of the beach where the Busch land is located, and the people want to make a big dance hall and auditorium where once stood the hotel. E. B. Mitchell proposes to floor over the block and build an open-air dance hall and other amusement buildings.

NEW STREETS ORDERED.

Extensive Boulevard Scheme to Be Carried Out in Brentwood Park. Highway Into Hills a Feature.

Specifications have just been completed for the improvement of new streets in Brentwood Park, at a cost said to aggregate about $80,000. The Braly-Janss Company announces that within a few days bids will be called for this work. By the new street development there will not only be laid out an additional mileage of boulevards, but several changes will be made in the present street scheme.

Most important in the new boulevard system are the roads that lead into the Santa Monica hills. The main boulevard into the hills will pass through Oakmont and will be one of the gateways into the big Fleming syndicate holding of 22,000 acres, which is shortly to be developed.

VALLEY ACTIVITIES.

A ten-acre chicken and turkey ranch, one of the largest near Los Angeles, has been put under development in North Lankershim Acres, in San Fernando Valley, by M. R. Maciel, who purchased during the week eleven acres from the Janss Investment Company for a reported price of $3850, the additional acre to be used as a site for a cement house and a garden. Fruit will be grown in connection with the raising of poultry. The same brokers report the sale to James Pappas of five acres in North Lankershim Acres for $2500, of five acres to A. N. Davis for $1500, and of ten acres to H. Woodland for $1500, who will set out apricots and peaches. Pappas, it is announced, will engage in diversified farming.

BALBOA ISLAND.

Robert L. Ware, with Edward D. Silent & Co., reports that plans are maturing for a number of new houses and cottages on Balboa Island, and that most of these will be started during the present summer. Ware reports the sale of a lot on the island to John Bainbridge, an Iowa tourist.

LARGEST IN SECTION.

Building on San Pedro to Be Most Extensive Used for Paper Box Manufacture in Southland.

The largest paper box and paper can factory in Southern California has been started for the Renshaw, Jones & Sutton Company at the northwest corner of San Pedro and Pico streets on property owned by Mrs. Susanna H. Van Nuys. The building, which was planned by Morgan, Walls & Morgan, will be a three-story brick structure with full basement and will contain about 60,000 square feet of floor space.

The property has been leased by the box firm for a long term of years at a given total rental of approximately $125,000. Renshaw, Jones & Sutton are old-time Los Angeles manufacturers, having been in business here over twenty years. By the contemplated move they will more than double their present capacity. Both parties to the lease were represented by the industrial department of the W. Ross Campbell Company.

NEW CANNING PLANT.

Louisville Concern to Start Factory at Harbor Industrial City This Week—Expect to Enlarge Business.

Work will be started this week on the new canning factory to be built at Harbor Industrial City for the Dixie Canning and Preserve Company. The work will be in charge of D. J. Etley, president of the company. Contracts have been signed requiring the plant to be in operation within the next sixty days.

The Dixie Canning and Preserve Company, a concern formerly located in Louisville, Ken., will move its entire plant to the Pacific Coast within the next year, according to Etley. The company cans and markets all kinds of vegetables and preserves and will branch out at Harbor Industrial City in the canning of sea foods and the manufacture of soft drinks for soda fountains. The concern will begin operations with a working force of from twenty-five to 100 men, according to W. I. Hollingsworth & Co., which sold the site for the factory.

GLENDORA SHOW PLACE SOLD.

OHIO MANUFACTURER PURCHASER OF BEAUTIFUL CITRUS PROPERTY.

The Edwards and Wildey Company reports the sale of the F. C. Schiffman place at Glendora to S. F. MacDonald of Ashtabula, O., for a cash consideration of $95,000. The property, which is one of the most highly-improved holdings in the Glendora district, consists of seventeen acres of lemons, ten acres of Valencias and eight and one-half acres of navels, besides attractive gardens, and sixty acres of rough foothills, some of which is available for villa sites. The home grounds, surrounding a modern ten-room residence, are beautifully laid, and are approached through an avenue of stately 20-year-old palms. A well-equipped garage, stables and workmen's quarters are included, together with the necessary live stock and implements to keep the property in first-class condition.

The purchaser, it is said, had just concluded a visit to Los Angeles, and had made his reservations for the return trip to Ohio, when he was induced by D. W. MacDonald, manager of the orange grove department of the Edwards and Wildey Company to visit the Schiffman place. The sale was made on the spot. Before papers were out of escrow, it is stated by MacDonald, the crop on the place had been sold for $15,000.

The new owner of the "Big Four" ranch, as the place is known, is president of the Ashtabula Hide and Leather Company, and prominent in Ohio Republican politics. MacDonald will retain his various business interests in Ohio, but will spend the greater portion of his time with his family in California on his beautiful Glendora ranch.

A Desert Problem.

[Youth's Companion:] Two Arabs stopped at an oasis to have luncheon; one had three dates, and the other had five, which they were to eat together. Presently a stranger came up, and asked permission to share their meal, which they cheerfully granted. After all had eaten, the stranger thanked them for the food they had given him, left eight ducats, and rode away.

The Arab who had the three dates said, "Here are eight ducats for eight dates—one ducat for each date; therefore three ducats are mine." But the other Arab argued differently, and contended that he should have seven ducats, and the first man one. The case was referred to the cadi of the nearest town, who upheld the second man's contention! This is the way he reached his decision:

The three men divided eight dates; there were two and two-thirds for each, or eight-thirds. The first Arab had three dates, so he contributed nine-thirds to the whole, but he ate eight-thirds himself, so he gave only one-third of a date to the stranger. The second Arab contributed five dates, or fifteen-thirds; he ate eight-thirds himself, and gave seven-thirds to the stranger.

So reasoned the cadi, and he gave the first Arab one ducat and the second seven ducats.

BUYERS FAVOR ORCHARD PLOTS.

FRUIT NEEDED TO SUPPLY NEW CANNERY.

Interest in Peach Culture Is Strong in Porterville District—Southland Investors Acquire Alfalfa Tracts. Canadians Begin Development of Big Orange Orchard.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, July 11.—Establishment in Porterville of the new cannery of the Tulare County Growers' Association has had a stimulating effect upon the sale of small tracts of land in this district during the past week and dealers are anticipating a large trading in small orchard plots during the ensuing summer.

G. W. Pickering has bought ten acres in Westfield, north of the Porterville city limits, and has started the construction of a bungalow. The place will be set to late peaches. C. E. Barnett, formerly of Los Angeles, has bought from Louis Stone twenty acres in Westfield. T. S. Phariss has purchased ten acres just north of the city limits, and Ned Jense, ten acres just east of the city, in the Reservation tract. Both will start the development of deciduous orchards, the product to be delivered to the local canneries.

F. H. Olmstead, formerly of Southern California, and who recently purchased a ten-acre orange grove in Sunnyside, has bought a twenty-acre tract of alfalfa land on North Sunnyside avenue from G. H. Eldridge and will establish a small dairy.

E. N. Wild of Pasadena, who is the owner of a large tract of alfalfa land in the Pixley district, has added to his holdings in Southern Tulare county by the purchase of the John Hawkins place, consisting of 160 acres of general purpose land. J. D. Bierce, a son-in-law of Wild, will have personal charge of the development of the land.

C. H. Hobbs has transferred to the Canadian Investment Company, owner of a large tract of orange land in the Deer Creek district, ten acres of the Deer Creek Heights property. The land is to be used largely as a site for an auxiliary pumping plant for the big orange orchard which the Canadian business men now have under development. Construction of the main irrigating plant, handling water sufficient for the irrigation of 160 acres of mature trees, has been completed.

PASS THE FIVE HUNDRED MARK.

LOS ANGELES REALTY BOARD MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE MAKES GOOD RECORD.

The Los Angeles Realty Board now has a total membership of 548 individuals and firms, surpassing in members any other similar organization of real estate men in the world. The total of the roster was made known through the secretary's offices as soon as the results of the big membership campaign, begun April 1 and ended July 1, could be tabulated. One hundred and fifty-three new members were enlisted as a result of the campaign that was directed by a special committee, headed by Sidney L. Briggs. Sixty-two applications were filed the last day, before the membership fee was increased from $10 to $50.

Prior to the starting of the campaign there was a process of "weeding out" that left the board with 395 members, and that number has now been swelled to 548. The goal that had been set was the 500 mark. To the individual member bringing in the greatest number of new acceptable applications there was offered a silver loving cup. This is found to have been won by President W. W. Mines, with a total of twenty-three new members to his credit. William H. Akin was second with twenty-one new members. In the list of new members were many associate members, among them H. E. Huntington, William B. Cline, Dan Murphy, John B. Miller, G. Allan Hancock and other prominent men. It is planned to continue the crusade for new members.

A LOGICAL LIFE SAVER.

Has Rescued Three Hundred Persons From Drowning in the Missouri River and Is Expert Swimmer.

[American Magazine:] He is a small, catfish-eating man, past 60, who has won and gracefully wears the title of River Hero. Some 300 persons saved from the sucking throat of the flood, about 150 bodies taken from the watery, shifting graves—behold Ring's record! Of the rescued, forty were boys, twenty-five were women, including a famous "laughing girl," and the rest were men, one of them a 250-pounder.

Jack Ring's beat is one mile of the river front, and he has patrolled it almost daily since 1873, with the exception of six months, when he was fighting in the Philippine Islands.

He knows the Missouri River. Its subtle moods, when the floods will come and when recede. The changing channel, treacherous currents, suckholes, eddies, boilings up; where the sandbars are; the habits and haunts of the wiggling things, big and little, that inhabit the stream.

He has developed a scientific and effective method of rescuing persons from drowning.

He has discovered that there are mysterious laws which govern the movement of corpses in the water.

So intimate is Ring's knowledge of the river that if he be informed where an unfortunate sank to death he will calculate the suckhole, eddy, or sandbar down-stream, 100 yards to five miles, where the body is likely to be found. Tests have often proved the accuracy of his conclusions.

Not by guesswork or intuition does Ring locate the dead bodies, as many have fancied. He consults his mental map of the river and then makes a mathematical calculation.

"And the map o' the river is different ever' year," the hero explained. "This stream is a restless thing an' twists an' turns in hits bed."

Ring's skill as a life saver is predicated, of course, on his expert swimming. The supreme test of river swimming, so the expert said, is for one to be able to care for himself in the swift and mighty current, battle through the suckhole, and hold his own in the perilous places where the water "kicks up" and bucks like a broncho. "I've been in a lot o' ticklish places, but never lost my head," the old man mused, "an' that's why I'm here."

Irreparable Loss.

GREAT CHINESE ENCYCLOPEDIA.

WAS COMPOSED OF OVER ELEVEN THOUSAND VOLUMES.

Only a Few Scattering Books Are Known to Have Survived the Boxers' Rebellion, When the Han-Lin College Was Burned by the Rebels.

[New York Times:] What is perhaps the greatest tragedy in the history of literature is recalled by the appearance in London of two sections of the Chinese Encyclopedia, lent to the London Library by a man who picked them up for a song in a bookshop of the British metropolis. These two volumes are among the meager remains of the most colossal literary work ever carried out by man, a work that comprised originally no less than 11,100 volumes, which, if laid one on top of the other, would have overtopped the Times building at Forty-second street and Broadway by forty feet.

This huge work, the fruit of years of incessant labor by a whole army of Chinese scholars, was practically wiped out of existence during the Boxer rebellion of 1900, when the rebels set fire to the Han-Lin College, where the encyclopedia was housed. A few scattering volumes were rescued from the ruins of the building and have been turning up since then in China and other countries, but there is nowhere near enough to give an adequate idea of the amazing scope and completeness of the work as it stood in its entirety. When it is borne in mind that even after the opening up of Peking to foreigners in 1860 the Chinese authorities peremptorily refused every request by foreign scholars to be allowed to have access to the Han-Lin College for the purpose of studying the great encyclopedia, the full significance of its loss may be better understood.

One of those who visited the ruins of the college after its destruction by the Boxers was Lancelot Giles, of the British Consular Service, who picked up one volume of the encyclopedia. After that his father, Herbert A. Giles, succeeded in obtaining five more. Herbert Giles wrote an article in the Nineteenth Century, entitled "Encyclopedia Maxima," a few months after the destruction of the Han-Lin College, in which he told how his son and he acquired their six precious volumes and gave the history of the stupendous work.

It was in the year 1403 that Yung Lo, third Emperor of the Ming dynasty, one of the most energetic rulers that ever held sway in China, decided that he must have a compilation of all known writings. So he commissioned Hsien Chin, the most eminent scholar of his time, to prepare a great encyclopedia embodying this immense hoard of material. Hsieh Chin set to work, assisted by a staff of 146 other learned men, and finished his task in one year and four months. It was called the Wen Hsien Ta Ch-'eng, or Complete Record of Literature. Huge as it was, however, it did not anywhere near come up to the Emperor's wishes; his aim was to create something far surpassing what he considered the modest dimensions of Hsieh Chin's production.

So a new Imperial Commission was formed, on which Hsieh Chin was one of three commissioners, for the compilation of a new and far more formidable work. In addition to the three commissioners, five directors, twenty subdirectors and 2141 assistants were employed—a total of 2169 persons—for the Emperor's idea was to collect together all that had ever been written in the four departments of Confucianism—canon, history, philosophy and general literature—including astronomy, geography, cosmogony, Buddhism, Taoism, handicrafts and arts.

After something like four years of unceasing labor the army of scholars submitted the result of their toil to the Emperor and won his august approval. He had reason to feel pleased, for, as a result of his insistence, there stood before him an array of 11,100 volumes, comprising 22,877 sections, and an index occupying sixty sections more. Each of these volumes were half an inch thick, and the whole of them, if laid on top of each other, would be 450 feet high—higher than the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral and than the Times building, as has been said.

Each of the volumes was one foot eight inches long by one foot wide, bound in the pasteboard common to most Chinese books and ornamented with yellow silk, the imperial color. On each volume two labels were placed, one giving the titles and numbers of the sections contained within, the other the rhyme, according to the Hung Wu Cheng Yun, or rhyming dictionary used in the days of the Ming dynasty, under which all the entries were classified. This curious arrangement was due to the fact that, as Chinese is not an alphabetical language, it is impossible to arrange the entries in Chinese encyclopedias, dictionaries and the like alphabetically, as is done in English and other languages of today. As a result of this the Chinese have been forced to resort to a variety of methods of classification for easy reference, among them this rhyming scheme adopted in the great encyclopedia of Yung Lo. Another method, by the way, which is frequently used is to group together words which have similar first syllables. Thus, if this were done in English, words like access, account and accompany would appear in the same section of a dictionary, and would be further arranged according to the number of letters following the first syllable, viz: access, having three letters after "acc," would come ahead of accompany, which has six.

Each section of the Encyclopedia Maxima has twenty leaves, which makes a total for the entire work of 917,480 pages, as against 22,000 in the edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, which was the latest at the time of the destruction of the Chinese work. Each page has sixteen columns of characters, averaging twenty-five characters to a column, or a total of 356,992,000 characters. Chinese is written with extraordinary condensation, 100 characters corresponding, according to one authority, to 130 English words. Therefore, it may be said that the total of characters given above corresponds, in reality, to something like 400,000,000 of our words. Now, the Encyclopedia Britannica used by Mr. Giles for purposes of comparison had a total of 30,800,000 words. This, as much as any one detail, gives a vivid idea of the stupendous nature of Yung Lo's compilation.

In 1410 it was decided to have the vast work printed, and orders were issued by the Emperor to that end. But it was found that the expense would be so tremendous that the project was given up.

In 1421, when the Emperor transferred the seat of government from Nanking to Peking, the encyclopedia was taken along to the latter city and stored in a pavilion of the imperial palace.

In 1562 a body of 100 scholars was ordered to make a copy and a duplicate copy of the work. These they completed in 1567, whereupon the original was sent back to Nanking, the first copy placed in the Peking palace and the duplicate copy in the office of Imperial Historiography.

When the Ming dynasty fell, in 1644, the original of the work at Nanking and the second copy at the Historiography Office were destroyed by fire. This left only the first copy at Peking, which was transferred from the palace to the Han-Lin College, outside the Imperial City, where it remained until its destruction by the Boxers. After the transfer it was found that 2422 sections, or about 1000 volumes, were missing.

All the above was duly set down in the great Chinese imperial catalogue, but the figures given were of so amazing a nature that many foreigners questioned their accuracy and even doubted that such a work as the Encyclopedia of Yung Lo had ever been created at all. Nor did the Chinese government deign to set their doubts at rest, for it resolutely set its face against all endeavors by "foreign devils" to gain access to the Han-Lin College and see for themselves the splendid monument of Yung Lo. This turned out to be folly on the government's part, for, in June, 1900, the Han-Lin College went up in flames and with it the thousands of volumes of the encyclopedia; had the Chinese authorities guarded it less zealously and allowed foreign scholars to read it, priceless stores of learning of bygone days would have been preserved for this and future generations.

The five volumes secured by Herbert A. Giles deal with poetry, canonization of Emperors, arithmetic, history and costumes. At the end of each volume is a slip with the name of the official whose duty it was to copy, punctuate and compare with the original.

Will Live in Glass Houses.

[New York Sun:] Paul Scheerbart, a well-known German writer, prophesies that the architecture of the future will be of glass, and that the world will be inhabited by a happy race living under the good influence of light.

"The houses will be of glass," he says, "with all wood eliminated. The furniture will be of wrought iron and the framework of the buildings will be of iron and rustproof, while the walls will be of double glass to insure warmth and of many colors in order to baffle inquisitive persons.

"The buildings will be heated by electricity and the walls decorated in majolica effects. The porch of every home will have three sides of glass and there will be glass garden houses, where one may live in the sunshine by day and the starlight by night."

Herr Scheerbart draws a brilliant word picture of a city, with stores, churches and public buildings of glass, all brilliantly lighted in many colors.

Collie Adopts a Coon.

[New York Herald:] Mrs. J. J. Widman of New Haven, Ct., confirms the following article, which is published in Our Dogs, and reads:

"Mrs. Widman, the toy spaniel fancier of New Haven, has among her domestic pets a collie and a baby coon. The advent of the latter is due to the collie, Maida, who takes long rambles through the woods alone, on one occasion bringing the coon home in her mouth. When her owner endeavored to rescue the little fellow, Maida was ready to defend her capture with her life and soon made it understood he was not brought as spoil, but as something to be loved and protected. Since then she has faithfully ministered to the wants of her foster-son, who is now a general favorite. On another occasion Maida rushed to a woodman in the forest and made such frantic appeals that he followed her to a spot where some fallen rocks made an inaccessible cave. Seeing and hearing nothing, the woodman began to retrace his steps, when Maida began howling. Knowing then that something was the matter, he dug under the rock and out fell the valuable toy spaniel, Boots Donald Downington. He was too exhausted to cry, and immediately out came a fox. In chasing the fox into the cave Boots had become a captive, and for two days and nights had remained in the cave. Maida takes daily trips to the farm, a mile from the kennels, and earns her daily bread by bringing home a pail of cream, never helping herself to a drop of the tempting liquid."

Forming for the purpose of acquiring all of Section 29 at wholesale prices. Limited to 16 buyers of 40 acres each.

Priced at $65 to $80 an acre on special terms that should enable club members to pay for the land out of the crops.

Here is an opportunity to locate suburban to Niland, close to the main line of the railroad—at actual wholesale prices. It's a special summer opportunity OPEN TO JUST SIXTEEN PEOPLE. Just sixteen 40-acre tracts of rich, mellow soil, ideal for early vegetables, apricots, cantaloupes, grapefruit, olives, grapes and dairying. This is the type of land that can be made worth $1500 an acre in a few years. The sixteen members of the Niland Land Buyers Club will secure these 40-acre tracts for one-fifth cash, balance in four annual payments. If land is put into cultivation in one year, the second payment will be extended to the end of the second year. Here's a chance to pay for your land out of the crops. Water will cost only 50 cents an acre-foot—1,200,000 gallons. This land is suburban to the town of Niland and right next to land held at $150 an acre. Get reservations in early. Be one of the "lucky" sixteen. Write or phone at once. Remember—there will be just sixteen tickets sold. Excursion leaves Friday, July 17th, at 11 p.m.

Own a Home on a Beach Lot in a Paying Crop

D. M. and I. F. Baldwin's (Horticulturists) Home at the OCEAN VILLA INTENSIVE FARMING COLONY.

Every true lover of nature—of the things in life that are beautiful—has a house waiting for him somewhere out in the countryside which was built for him in the very shape of his soul, and when he sees it he recognizes it because he has visited it often in his dreams.

The above ranchhouse, owned by the Baldwins, is one of the most ideal, inexpensive summer homes that our company has ever built. It has sleeping porches, an outdoor kitchen, large living-room and a wonderful pergola. We will duplicate this house for a great deal under $400.00.

The surroundings are ideal. Right at the very doorstep are 5000 Baldwin Gladiolas, which are ready to bloom. Gladiolas are planted between the rows of SPINELESS CACTUS.

This house stands on four lots, filled with Chrysanthemums, Poinsettias, Sweet Peas and about every known garden vegetable.

The OCEAN VILLA COLONY is located 17 miles from Los Angeles, on the Redondo Boulevard. You turn at the arch. One of our colonists, and a resident of the tract, C. D. Lindsey, will meet you at the arch. He then introduces you to the famous horticulturists, D. M. and I. F. Baldwin. They will show you what 100 others are doing on the Ocean Villa Tract.

It is one of the rules that these men never ask you to buy. They simply act under instructions to show you what the other colonists are doing.

Automobiles leave our Los Angeles or Redondo Beach Offices.
Meet us at the colony today or tomorrow, or write for particulars.

Mines and Mining in the Great Southwest.

California Mines.

TO EXPLOIT COPPER AREA.

Blue Ledge and Happy Camp to Be Developed.

Railroad Construction to Precede Mining.

Important Magalia Property Changes Hands.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YREKA (Cal.) July 10.—A movement has been launched for development on a vast scale of copper deposits in Blue Ledge and Happy Camp districts. The actual work in the mines is to be preceded by the building of a railroad from the two fields, to connect with the line under construction from Grants Pass to Crescent City.

Eastern capital is heavily interested in the project, and it is stated that preliminary work will begin within two months. Construction of the line will enable the mine operators to ship by rail to Crescent City, and from thence by water to one of the large smelters on the Coast. It is also probable that a large smelter will later be constructed at a convenient point in the district.

At Happy Camp the Fred H. Dakin interests are developing a huge copper deposit. Sufficient ore is exposed to justify the building of a large smelter. Several smaller properties in this district have been extensively developed with good results.

In the Blue Ledge district New York capitalists have opened an enormous body of fair-grade ore in the Blue Ledge mine. The St. Albans Copper Company has opened a large body of ore in the same field, and is arranging to build a concentrating plant.

The Commodore Mining & Milling Company, composed largely of Los Angeles people, is preparing to move the old six-stamp mill to a point nearer the main workings at Oak Bar and underground work is to be prosecuted on a more vigorous scale. Operations at present are concentrated on the Insurance claim, where a strong vein, two feet wide, is under development. The ore shows considerable free milling gold, and the ledge is stated to be improving at the tunnel advances.

An important deal was consummated last week when the Indian Springs gravel mine, near Magalia, passed under the control of San Francisco people. The adjoining Hupp ranch of 560 acres was also taken under option. It is planned to repair the long Indian Springs tunnel, which is in over 4000 feet, and to extend it to intersect the Hupp ground. The Indian Springs has yielded millions, and a large area of promising ground remains to be worked.

It is reported at Jackson that the Argonaut Mining Company will resume regular dividend payments immediately. Last week the suit of the company versus the Kennedy Extension was decided in favor of the Argonaut, the decree awarding the Argonaut $750,000 and all the disputed territory. For several years the company has been earning large profits, and an excellent surplus is in the treasury.

The Argonaut is the deepest incline mine in California, with most of the high-grade ore coming from the lower levels. It was recently decided to build a 50-stamp mill to replace the 40-stamp plant now in service. This will not only result in lower working costs and increased output, but is also designed to effect a larger gold extraction.

Preparations have been completed for heavier shipments of ore from the Balaklala mines, at Coram, to the Mason Valley smelter, near Thompson, Nev. About 250 tons per day have been going forward for several weeks, but it is stated that 500 tons will be shipped daily in the immediate future.

The Mason Valley plant is anxious to secure a heavy tonnage of Balaklala ore as the heavy iron and sulphide contents makes it a desirable product to combine with the carbonate ores of the Mason Valley mines.

Ultimately it is expected that 700 to 1000 tons of ore per day will be shipped from the Balaklala mines, until a satisfactory anti-fume process has been perfected, when smelting will be resumed at Coram.

The Engels Copper Company has started construction of a 150-ton concentrating plant at Lights Canyon. It has been determined to employ the oil-flotation process. The capacity of the concentrator will be increased as soon as the first unit has demonstrated its worth. The working force has been increased to sixty-five men, and more will be employed in the next few weeks.

The Omega mine near Sonora, one of the best small mines in Tuolumne county, has been acquired by Mrs. M. A. Capell and Mrs. A. D. Ireland of Salt Salt City, both heavily interested in mining enterprises of Utah, Nevada and other States. An active campaign of development has been outlined and work will begin immediately. Joseph Loney has been placed in charge of operations. The Omega has yielded considerable rich ore and is well equipped with mine and mill machinery.

The Springfield Tunnel and Development Company is making good progress with its big tunnel, near Columbia. As soon as the tunnel has tapped the channel beneath the shaft, sinking will be resumed and the big deposit of gravel energetically developed. Directors recently inspected operations.

Rich ore is again coming from the Tightner mine, at Alleghany. It is said by miners that a pocket of bonanza quartz was recently broken into, and for more than a week the company has been taking out over $1000 per day. Thus far it is estimated $10,000 has been extracted, with the rich shoot still followed. The discovery was made in the lower workings, and in a portion of the mine where the ore has been rather low-grade.

Arizona Mines.

BIG EXPENSE IS ENTAILED.

Tombstone Project to Prove Large One.

Phelps-Dodge Show Its Hand Elsewhere.

Developments in Various Mining Sections.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 10—In the sale of the property of the Tombstone Consolidated Mines Company it is appreciated that the $500,000 bid by the Phelps-Dodge Company represents a rather small part of the probable value of the mines—that it may be considered as covering only the value of the machinery and improvements. On the other hand, the operation of the mines will be attended with expense such as could hardly be supported by a smaller corporation than the one which has taken over the property.

There is serious doubt whether the Phelps-Dodge Company will find it expedient for years to come again to wrestle with the enormous flow of water that must be lifted before the lowest workings are exposed. In the meantime a vast amount of good ore can be taken from the dry levels—ore that can be reduced at a profit, owing to the ownership by the controlling company of a railroad and a smelter.

In Tombstone there is much hope that the immense pumps will again be started, and that down the gulch will go pouring a flow approximating 8,000,000 gallons of water a day. It is argued that the Phelps-Dodge Company is a copper-producing corporation and that it will seek for the rich stores of copper ore that lie below the silver-bearing capping. So Tombstone is looking forward toward the return of her old bonanza days.

From Gleeson has come a report that the Phelps-Dodge Company has taken a bond and lease on the famous old Black Diamond mine. This property once was a heavy producer. The ores of the Gleeson district are more or less refractory, carrying considerable garnet. On the west dump are several thousand tons of ore, said to sample 2½ per cent. copper, and seven ounces of silver, possibly capable of profitable treatment at the Douglas smelter, with which the camp is directly connected by railroad. It is said that good values also remain in the smelter slag. The shaft is 300 feet deep, and is in good condition.

In the course of drilling on Sacramento Hill, the Copper Queen is said to be encountering not only a great deal of good concentrating ore, but to be running into considerable bodies of smelting ore, extending the ordinary stoping limits beyond expectation. The main question now appears to be the manner of removing the low-grade concentrating ore. It is even suggested that the hill may be stripped and produce handled by steam shovel. The company's new test mill will be completed within a few weeks.

At Douglas the copper output for June was a trifle under May. The Copper Queen poured out 11,625,000 pounds of bar copper, a falling off of about 2,000,000 pounds, due to the transfer of the Miami concentrates to the Greene-Cananea smelter. It is expected that these concentrates will again be diverted to Douglas owing to labor troubles. The Calumet and Arizona smelter output for the month was 5,860,000 pounds.

Complaint is made by mine owners of difficulty in leasing ground. This condition is wholly due to a law passed by the last Legislature, which puts the whole responsibility upon the mine owner. The owner at any time may have the mine thrown back upon his hands, with debts for machinery and supplies. So the miner who secures a lease now, does so only after he has shown a large degree of financial responsibility.

The Mascot mine, about eighteen miles from Willcox, is to be connected by railroad with Mescal station. Stockholders of the company have incorporated the Mascot and Western Railroad Company, with a capitalization of $500,000. The Mascot's stock is owned by a large number of people, being more generally distributed in all probability, than that of any other mine in the Southwest. It has been under development for many years, with little returns in the way of dividends. It is now assumed that the company may soon become a producer.

PURCHASES PLANT. WILL MODERNIZE IT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 10.—M. P. Jewett of Phoenix has purchased the large electric plant at Wickenburg, built by a subsidiary corporation of the Octave Gold Mines Company. He proposes to modernize the plant and to supply electric power to the mining districts in the lower Bradshaw Mountains, including the Octave, Fool's Gulch, Yarnell, as well as those in Congress and others. The plant, which is only eight miles from the Octave, was designed to supply not only that mine, but other properties. It proved deficient on trial, however, as this was one of several causes that caused the final shut-down of the Octave. It is believed now, that with

NEARLY HALF NATION'S YIELD PRODUCED

FINAL figures of the United States Geological Survey on the production of petroleum during 1913 in this country, just issued, reveal a steady increase in the importance of California in relation to the output in the United States. This State last year produced approximately 40 per cent. of the country's oil. The increase in the ratio amounts to a fraction of 1 per cent.

The total output of the country was 248,446,230 barrels, an increase of 25,511,186, while California's total output was 97,764,525 barrels, an increase of 10,491,932 barrels, according to the figures. The value of the country's production was $237,121,388, an increase of no less than $72,908,141, while the value of California's pro-

OIL WITCHES ORGANIZE.

Corporation Formed to Exploit "Magic" Petroleum Finder of Eastern Fields.

[Muskogee Times:] The "oil witch," as well as devices for which uncanny abilities to locate subterranean formations of gas and water, as well as oil, are brought into recent prominence by the incorporation of a company to manufacture and exploit an electrical finder known as the "Elkins patent." The incorporators include L. A. Evans, an easterner, who was formerly a chief electrician in the wireless service of the United States navy; C. S. Rogers, L. P. Elkins, the inventor; F. P. Hillerman and others.

The "oil witch" is no stranger to Muskogee oil men, several of whom now are having locations made or drilling on such locations made by a Houston, Tex., "witch," who works with what he calls an "electro-magnetometer."

Over in the Okmulgee field, in the northeastern part of the Booch sand district, a well-known partnership has already drilled six oil wells, every one of which was located by an electrical "locator" which they own.

The average oil man takes but little stock in such "locators," however, as there is yet no case on record of any very big fortune having been made by them. The geologists denominate them as "fakes" pure and simple. The United States Geological Survey takes about the same view. Neither do they get any recognition from contemporary electrical or chemical science, though the possibility of a recognizable affinity between electricity and subterranean formations is not denied.

Avoids Them.

NOT CONCERNED WITH POLITICS.

DOHENY COMPANY'S RULE IS TO LET THEM ALONE.

Annual Report Expresses Attitude of Neutrality on Part of Company—Relations With Mexican Employees Are Reviewed in Statement.

The annual report of the Mexican Petroleum Company has little to say about political troubles in Mexico, other than that the company has made it an invariable rule to let Mexican politics severely alone and to fulfill all its duties toward the de facto government in control of the regions where it is transacting its business.

President Doheny, however, reviewed fully the company's career in its relations with the Mexican people ever since it began business in Mexico to show that, so far as it is concerned, there is no foundation for any of the charges which have been made in reference to corporations doing business in Mexico—that they have sought to exploit the people of Mexico solely for the advantage of foreign stockholders and to their injury.

Mr. Doheny says that the company has had no government concessions whatever since its pioneer concessions permitting the free importation of materials and exemption from taxes for ten years expired four years ago. All its lands are owned in fee and were purchased from private owners, some of the titles extending back to the middle of the sixteenth century. In order to get its lands quickly and get to business the company paid prices for its lands that made those who sold them the envy of all their countrymen and the Mexican employees and the attorneys of the company strongly advised against the course, on the ground that the figures were unduly high, and the company was being held up. The Mexican ranchers were shrewd traders and knew how to estimate values to their own advantage and to get full value for what they sold.

Mexican employees of the company have been envied by their countrymen. When the company began business the wages of laborers were 35 cents a day, Mexican, in the oil regions, then but a tropical wilderness, and today they average $2 Mexican, and the most highly skilled native workmen in the company's employ get as high as $9 a day, Mexican money. The company's course in dealing with the natives, employees and general public alike, has been abundantly repaid by the fact that its property was scrupulously preserved from any looting and damage when left in the care of the Mexican employees, while Americans recently had to leave, and the work was so well handled that only 5000 barrels of oil were lost. Mr. Doheny says the stockholders owe an especial debt of gratitude to the Mexican employees.

The company, moreover, has taken the most care of the welfare of its Mexican employees in the towns it has established in what was formerly a tropical wilderness. All have the most modern sanitary arrangements. The company has never followed the policy of supplying the employees through company stores, but on the contrary has paid its men cash and this has gone to the benefit of the local merchants, who have been encouraged to business. Only when absolutely necessary has the company done a general mercantile business to furnish supplies to its men.

The company owns in fee about 500,000 acres, has three eight-inch pipe lines to Tampico—the only ones in operation, by the way, notwithstanding a wide popular impression that the Pearsons have a line completed. Theirs is only under construction.

The balance sheet of the annual report of the Mexican Petroleum Company and its subsidiaries brings to light the fact that the company has paid under protest taxes and dues to the Mexican government the sum of $705,481.93. This amount is set down as an asset, the company evidently anticipating its return in course of time.

No explanation is offered in the report as the reason for the protest or the nature of the tax in question. The matter is completely dismissed with the bare statement of the figures. Probably they refer either to export taxes or war taxes imposed by President Huerta, while he was in possession of the oil regions, which, the company may have been advised, were illegal, because not authorized by the Mexican Congress, or to more recent taxes imposed by the Constitutionalists since the capture of Tampico. There is absolutely nothing to show which it is, if either.

COMBINE'S PLANS ARE MATURING.

DUTCH-SHELL NOW PROCEEDING WITH GREATER VIGOR.

California Promises to Be Chief Stronghold for Combine, Outside of Orient—Operations to Center in the Coalinga District for the Present.

Fulfillment of the Royal Dutch-Shell combine's plans is proceeding with greater vigor than at any time since they entered this State. The scheme of their projected activities which will be on a greater scale than in any other section, with the possible exception of Orient, is well worked out.

Construction of the big $6,000,000 pipe line will be started in the course of a few weeks. Nearly all the necessary equipment has been ordered, and is due to arrive in California shortly. Details of the surveys, etc., are almost complete, and other incidental preliminary work is being cleared up rapidly.

The pipe line is, of course, the fulcrum upon which will swing the activities of the combine. Without it they could do practically nothing toward expanding their operations unless they should decide to take over some other corporation.

For a long time the latter course was contemplated. It is known that on one occasion the combine examined the Associated Oil Company's properties, etc., with a view to purchase, and that they also were seriously considering opening negotiations for the Union Oil Company on several occasions. Nothing came to maturity in either of these cases, however, and it is now evident that the combine will build up their business on self-established foundations.

Nevertheless, they are still in the market for properties, as is evidenced by the fact that they recently took over an unimproved tract in Coalinga field of some 1000 acres, in the immediate vicinity of the California Oilfields, Ltd., properties. They show no particular anxiety to extend their activities to any other field except the northern one, although they have had some negotiations for properties in this part of the State.

As yet the combine has not become a marketing factor of importance, but will do so before the end of this year, or at least early in 1915. They have held back in this respect on account of the present unsatisfactory conditions governing the refining business. The fair year promises a good trade, however, and they are desirous of securing their share.

In a month or so a cargo of oriental gasoline is due to arrive at San Francisco, and this will have to be sold on the open market in this State. It is likely that the combine will establish street "stations" to distribute the product if it is brought in regularly.

WON'T CARRY IT.

HIGH-GRADE "GAS."

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COALINGA, July 10.—Difficulties have been encountered by the Turner Oil Company in getting the product of its gasoline compressor plant to market. The railroad, as in other cases, elsewhere in the State, has refused to transport the product, on the ground that it is of too highly explosive and dangerous character to be legally handled on railroads.

The manufacturers of casinghead gasoline in the fields of Orange county, from which comes a large part of the product, solve the problem by blending their product with lower grades of gasoline or distillates before shipping. A large part of the output is sold to the Union Oil Company and blended at the Stewart refinery. The Puente Oil Company in Los Angeles county in the Puente Hills, ships its gasoline to Los Angeles by automobile tank wagons. At Santa Maria the Union and the Pinal-Dome have refineries and blend their casinghead gasoline with lower grades before shipping.

The Turner company is now in a controversy over the matter with the railroad, and threatened to appeal to the State Railroad Commission. The oil company maintains that its tests taken by every method do not show the pressure which the railroad says is clearly demonstrated by its own tests. As there are no refineries at Coalinga, the blending of the gasoline before shipment may be difficult to manage.

Field Notes.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, July 10.—Well No. 3 of the R. E. Graham Oil Company on section 25, 32-23, has come in with a production of 100 barrels daily.

The Hale-McLeod Oil Company is getting a large production of gas, but no oil from its No. 13 on section 8, 32-23. The No. 5, which came in with a big flow of gas, blowing off the crown block, is doing about forty barrels of oil daily.

The U. S. Oil and Mining Company has dynamited the No. 1 well in Belridge district that the gas sand may be again drilled into. The well for a short time produced gas in commercial quantities but casing trouble cut off the flow.

The No. 1 of the Sunset Extension on section 8, 11-23, although nearly a mile deep, is still being worked with. Several sands have been passed through, but none developed because of the large amount of water.

The National Pacific's No. 1 well is to be put down to the gusher sand on section 32, 12-23.

The Panama Oil Company is preparing to resume operations. The old No. 1 well on section 30, 12-23 has been dynamited that the casing may be removed and active drilling started.

The Midway Premier has a rig up on section 5, 32-23 and will start drilling in a few days.

Wheat Crop That's All Profit.

[Kansas City Times:] A thirty-acre field of wheat that is expected to yield thirty-five bushels to the acre and did not cost the owner a cent for seed or labor until harvest, is on the King Cow farm, southwest of Grandview. It is owned by A. J. King, of the King Realty Company.

Last year the ground was in wheat, and yielded thirty-seven bushels to the acre. The harvest was late, the wheat was very ripe, and much of it shattered off and lay on the ground. It came up so thickly in the fall that it was pastured down. Mr. King decided to let it stand and see what would be the result without plowing the ground and seeding it again.

There has been no labor bestowed on the present crop except that of harvesting. The results have been unusual.

APPOINT SUPERINTENDENT.

Phelps-Dodge Place Dr. Emil Grebe in Charge of Tombstone Consolidated Mines.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 10.—Dr. Emil Grebe has been appointed superintendent of Tombstone Consolidated mines properties by the Phelps-Dodge interests, which have received the confirmation of their bid of $500,000 for these properties from the receiver's court. Dr. Grebe conducted examination of the properties for a year previous to the receiver's sale, and it is understood that it is largely upon his findings that the Phelps-Dodge interests decided to take the mines over.

Dr. Grebe has had extensive experience in the deep work in the mines of Bisbee district and is considered one of the highest authorities on geology in this section, which has many characteristics similar to those of the Tombstone district.

The revival of activities at Tombstone brings into prominence the new life that has come to the Old Commonwealth at Pearce, another large producer of silver in the early days. The Commonwealth is now milling 350 tons daily, with excellent recovery of values, running $7 to $10 the ton. The new mill of the Commonwealth, which resumed its production the first of the year, has steadily worked with better results.

Reports that the Guggenheim interests have acquired the Black March property in the vicinity of Gleeson are persistent. It is known that Guggenheim engineers have in the last year paid considerable attention to this section.

There is ground for belief that recently they have acquired several options on outlying properties in the Bisbee district, while it is known that they have under consideration at this time the property of the Cochise Development Company, on which bond was recently given for around $300,000.

"LINE WAR" IN NORTH MIDWAY.

FIGHT CENTERS AROUND RICH "STATE" SAND.

Jergins & Armstrong Company Crowds Line, and State Consolidated Retaliates—Big Lakeview Gusher Produces Twenty Per Cent. Emulsion.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FELLOWS, July 10.—An old-fashioned "line war" has broken out in the North Midway district in the vicinity of the big strike of the State Consolidated Oil Company, the principal participants being the Jergins & Armstrong Company and the "State." The Jergins & Armstrong Company have been building a rig within ten feet of the line of the "State" property that it may draw from the big sands in that section. Retaliating, the "State" is building a rig just twenty feet from the other concern's derrick to block the attempt to draw from the "State" sand.

Frequently such a war as that which has been incepted continues for quite a period, the participants endeavoring each to outdo the other in the number of rigs they construct in the effort to protect their lines. There is a so-called unwritten law of the fields which requires that neighboring concerns keep at least 150 feet from each other's lines.

No. 1 well of the Lake View, No. 2 Oil Company, continues it big flow of 15,000 barrels daily, without interruption. It is producing about 20 per cent. emulsion which must be cleared before the oil is run by the Standard. Five clearing stills are now in operation, the oil being heated and run through them after being allowed to settle in sumps for several days.

The Punctuation Mark.

[San Francisco Star:] There is a French proverb which says: "By reason of a punctuation mark Martin lost his donkey." And thereby hangs a tale:

Over the Abbey of Asinello in Italy (asinello, it may be further explained, is a diminutive, meaning a little ass) there once presided a liberal-minded monk who caused these verses to be inscribed over the outside door:

"Be open ever more, O thou my door!
To none be shut, to honest or to poor!"

This cheery man died, and was succeeded by a Brother Martin, who was as penurious as his predecessor had been prodigal. Martin retained the couplet, but altered the punctuation as follows:

"Be open evermore, O thou my door,
To none! Be shut to honest or to poor!"

When the Pope's attention was called to the remodeled inscription, Martin was summarily deposed.

Snake Around His Wrist.

[Baltimore Sun:] Escaping from a crate of pineapples, a long blacksnake crawled along the handle of a truck and wound itself around the wrist of Arnold Thomas, a colored stevedore, of Hughes alley, at work on pier No. 2, Light street, recently.

As soon as he felt the clammy reptile against his skin the colored man dropped his truck and ran into the street, shouting lustily.

Instead of aiding the terror-stricken man his dark-skinned companions laughed at him and assured him they could see nothing on his wrist, and declared that the liquid refreshments he took with his noonday meal had made him "see things."

Beads of perspiration trickled down Thomas's face as he tried to rid himself of his live bracelet.

Suddenly the reptile uncoiled itself, dropped to the street, and wriggled through a crevice in the wharf.

A Successful Operation.

[London Answers:] The blandishments of the insurance company's representative at last proved irresistible. Jones wavered. Then Jones fell—or, rather, undertook to have his life insured.

And, in order that there might be no mistake about the matter, that knowing, enterprising representative helped him then and there to fill in the necessary form.

For fully 20 minutes Jones was busy, giving particulars of himself, his aunts, his sisters and his cousins.

Then came the question: "Have you ever had appendicitis?"

"Well?" asked the agent.

"I'm hanged if I know," said Jones, "I was operated on some time ago, but have never felt quite sure whether it was appendicitis or merely professional curiosity."

THE MACADAM ROAD TO THE "GARDEN OF PARADISE"

This glass-like macadam road leads all the way from Los Angeles to "MONTROSE," the Beautiful Garden of Paradise. In the background of the picture you see a portion of the majestic Sierra Madre Mountains. At the extreme left are the beautiful timber covered Verdugo Mountains. The electric car line runs almost parallel to the boulevard you see here and passes through the center of Montrose. It requires about 35 minutes by auto from Los Angeles to Montrose, and in that distance you rise just 1100 feet higher than the city, out of the fogs and smoke, up into the delightfully cool, crisp air of the mountains. It is so picturesque in this territory that every day some spot is the scene of a motion picture drama by one of the many companies in the city; and the Kalem Company have their studio on this road, where three companies operate continuously. You would believe that Nature made a special effort to beautify this spot.

Now is the time to buy Montrose. Certain immediate improvements will take place that will increase its value immensely. At the present time we are selling great big Villa lots, twice as large as city lots for $550, on terms. And Montrose is laid out so beautifully—with wonderful winding, curving boulevards, fine cement walks, curbs and gutters; and every modern convenience at hand—water, electricity, telephones, car service, auto roads, and close to Los Angeles; in fact, overlooking Los Angeles and Glendale, and commanding a magnificent view of the Catalina Islands 60 miles away. These dandy $550 lots are nearly all gone, and you will be wise if you investigate conditions at Montrose now.

World's Largest Train.

[Portland Oregonian:] "It will require a train 7000 miles long to move America's big crop this year," said D. W. Campbell, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific road, today on his return from a four month's stay in the East. "Called upon to face the emergency of moving the most enormous cereal crop in history, the railroads of America are preparing to appeal to shippers, consignees, railroad commissions and other agencies to assist in avoiding a serious car shortage," he continued. "The situation is a serious one and we shall need the help of the shipping public. We shall request the railroad commissions to do what they can to expedite the movement of business."

An Ancient Punishment.

[Indianapolis News:] As a means of punishing the refractory colonists, bilboes were brought from England by the Massachusetts magistrates. In the oldest court records appear many sentences to place offenders in the bilboes. This mode of punishment was said to have originated in Bilboa, Spain, and consisted in a long, heavy bar of iron, having two sliding shackles, like handcuffs. In these shackles were placed the legs of the prisoners, who were then locked in by means of a padlock. Sometimes a chain attached the bilboes to the floor, but this was not necessary for this degrading implement of punishment is to heavy to allow locomotion.

Food Ignorance in Scotland.

[Westminster Gazette:] The Scottish parent is from time to time rated by the medical authorities for his ignorance and neglect in respect of his children's food. The medical officer of the Scotch education department has again been urging the pernicious effects of substituting tea and bread for porridge and milk. Doubtless, comments the Edinburgh Dispatch, the medical officer is right; every parent who was himself brought up on "Them"—that dear old Scotticism—will acknowledge his fault in having permitted a departure from the wholesome fare which he was taught to believe was, with the shorter catechism, the basis of Scotland's greatness.

is increasing, say those in touch with conditions. Contemplated improvements, added to the list already built, are expected to make 1914 the banner year in San Bernardino's construction history.

With the opening of the fiscal year of the Santa Fe Railway, that company has apparently put an end to the retrenchment that has been in evidence in the affairs of the great corporations of the country in the past year or more. San Bernardino, as division headquarters for the Los Angeles district, is rejoicing over the fact that pay rolls and forces are being increased and that prosperity is smiling for the 2000 employees of the system stationed in its midst. The better business conditions in the shops are being reflected daily in the city's commercial life.

The total assessed valuation of San Bernardino county property jumped $1,500,000 in the past year, advancing from $38,816,775 in 1913 to $40,302,068 in 1914. More than half of this year's increase has been made by the city of San Bernardino itself.

For a back country San Bernardino has the largest county in the State and, what is more to the point, some of the finest agricultural and horticultural development in California. San Bernardino is the largest producer of citrus fruits in California, having close to 40,000 acres set to oranges, 5000 acres in lemons and 1000 acres in grape fruit. It is fourth in apple production. It has the largest grape district in Southern California. It is a leader in the olive industry. In all forms of agricultural development its record of achievement is high.

Such is the inland soil empire, the seat of which may now be reached by trolley from Los Angeles. Probably nowhere else in the world may one seated comfortably on the soft cushion of a speeding electric car journey through so beautiful and so fruitful a district as that which fleets past the vision in the two hours consumed between Los Angeles and the Gate City, and no destination on the whole of the Pacific Electric's magnificent network of interurban lines is more worth seeking than is the modern city of San Bernardino.

country. Both nestle along the State highway at the base of "Old Baldy," and the agricultural country around them is nourished by the waters which have their source in the extensive watershed in the breast of this far-famed peak. The concentrated waters from a watershed of fifty-four square miles, forming from the melting snows of these lofty mountain reaches, assemble as the source of Lytle Creek and come tumbling down to enrich the soil of this valley which, several years ago, began to assert prominence as a center of citrus production.

Of the 20,000 or more irrigated acres which form the business, industrial and social background of Fontana and Rialto, most of the older bearing groves are in and around the latter place. Of the 17,000 irrigated acres of the Fontana section, 3500 acres are planted in growing citrus fruit trees and 2500 acres are in deciduous fruit orchards and vineyards. The new town of Fontana came into existence as the result of the natural development of this promising area, and in one short year its progress has clearly demonstrated the virile character of the young Southern California community spirit.

South and southeast of Fontana, the Bloomington district is also coming into its own. An impetus to development in this particular section has been given as the result of the recent completion of the Riverside-Rialto line of the Pacific Electric, a branch which is to be connected with the new Upland-San Bernardino road, giving Riverside and Bloomington direct access by electric railway to Los Angeles.

All through the Fontana-Rialto district one may see evidences of how the inhabitants have improved the natural beauty of their surroundings by creating developments of a permanent character. Everywhere tall and stalwart eucalyptus trees overtop the citrus groves and soften the force of the winter blows. Along the main highway, which has long been the joy of the touring motorists, miles of curbing has been built, and the ragged robin roses, planted in profusion along the edge of this curbing, make a riot of color.

This is the sort of a country—a land of progress and contentment—through which the new San Bernardino arm of the Pacific Electric Railway passes, and in which thousands of home-builders, fruit-growers, men and women seeking profit and health, are working out the destiny of a new empire. The development in existence from Upland east explains why the Pacific Electric, in appraising the present and potential wealth of the district, has made its road-building of that type which is there to stay.

As to the wonderful influence this railway will exert in speeding forward the development and progress of the district it will serve, there is no difference of opinion. Already the communities in the section have felt the impetus given by the steam road—several having doubled and even tripled in population under the force of this agency in the last eight or ten years. The fleet new red cars will give them quick and daily contact with the business and social life of the Southwest metropolis, making them important factors in a great chain of suburban development extending from Los Angeles into its peerless back country.

ZULU TRAINED NURSES.

Missionary Board Educates Natives to Serve Among Their Own People in South Africa.

[Boston Transcript:] The American board maintains in connection with its hospital in Durban, South Africa, a training department for nurses. A class of four has just graduated. Each girl received a newly designed pin, and in connection with her diploma Dr. James B. McCord, in charge of the hospital, gives to each a check for a sum amounting to $5 a month for the time she was in training.

The girls are to serve among their own people, one being already employed at Inanda Seminary, where her chance teaching will be carried far and wide.

We quote a few sentences from the graduating essay of one of these Zulu nurses. It shows how little she knew to start with, and also how thoroughly the essentials have been drilled into her mind. Miss Nomhlatuze Bhengu said:

"Our training as nurses has been a great help to us in many ways. We knew nothing about treatment of children in our own homes. Children are given solid food when very young, and they are not kept clean and warm and they are fed irregularly and many of our children die because they are not well treated and given strong medicine while still young. But here I have been taught that children should not be given solid food during the first ten months of their life. I have been taught that babies should nurse regularly at apointed intervals, should have a cleansing bath every day and clean clothes put on each day.

"Here we have been taught to give patients baths every day, it does not matter how ill they may be. . . . We have also been taught how to keep the patients so other people will not get the same disease. We keep the patient by herself (in tuberculosis,) her dishes and everything which we use about her near her bed and disinfect our hands whenever we touch her.

"We have learned to keep our bodies as they should be kept, such as taking baths every day, brushing our teeth and other necessary habits which are necessary to keep us well."

Laboratory Work.

SERUM TESTS WITH BABIES.

PHYSICIANS USE THEM FOR EXPERIMENTS.

Formerly Used Guiena Pigs, and the Practice Is Defended by Dr. Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute—Parents Consent Not Being Obtained Before Serum Is Injected.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—[Special to Washington Post:] Dr. Herman Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute, whose medical research work has given him a place in the foremost ranks of the world's great scientists, in a statement given out tonight, admits the use of the tuberculin and the "leutin emulsion" tests on human beings in New York hospitals and in the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute. At the same time he defends their use.

His statement was prepared following the amazing disclosures, when it was shown that 1000 babies, some of them in a dying condition, were subjected to the tuberculin test in the Babies' Hospital, by Dr. L. Emmett Holt, the famous specialist in children's diseases, and that 146 normal individuals were inoculated with the "leutin" serum by Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, the Japanese surgeon, in the Rockefeller Institute.

Dr. Flexner's statement reads: "The charges that 1000 babies had been tortured by the tuberculin test, and that infants have been substituted for guinea pigs in experimental work, and other frightful sounding charges must give the reader one of two impressions, either that hideous practices are very prevalent in New York hospitals and among New York's leading physicians, or that the author of the statement has deceived himself and does not know what he is talking about. Clearly someone has been reading medical reports which he did not understand.

"The fact is, that the tuberculin test is used all over the world and by every good practitioner who has occasion to diagnose a doubtful case of tuberculosis. In the same way leutin is used in every civilized country in the diagnosis of cases of latent constitutional blood diseases. Reports of the results of such diagnostic tests must be distinguished from reports on curative preparations.

"It would be outrageous to apply a curative preparation to a person who is 'presumably well,' but a person who is 'presumably well' may, under certain circumstances, be very properly submitted to certain routine diagnostic tests to aid in the diagnosis of disease. In asylums, hospital wards and children's hospitals it is important to detect congenital or latent blood disease and latent tuberculosis, but difficult to identify them.

"It is quite proper to apply such tests as the tuberculin and leutin tests to such patients; it is also to the credit of the medical profession that practitioners connected with institutions where they have large experience with such methods should report their experiences fully, and warn their fellow-practitioners of any possibility of harm which their experiences suggest to them. Reports of that nature are some of those referred to.

"It is perhaps sufficient to say that no patient was worse, but that many were better for the tests, and that it is not true that there has been concealment of the work. On the contrary, the work was published in medical journals having a wide circulation."

Dr. Flexner admits that such tests are being made daily in the Rockefeller Institute and hospitals in New York City. Consent of parents is not obtained before the serums are injected into the children who are charity patients in the hospitals.

As to the charge that infants were substituted for guinea pigs in experimental work, Dr. Noguchi, in an article prepared for the Journal of the American Medical Association, said: "While I was still working with animals, Prof. Welch suggested that I make the tests on human subjects. Through his encouragement I commenced work at once at different dispensaries and hospitals with the cooperation of the physicians in charge."

Progressive Plunkville.

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "How's things in Plunkville?"

"Well, we couldn't induce Col. Goethals to take the job of town marshal. Neither did we get a regional bank."

"Still, you are not discouraged, I hope?"

"No; we are agitating for a season of grand opera."

SOCIALISTIC CLEVELAND'S FAILURES.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

IN Socialistic attributes Cleveland, O., is head and shoulders above the average big city. In population it ranks sixth in the Union. The police census for 1914 gives 607,000 people; the United States census for 1910, 569,313 (with suburbs now annexed;) that of 1900, 399,886; of 1890, 261,353. Thus the city more than doubled in twenty years.

Cleveland has been a city of vitality; a transportation and manufacturing center. It has embraced governmental frills with avidity; pounded the service corporations; laid claim to an awakened civic conscience; waxed prosperous despite political clamor; developed a bent toward the muncipalization of various kinds of commerce and industry, and the bedevilment of those classes of private enterprise which could not pack up their property and move away.

Of late years Cleveland has patterned after English and German models; has borrowed old-world ideas as well as assimilated old-world population. It has public dance halls, a municipal orchestra, a far-famed correction farm, a boys' home and a girls' home, municipal cemeteries, public baths, garbage reduction plant, great public markets, infirmaries and hospitals, tuberculosis hospital, food and dairy inspection, a civic center and a "Mall," employment bureaus, and (without any "aqueduct,") a great big public debt for bonds.

The city spends $33,829 a year for child hygiene, $18,280 annually on "laboratories;" has a commissioner of "information and publicity;" a commissioner of steel railways, and has gone into the electric light and power business.

In twenty years has added $31,432,000 to its public debt—from $9,398,000 in 1893 to $40,730,000 in 1913, exclusive of all the school and county obligations. The $40,730,000 is the straight city debt on bonds.

While the population grew in the twenty years about 118 per cent., the straight city debt increased 334 per cent.—nearly three to one more debt than more people.

But Cleveland's ratio of growth is declining. In the decade, ending 1900, it was at the rate of 53 per cent.; in the decade ending 1900, 42 per cent or 11 per cent. less. Debt-making productiveness, however, has forged steadily ahead; practically doubling in the ten years ending with 1913.

The city is hard up. There doesn't seem to be nearly money enough to carry on the multitude of things (most of them Socialistic) the city is doing, in the manner in which the paid office-holders (not the oppressed taxpayers) think should prevail. There is a tightness of cash for running expenses. Operation under a brand-new, latest style, home-rule charter is somewhat repressed and handicapped thereby.

The charter is strictly home rule except as to certain financial abilities. In Ohio the Legislature controls the debt-making and tax-raising powers of cities. It does so sternly and with an iron hand. The State Constitution gives it the express right. Hence there are fixed limits as to tax levies, debts, lending of municipal credit, etc. From a tax-rate standpoint Socialistic Cleveland has reached the dead line.

There is in Cleveland an organization known as the Civic League. It acts as a gadfly to the office-holder; as a microscope upon the aspiring politician; also as a watchdog over municipal expenditures.

It has just taken a preliminary look at the financial condition of the city. It proposes to go further. It apparently does not like the initial inspection. The league was behind the new charter and wants to see it properly and economically administered. The league says:

"Departments declare they are seriously hampered for lack of funds, divisions have been combined, salaries have been reduced to a minimum, a number of the activities contemplated in the new charter have had to be temporarily postponed; street improvements are being delayed, and an atmosphere of rigid economy exists everywhere about the City Hall."

The business associations of the city want a larger police force. The schools are badly overcrowded. Numbers of portable school buildings are used. "There are," says the Real Estate Board, "housing conditions in Cleveland every bit as bad as in any other city in the country."

Despite its shortness of operating revenues Cleveland proposes to issue $8,890,000 of new bonds this year—an amount nearly as great as the entire bonded debt of the city twenty years ago.

Out of every $6235, which the Cleveland taxpayer hands over for general municipal purposes $2355, not far from one-third goes for interest and sinking fund payments on the public debt. This proportion is going up—not down.

In Cleveland, as in Los Angeles, sinking fund money belonging to bonds already sold, has been used to buy other bonds of the city for which there was no market.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

IN THE twelve months ended September 30, 1913, the United Mine Workers' Union paid out the enormous sum of $1,200,796 for strike relief. That expenditure was totally unnecessary waste of good wages money as not a single point or thing was gained by the United Mine Workers' strikes of that year. That money would have built and fully paid for 600 workers' homes of a value of $2000 each, or it would have well kept 1200 families for a whole year. Viewed from this practical standpoint, does striking pay?

The Western Federation of Miners had a similar expenditure of $495,722 in the same period. Considering the collapsed futile strike in Michigan, the present disastrous strike conditions in Colorado, did that great loss, dead loss, pay for the striking?

And what about the $300,000 cost to the union in the same twelve months, of the ladies' garment workers' strike?

All told in the period named, the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor paid out $3,464,215 for "strike relief," equal to the cost of 1732 homes for workers, of the value of $2000 each, practically nothing to show for the $3,464,215 strike relief outlay, besides the many millions more of lost wages. Is there any form of "amusement" in which workers can indulge, than strikes?

In the year quoted union labor sent $244,292 of its wages money to the A. F. of L. (Gompers and Co.,) out of which that "collection bureau" paid $18,953 for "strike benefits." What became of the balance of $225,339? Where did it go to and what for? Here are some of the items of outlay:

American Federationist	$19,914
President and Secretary, salaries	9,000
Office employees	30,128
Supplies and printing	16,117
Rent	5,187
Legislative expenses (what?)	6,495
Assessment, United Hatters (c)	12,621
One-cent assessment	5,883
Expenses of delegates sent abroad	2,041
Executive Council Meetings	6,206
Organizing Expenses	[illegible]
Labor Weekly News Letter	7,521
Legal Defense Fund (boycott case)	9,727

And what good to union labor did all this spending of union labor's wages money do? Think it well over you Gompers's affiliated union men and women and answer this most pertinent question for yourselves. Lawyers' fees absorbed $7875 of the last item. The total expenses, the altogether too heavy expenses of the A. F. of L. (Gompers and Co.) for the year amounted to $258,702, or $14,410 more than the $244,292, which you sent to it out of your wages money.

Union labor men got nothing but humiliation and disgrace for the $236,000 of its wages money which Gompers, wheedled out of them for the MacNamaras' defense, almost all of which went into (and stayed in) the pockets of Clarence Darrow, Joe Scott and Job Harriman. Remember this, men.

The strike riots in Italy, which continue, are paving the way for rebellion. Barricades were erected in the streets of Rome. Anarchists are very prominent in the disturbances. The principal strike centers are Rome, Naples, Milan, Turin and Florence. Anarchy controls in the province of Emilia. Girths of cavalry horses were cut, and when the soldiers fell, as many did, they were mobbed and brutally beaten.

James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, goes so far as to publicly say that union labor men are justified in arming themselves and taking the offensive as in the Colorado strike riots. In this he preaches virulent anarchy and defies the law of the land.

Hundreds of warrants for the arrest (some already caught) of strike anarchists in Italy, have been issued.

Westinghouse strikers are more defiant than ever in spite of the presence of the State constabulary. The strike is both gaining and losing. The 600 die and toolmakers—experts—have gone "out" of the east Pittsburgh plant. This is one of the most important departments and the loss badly cripples the company. Disturbance by 4000 strikers compelled the calling to Pittsburgh of the State troops by the Sheriff of the county.

Pittsburgh is on the eve of a general strike in its building trades owing to quarrels between two rival unions. This means all bricklayers, plumbers, painters, carpenters and members of several other unions—in all several thousand men.

Employees of the Carnahan Tin Plate and Sheet Company at Canton, O., are on strike. It is estimated that 8000 men employed by twenty independent companies will walk out.

Bloody strike riots (icemen) are occurring at St. Louis. Recognition of the union is demanded.

A strike of men is on at the San Jose canneries for a minimum wage of 20 cents an hour. They now get 12½ to 17½ cents.

Strikers threaten to boycott baseball in Pittsburgh unless the State troops are withdrawn from the strike zone. The Governor, who is president of the baseball league, has been so notified.

A strike on the part of the dock laborers in the Stettin harbor, beginning in September and lasting two months, injured seagoing shipping. A private contractor with a crew of strike-breakers operated the harbor loading facilities, but shippers were compelled to pay double rates for the service, besides being subjected to delays. Considerable shipping was therefore diverted from Stettin.

Strikes are not common at government works, but one of 12,500 men is on at the arsenal at Woolwich (near London) Eng. It's all about the dismissal of one workman, who refused to erect a machine on a foundation which had been laid by non-union workmen. In other words, "recognition of the union" by the semi-socialist British government. The trouble threatens to spread to the armament factories at Plymouth, Devonport, Portsmouth and Enfield.

Scale.

HIO MINERS RATIFY NEW WAGE AGREEMENT.

(O.) July 11.—Delegates attending the convention of the Ohio United Miners of here yesterday ratified the provisions of the new wage recommended by the Scale than 40,000 miners, who are a strike, are affected by the new wage scale, but only about half that number are assured of immediate employment, for coal operators of the Eastern Ohio and Cambridge districts and a part of those in the Bergholz district have refused to treat with the miners, declaring that it would be unprofitable for them to operate their mines under the new scale.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Testifying before the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations, Morris Bernstein, president of the Women's Garment Manufacturers Association of Philadelphia, declared that 85 per cent. of the workers did not want to strike, but were driven out and kept out by force. Mr. Bernstein continued: "A good worker could earn $70 a week in any women's garment factory in Philadelphia. The wage scale was higher than in any other American city. So were the actual earnings. Some expert workmen were making as much as $2500 a year. The average was $20 a week. They were kept busy about eight and one-half months a year. Women piece workers made from $10 to $30 a week; other women from $16 to $20. They rarely fell below $16, yet they struck."

A Corporation With a Soul.

The aggregate expenditure of the United States Steel Corporation in 1912 for improving the conditions of its workmen was $6,166,374, apportioned as follows:

Accident relief	[illegible]
Accident prevention	[illegible]
Sanitation and welfare work	[illegible]
Pensions	[illegible]
Employees' stock subscription plan	1,000,000
Total	$6,166,374

During the season of 1913 there were 6296 cultivated gardens, or 91 per cent. of the total possible number in the mining towns of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, a steel corporation subsidiary. The estimated value of the product of each vegetable garden was $27.50, which meant a total saving that year of $173,140 to the employees of that subsidiary company. A total of 101 children's playgrounds have been provided by the subsidiary companies of the corporation.

School Systems in Stores.

Independent testimony before the Federal Committee on Industrial Relations praises the school systems established in the big stores of New York. The testimony was given by Mrs. Anna H. Wilcox, supervisor of continuation classes in New York City.

"These classes are much appreciated by the employees," she said. "It is such a short time since they were organised that no definite results can be yet obtained, but the indications are very promising. Some of the pupils are so enthusiastic that by co-operation of the management of the stores they come half an hour before the opening time to get the full benefit of the lessons."

Mrs. Wilcox further said that she found as a rule that the employees in the large department stores were satisfied with the treatment accorded to them and that there was a desire on the part of the management to treat them fairly and kindly. The girls appreciated this and did not want to be organised. There was no unrest as asserted by union-labor organizers and strike agitators. In trying to spread the seeds of discontent these men are hurting instead of benefiting the cause of the girls. That is true of labor everywhere, but particularly of female factory labor, of which there is an oversupply in all our large cities.

Conditions in Canneries.

Miss Elizabeth C. Watson, an incidental witness, gave sensational testimony regarding the employment of children of tender years in the canning industry. In the oyster canneries in the Gulf States, which she investigated as special investigator for the International Child Welfare League, she found in one instance, she said, a child "shucking" oysters who was only 3 years old and with barely the strength to wield the oyster knife.

In Massachusetts, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and other States women and children were working in the canneries twelve hours a day or more. In the cannery towns in the Gulf States, she said, she has known of many cases of children being awakened at 3 o'clock in the morning so as to get them up in time. She said that in one State the legislators were threatened with a removal of the canneries if they passed stringent child labor laws. The wages varied for a woman and a family of five children from $3 a day as the earnings of the six to 50 cents, according to conditions.

Teachers' Salaries in Germany.

Years of service—	Men.	Women.
1 to 3	$404.60	[illegible]
4 to 6	[illegible]	[illegible]
7 to 9	[illegible]	452.20
10 to 12	[illegible]	499.80
13 to 15	666.40	547.40
16 to 18	737.80	595.00
19 to 21	[illegible]	642.60
22 to 24	904.40	666.40
25 to 27	952.00	690.20
28 to 29	999.60	714.00
30 and after	1,047.20	714.00

These salaries are higher than in 1908, which in turn were higher than in 1902. They are for teachers in the primary schools and are quoted from Strassburg, Alsace province.

Principals of kindergartens are paid, according to length of service, from $368.90 to $550.30 a year. Kindergarten teachers get from $95.20 to $309.40 a year.

Teachers in the public schools are pensioned the same as all other municipal employees.

In smaller German cities teachers' salaries are somewhat lower than in Strassburg. Teachers have to serve one year of probation before definite appointment.

New York Department Store Wages.

R. H. Macy & Co. of New York employ 4344 persons. There are 319 salesmen and 1058 saleswomen. Of the saleswomen 578 are paid over $9 a week, 367 less than $9 and 494 less than $8.

In Wanamaker's the average wage for saleswomen is $12 per week and for all women employees $10.

Child Labor in Germany.

Under the German law governing child labor, "children" are boys and girls under 13 years of age and those over 13 who still attend school. Latest statistics show the employment of 7434 boys and 5970 girls under 14 years of age and 332,882 boys and 172,535 girls of from 14 to 15 years. The largest numbers are employed in the textiles, wearing apparel, food and food products and metal industries, in order as named.

Declare for Open Shop.

[The Square Deal:] The Builders' and Traders' Exchange of Cincinnati has indorsed the action of the employers in declaring for an open shop. This exchange will lend all the support possible in maintaining "open-shop" conditions in the carpenters' work of the city. The following resolution was passed by the Builders' and Traders' Exchange: "Be it resolved by the Builders' and Traders' Exchange that the action of the Master Carpenters' Association and the Master Carpenters' Exchange and their Conference Committee in declaring for and establishing an 'open shop' in Cincinnati be indorsed and ratified by this exchange, and that we co-operate in that belief."

Critics Heard.

GOMPERS'S PLACE IS ASSIGNED.

LEADER OF A MONOPOLISTIC GROUP, SAY ASSOCIATES.

Represents a Mere Fraction of the Total Labor Mass of the Country, and He Considers His Opponents Impractical Reformers Whose Suggestions Are of No Value.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] At the hearings before the Federal Industrial Commission in New York some sharp words passed between Mr. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and certain other labor leaders or Socialist advocates who were appearing as witnesses. The substance of the exchange seemed to be that whereas the more extreme of those who testified regarded Mr. Gompers as simply a representative of capitalistic methods applied from a slightly different angle, he himself considered his opponents impractical reformers whose suggestions could never bear fruit in anything useful. The incident sharply illustrates the growing opposition between certain factors in the labor world which are by many erroneously regarded as identical.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Gompers's critics were correct in their view that the president of the American Federation of Labor represents only a very small section of the laboring community of the country—that, namely, which is engaged in certain skilled trades or which regards itself as possessing exceptional adaptability or capacity for ultimate membership in those occupations. Precisely what proportion these workers and their dependents constitute of the labor mass of the country cannot be stated, but it is undoubtedly only a mere fraction. In much the same way, it would seem to be entirely clear that the methods followed by Mr. Gompers and those associated with him are identical with the means resorted to by the less defensible organizations of capital in their warfare upon one another and upon the public. There is little basis of choice between any monopolistic combination to control prices and a trades union which limits supply and fixes the price of labor at a scarcity value when there are many potential competitors who would gladly satisfy the demand were they permitted to do so. Mr. Gompers's position as the leader of a monopolistic group must be regarded as firmly established, although never before, probably, has he been so distinctly assigned the place by his associates in the labor world as he was at the hearings before the Industrial Commission.

The claim of Mr. Gompers's critics to possess a larger and more universal labor appeal than that of the American Federation of Labor, although broadly made by them, will not be so generally accepted by those who look a little more closely to the facts in the case. The truth is that these other groups are quite as distinctly class movements in their nature as is the Federation of Labor. They may include a somewhat larger group of persons than the latter, and may be somewhat freer in the terms upon which they admit new members, as are most schemes which undertake to supplant an older organization. But the argument presented by the radical element in the labor world before the Industrial Commission was essentially a class appeal whose purpose was to arouse prejudice, and which was admittedly animated by a desire to promote the interest of a special and very narrow group in the community. The statement that the efforts of government must be regarded as nothing more than a means of "policing the property holdings" of the capitalist class, and the general declaration that an ultimate division of all profits must be effected, were simply restatements of the familiar socialistic philosophy. It is worth particular notice that this would distribute among those members of the employed portion of the community who have saved nothing the savings of their more provident associates, as well as the capital of their employers. Mr. Gompers's critics, at all events, had little the advantage of him in their claim to philanthropy, public spirit, or independence of view. Carried to its limit, their plan would be as monopolistic and exclusive as that of Mr. Gompers himself, indeed it would only be pushing his proposals to a logical extreme.

THE UNION LABEL.

Proved in New York to Be no Guarantee of Sanitary Conditions in the Bake Shops.

[American Industries:] The union label is in reality an insidious form of boycott that comes within the law. There would be more or less moral justification for its use if the claims that it is a guarantee of purity and sanitary manufacture could be sustained. Unfortunately, however, this claim is little supported by facts.

The Cake Bakers' Union in New York exhibits in bakeries a sign which reads: "Union cakes are baked in sanitary bake shops by clean and expert bakers."

Investigators accordingly visited the headquarters of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America located in No. 175 East Broadway, in the city of New York, and conversed with a man who represented himself to be the secretary of the organization and several other men who were in the office at the time.

We inquired what the union label meant on bread and were informed that it signified that the bread was baked in a union shop.

"Yes, I understand that, but what significance are the general public to attach to the appearance of this label on bread? Does it signify sanitary conditions? Why should I buy bread with the union label?"

"The union label shows that the bread is made under sanitary conditions."

We then visited a union shop on Eldridge street, New York, to which we were sent by the above union. The bakery on these premises is situated in the cellar of a typical East Side tenement-house; the mixture of the dough and the actual baking of the bread is done some ten feet below the surface of the street. The baking for the day was finished at the time your investigator visited this shop, but many loaves of the freshly-baked product were piled on tables without any covering whatever. One of the bakers was busy sweeping the floor and the dirty flour dust and ashes from a small stove in the corner rose in clouds and settled on the bread. Some damp sawdust sprinkled on the floor, was the only attempt at sanitation apparent. Metal casks containing cotton seed (sweet oil) were standing in the center of one of the two rooms in the cellar. They were covered with dust and dirt and oil.

In the shop on the surface of the street were the bread was exposed for sale, your investigator found several men in underclothes, which had once been white, sitting on tables which were piled with bread.

We visited a shop on Clinton street. This shop is also in the cellar of a tenement-house. Two men were at work here; one was sticking union labels on bread, and the other was firing the oven. The atmosphere was surcharged with coal gas (carbon monoxide—deadly poison,) and the two workers coughed repeatedly over the trays of dough.

Some ten hops were visited by investigators and the same conditions obtained with slight variation in all. A shop on Monroe street was situated in a rear cellar and although some attempt had been made here to have the walls and ceilings clean and white; the men were mixing the dough in obsolete tubs, and the sweat rolled from their bodies as they toiled.

The shops visited were so-called "fair" shops. Still the unions persistently contend that even a factory where the bread is never touched by human hand is "unfair" if not using their labies in other words, we unhesitatingly state, that State officials in the interest of public health if they performed their duties, would close up, or correct 90 per cent. of institutions using this label, for it in no sense stands for sanitary conditions, but is only a permit granted by the union misleaders to conduct an establishment unhampered by any control by either factory inspectors or health department.

"The use of the union label should be discouraged as far as possible by all members of the National Association of Manufacturers. Because as it is now used, it is a kind of license to conduct an unsanitary shop by misleading the public. In the interests of public health and sanitation we should discourage the use of this label, to the end that the public may not be misled into buying products which in too many cases are not fit for human consumption.

THE MEN HIGHER UP.

Are the Ones Responsible for Strikes Instead of the Workingmen, Many of Whom Are Satisfied.

[The Congregationalist:] In Chicago the labor trouble cannot be charged to capitalists. All building operations have been held up through the spring months. It is now June, and the foundations of new buildings look just as they did in March, not a brick laid, not a stroke of hammer or trowel heard. Why? Because the brickmakers are on a strike and that stops everything in the building line, which depends upon brick. I said to a mechanic, "Do you believe in this kind of thing?" "No," he replied with emphasis, "and it is not the men in the ranks who are causing it. It is the labor officials." This man echoed a sentiment which I have often heard expressed. The trouble is not in the ranks: it is higher up.

Chicago contractors have shortened hours and lengthened wages and have made concessions all along the line, but still the troubles come. It matters not how inconvenient they are, how much damage they do, how many people they throw out of work, how much capital they tie up, how many contractors and builders they discourage, they are precipitated with a reckless lack of concern for the consequences. All winter long the newspapers were filled with complaints regarding an army of jobless men. When the storms were past and the sunny days of spring came, and every sparrow building a nest called to men to go out and build houses, and when wives wanted to see husbands coming home with wages, the men who run the Brickmakers' Union tied up the building trades and held more than 100,000 workingmen in a condition of suspended animation.

These officials do not employ labor, they pay no wages, they take no risks of business, they suffer no losses from idle capital or idle labor. They have worked themselves up to a position where they control the labor which others perform and for which employers pay. As the financial kings manipulate the capital of industry, so these men manipulate the labor of industry. The result in both cases is the same—disturbance, dissatisfaction, unrest, incessant demands, incessant trouble.

PURPOSE OF LABOR TRUST.

Hopes in the Future to Take Control of Any Establishment That Will Not Accede to Its Demands.

[The Square Deal:] In the light of the things that have happened within the last few weeks and the success of the labor trust in forcing legislation upon the country, it is interesting to note what was said by an organ of the labor trust in 1909 and quoted in the Square Deal of November of that year—"We quote from Labor World of Jersey City the following which indicates the ultimate purpose of the labor trust. It will be seen that its ambition stops short of nothing but absolute control of all branches of business employing workingmen:

"'The fight of labor against capital today presents a peculiar spectacle. When the workers want to change some detail in the way the shop is managed (for the question of management, in some of its phases, is really the only question that ever arises between capital and labor,) they call a strike and desert the shop. This kind of warfare must still be carried on for the present, but we should always bear in mind that when the workers are thoroughly organized, in the final struggle (and the sooner we arrive at that stage the better) we shall adopt a different method. We shall not abandon the shop, but in our orderly, organized strength, we shall take control of it. We must organize and train ourselves to that end.'"

Tired of Unionism.

[The Square Deal:] The attempt to thoroughly organize all branches of labor at Indianapolis that was started last fall with a street car men's and a teamsters' strike seems to have fallen through with, at least for the time being. A few small shops still have intermittant labor disputes, but they do not seem to be of a serious nature. The Street Car Men's Union, organized last fall, is having rough sailing because of the indifference of the men to the organization. Many of them fail to pay their dues and often neglect to wear their buttons while a large number of the employees are not organized.

Honest Confession.

[Crescent:] Wife: Everything is getting higher.

Husband: Oh, I don't know. There is your opinion of me and my opinion of you, and the neighbors' opinion of both of us.

Tips Pay Well.

SOME WAITERS BECOME RICH.

GET A START ON TIPS AND THEN PLAY THE MARKET.

Obtain Information Regarding Speculations by Listening to Conversation of Patrons at Table. Sometimes It Is Given Them Direct by Large Operators.

[St. Louis Globe Democrat:] The average wage of waiters in only 83 cents a day, but that does not prevent them from being the most persistent among the small speculators in Wall street, says the New York Press. They like easy money, but they are shrewd. Just now they are playing the game with rather more vim than usual. Some big tips on the market have been passed around among them, and they are keeping attentive eyes on the ticker.

Waiters who serve in the big hotels or restaurants that are patronized by the heavy speculators, get all sorts of first-hand information from the conversations they overhear. Sometimes it is in regard to stocks, and sometimes about real estate.

The men seated at the table usually pay little or no attention to the one who waits on them. The more prompt and the less obtrusive the waiter is the better they like him. Nine times out of ten they get up and go away without having the least idea what he looks like. On the other hand, it is the part of every first-class waiter's business to remember the names and faces and gossip and to store them away in his memory. Therefore, by comparing notes with other waiters, he gets a fair idea as to whether the scraps of information he overhears are to be relied on or not.

There is one illustrious case of a waiter at the Holland House, who was given a running start by Charles M. Schwab. This happened ten or eleven years ago. This waiter was solicitous whenever Mr. Schwab appeared. Mr. Schwab noticed it and liked it and responded liberally. One day Mr. Schwab gave an entertainment and this waiter excelled himself. Mr. Schwab called him over, complimented him highly and told him he was pleased with his attention. He concluded by saying he would be glad to do anything he could for him at any time. The waiter thanked him warmly and the matter rested for a week or more. Then the waiter, at an opportune moment, reminded Mr. Schwab of his offer and said he would like to take advantage of it. He explained that he had a little money to invest and would be grateful if Mr. Schwab would suggest a good stock in which to deal. Mr. Schwab was thoughtful a moment, and then opined that American Bridge was a fine investment. He added that it was selling at a low price, and, in his opinion, was sure to advance soon. The waiter expressed thanks for the advice, saw Mr. Schwab to the door and bowed him out.

Within a month from that time Mr. Schwab, who, like other large financiers, had an active and efficient staff to gather information for him, learned that someone was buying American Bridge in respectable quantities. Further inquiry developed that this person was not a broker, but someone outside of the street.

Mr. Schwab's investigators discovered that the man who had bought between 10,000 and 20,000 shares of American Bridge on a margin was a waiter of the Holland House. It was the waiter to whom Mr. Schwab had given the tip. This waiter had been making good use of all his tips, both monetary and market, in a quiet way, and had accumulated considerable of a fortune. When he got Mr. Schwab's advice he played it to the limit, and cleaned up many thousands.

There is a head waiter at one of the big hotels, much frequented by heavy speculators. He is credited with having a fortune of at least $300,000, but he never passes up any $20 tips. Recently he was seen to go to the office desk and ask for his strong box from the safe. He opened it, took out a handful of bonds, went away and busied himself for a time cutting coupons.

"How much did you cut off?" he was asked.

"This is a bad month. I only cut off $300," he replied. "But wait until next month."

Several of the proprietors of large and fashionable Broadway restaurants started in life as waiters, and there are others, who are waiters still, who are wealthy. One of the latter class owns an apartment-house in West End avenue that is assessed $110,000. He is a widower, and his two sons are in the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris. He himself lives in a furnished room in Forty-fourth street, to be near his work. He is reputed to have accumulated his wealth from the tips he got from one man, a banker, whom he served for several years. Of course, the tips went into Wall street on the banker's advice, and increased there at a tremendous rate.

Quite a number of the waiters in the expensive downtown restaurants own their own houses, usually handsome places in the country. Some of them are leading citizens and are in the $100,000 class. One of them some months ago was a waiter in an old and fashionable restaurant that has since been wiped out by fire. He was serving a party at lunch one day and overheard remarks concerning a certain stock that was to be pounded. He finished serving the party, pleaded illness and was excused. Then he hurried over to his brokers and went short of that stock to the extent of $5000 on a five-point margin.

He had heard a certain figure mentioned and knew just where to close the deal. He stayed away from work and watched his investment the next three days, selling more and more stock for every half point of decline. He got out at the psychological moment and went back to his job the following day many thousands richer.

There was another waiter who overheard a scrap of conversation between a judge of the Appellate division and a broker. That was in the year of the big slump in B. R. T. This waiter also got the rest of the day off and hot-footed it over to his broker, who, by the way, was a man whom he served daily. He handed the broker $10,000 and told him what he had overheard, intimating that if the broker played the tip also he wanted a share in the profits. The amount that this waiter cleaned up on this deal was enough to keep him in comfort the rest of his life, but he is still working.

CAFE REVELLERS FIRST IN TOLLS.

TWO CHAUFFEURS WHO IMBIBED WITH YOUNG GIRL NIPPED BY POLICE LID.

Two chauffeurs are to be the first victims of the police campaign to stop the more offensive details of the night life of the city. Complaints were issued yesterday against Frank W. Wells and D. Carl Beauchamp, charging them with having contributed to the delinquency of Miss Ethel Bingman, 19 years old.

The arrests were the result of a sensational sally into the cafe district by Juvenile Officer Marden of the police department, and several assistants and escorts. The party made a tour of all the cafes in the city, scrutinizing the methods of enjoyment employed by those who resort to cafes for their evening entertainment.

Cafe owners in all parts of the city learned of the impending visit as quickly as the party had entered the first of the cafes. Their interest was so vivid and apparent, that, it is reported by the cafe owners, the party became itself one of the attractions of each place it chanced to be in.

At Jahnke's, First and Spring streets, Juvenile Officer Marden and his company observed the potions with which Addie Lehman and Ethel Bingman were served at the expense of their escorts, the two chauffeurs. They witnessed, they said, the fact that the two chauffeurs sought to maintain their sobriety, while they insisted on the girls mixing their drinks, and by satire, sneers, and dare, induced them to drink more than was decent.

When the Marden party left the cafe and went to the sidewalk they found the two chauffeurs and the two girls in loud dispute about their destination. The nature of the chauffeurs' arguments aroused Officer Marden to arrest the entire party.

The work begun by Marden and party will be continued with less ostentation by Policeman Walter Woods, who has been assigned to escort one of the policewomen in a permanent round of the night amusement resorts of the city. Not only the cafes, but places of all kinds that cater to the night crowd will be inspected nightly, that the objectionable features may be eliminated.

The two chauffeurs will have a hearing Monday. Miss Lehman was released immediately, because she was over 21 years old. Miss Bingman is in the custody of the juvenile officers, held in the City Jail pending further investigation of her life.

FATHER COMBATS FATHER.

Lad Who Robbed Dead Given Law's Maximum Sentence After Dramatic Scene in Court.

Two fathers met in a dramatic struggle in Justice Reeve's court yesterday, when one demanded the severity of the law for the despoiler of his dead son and the other pleaded that mercy be shown his offspring, who had robbed the dead.

John Grey, a lad, pleaded guilty to having stolen a watch from the body of Harry E. Baker, as the victim lay with four other dead, after the recent automobile tragedy at White's Point. O. L. Grey of Compton, his father, was the pleader for mercy, while the law's vigor was demanded by Alfred Baker, father of the dead.

Justice Reeve, at the close of the drama, sentenced Grey to six months in the County Jail, the maximum penalty.

JEWISH CHAUTAUQUA.

Ladies Greatly Interested—Arrangements for a Busy Four Days' Session the Coming Week.

The committees of the Western Assembly of the Jewish Chautauqua Society are earnestly making their final arrangements for the entertainment of the many distinguished guests who are to participate in the very attractive programme. The sessions will be held at Temple B'nai B'rith, Ninth and Hope streets, and Temple Sinai, Twelfth and Valencia streets, from the 17th to the 21st, inclusive. The meetings are to be open to the public.

Mrs. A. Prenzlauer, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, has appointed Messrs. J. Jacobs and George Goldsmith to arrange for the banquet to be given Saturday evening, the 18th, at the Alexandria Hotel. George Black, recently returned from an extended European trip, will act as toastmaster. Most of the speakers will hail from other cities. Mrs. Phineas Newmark is in charge of the automobile ride which will be given on Sunday afternoon, when Mmes. H. W. Hellman, B. Baruch, S. Behrendt, P. Newmark, H. Klein, H. Lissner, J. Y. Baruh and A. Fleishman will act as hostesses and Rabbi Hecht, Rabbi Farber, Dr.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

With no call on the Produce Exchange and a number of the larger houses on the street closing at noon on Saturdays during the months of July and August, the markets are rather dull on that day. Yesterday was no exception. Receipts of fresh fruits and vegetables were lighter than on other days and delivery of goods was the bulk of the business carried on. There were no changes in staple prices. Potatoes show a weaker tendency, local receipts having increased during the past few days and the average of northern arrivals having again reached the 1000-sack mark a day. Receipts of eggs yesterday were 374 cases of locals. There has been an average arrival of 800 cases a day of northern and eastern eggs, mainly the former. Butter receipts were 46,000 pounds. Cheese arrivals were 2500 pounds and eastern receipts totaled nearly 22,000 pounds. Potato arrivals were 1135 sacks. Onions to the number of 155 sacks were reported in.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Dullness Still Reigns in Market. Los Angeles Investment Reveals Improvement.

The same condition of dullness, which prevailed most of preceding days of last week, again held sway on the stock exchange yesterday. A few shares of Associated changed hands and there was some spasmodic trading in Los Angeles Investment, with a closing advance to 70 cents, but that was about all. News concerning the Union deal was still conspicuous by its absence, and consequently that stock remained in the background in the trading list. Maricopa Northern evidenced a fair tone early in the session, but closed easy. Favorable reports are received concerning the company's well. Five shares of Home Telephone preferred sold at $21.50.

Local Stock Market Activities

BY JNO. O. KNIGHT.

Price changes throughout practically the entire list of securities dealt in locally have been almost insignificant during the past week. The volume of business has been light with little in the transactions themselves to indicate any definite trend to the market. Statement of the banks indicating important gains in deposits since the first of the year without any corresponding increase in loans denotes a thoroughly satisfactory condition in that quarter but it also shows that less than the usual amount of money is going into the development of new enterprises.

Investments of July dividends and interest money have as yet hardly come up to expectations. Prime securities, such as the best grade of municipal bonds, have been absorbed in fair volume, but the demand has not been sufficient to bring about any material change in prices. Bank stocks show little change from recent quotations and with probably one or two exceptions where any changes have occurred they have been mostly in the way of concessions.

Large increase in the production of oil, with a consequent reduction in price for the lighter grades, probably has been responsible for holding the prices of oil stocks where they are. World-wide interest in producing oil companies is on the increase and anything that might bring about a cessation of overproduction in this State undoubtedly would be reflected in an important advance in the shares of producing companies. Many believe that the completion of the Panama Canal will open a sufficiently broad market for California's production to take care of any surplus of the future.

A dividend of one-half cent per share was paid this week by the White Star Oil Company.

Los Angeles bank clearings for the week just ended showed an increase of approximately 6 per cent. over the corresponding week of last year.

The California Portland Cement Company, which has been engaged in long litigation with orange growers in Riverside county over claims for damage by cement dust, has compromised the suits and is preparing to purchase the lands of most of the claimants.

Amalgamated Oil gained two points on the week's trading, closing at 182. United Oil holds steady at 22½, around which figure there has been good buying for a month or more. This company is rapidly clearing up all its indebtedness and the present outlook is that it may soon find itself again in the dividend class.

A Month

Your banker or your financial adviser will tell you "it can't be done." But it can be done, and is being done. Within a day's ride of Los Angeles is a single gold mine that is paying its stockholders 6% a month in dividends on a capitalization of one million shares.

A Year

This dividend rate was paid last year; will be paid this year, and most likely will be paid for years to come because there are millions of dollars in sight in the mine today. Stock in this mine sold as low as one-half cent a share. Now the price is cheap at $3 or $4 per share.

Sprinkled here and there over the desert and mountain districts of California, Nevada and Arizona are hundreds of mines, now idle, that can be made to return gigantic fortunes. By blocking out the ore in sight in these mines and applying the cheap methods for saving the gold the output can be made certain and the profits positive. I have recently secured a California gold mine. There are quantities of ore already mined and thousands of tons in the mine ready to be broken down and rushed to the mill on the property. A company of but 10,000 shares is to be organized to work this mine and mill the ore. To raise a small sum of money quickly a special inducement is offered to the first stockholders. Your money back in full out of the first gold milled and you still keep your stock interest. Investigate. Go see the mine. Full printed particulars free. Write at once. Sale of first stock limited to 3000 shares. CHAS L. FULTON, 509 Grosse Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

CANANEA MINES AGAIN CLOSED.

Managers Await Restoration of Order in Mexico.

Court Confirms Recent Sale of Tombstone Mine.

Minimum Wage Demand on Bisbee City Council.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 10.—The Cananea mines have been closed down until such time as a stable government has been established in Northern Mexico. This decision involves the great Greene-Cananea property, the nearby Democrata mine and the Calumet and Sonora mine. The Cananea company will continue to operate pumps in the Copote mines and will maintain its hospital, the latter as a concession to humanitarian ideas.

The whole trouble has been precipitated by the interference of the Maytorena faction at Hermosillo, opposed to Col. Calles, now in command of the military forces along the border. Though Calles had guaranteed protection, backed by about 600 troops, he was unable to prevent the strike of several thousand Mexican miners, who had been incited by agitators from central Sonora.

Similar trouble a couple of months ago, coupled with the abandonment order issued by the American Secretary of State, caused a shut-down of nearly a month. The disturbing Mexican element at that time, after a few weeks of famine, welcomed the return of the Americans, but the harsh lesson seems to have had little real effect. According to Col. Calles, about all the strikers now can do is to join the Constitutionalist army, for Cananea will afford support to not one man in twenty of those who have been employed heretofore. Though fair wages have been paid, the notoriously improvident character of the Mexican workman now leaves the population practically at the starvation point. Over 10,000 men, women, and children are affected. Col. Calles, who has 700 men, has a task before him in preventing the looting of the towns of Cananea, Ronquillo and Puertocitos, as well as damage to the mine works. The mining companies will lose little by the shut-down, as the market is a bit overstocked with copper at present, and better prices may be expected in the fall.

TOMBSTONE SALE.

Under a decree of court, confirmation has been made of the sale of to Walter Douglas, general manager of the Phelps-Dodge Company in the Southwest. Announcement has been made by Mr. Douglas that Dr. Emil Grebe will be superintendent at Tombstone, assisted by John Davis. Both are old Phelps-Dodge employees, associated with the geological and engineering divisions of the company here and in Globe. For some time to come, the company will undertake only exploration work, with a view to avoiding costly experiments to as great an extent as possible. It is probable that no under-water exploration will be undertaken until the ground is tested by drilling. It is also announced that leases will be given, continuing the policy that was proven so profitable during the period that the property was passing through bankruptcy.

BISBEE LABOR TROUBLES.

Labor troubles have cropped up in the Bisbee City Council under a letter from the Warren District Trades Assembly, asking that all employees of the city be paid a minimum wage of $3.50 for a shift of eight hours. Councilman Charles Cunningham promptly placed himself on record as opposing the suggestion, stating that he struck straight from the shoulder and always said exactly what he meant. In this particular case he asserted "Each and every member of the Council is afraid of himself. He is afraid he will, in some manner, alienate the support of the people who are responsible for this communication tonight. I am not. And I wish to say right here that I am absolutely against raising the wages of these men a cent.

who is too yielding will soon grant too much and will cut into the owner's profits. He should be broad, diplomatic and able to satisfy tenants and still retain the desired income."

Mr. Dailey said that he finds that most of the large cities have too many office buildings and that there should be a suspension of building operations until the structures now in existence can have an opportunity to fill up with tenants.

"Los Angeles has a number of very interesting office buildings," the expert continued. "I find that they are well built, finely equipped and efficiently managed. I can learn much here. I would have arranged for a longer stay had I known of the rich field."

The visitor says that the Equitable building is one of the wonders of the age. The project was financed by Gen. T. C. DuPont. He borrowed $20,000,000 from the Equitable Life Insurance Company. The building will be ready for occupancy about next May.

"CITY WITHIN A CITY."

The "city within a city," which will house thousands of busy workers, will have its own police department, health and fire departments; ice plant, public service, restaurant, water and heating system. All of the necessities of life have been provided for, including recreation.

The building will have forty-eight elevators in six banks of eight each to accommodate those who have offices above ground. Sidewalk lifts will be used to accommodate the tenants who occupy the three stories under ground.

Mr. Dailey gave these other interesting facts about the building:

It occupies one city block in the heart of the financial district of the city, said to be the most valuable plot of ground under single ownership in the world.

It is in the shape of the letter "H."

There is a corps of efficiency engineers to confer with tenants about their requirements and to help them to know the minimum amount of space needed for the proper conduct of their business.

The schedule of rents, fixed by rental experts, will not be deviated from under any circumstances.

The rentable area is approximately 1,200,000 square feet.

Other features include rest-rooms, silence-rooms, safety deposit vaults, law library, clubrooms, banks, four units of fire zones and subway entrances and exits.

Equitable building and L. B. Dailey,

The expert, who is one of the managers of the twenty-nine-million-dollar New York structure, is in Los Angeles on an inspection tour of large office buildings, studying efficient management. Before he returns to the metropolis he will have visited five hundred skyscrapers in fifty of the large cities of the United States and Canada.

NO ROOM RENT FOR HIM.

Sleeps in Westlake Park by Day and Roams About City by Night—That Is, He Did.

Lewis Brower has settled the room rent question satisfactorily to himself. He sleeps in Westlake Park by day, and prowls about the city by night.

It takes some finesse to occupy Mr. Brower's boudoir. He says he has to go about his sleeping languidly, as if he had just experienced some exhausting labor of the mind. He strolls into the park in the morning, walks slowly, yawns when a policeman heaves in sight, stretches his arm, when the policeman comes along again, and when he has established his weariness, he contentedly slips to the ground, folds his arms under his head, and sleeps as long as children, dogs and insects will permit.

He was arrested yesterday morning by Policeman Bustillos at Sixth and Alvarado streets. In his coat was a pair of woman's gloves. He could not satisfactorily explain their presence, so was taken to the Police Station. It is alleged that he is involved in a robbery at one of the beaches.

OUT FOR HAPPY DAY.

Broadway Jewelry House Takes Its Employees to the Beach on a Picnic.

Brock & Co., the Broadway jewelers, gave a picnic yesterday to all the employees of the establishment. About 100 persons enjoyed the hospitality of the firm. Automobiles were furnished and the happy company visited Del Rey, where games of every sort were engaged in, and the day was spent in merriment. Prize game contests and a fine repast were features.

Jack Portenstein was chairman of the day. The Entertainment Committee was composed of Fred Krough, Thomas Buchan, Jack Portenstein, Paul Stephenson; the judges were Charles McNiff, J. Turner and Fred Satterwhite; starter, E. A. Clark; official timer, E. H. Sandstron; official scorer, C. C. McKinley; umpire, M. P. Campbell.

Much merriment was created by the distribution of comic prizes, each carrying some familiar "josh."

BARBECUE AT RANCH.

Seventy-five officers and employees of the Anderson-Lore Wholesale Plumbing Company enjoyed a barbecue and outdoor entertainment at Moneta yesterday. The outing was held on the ranch of C. H. Bennett, manager of the company's credit department. H. D. Lore, president, made a short talk. It was a happy occasion for all.

FEDERAL COURT CONVENES.

The July term of the United States District Court will convene tomorrow morning. There are 211 cases on the calendar, and of that number seventy-six are criminal prosecutions, leaving 131 civil cases. This is the largest calendar for years.

HARBOR ITEMS.

The steamer Congress arrived from Puget Sound and San Francisco this afternoon with a big list of passengers and heavy cargo. She will proceed to San Diego tomorrow calling here again northbound on Monday. The steamers Yale of the Pacific Navigation line and the Bear of the Big Three line also arrived from the north with big passenger lists. The Yale proceeded to San Diego and will call tomorrow on the return trip and the Bear will sail for Portland tomorrow.

Steam schooners with lumber arriving today were the Northland from Portland, the Olsen & Mahoney from San Diego, with balance of cargo of poles loaded on Puget Sound. Departures in ballast to reload were the Willamette for Portland, Necanicum for Eureka, Alcatraz for Greenwood, Noyo for San Francisco and the schooner Lucy for Umpqua.

Capt. Victor Johnson has resigned as municipal port pilot and the vacancy will be filled by the Los Angeles Harbor Commission.

HUGE RECEIPTS DEPRESS WHEAT.

SHIPMENTS A CONTRAST WITH EXPORT CLEARANCES.

Arrival of Million and Half Bushels More Than Year Ago at Corresponding Time Shows Speculators' Pressure to Be Expected from New Winter Crop.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 11.—Huge primary receipts contrasting with small export clearances today explained fairly well a net decline in the value of wheat. Depression ruled at the close, which was ⅛ to ½ under last night. Corn scored a gain of 1c to 1¼c and oats a rise of a shade to 1⅝c. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10c higher. The arrivals of nearly 1,500,000 bushels more of wheat at the principal railway terminals this week than during the corresponding time a year ago brought home to speculators the formidable pressure to be expected from the new winter crop. Black rust complaints from South Dakota became more numerous, and threatened for a while to unnerve the wheat bears, especially as there were simultaneous reports of extreme heat throughout the Northwest. Actual severe damage, however, was said to be still confined to a relatively unimportant amount of territory. Intensely hot dry weather over the greater part of the surplus-producing States led to a sharp advance in corn. Unfavorable crop reports gave the bulls an advantage in oats. Buying on the part of elevator interests caused the July option to make an unusually steep jump. Provisions were firmer with hogs and corn. Business, though, was not of an expansive character.

New York Curb Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The curb market today was quiet and featureless. Cigar Stores ranged within a point. Oils were dull, except for a little activity in Ohio. Other issues were unchanged. The Boston market opened nominal and quiet, except for New Haven. This stock sold at 1-4 to 1-2 above New York prices. Boston Elevated continued to advance on fair buying. Coppers continued firm but very quiet.

The close was very dull and firm. Following are quotations:

HARRY CHANDLER,
Assistant General Manager, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of July, 1914.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,

A. L. Dennis, being duly sworn, declares that he is and has been for twelve years Superintendent of Circulation of the Los Angeles Times; that the above detailed statement of circulation for the month of June, 1914, is correct, and shows the circulation of The Times for each day of the month named.

A. L. DENNIS,
Superintendent of Circulation, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of July, 1914.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies of its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

The Fighters.

JOE RIVERS AND CROSS ARE MATCHED AGAIN.

AFTER a terrific day's bargaining, it was settled yesterday that Joe Rivers is to fight Leach Cross July 28.

Johny Tillman and Johnny Dundee are left hovering around in the background. It is probable that they will be matched to fight each other, the winner to fight the winner of the Rivers-Cross match late in August.

Dundee and his manager, Scotty Montieth, blew in unexpectedly from El Paso in the middle of Friday night. On arrival, Scotty announced that Dundee was not a candidate for the July 28 date, as he fights Grover Hays in El Paso, July 26.

After that, he will immediately return to Los Angeles and spend the summer here. Scotty says that he wants to have Dundee fight Joe Rivers; then he will sail for London to camp on the trail of Freddie Welsh.

"Johnny has made $16,500 since the first of the year," said his manager. "By fall he will have gotten quite a little ahead of the game financially and he will be able to stand the financial strain of chasing Freddie Welsh.

"We know well enough it will be a long stern chase, for Freddie will have no desire to fight anybody liable to make it tough going for him. Least of all Dundee. He has tried Dundee once and he didn't like it.

"There aren't many lightweights in the world who can beat Welsh, but Dundee can. Welsh was cut out for him. When they fought in New Orleans, Welsh found that he couldn't hold on to Johnny as he does these other boys. The Italian is too strong. When Welsh tried to grab him in a clinch, Dundee knocked his arms

HIGHWAY LINK IS POOR FOR AUTOMOBILE TRAVEL.

San Bernardino Roads Good Now With Exception of Highland Avenue Detour, Which Will Be Eliminated Within Short Time When New State Concrete Base Drive Is Opened.

SAN BERNARDINO is linked to Los Angeles by an excellent stretch of suburban electric railway, but there is a missing link in the automobile road.

The new State highway is being rushed to completion and within a few weeks there will be a boulevard drive from this city to San Bernardino.

The motor travel has been heavy over the roads to San Bernardino and Redlands this season on account of the increased popularity of the mountain resorts, which are reached by auto stage from those cities. The few miles of poor roadway have aroused a great deal of criticism throughout the motoring ranks of Southern California.

AUTOISTS PROTEST.

Along Highland avenue, the route now in use on account of the State highway construction work, signs of protest have been posted by touring parties. Those who have driven over this detour during the past month have found it anything but pleasant driving.

The dust is deep and the road is crossed by several deep washes, which make driving difficult for any but an experienced autoist. Just about five miles of this sandy, rough road and the average automobile driver will condemn the road to San Bernardino.

The truth is, the roads to San Bernardino are not bad. Generally speaking they are very good, but the one dusty detour along Highland avenue between Cucamonga and Etiwanda avenue, is enough to spoil the pleasure of the miles of perfect boulevard.

IN MAXWELL.

Last week Ned Lord of the Lord Motor Car Company drove a party of officials over the roads along the new Pacific Electric line on a tour of inspection and returned over the Foothill boulevard to Claremont and from there to Pomona and into the city over the El Monte road.

Young Lord says that as far as Cucamonga the roads are generally good. Either paved boulevard, concrete State highway or smooth oiled roads are to be found all the way from Los Angeles. At Cucamonga the Automobile Club of Southern California has temporary route signs posted, which direct traffic toward the mountains to Highland avenue and then to the right for more than five miles to Etiwanda avenue.

The Maxwell man agrees that this detour is one of the real bad roads of this section, but says that the good roads make the dust and ruts more noticeable.

GOOD DRIVE.

Etiwanda avenue is smooth and from the turn near Fontana on into San Bernardino the road is practically all excellent.

There is a short detour made necessary by a washed-out bridge near San Bernardino. This is to be replaced within a short time, according to Lord, as the San Bernardino and Rialto officials have taken the matter up with the intention of rushing a new bridge through as soon as possible.

It will be but a few weeks until the State highway is completed between Cucamonga and Fontana. This will relieve the Highland avenue detour and make the run to San Bernardino an excellent drive.

HEN BERRY HAS PENNANT VISION.

President Berry last night for the first time expressed a definite opinion regarding the Coast League race.

"I consider the prospects most bright for Los Angeles winning the championship," he declared. "Not until the club caught its stride did I feel safe in saying this.

"I had feared Portland, but that club's work to date shows that it is weaker than last season. McCredie's pitching staff does not compare with that of last season.

"The Tigers are a good club, and are dangerous. They will be further strengthened by Koestner. But don't lose sight of the fact that the Angels will get more pitchers if it is seen that they are needed."

OLD YACHT WINS LIPTON CUP RACE.

TRILBY, TWO YEARS AT ANCHOR, SHOWS SPEED.

The Columbine Led All the Way, but Was Beaten on Account of Her Handicap—Race Is Followed by Big Banquet and Ball at the Coronado—Race Described.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 11.—A sensation was caused in yachting circles today when the Trilby, owned by D. Wheeler Brown of the San Diego Yacht Club won the Lipton cup race at Coronado this afternoon.

For two years the Trilby has been lying at anchor unused, and when, soon after beginning the second leg of the course, it began to look as if she might win, every yachtsman of the bay showed surprise. The race was a beautiful one from a sailor's standpoint, and all of the boats showed to good advantage.

The big Columbine sailed by A. F. Haller for C. Sepulveda, the owner of the South Coast Yacht Club, kept in the lead throughout the race and made such excellent time that the result of the race was in doubt until the officials had figured the handicaps.

Ben Weston's beautiful little Vite had plenty of friends along the course among the power boats and yachts that followed the race, but there was not enough wind for the northern boat, which, like other boats of the Los Angeles waters, does not carry as much sail as local boats which are prepared for the light winds of San Diego waters.

The course was triangular, two miles from the Coronado Hotel toward Point Loma, then two miles out, and back to the start two miles. The six-mile course was covered twice by the yachts, which made the race through with the Columbine leading, the Aeolus and Trilby following closely and the Gretchen, the Vite an the Wasp some distance behind. Capt. Frank Benham had charge of the race, while Lew B. Harris was judge.

Shortly before the race these yachts had to be remeasured, as the old measurements could not be taken as authentic. These measurements gave the following allowance to the entries: Columbine, scratch; Aeolus, 3m., 29s.; Trilby, 5m., 36s.; Gretchen, 7m., 11s.; Vite, 6m., 30s.; Wasp, 10m., 35s.

The Trilby won by twelve seconds. The corrected time of each yacht, that is, with the allowance deducted, was: Columbine, 1:55:49; Aeolus, 1:55:47; Trilby, 1:55:35; Gretchen, 1:59:03; Vite, 2:04:03; Wasp, 2:03:03.

REAL INDIANS BOOST SAVAGE.

San Diego Parade Shows One Novelty Float.

Pueblo Braves in War Dress Ride on Truck.

Much Comment Attracted by the Show.

One of the most attractive floats in the San Diego Fourth of July parade was the Savage Tire Company's entry.

Indians from the Pueblo tribe of New Mexico were used to carry out the advertising idea of the Savage name.

On a Federal truck, these Indians were grouped around a stock of Savage tires, with the new non-skid and smooth-tread casings alternating, and "red-graphite" tubes topping off the pile.

The truck was decorated with flags, which covered all but the radiator and the seat where the driver sat. An Indian tom-tom made from a hollow cottonwood log with a head of buckskin, was used on the float.

The Pueblo Indians are to have a complete exhibit at the San Diego Exposition. Those used on the Savage float were from those now at San Diego. In a short time seventy-five more of the tribesmen are to put in an appearance at the exposition grounds.

All the blankets, head-dresses and beadwork worn by the Pueblos in the San Diego parade were of genuine Indian make. The Indians took great pleasure in riding on the Federal truck, and easily made the float the most striking in the parade, owing to the novel display of the Savage trade mark.

Federal truck Savage float.

The Savage Tire Company's float in the San Diego Fourth of July parade was one of the most attractive in the long line. Seven full blooded Indians rode on the Federal truck.

Eureka!

MOGUL STARTER AVOIDS COMPLICATIONS BY LEVERS.

MOGUL mechanical starters are now being distributed locally from headquarters of the Leslie E. Moore Company, after multifold tests in eastern territory, where the simple and sure mechanical attachment has been found to answer all requirements of thousands of users.

Three hours is sufficient time for affixing the device to any car, a simple foot pedal doing away with complex machinery, compressed air, batteries, generators or springs. Compound leverage accomplishes, better, all that is performed by the older complicated starters, under guarantee of the agents of "satisfaction or money back."

Arrangements are being made for manufacturing here all starters required in the large Southern California market.

Shettler's Story.

Man Who Originated World's Greatest Automobile Endurance Run Tells Tale of Birth of Contest and First Race Which Was Won by Famous Old Steamer "Black Bess."

BY LEON T. SHETTLER,

Southern California Agent for the Grant Car.

MANY inquiries regarding the origin of the famous Los Angeles-to-Phoenix road race have been received by the automobile editor of The Times during the past few weeks. Many erroneous and conflicting stories regarding the history of the race have been circulated. For the benefit of the readers of The Times, Leon T. Shettler, father of the desert classic and local agent for the Grant car, has written the correct history of this popular automobile contest.

In the summer of 1909, at which time I was doing a great deal of racing with my four-cylinder KisselKar, "Tabasco I," George Purdy Bullard of Phoenix, Ariz., came into my office and suggested to me that I establish a record between Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz., arranging to finish there at the time the State Fair was in progress. I asked him if he knew anything about the roads from here to Phoenix and he stated that he did not, and didn't suppose there was a road.

We talked this matter over and decided that inasmuch as some one must have driven between the two cities with freighters in the old times, that there must be some way to get through, and I agreed with him that if he would get some newspaper in Phoenix to put up a silver cup for me, I would send my car across on a specified date.

Upon Mr. Bullard's return to Phoenix he told me that the Arizona Republican of Phoenix would put up the cup. The newspapers all over the southern end of the State and throughout Arizona began to take a great deal of interest in the proposed race. I sent a Reo two-cylinder car over the road in charge of Charles F. Bigelow, in order to establish a route. This was the first automobile to make the trip from here to Phoenix.

RACE IS ON.

Col. F. C. Fenner, then proprietor of the White steam car agency and owner of the famous old "Black Bess," who had just beaten us badly in the Mt. Baldy race, called me up and suggested that we make a race of it, with a side bet for the purse. I readily agreed to this proposition and the race was on. A few days later Andrew J. Smith, who was then the Los Angeles agent for the Elmore car, threw his hat into the ring and demanded that we let him in with his Elmore racing car, which was nicknamed the "Bulldog."

About ten days before the race was scheduled to start, Ralph Hamlin came over to my office and stated that he would like to enter his Franklin "Greyhound" in the race, but that he did not dare do it because no one in his employ knew the road, and he was afraid of getting lost on the desert. I told Ralph the name of a young fellow in Phoenix who had ridden over on our pilot car, and advised him to get this young fellow to come over and ride with him, so as to show him the road. He agreed to do this, thus adding the fourth and last car to the list of entrants.

THREE ON A CAR.

The race started at 10 o'clock at night from in front of the Hollenbeck Hotel. Harris Hanshue and Bert Latham were the two drivers of "Tabasco I," carrying Charles Bigelow along as guide and general assistant. Capt. H. D. Ryus drove the first lap of the race for Col. Fenner in the White steam car, "Black Bess." A. J. Smith drove the Elmore "Bulldog," and Ralph Hamlin the Franklin "Greyhound."

Although the cars left Los Angeles about thirty minutes apart, Capt. Ryus landed "Black Bess" in Mecca, 152 miles out, just at break of day, well in the lead. The Franklin and Kissel cars rolled into Mecca second and third, with the Elmore following close behind.

A few miles out of Mecca, the White car took one fork of a rather obscure road, landing in Ehrenburg for the night control considerably in advance of any of the other cars. Tabasco and I took another branch of this road, getting into a very bad country and having considerable rear-axle trouble. Ralph Hamlin came along in his Franklin and tagged on behind the KisselKar and made up his mind that he would stay there until they got nearly into Ehrenburg so as to take no chance of getting lost. In some way his car and the KisselKar got separated, and he finally got so confused that he had to wait until daylight to find his way into Ehrenburg. Meanwhile, the KisselKar was having its own troubles and arrived in Ehrenburg but a short distance ahead of the Franklin. The Elmore, which had followed the White, arrived second in Ehrenburg.

THE NEXT MORNING.

Out of Ehrenburg the next morning the four cars kept their respective places in the race, and finished, Black Bess first, Bulldog second, Tabasco I third and Greyhound fourth.

HAMLIN CHANGES MIND.

If I live to be one hundred years old I will never forget how sore Ralph Hamlin was at me when he arrived in Phoenix. The first thing he said when he got out of his car was that "Any man who would pick out that road for a race course ought to have his head examined by a probate judge."

After Hamlin had something to eat and washed up and got to thinking it over he stated that it was some race after all, and that he would enter the next Phoenix race and keep on entering it until he won it, which he finally did in 1912.

Thus was established the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix race, which from a standpoint of pure sportsmanship and endurance to both cars and drivers is by long odds the classiest automobile racing event in the world. The public must remember that it costs every entrant to this race from $1000 to $4000 for the privilege of satisfying his curiosity. They all realize that but one car can win the race, and in fact the first few races carried practically no purse for the winning car.

POPULAR CONTEST.

Notwithstanding the many hardships connected with a race of this kind, it is a very popular one with every driver who has ever participated in it. Even Barney Oldfield told me a few months ago that notwithstanding the fact that he never had very good luck in the race, he liked it and would take every opportunity of entering it or any other race of its kind. He stated that he got more real fun out of it than any race he ever entered.

Now I want to say for my part that I was an entrant in the first three Phoenix races. I never got better than third place in any of them, but it is my favorite race, and one that has done more to bring out the best of feeling from a sportsmanship standpoint between the automobile entrants and drivers.

In conclusion it might not be out of place to say that one of the things that has made the Phoenix race so popular with both entrants and drivers has been the generous treatment and good fellowship shown this race by the people of Phoenix. They have thrown their town wide open to our boys time after time, and have shown us that they like to have us come.

RACE TO LIVE.

It is my sincere opinion that the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix desert race will be run as an annual event when the Vanderbilt cup race, the Grand Prix race and the Indianapolis race have passed into history. I base this assertion on the fact that no one but a true sportsman ever enters a car in the Phoenix race, as there isn't enough financial inducement in it to tempt factory racing teams, and it has been the history of every sport, except baseball, that the amateur sportsman is the most persevering man on earth, and I don't doubt but what there will always be found a goodly number each year to swell the lists of the "desert classic."

LORD CONCERN TO OCCUPY NEW HOME.

The new home of the Lord Motor Car Company, where the Maxwell line is soon to be on display, is nearing completion. Already the walls are up, the roof on, and the work in the inside is being rushed as fast as possible. It is the aim of the Lord company to be comfortably settled in the new salesroom early in August.

Not only will the new Maxwell home be more spacious but it will be arranged much more conveniently for the office and sales force.

NIX ON WRENCH.

To tour from Los Angeles to Reno, a distance of 550 miles, and crossing a mountain range en route, without even a puncture to mar the pleasure of the trip, is the experience of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Robinson of Los Angeles. The trip was made in a Studebaker "six" landau-roadster. During the trip Mr. Robinson never touched a wrench.

KISSELKAR

This New Two-Door Design has Captured the Motoring Public

STUNNING—that's the verdict wherever the new KisselKar 48 "Six," with its swagger two-door tonneau, has been shown.

Only one compartment—only two doors—its enough for the fullest comfort and convenience, and at the same time permits grace and beauty of design impossible under any other construction.

Those who want a four or five passenger car and who desire to be strictly up-to-the-minute, will be impressed immediately with this two-door 48 "Six."

Rival manufacturers generously acknowledge the leadership of the KisselKar and will follow this design—next year.

The purchaser of a 48 "Six" may have the conventional four doors if he so desires, this type being offered in either five or seven passenger models.

The price of the 48 "Six" with either two-door or four-door body is $2500. Wire wheels, $70 additional.

See the new 48 "Six" today. You will be delighted ith its sturdiness, its simplicity, its riding qualities, its all-around excellence.

HANSHUE MAKES GREAT SHOWING WITH BRANCH.

HARRIS HANSHUE, manager of the Los Angeles factory branch of the Apperson company, has seemingly got away to a flying start. Since taking the managership of the Apperson branch here Hanshue has put out just ten new machines.

Those who have purchased Apperson machines since Hanshue was placed in charge of the branch, about two weeks ago, are O. J. Faulkner, C. S. Johnson, D. B. Brunson, Huston Parsons, E. F. Peer and Charles A. Nason of this city, and A. H. Slaughter of Fullerton, Mrs. Mary Blanchard of Hollywood, A. J. Barnhart of Azusa.

Hanshue was with the Apperson factory previous to his coming to Los Angeles several years ago. Since he has been here he has been connected with the agency, and is one of the old-timers in the industry.

Harvey Herrick is with Hanshue at the local branch and the manager gives him a large share of credit for the excellent showing made by the line during the short time that it has been handled by Hanshue.

BETTER ARRANGEMENTS FOR CARE OF AUTOISTS.

THE arrangements for taking care of American automobilists on the Continent is illustrated in advices from Walter Nutting, the well-known artist, who is touring the Old World in a Stevens-Duryea. He has written to Clarence English, the local Stevens-Duryea agent, describing some of his experiences.

According to Mr. Nutting, many of the petty annoyances and inconveniences to which American automobilists touring Europe have been subjected in the past have now been eliminated.

The traveler can now arrange to commission his car in the hands of a high-class customs broker in New York or Boston, and the broker will attend to all arrangements such as obtaining membership in the Auto Association of Great Britain or the Touring Club of France. The broker will take care of the shipping of the car and the customs arrangements at both ends very promptly.

The roads of the Continent, generally speaking, are famous for their character and fitness for touring, and those of France are especially good.

The Frenchman is inclined to underrate the value of his roads. A grade marked "steep descent" would hardly be called a descent in America.

Odd as it may seem, in the midst of a galaxy of good roads, those leading direct into Paris are noted for their roughness, although the pavements of the city are exceptionally good.

One annoyance to the tourist that has not been done away with is the practice of the officials of Paris in stopping every motor that comes into the city, measuring the size of its "essence" tank, the depth of the "essence" and then after haggling over the quantity, finally assess a heavy duty, 20 centimes a liter, or about 20 cents a gallon on what they think you have aboard. The tourist also has to pay a similar duty on leaving the city, so that on leaving one generally buys his supply outside the city limits.

Tourists in France are warned by Mr. Nutting not to blow their Klaxon or light the head lamps while in Paris, as to do either is almost certain to cause arrest. No one is ever arrested for speeding in or out of Paris, and the hapless pedestrian has more often than not been fined for being in the way.

NEW BALL MAKES LIVELY GOLF.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—One of the most interesting assertions with regard to golf made in recent years is that of Robert Simpson, recently of Chicago, but now of Los Angeles, who opines that because of these days of lively golf balls and the possibility of even faster ones being put on the market in the near future, a new style of golf has arrived, and is not likely to be discarded.

The tenor of Simpson's assertions is to the effect that the club now has to be held tightly in the left hand and fairly firm in the fingers of the right. He advises the use of the overlapping or interlocking grip as of considerable assistance. He points, as an example, to Francis Ouimet, the open champion. He suggests the hands be held close together so as to act in unison and not pull against each other.

AUTO CLEANS HORSE.

A hill-climbing contest between a horse and an automobile was the feature number on the programme at a monster German-Lutheran picnic at West Ely, Mo., recently. The best horse on the field was selected, attached to a light buggy, and an attempt made to ascend a steep, sandy hill. After three attempts the driver gave up the contest. The car, a Studebaker "six," then accomplished the seemingly-impossible task.

NEW LINE FOR AUTO TRAFFIC.

CROSS-TOWN BOULEVARD UNDER WAY AT PRESENT.

Would Relieve Congestion on Vermont Avenue and South Figueroa Street With Another Outlet for Motor Travel at Extreme Western End of City.

Automobile owners of this city are interested in the plan of the Angeles Mesa Improvement Association for a cross-town road from West Adams street to Slauson avenue. This road is to be a macadam highway, built through the Los Angeles Investment Company's property, formerly the Baldwin ranch, to connect at Mesa drive with the good road already built.

Over a stretch of two miles, that is comparatively level, this boulevard is to be constructed, making a connecting link for the residents of the south and southwestern parts of the city. This would mean another outlet for the heavy traffic to the beaches and would relieve congestion on Vermont avenue and Figueroa streets, which has become a problem.

At a meeting held in Hyde Park Tuesday night the project was sprung. Supervisor Henshaw outlined the policy of the Board of Supervisors and listened with favor to the plans. Bert C. Smith, president of the Angeles Mesa Improvement Association, urged the building of the road, showing that it is the only highway that can be completed on the extreme western end of the city because of the high hills beyond. He was ably seconded by Fred L. Forrester of the Angeles Mesa Land Company. Residents of Hyde Park also favored the plan.

There is now $25,000 in the Hyde Park road district fund which is available for road improvement. The proposed stretch of two miles could be built and macadamized for $10,000 a mile. The Baldwin heirs are to be asked to grant the right of way through their properties.

At a meeting held Monday night at Angeles Mesa the matter will be discussed and plans for securing the right of way will be formulated. There is reason to believe that work on this road will be started this summer, and that before the fall of the present year this highway will be completed and another main artery into the city of Los Angeles will be possible for owners of automobiles who wish to avoid the thoroughfares where the traffic is so heavy.

This proposed boulevard is also to connect with the proposed Benedict Canyon road, which is to connect Hollywood and the beaches with the San Fernando Valley.

GEORGE BRICKLEY STILL AMATEUR.

Charlie Brickley, the Harvard football captain, has hopes that his brother George, who passed up a college career to sign with Connie Mack and was later released, may yet receive higher education and in addition be ruled eligible to play. Charlie Brickley recently visited South Bethlehem, Pa., where he told the Lehigh University authorities that Connie Mack will give George a signed statement to the effect that no money was paid the latter, that he was merely taken for a tryout. There is a possibility, therefore, that George Brickley's name may be seen in the college football lineups next fall.

FISK TIRE TAKES IN SOUTHWEST.

CAMPBELL AND CARTER COVER CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA IN LONG JOURNEY.

Returning from a sales and inspection trip throughout Southern California and Arizona, F. C. Campbell and F. Carter, representing the Fisk tire factory, report the tire trade in this section as in excellent condition with a still more promising outlook for the future.

Campbell is traveling agent for the factory, while Carter is the local Fisk branch agent. Their journey covered approximately 6000 miles, and occupied about six weeks of their time. They visited practically every town or crossroads in which a garage was located.

The two men spent a considerable portion of their time in the Imperial Valley, and Mr. Campbell says that with the advent of warm weather the Fisk tire is proving its worth under trying conditions by its added popularity.

REGAL

$1085 INCLUDING ELECTRIC STARTING & LIGHTING
F. O. B. Factory.

ANNOUNCING The NEW REGAL

An overhung car—a one-chassis car—a big production car; backed by a $3,000,000 company with a ten-acre factory

A real 5-passenger car, with everybody comfortable. Rear seat 48 inches wide, with 23-inch tonneau doors. Plenty of room for the driver, too, without hunching up his knees.

And a beauty—the lines are those of a $6,000 foreign car. Perfect stream line—even the radiator cap is under the hood.

A motor—30 h. p. on actual brake test—that just grins at high hills and bad roads. The entire top comes off in a minute, if you want to get at pistons or valves.

Weight—less than 2,400 pounds with all equipment. 300 to 500 pounds less than the average, yet it's a stronger car, as well as lighter. Easier on tires, too, and requires less fuel.

Every bit of equipment that will tend to make your pleasure more complete.

The more you know about motor-cars, the more you'll be surprised at the value in the new Regal at the price.

Come in—bring the whole family for a demonstration ride. Or get the Regal descriptive folder. A few minutes reading will give you what it has taken us two years of effort to put into the New Regal Car.

CROSS COUNTRY IN MOTOR HOME.

Touring Car Carries Body of Novel Design.

Owner Pioneer Auto Tourist from Denver.

Makes Second Run Over Well Known Highway.

The touring car de luxe has made its appearance on the streets of Los Angeles. The machine is a National "big six," owned by H. M. Butts, who until recently, controlled large interests in Mexico.

At present the owner of the famous National is in this city with his family and in the future Los Angeles is to be his home.

While making the 1600-mile run from Denver to Los Angeles, over the Santa Fe-Grand Canyon-Needles route, the National carried seven passengers.

There have been a number of touring cars of odd design seen in Los Angeles, but the machine owned and driven by Mr. Butts is claimed to be the most completely equipped of any of the special machines ever seen on the Coast.

The owner designed the body, which the National carries. It was built under his personal supervision in Denver. He has a camping roadster body for the car also, the regular National body is used.

On the trip from Denver, Mrs. Butts, a daughter, two sons, J. V. Cotter and R. C. Plume, Jr., also rode in the car. Cotter is a brother-in-law and Plume an old friend of the owner of the machine.

Fifteen days were required for the trip as stops were made at various places along the scenic route.

The body is so arranged that the passengers have all the room of a regular seven-passenger car. There is not an inch of space wasted, yet with the baggage, camping supplies and passengers, the machine is not crowded.

On the top the extra tires are carried in heavy cases. There is a compartment behind the back seats in which clothes are hung as in a closet and suit cases are stored. The bedding is carried in neat rolls inside the top. The seats make down like a Pullman berth and there are compartments just above the rear seat where guns, fishing tackle and other equipment is carried with cushions and pillows packed in on top.

Under the seat four steel rods and two wide strips of canvas are carried. These rods fit into concealed sockets on the side of the car and two sleeping hammocks are swung on outriggers. The side curtains are extra long and these buckle down over the guy straps, making a perfect shelter about the size of one side of an army "pup" tent.

On the right running board, several heavy planks are strapped. These are used for a table on rear of the car or as a bed. There is a frame which is anchored into the ground with drive pins. On this it is but a matter of a few minutes to make a comfortable double bed.

Throughout the car there are small compartments for various articles.

The machine is electric lighted throughout.

With the two side beds, double bed on the running board and room for three in the berth inside the car, seven persons can tour the country with the machine and never visit a hotel.

The curtains offer protection in rainy, windy or extreme hot weather. It is but the work of a few minutes to transpose the car of the road into a camp for the night.

In a few days, this machine is to go out on the roads again. The members of the party have laid in a supply of fishing tackle, guns and ammunition, purchased from the Dyas-Cline concern and after surf fishing on the Coast, the National is to be driven back into the mountains of Northern California.

While in the mountains, it is the intention of the owner to leave the car made up for camping practically all the time, making it a permanent camp.

H. M. Butts is one of the pioneer motor car tourists of the country. Three years ago he drove from San Antonio, Tex., to Iowa, returning by way of Denver and back to Texas. This trip totaled 4000 miles and it was on this tour that the owner of the National conceived the idea of a real touring car equipped with every modern convenience.

While engaged in business in Mexico, Mr. Butts kept his family in Denver in order that his children might have the advantages of the schools there. A short time ago he disposed of his Mexican interests, and made a motor run to Los Angeles.

That was in the early spring and the roads between here and Denver were poor. Mrs. Butts accompanied her husband on the trip. The special roadster body was used on the National at that time. They returned to Denver and as soon as the schools closed there, the family motored to this city, which is to be their home.

HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION HEAD IN LOS ANGELES.

COL. D. K. B. SELLERS, president of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, reached Los Angeles Friday in a Hupmobile roadster. He covered the route of the proposed transcontinental boulevard and has arranged to return to Albuquerque, his home city, with eight other automobiles.

Eight days' running time from Albuquerque is the record of Col. Sellers. He made the run from Albuquerque to Magdalena in one day, a feat hitherto impossible. The bridge at Socorro, recently completed, cuts off a detour of thirty-eight miles and the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway president was one of the first to take advantage of this.

The road from Magdalena to Springerville is excellent according to President Sellers who crossed the White Mountains by way of Ft. Apache, followed the roads covered by The Times Special on the route-blazing tour, and reached Globe with his car in splendid shape. The White Mountains roads are better than they have been since the transcontinental highway project was broached.

Bridges have been built over the White and Black rivers. The fords which were formerly dangerous now are spanned by concrete structures which make this route excellent. The grades have been completed by the best of road engineers and are not dangerous as Col. Sellers declared any motorist can make the trip with any kind of car.

At Phoenix Col. Sellers was met by George Purdy Bullard, Attorney-General of Arizona, who helped route the prominent road man to Los Angeles. In order to learn the condition of all highways leading into this city President Sellers came here by way of Needles. He will return, however, over the Yuma route along the south side of the Salton Sea.

There is no sand between this city and Albuquerque that need bother any motorist, says Sellers. He advises all those who intend to make the trip across the continent to start at once as the highways were never in better shape. There is not a foot of road that can be termed impassible according to the Hupmobile tourist.

The road from Globe to the Roosevelt Dam is good, but it has been washed out this side of the big dam and is now being repaired. From Mesa to Tempe and from Tempe to Phoenix the highways were fine and Sellers drove at top speed in order to get to the Adams Hotel in Phoenix, where he was tendered a banquet.

Col. Sellers was accompanied by his wife and his famous watch dog. The animal enjoyed the trip, but when it became too hot on the desert the dog was shipped to this city.

Sellers leaves this morning for San Diego to be in the southern city for about a month.

TIRE MAN MAKES ARIZONA TOUR.

A. T. Smith, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, is to leave for Arizona tomorrow, where he will remain for about two weeks.

The recent automobile and motorcycle races in Arizona were won on Firestone tires and as a result there has been a lot of tire business booked for the Firestone company, and Smith is going down to take a hand in the game.

HUDSON Six-40 for 1915

NEW PRICE $1700 F. O. B. Los Angeles

32 Surprises

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 brings out 32 surprises. And every one will be of interest to you.

There are 31 new features.

And there is a new price—by far the lowest price that has ever been quoted on any type of quality car.

The Model Six

The HUDSON Six-40 came out last year to show Howard E. Coffin's ideal in a Six.

Mr. Coffin and his corps of 47 engineers had devoted three years to the model. By clever designing and proper materials they cut out 1000 pounds of useless weight. By a new-type motor they saved about 30 per cent. in operative cost under former cars of like capacity.

They created a car which was widely considered the handsomest car of the year. It was perfectly equipped. It had attractions which never before were found in any car at any price. That car—then priced at $1900—made such an appeal that the factory output was 3000 cars oversold,

A Year's Refinements

Now these HUDSON engineers have spent another year on refinements. They have added comforts and conveniences. They have improved the car in 31 important ways.

Now the HUDSON factory—to meet the demand—has trebled its capacity. And the entire saving—$200 per car—is taken from the price. The new Six-40—with all these new features—will this year sell at $1700 f.o.b. Los Angeles.

This type of car—light, handsome, economical—is the coming type of car. Nobody really doubts that. This price is all that such a car should cost.

It marks a new era in quality cars. And it ends the time when Sixes were barred to men who pay modest prices.

We want you to see this car.

This new model now here. Don't buy until you see it.

Some 1915 Features
Distinguished streamline body.
Disappearing tonneau seats.
20-coat finish—invisible hinges.
"One-Man" top, with quick-adjusting curtains attached.

RESPECT SPARKPLUGS.

Many motorists remove their sparkplugs too often. Unless required by evident trouble, they should not be removed oftener than once or twice a year, when they should be washed with kerosene, and carbon deposits done when the valves need grinding, says A. R. Mosler, a veteran maker.

No "Kewpies" for the Regal.

The Answer.

FINAL RESTING PLACE OF OLD CARS LOCATED.

STUDENTS of motor science who have often puzzled over what becomes of the old pleasure cars of designs of other years, have found a partial answer to the question, at least. According to H. L. Owesney, Pacific Coast manager for the Winton company, a large number of the old cars are now being used in delivery or commercial service.

In fact, Owesney believes the converted pleasure car is becoming a commercial factor to be seriously reckoned with by those who would keep abreast of the trend of the times in the motor industry.

Such cars, he declares, are being used especially by the small grocer, the plumber and the produce dealer, as they offer a means of procuring an effective mode of transportation at a comparatively moderate cost. It is quite often possible to secure a good pleasure car of an out-of-date model and for a few hundred dollars additional convert it into a valuable commercial car.

Many of these cars are driven by their owners, and hence are operated more carefully and economically than the ordinary commercial vehicle.

Rapid, light delivery is thus accomplished, and in the smaller cities and towns many of the old touring cars are being utilized in this manner.

RIVERSIDE DRIVERS MAKE CADILLAC CLUB RECORDS.

"BILLY" NEWPORT of Perris heads the honor list of six Cadillac owners of Riverside who are eligible for the 50,000-mile club. He has driven his Cadillac 150,000 miles, and expects it to be good for 200,000. Number plates have been received by Manager Kemp of the Riverside agency for the Cadillac owners who have claimed membership in the long-distance club. Aside from Newport they are Ed Poorman of Perris, A. N. Collins, Riverside; A. Pico, San Jacinto; E. M. Bonnett, Riverside, and J. Applewhite of Riverside. While the total mileage for these drivers is not available, it is either close to or in excess of the 100,000 mark.

W. A. Avey of Riverside, who is driving his second Cadillac since coming to California, is rapidly nearing the 50,000-mile mark with his present car and expects to be eligible for membership in the club before the summer touring season is over.

J. V. Daniels, who spent last winter in Riverside, writes from London that he is meeting with fine service from his Cadillac on English roads and that he is driving on the left side of the road with all the nonchalance (whatever that is) of a London cabby. Cadillac service abroad is good, he declares, but not so good as that received from California dealers. He expects to spend the coming winter in Riverside.

Ready Made.

INFORMATION ON ROADS LEADING TO VENTURA.

D. B. HULL, factory representative for the Cartercar Company, is in Los Angeles, prepared to handle some big deals.

At the opening of the touring season Hull agreed to map the best routes out of Los Angeles and as a first venture he logged the Vermont-avenue road out to Hollywood and over the Cahuenga Pass to Ventura.

Vermont avenue now is open and there is less than one mile of rough road. Any autoist wishing to drive to Glendale, Casa Verdugo or any point on the road to Santa Barbara need not be afraid of taking Sunset boulevard to Vermont avenue.

From Pico street to West Sixth, the pavement makes going perfect. Then after leaving West Sixth the graders are at work as far as West Temple street, where it is necessary to take a short detour.

This will occupy less than one-tenth of a mile, and after that the road is open to the Los Feyis road, where the touring is excellent. As far as Griffith Park, everything is open. Those who care to tour through the park will find the going excellent. The Cartercar was driven on toward Toluca and the new bridge over the river was found to be open and in perfect shape.

This makes the run to Glendale, Casa Verdugo and San Fernonda open to all residents of Hollywood and the western part of the city.

NEW ZEALAND SALES.

An opportunity for a big expansion of the motor car and general motor vehicle trade by American manufacturers and dealers is offered in all of the larger towns of New Zealand. While there is a preferential duty of 10 per cent. in favor of the English-made cars, this is more than made up by the cheapness of American bodies, it is claimed by experts familiar with the trade situation.

SHANK A MOTORIST.

"Lew" Shank, ex-Mayor of Indianapolis, leader in the battle against the high cost of living, and vaudeville star, has purchased a Studebaker automobile, and plans to spend the summer touring.

FRENCH LIGHTING ROADS BY BARS.

An entirely new principle for road illumination is proposed by a French firm with a view to eliminating the offensive glare of headlights and yet maintain a sufficient illumination of the road ahead. It takes the form of a bar in which are mounted twelve small electric lamps with projectors.

The basic idea for this innovation is that a line of light is not blinding, while a strong light concentrated at one point, or two points some distance apart, produces the blinding effect by reason of the sharp contrast with the obscurity surrounding it.

Maxwell Summer Series
Make This a Maxwell Summer!

Enjoy yourself this season—make the most of the wonderful beaches—the splendid mountains—make it the kind of a summer you've always dreamed of. There's just one way—that's to drive a Maxwell. A "Maxwell Summer" means a perfect summer.

Some special Summer Features have been added. Deeper upholstering, larger lamps, choice of black or mohair top and longer gear shift lever.

ALL SATISFACTION if you are driving one of these famous cars—the only real car on the market at a low price.

LOW PRICES, YES, but also low upkeep. Light weight—good springs—well built—the very least wear on all parts.

ONLY LAST WEEK a Maxwell "25" owner finished up a trip of 3013 miles and his entire cost was $47.82 including even storage. Just think that over!

TAKE A LOOK at the Maxwell—stand it up beside any other car you can buy at this price or anywhere near it. You can see several hundred dollars difference at a glance.

AND WHEN YOU GET IN you can feel a lot more difference that is worth much to you. Big roomy seats—that are really comfortable. Perhaps you can name some cheap cars that are not.

GO OVER THE CONSTRUCTION point by point and you'll find the Maxwell really has no competitor. Think of such features as: IRREVERSIBLE STEERING system; three-quarter floating rear axle; high tension magneto; double jet carburetor; Jiffy curtains, etc., etc.

NOW CONSIDER that you can buy this car for only $750 plus the freight—then you will understand why there are so many enthusiastic Maxwell boosters.

IT'S ALL CAR—all the kind of a car you would build yourself. A car that you are proud to drive, that your wife is proud to ride in.

AND BEST OF ALL a car that you can afford to buy—and afford to operate.

Let us show you. Just phone and we'll send a car to your home or office.

1915 TRUMBULL CYCLE CAR

1915 TRUMBULL CYCLE CAR

Represents all in design, workmanship, materials and finish contained in the highest grade automobiles. It belongs in the quality class with Buicks, Hupmobiles, and Overlands. It goes anywhere any automobile will go with only 65 per cent. of the upkeep of a Ford. Tires, gasoline, oil and repairs are reduced to a negligible figure.

There has been a long-felt want for the TRUMBULL Car. Business men, traveling salesmen, bankers, manufacturers, lawyers, doctors, tourists, contractors, pleasure seekers, salaried people, and all others will find this car the ideal car for one or two persons. Such high grade quality at such a ridiculously low price was never before dreamed of. Do not confuse this car with the ordinary so-called cycle car and the gasoline roller coasters built by boys out of motorcycle engines and parts.

For pulling sand, climbing hills and for easy riding it has no superior; for economy, dodging through traffic, turning corners and backing into the curbing it has no equal.

Get wise, Mr. Automobile Man, and place your dollar where it will do you a dollar's worth of good. Invest it in a Trumbull Cycle car and keep your extra dollars in your pocket.

In buying this car you are dealing with an old, reliable house, fully equipped to give you the best of attention and mechanical service.

READ THESE SPECIFICATIONS:

RECORD MONTH FOR DEALERS.

MANY HIGH-GRADE CARS SOLD IN CITY.

Eddie Maier Adds New Machine to His Collection Which Brings Total Number of Same Brand Purchased Up to Seven and He Also Operated Three Trucks.

Clarence Smith of the local Peerless agency can see nothing but the most rosy colors on the automobile trade market horizon. His optimism is based on good substantial grounds. The actual sales of Peerless cars.

"Why," he asserted when approached, "I have just closed one of the best months in the history of the Peerless agency in this city."

Just to prove that he meant what he said, he gave out the names of some of the purchasers of Peerless cars in the last four weeks. Heading the list was the name of Ed R. Maier, who, with his newest purchase, has bought a total of seven pleasure cars of the Peerless brand since the motor car industry began to flourish, besides having three Peerless trucks that he uses in his business. Mr. Maier has just purchased a new Six-Sixty pleasure car of the torpedo type, finished in a pretty shade of green with natural finish wood wheels.

C. A. Jewett has purchased a seven-passenger, forty-eight-horse-power touring car; Charles Victor Hall has purchased a "Forty-eight" limousine of handsome finish and design; B. F. White bought one of the "little" torpedoes; E. L. Roberts purchased a "Forty-eight" pleasure car; A. H. Fleming bought a seven-passenger car for use in touring Europe and has already left on his trip.

Berlin athletic stadium, where 1916 Olympic games will be held, will cost $750,000.

HOMEMADE RUBBER SUPPLANTS WILD.

Plantation rubber is now superseding the wild product, both in quantity and quality of condition, in which it reaches the manufacturer. A famine threatened when Brazil was furnishing the world supply of crude rubber has been averted by tropical plantations devoted to its growth and production.

Sumatra, Ceylon and other districts are [illegible]

Brazil contributes 32,000 tons of wild rubber, and all other wild territory 10,000 tons.

It is predicted that within a few years plantation rubber will almost entirely eliminate the demand for the wild and comparatively unclean product.

BAGGAGE MOVED BY MOTOR TRUCKS.

This season's American invasion of Britain's metropolis has led to an innovation that cannot but be pleasing to trans-Atlantic visitors in London. One encounters the first of these on arrival at Euston station, where in place of the antiquated and cumbersome system of having baggage wheeled about in hand barrows by porters, motor trucks of the type found at all big American terminals have been installed.

The truck, which is known as a "lorry" in England, can travel at about four miles an hour. To it are attached as many ordinary trucks as are necessary to transport trunks and handbags from the train to the luggage-room in the station.

WORM DRIVERS TRUCK SUCCESS.

EXPECTED TO DISPLACE THE OLDER METHODS.

Strains of Chain-Driven Vehicles Eliminated by Worm Housed in Oil—Jerks of Jackshaft, Transmission, Clutch and Motor Avoided.

That worm-driven motor trucks will displace all chain-driven carriers in a short time is the assertion of Watt Moreland, manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, which is now turning out trucks equipped with the Moreland-Timken worm-drive.

This device has been tested in actual service, especially by the Mathie Brewing Company, which found it the only machine doing satisfactory service in the hills, as eleven chain-driven competitors failed to accomplish its results.

Power, efficiency and durability are gained through the worm-drive, which eliminates jackshaft and chains and does away with the jerks successively sustained by chain, jackshaft, transmission, clutch and motor, and the adjustments demanded as a consequence.

Operators are instructed to simply fill the worm housings with oil every 2000 miles, without adjustments.

Beardsley Electric's Astounding Record!

MAY—Ten Beardsley Electrics, driven by owners, toured with ease from Los Angeles to Riverside (63 miles) and return (72 miles) on their own power.

JUNE—Twelve Beardsley Electrics, driven by owners, made a day's tour from Los Angeles to San Pedro, Wilmington, Long Beach and return, covering 65 to 70 miles without the slightest adjustment or trouble. Party comprised 36 people.

THIS MONTH—A Beardsley Electric Victoria, in the Los Angeles-to-San Diego Dealers' Tour, made 115 miles on a single charge. The only electric entered, and the only one to ever travel the "Inland Route." Sixty people on the tour witnessed the Beardsley's record-breaking mileage. Ask them about it.

AND WHAT'S BEST OF ALL—Absolutely not a penny has been spent for repairs by any Beardsley Electric owner to date (Names of owners on request.)

1915 TRUMBULL CYCLE CAR

Represents all in design, workmanship, materials and finish contained in the highest grade automobiles. It belongs in the quality class with Buicks, Hupmobiles, and Overlands. It goes anywhere any automobile will go with only 65 per cent. of the upkeep of a Ford. Tires, gasoline, oil and repairs are reduced to a negligible figure.

There has been a long-felt want for the TRUMBULL Car. Business men, traveling salesmen, bankers, manufacturers, lawyers, doctors, tourists, contractors, pleasure seekers, salaried people, and all others will find this car the ideal car for one or two persons. Such high grade quality at such a ridiculously low price was never before dreamed of. Do not confuse this car with the ordinary so-called cycle car and the gasoline roller coasters built by boys out of motorcycle engines and parts.

For pulling sand, climbing hills and for easy riding it has no superior; for economy, dodging through traffic, turning corners and backing into the curbing it has no equal.

Get wise, Mr. Automobile Man, and place your dollar where it will do you a dollar's worth of good. Invest it in a Trumbull Cycle car and keep your extra dollars in your pocket.

In buying this car you are dealing with an old, reliable house, fully equipped to give you the best of attention and mechanical service.

"Why," he asserted when approached, "I have just closed one of the best months in the history of the Peerless agency in this city."

Just to prove that he meant what he said, he gave out the names of some of the purchasers of Peerless cars in the last four weeks. Heading the list was the name of Ed R. Maier, who, with his newest purchase, has bought a total of seven pleasure cars of the Peerless brand since the motor car industry began to flourish, besides having three Peerless trucks that he uses in his business. Mr. Maier has just purchased a new Six-Sixty pleasure car of the torpedo type, finished in a pretty shade of green with natural finish wood wheels.

C. A. Jewett has purchased a seven-passenger, forty-eight-horse-power touring car; Charles Victor Hall has purchased a "Forty-eight" limousine of handsome finish and design; B. F. White bought one of the "little" torpedoes; E. L. Roberts purchased a "Forty-eight" pleasure car; A. H. Fleming bought a seven-passenger car for use in touring Europe and has already left on his trip.

BAGGAGE MOVED BY MOTOR TRUCKS.

This season's American invasion of Britain's metropolis has led to an innovation that cannot but be pleasing to trans-Atlantic visitors in London. One encounters the first of these on arrival at Euston station, where in place of the antiquated and cumbersome system of having baggage wheeled about in hand barrows by porters, motor trucks of the type found at all big American terminals have been installed.

The truck, which is known as a "lorry" in England, can travel at about four miles an hour. To it are attached as many ordinary trucks as are necessary to transport trunks and handbags from the train to the luggage-room in the station.

WORM DRIVERS TRUCK SUCCESS.

EXPECTED TO DISPLACE THE OLDER METHODS.

Strains of Chain-Driven Vehicles Eliminated by Worm Housed in Oil—Jerks of Jackshaft, Transmission, Clutch and Motor Avoided.

That worm-driven motor trucks will displace all chain-driven carriers in a short time is the assertion of Watt Moreland, manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, which is now turning out trucks equipped with the Moreland-Timken worm-drive.

This device has been tested in actual service, especially by the Mathie Brewing Company, which found it the only machine doing satisfactory service in the hills, as eleven chain-driven competitors failed to accomplish its results.

Power, efficiency and durability are gained through the worm-drive, which eliminates jackshaft and chains and does away with the jerks successively sustained by chain, jackshaft, transmission, clutch and motor, and the adjustments demanded as a consequence.

Operators are instructed to simply fill the worm housings with oil every 2000 miles, without adjustments.

If you want "the best out of the motor" don't hesitate—SPLITDORF FORD SPECIAL high-tension magnetos are giving thousands of the popular motors the response and flexibility of the highest-priced automobiles.

Enclosed direct gear-driven—no chains or open gears—the SPLITDORF waterproof high-tension magneto does away with vibrators, coils and batteries and gives truly remarkable results in supplying the constant hot, fat juicy spark to the motor.

Everything you need for installation is supplied with the outfit. An illustrated book of instructions shows the comparative novice how he can install a SPLITDORF high-tension magneto in a few hours. This book will be sent free upon request to the nearest Branch.

down and whirled him around. Dundee was too rough for Freddie to work this jab-and-hold-on stuff.

"Johnny is just as fast as Welsh ever dared to be and he is the strongest lightweight in the ring. If we can succeed in forcing Welsh into a real fight, we will show you a champion who is the real thing."

Scotty was asked about the fiasco in New York when the promoters had to call off a fight between Welsh and Dundee for lack of money enough in the house to cover the guarantee.

"The fight was not advertised sufficiently; it was 'way out at Bay Ridge. Few people knew how to get there and it was freezing cold."

Scotty stated that Dundee is still fighting at 124 and is quite well able to make the featherweight limit. He wants to fight Johnny Kilbane again for the featherweight championship as well as the lightweight championship. If Dundee wins the feather title and the lightweight title, Scotty will feel pretty well satisfied.

COFFROTH WOULD STAGE JOHNSON-SMITH SCRAP.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Jim Coffroth wants to arrange a heavyweight match for the championship of the world between Jack Johnson and Gunboat Smith, provided the Gunner is successful in whipping Georges Carpentier when they meet in London on Thursday, next, July 16. To that end he has commissioned Jim Buckley to talk business with Johnson in Paris and has named terms which he is ready to pay the big black.

"I don't care to make the terms public at this time," said Coffroth, tonight, "but if Johnson accepts, I will guarantee to stage the bout. I would much prefer to have it take place in San Francisco, but if Johnson, for any reason, does not wish to visit California, or the United States for that matter, I can promote the contest either in British Columbia, Tia Juana or Juarez."

ERRORS AND HITS WIN FOR BOSTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, July 11.—Chicago's errors, coupled with opportune hitting by Boston today gave the visitors the final game of the series, 5 to 2. The support behind Rudolph was perfect, bordering on the sensational at times.

Boston took three out of four games in the present series.

Note the Goodyears On the Street

Note How Men are Flocking to No-Rim-Cut Tires

On any day, on any street, you can see for yourself the popularity of Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

Goodyears for years have far outsold any other tire in the world. But this year we have gained 55 per cent. That shows that motorists by the legions are discarding other tires for Goodyears.

Why They Change

These are four of the reasons why men are coming, faster and faster, to No-Rim-Cut tires:

To end rim-cutting. We control in these tires the only feasible way to completely wipe out this trouble.

To save blow-outs. These tires alone get the extra "On-Air" cure, which costs us $450,000 per year. This process saves the countless blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric.

To save loose treads. By a patent method—used by us alone—we have reduced this danger by 60 per cent.

And to get our All-Weather tread. This tread is tough, it is double-thick, it's as flat and smooth-riding as a plain tread. But it grasps wet roads in a resistless way with countless deep, sharp-edged grips.

Our Under-Price

Another reason this year is the Goodyear price. We now undersell 16 other makes. A number of makers ask for three tires what Goodyear asks for four.

That is due to our mammoth output, to new factories, new equipment. These very tires—No-Rim-Cut tires—were once the high-priced tires. By simple efficiency and multiplied output we have cut former prices in two.

At no price can any maker give you better tires than Goodyears. Lower cost per mile is utterly impossible under present-day conditions.

And every tire sold at extra prices lacks our four exclusive features.

Almost any dealer, if you ask him, will supply you Goodyear tires at Goodyear prices. Try it.

PIRATES GET BEST OF PHILADELPHIA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) July 11.—Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia here today by a score of 3 to 1 in the last game of the series. Manager Clark, hoping to break his team's losing streak, sent four regulars, Mitchell, Carey, Mowrey and Gibson, to the bench and replaced them with substitutes. He also called in Mamaux, his youngest pitcher, who allowed only three scattered hits. Philadelphia scored its only run in the first inning.

BROOKLYN ALMOST WINS IN NINTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI (O.) July 11.—Brooklyn rallied in the ninth inning of today's game and came within one run of tieing the score, which was 6 to 5 in favor of Cincinnati when the contest ended. A daring attempt by Egan, who had tripled in the ninth, to stretch the drive into a home run, ended the hostilities, as there were two men out when he went to bat.

Six Straight for Angeles.

have taken just two games out of eighteen from Los Angeles this season. Rah, for Sacramento. "Sailor" Stroud won both of those. Down with the "Sailor!"

Harry Wolverton tried an experiment and matched Kiddo Kremer up with the seasoned and leathery Mr. Chech. He also played Kiddo Hern at short. Chech gave a fine exhibition of pitching, but Kremer failed to profit by his example, and the Angels knocked the youthful wadding out of him in the first round, when they scored five runs that were beautiful to look upon. The scenery then shifted to Harry Stewart, who held the Angels within reasonable bounds, meaning down to two runs.

WOBBLES AT START.

Chech's one bad spot was the first, when the Wolves spun a couple of runs. After that he was incorruptible except in the seventh, when Tennant skidded in with a tally. In addition to pitching neatly, Charles was present with a single and a double, which is a fine array of batting for any pitcher. Charley is now so far ahead of Ryan that he refuses to recognize Jack when he meets him. In fact, most of the hard labor was done by the battery boys, Brooks getting in three neat clouts.

Chech started rather indifferently, walking Young, which is no proper thing to do. Cook singled to right, and "Pep" paddled around to third. Young scored on Coy's fine fly to Ellis. Tennant's out advanced Cook to third, and he sneaked in when Van Buren bunted successfully. Venerable Van was thrown when he tried to steal second just as he did twenty-five years ago.

Kremer started on an even keel, Wolter boosting to Moran and Page grounding to Young. It is so unusual for a team to score five runs after two have been retired in a peaceful and law-abiding manner that the fans were wholly unprepared for what then took place.

BAD HOP HIS DOWNFALL.

But for an accident, Kremer might be pitching yet. Maggert banged the ball with some viciousness toward left. Cruel fate decreed that the ball should take a peculiar hop and hit Hern on his young and tender wishbone, driving the same back until it rested against his growing shoulder blades. This was the beginning of the end. Before Hern could brace up his wishbone, Maggert was at first.

Abstein then took occasion to hit the ball into left, Maggert arriving at third in good order. Bill stole second. Maggert did not try to steal home, experience having taught him that it is unsafe to attempt anything like that twice in one week.

RECORD FOR ABSTEIN.

That single of Abtein's was slightly epochal. It made the eighteenth consecutive game in which he has hit safely, which gives him the record for the season. Derrick of Portland went seventeen, but decided to stop on May 30.

With Maggert on third, Kremer passed Ellis. Thus, animal life was made to flourish on every base. Despite this condition, Kremer also walked Moore. Charley was in the game at short, Johnson remaining in the hospital to keep his ailing neck company. To make room for Moore, all the runners moved up. This general movement promoted Maggert to the plate.

Metzger stuck around with stoical patience until the count stood three and two. He then picked out a spot on the ball where the seam bulges and smacked it into right. Abstein and Ellis surged around to home in a body. Metzger went down to second on Coy's throw on Moore at third, gaining that base with a stomach slide that knocked quite a volume of wind out of him.

This was Wolverton's cue to stick Stewart in.

Brooks flicked a runt fly into right, and it fell to earth unsullied by mortal hands. Moore and Metzger scored on this very fortunate hit. Chech, being a dangerous character, was honored with a pass. With Wolter up a second time, Brooks was nailed stealing third.

"RUBE" VERY FOXY.

"Rube" Ellis pulled a singular stunt in the third, when he bunted for two bases. He mischeviously placed the ball just over first base, and ran it into a double. He reached third on a sacrifice, and became nailed at the plate on Metzger's grounder to Cook.

"Rube" got all the way around in the fifth on a single of his own making, a stolen base, a sacrifice and a fielder's choice that didn't connect.

The Angels rounded out their day's amusement with a run in the eighth, same being the splendid product of a single by Brooks and Chech's double.

Singles by Tennant and Van Buren and a sacrifice gave the Wolves their last tally in the sixth.

Wolverton became dissatisfied with his hired help, and hit for Stewart in the ninth with one down. This was his second lick of the season, and brings his average well above the .300 mark. It is suspected that he is after the managerial batting championship of the league, now the proud property of Dillon. Harry retired after reaching first, and Pitcher Gregory stole second for him. Young and Cook were not inclined to be mean, and the fans went home to take their regular Saturday night bath.

O'LEARY AND BAYLEY DRAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 11.—Johnny O'Leary, lightweight champion of Canada, and Joe Bayley fought a fifteen-round draw here today.

OAKLAND WINS VENICE SERIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—With almost sensational support from the field behind him, "Comeback" Harry Ables steadied today after the third inning and won the game and series from Venice for Oakland, 6 to 3. This is the first series the tailenders have taken since Tyler Christian succeeded Arthur Devlin as Oakland's manager.

"Cack" Henley, pitching for the Tigers, struck out seven men to Ables's two and walked only one man, while Ables passed four, besides getting a hit and a run as his share of the stick and base work, but he opened up in the fifth and allowed three Oaks to hit him, resulting in his opponents' first two runs. In the next frame he hit Middleton with a pitched ball when Gardner was on first. A hit and two fielding errors in that inning gave Oakland two more runs.

ENGLAND WINS AT TENNIS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WIMBLEDON (Eng.) July 11.—Great Britain won the first two singles matches in the second round of the Dwight F. Davis lawn tennis cup against France today. The Englishmen played a steadier game than their opponents, who occasionally showed flashes of brilliancy. The summary:

T. M. Mavrogordato (Great Britain) beat Max Germot, (France) 4-6, 7-5, 9-7, 6-2.

James C. Parke, (Great Britain) beat Max Decugis, (France) 6-2, 4-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

SEALS VICTORS ON WILD THROW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 11.—Dave Bancroft's high throw in the ninth inning today gave the Seals a 2 to 1 victory over Portland. Lober's home run in the sixth and the sensational fielding of Schaller, Tobin and Charles featured. O'Leary proved the thorn in Evans's side. Evans allowed only three hits, but he walked O'Leary in the ninth and a sacrifice fly to Ryan and Tobin's grounder to Bancroft won the game. Score:

PACKARD
STOCK CAR PERFORMANCES

ON THE Speedway at Indianapolis, a Packard "38" fully equipped stock car completed 62.4 miles in one hour.

A Packard "48" with same equipment completed 70.4 miles in one hour! This under official observance of the Automobile Club of America!

Consistent, Maintained Speed!

READ THESE TELEGRAMS TO PACKARD MOTOR CAR CO.

Indianapolis, June 23, 1914.
Mr. S. D. Waldon,
Packard Motor Car Company.
I consider your recent performance with the Packard "5-48" at the Speedway of 70 4-10 miles within an hour one of the most remarkable, if not the most remarkable engine trial we have had at the Speedway, considering the wind resistance of the large, fully equipped car together with its weight and the number of revolutions necessary to accomplish this result. I am more than surprised and pleased to know that American manufacturers can build a stock car with this power and reliability.
CARL G. FISHER.

Packard Motor Car Company.
Congratulations on the wonderful test of your fully equipped Packard cars on the Speedway. This proves beyond a doubt that the Packard is one of the most perfected stock cars in the world.
BOB BURMAN.

Chicago, June 27, 1914.
Mr. S. D. Waldon,
Packard Motor Car Company.
Congratulations on wonderful results of Packard Indianapolis speed test. However, they were no more than could be expected of car of Packard class. The fact that stock Packards could maintain racing speed proves clearly that the construction which has long made the Packard a leader for class sturdiness and general dependability also contains the speed feature desired by many motor owners. Now that this feature has been demonstrated under official observation, there is not a single item of automobile supremacy in which the Packard is not undisputably at the supreme head of all cars. My own Packard is giving me wonderful service.

Congratulate you. If, as I suppose, car carried usual body and equipment, this is excellent showing for turns are a terrible handicap for car of your size. You evidently have the power and speed.

Your Indianapolis Speedway test June 20th certainly remarkable. Worthy of much credit.

Mr. S. D. Waldon,
Packard Motor Car Company.
I think the performance of your cars in the recent hour run made here was wonderful, in view of the fact that there are four turns to every 2½ miles which have a tendency to slow down a fully equipped car. Seventy miles in one hour seems nothing short of a miracle. Keep it up and help America to get the speed plum May 30th.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE SUMMER VACATION.

HOW do you intend to make your family comfortable and happy this summer? This is a question which may have suggested itself to you already. As soon as the days for holiday entertaining begin to make their appearance upon the horizon we plan for the pleasure of our households. Summer is the natural time for outings, since it is the vacation period for the men and for the young people—for every one, in fact, but the mistress of the house.

"My young people are full of what they will do in their holidays," sighed a woman to me the other day. "I tell them that what means holiday for them means slavery for me." Which must have been a pleasing and gratifying remark to the young people who were the cause of her being thrust into slavery.

While I grant it is difficult for the mother of a family to make holidays without increasing her cares and her labors, I do not feel you are "playing fair" to your household or to yourself when you make a drudge of yourself in order that they may have their relaxations. They have a right to youth and pleasure, but not at too great a cost. Make up your mind at the beginning to give them as good a time as you can, but not at the price of your overwork and consequent exhaustion.

Father Comes First.

Plan out the holidays by consultation with the children themselves. Find out what they want to do and see if it cannot be arranged without disappointing or overburdening any one.

First, your husband. If any one should have a right to say how he will take his vacation it is the man of the house, the one who is the founder of the home and who keeps it going. If yours is like many husbands I have known he has bestowed little thought upon his outing. He wants his boys and girls to have their share of recreation. He is determined, with a certain grim set of the jaws, that come what may, you are to have a little change and freedom from care, but as to how he is to spend the brief time out of the year that falls to him for a holiday is a matter of small importance.

If you haven't discussed it with him before, do it now. Probably you have a notion of what would be a pleasant trip for him. You feel he ought to go home and see his family, or you think it would be a good thing for him to know something of his own country and that a little run out to this place or up to that or down to the other would be beneficial, or you cherish the conviction that a visit to some center of improvement would be the making of him. You know just what would be the best thing in the world for him.

My dear sister, let me beg of you to stop right here and reflect for a moment that perhaps he may not want the things that you are sure would be best for him. There is a strong possibility that, although he may not have definitely planned out his vacation, he has a clear idea of the things he does not wish to do and that consideration of these may clear his mind as to what he really wants. Should this be the case, bring all your powers of self-control to bear upon the situation and resolve to let him be happy in his own way. It may not be yours, but it is his.

For instance, you may loathe camping out—I do myself. You may think that sleep on a bed of hemlock boughs is worse than none at all; you may shrink from quitting a spring bed, a bath, and other refinements of civilization. But he doesn't. He finds a pleasure in the pathless woods that you miss. Then let him go his own way and hold firmly to the faith that the thing he really wants is that which will do him good and rest him as no scheme of your devising for him possibly could.

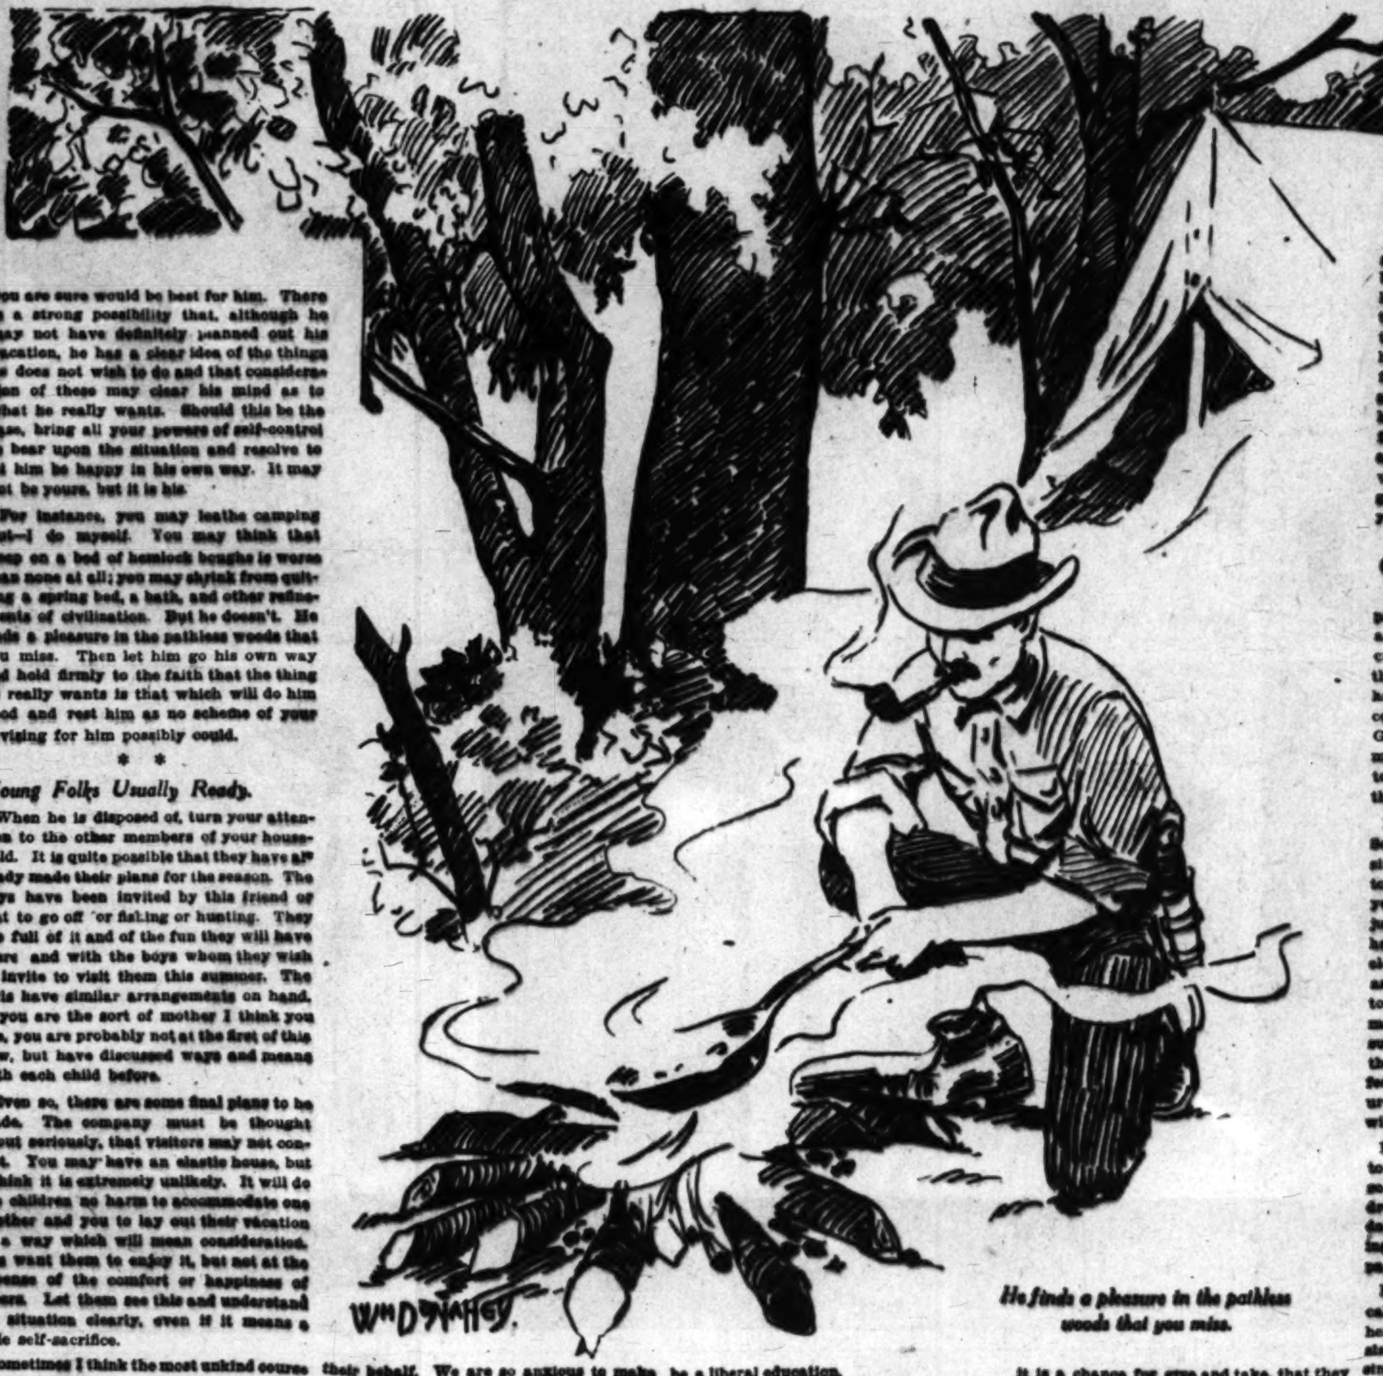
Young Folks Usually Ready.

When he is disposed of, turn your attention to the other members of your household. It is quite possible that they have already made their plans for the season. The boys have been invited by this friend or that to go off for fishing or hunting. They are full of it and of the fun they will have there and with the boys whom they wish to invite to visit them this summer. The girls have similar arrangements on hand. If you are the sort of mother I think you are, you are probably not at the first of this now, but have discussed ways and means with each child before.

Even so, there are some final plans to be made. The company must be thought about seriously, that visitors may not conflict. You may have an elastic house, but I think it is extremely unlikely. It will do the children no harm to accommodate one another and you to lay out their vacation in a way which will mean consideration. You want them to enjoy it, but not at the expense of the comfort or happiness of others. Let them see this and understand the situation clearly, even if it means a little self-sacrifice.

Sometimes I think the most unkind course we ever pursue towards our children is displayed in the self-denial we exercise on their behalf. We are so anxious to make them happy that we yield to them when an opportunity to learn unselfishness would be a liberal education.

So make it clear to your children, when they are planning for their holidays, that it is a chance for give and take, that they must consider one another, and not only that but family conditions and your personal comfort. Don't let them think that because their friends happen to possess large means you can afford to let them entertain such visitors on the scale to which they have been accustomed in their own homes. Have it comprehended from the first that sincerity and even threaded living are the only true and beautiful things in hospitality, and that when guests of large fortunes come to your home it is to see you as you are—not to be fêted at an expense which will cripple you afterwards and will give a false impression of your home and yourself.



He finds a pleasure in the pathless woods that you miss.

Consideration Due, Parents.

I don't think that boys are usually as prone to yield to this sort of temptation as are girls. Boys are downright sensible creatures, averse to shams. More than that, they generally think that what they have at home is better than anything they could find elsewhere, bless their hearts! Give them good food and plenty of it, no matter if it is simple, and leave them free to enjoy their little favorite sports, and they will ask little further entertaining.

I am afraid that most girls are different. Sometimes you find them when they are simple and straightforward, with no desire to "put on frills," but pretty often they yearn for rather more show than you feel justified in allowing them. The yearning has usually been started by the sight of the elegances or extravagances of other girls, and it is the business of you, as the mother, to rectify their perverted vision, and to make them comprehend that the only absurd and impossible state of affairs is one that is grounded on pretense; that it is feasible to be as happy with simple pleasures as with costly ones, and that if they will try this they can prove it.

Don't let your children lose the chance to learn their duty toward you. We hear so much now of our duty toward our children that I think sometimes we are in danger of forgetting that part of it in teaching them their duty toward us, their parents.

Does this seem inconsistent when you recall the instance of the woman who told her children that holidays for them meant slavery for her? It is not in the least so, since there is no reason why you should make your children unhappy while you are instructing them in consideration for their mother and father. I have [illegible] misery caused in that way to [illegible] patience with it.

Carelessness Not Heart[illegible]

"I did not get a [illegible] after 1 o'clock last night," I [illegible] mother bemoan herself at the [illegible] table last summer. "I [illegible] when the children are out of the [illegible] and by the time they come [illegible] too nervous to get to sleep."

"We tried to come in [illegible] tered one of the culprits.

"It's not the [illegible] ing out," said the mother. "I [illegible] ways worried to death [illegible] may have happened to you [illegible] out after 11 o'clock."

"That was just the [illegible] last night," blurted out [illegible] "We came away in the [illegible] thing for fear you'd [illegible] rather never go out than [illegible] spoiled by thinking you're [illegible] with the heaves."

It was not a [illegible] confess to some [illegible] Don't give your [illegible] that way!

My own observation [illegible] ing children are not [illegible] their own pleasure at the [illegible] parents' comfort, and that [illegible] you ready and eager [illegible] they are the more ready [illegible] wishes in such [illegible] sires as that they should [illegible] work upon you in the [illegible] ing, that they should [illegible] to you to have your [illegible] recreation, and that if [illegible] suggest that you [illegible] merely want of thought, [illegible] and devotion.

Don't lay their [illegible] ness. Recollect that [illegible] ural to young people. [illegible] heard some mothers [illegible] a holiday because it [illegible] family to support it. [illegible] case something is [illegible] training of the family [illegible] taught your children [illegible] they were as yet [illegible] it for themselves. [illegible] them the consideration [illegible] pleasure and comfort of [illegible] their own, if not ahead [illegible] neglected this branch [illegible] thus far make up your [illegible] this vacation and [illegible] to give your household [illegible] thought for one another [illegible]

I would like [illegible] other mothers along [illegible] family urge you to take [illegible] think only of their [illegible] experiences would be of [illegible] to all of us.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"I READ with interest your article on 'Common Sense.' The question is whether those who mind their own business are in the majority or the minority; that depends wholly upon what the definition of minding one's own affairs is. If there were less egotism, if one gave herself as little thought as others give her, there would be fewer offended, hurt feelings. I never think others give me enough thought to want to hurt me, and accept their suggestions in the kindly spirit in which they are meant. Generally speaking, I think the fault is in the spirit in which it is received, not in the spirit in which it is given; when one goes around with a chip on her shoulder there is always some one to knock it off. From personal observation, I find that the one who is the most easily offended is the one who is the least considerate of the feelings of others. I do not think it a compliment to one for her friends and kinfolks to feel that they have to handle her with much care, that they can not be natural in her presence. If each one of us turns the mirror on herself, she will see that she has as many faults as the one has who offends her, and don't you think that alone should help us to be more charitable? If we make as much excuse for others as we expect from others and as each one of us makes for herself, there would be little cause for offense. Let us take the little suggestions with only the kindliest spirit, as that is the way, I think, they generally are given. EDITH L. B."

I consider this an eminently sane and common sensible letter and I am glad to print it. The correspondent takes a wise and generous view of the attitude of her family and friends, and I wish we could all adopt and study and report the results.

Wants Old Magazines.

"I am a constant reader of the Corner and have answered a great many of the requests made and tried to help. Now I am going to ask my first favor. Will subscribers to magazines of any kind, I don't care how many months or years old, please send me a few magazines? I am expecting my first baby and have been forced by poor health to move away from the city. My husband and I have had reverses recently, that is, enough to make us feel that we are not able to subscribe to magazines. We are away out in the country where I can't get anything to read and I do want it so. T. J. C."

This appeal will touch all lovers of reading and I trust that some of them may have magazines to give away and will send to me for the name and address of T. J. C. I am sure some of our contingent will be prompt to send her some periodicals to help pass the weary time of waiting for the "little expected."

Would Appreciate Cheery Letters.

"I would gladly appreciate cheery letters, as I am alone all day long and writing is my favorite hobby, also reading. I am a helpless shut-in from paralysis and have been so since I was 4 years old. I am a colored girl, 32 years old. W. J. B."

This same girl wrote to us some months ago, asking for stationery. Her letter was printed at the time, but her address was lost by accident, and although several kind Cornerites wrote for it, they were unable to get into touch with her. Now that we have it securely I trust that she may have some of the letters for which she longs in her loneliness. I will be happy to give her address to those who wish to write to her or go to see her.

"Are there not school teachers' clubs of some sort that would be glad to take up the matter of changing the environment for one of their profession? School teachers in general are sympathetic and quick to see the urgency of such cases, and no doubt many would stop and think when they have the matter brought before them. "E. L."

This impresses me as being a practical suggestion which should appeal to many teachers. If they wish to get into touch with one another and to discuss the possibilities of such an arrangement I shall be happy to do anything in my power to be of assistance.

Checkerboard Cake.

"I would like to send you my recipe for checkerboard cake in response to your request for it: Two cups of sugar, half a cup of butter, one teaspoon of lard (this will keep the cake moist), four eggs, one cup of milk, two teaspoons of baking powder, two and three-quarters cups of flour (reserve a little flour for the light part), half a teaspoon of vanilla. Divide batter into two parts; melt quarter cake of chocolate; keep two tablespoonfuls for icing; add remainder to one part of the batter. Use square pans and make in three layers. Have frame made to fit pan about one inch apart, and bake in layers. For layer frosting beat the white of one egg stiff with powdered sugar and a spoonful of melted chocolate. S. E. C."

Request for a Poem.

"I wonder if I could get a poem through the Corner called 'A Voice From the Poorhouse'? If you will send me a copy by return mail I will gladly pay for it. "MRS. L. O."

We do not sell poetry through the Corner, or anything else. I put your request here in the hope that some Cornerite may be able to send you a copy of the verses you wish.

Suggests a Flower Exchange.

"Will you kindly let me know where I can get some of the callas offered a while ago? We have a new house and can't afford to buy any plants, as my husband has been out of work for some time. But I do love flowers. I think it would be a fine plan to start a flower exchange, as one always has something that some one else wants. MRS. I. C."

I am afraid it is too late in the season to transplant the callas, even if they had not all been given away, but I gladly make place for your suggestion as to the flower exchange. Something of this kind was talked of a while ago, but it did not take definite form and it might be worth while for flower lovers to get in touch with one another and discuss their hobby as well as exchange plants and seeds.

Needs Organ and Books.

"We are a little rural Sunday school struggling for existence. We have no organ, consequently our singing is poor. If there is any church or any person who has a small organ that is no longer needed we would gladly pay freight on it and something towards the other expenses of getting it here. A few earnest workers are trying to keep alive this Sunday school and though the flame flickers we keep trying to hold the enterprise in existence. Any old books or magazines will be acceptable, as there are no books in the children's homes. We hope to start a library with any volumes which may be given. "MRS. B. J. H."

This Sunday school is making a fight for life and I wish with all my heart that some generous, warm hearted friends would not only find and send the organ but also contribute books toward the library. Those of us who live in a region of gospel and library privileges cannot appreciate the dreariness of desolation which besets those who are trying to start the singing of the Lord's song in a strange land. They are making a struggle which we do not grasp, but the least we can do is to help them in any way we can. Not every one of us has it in his or her power to set on foot agencies which will result in placing an organ in the Sunday school, but there are few of us who cannot send one or two books to help begin the library. Don't send worn out books which are tumbling to pieces and will not stand the handling a library book receives, or stupid volumes which no one wants to read, but from your own plenty a mite that will bless you in giving and the struggling Sunday school in receiving. I shall hope to get early and numerous applications for the address of Mrs. B. J. H.

Rhubarb Wine.

"Will you give me a recipe for rhubarb wine? Can it be made without putting spirits in it? I have a quantity of rhubarb in the garden and I would be pleased to know how to make some of it up into wine, if it not too difficult a business. K. H."

Wash your rhubarb, cut it into inch lengths, put in a double boiler without water, and boil. When tender press out the juice, measure it, put with it an equal quantity of water, sweeten to taste, and add one cup of brandy to each gallon of the juice and water. Bottle the wine and seal it. This is the only rule I know of for rhubarb wine. If any of the Cornerites are familiar with one which does not call for the use of liquor I shall be glad to receive it and print it here. If you have so much rhubarb why do you not spice some of it and have it for a winter relish. It is easy work to make spiced rhubarb. Wash the rhubarb and cut enough of it into inch lengths to make two and a half pounds. Put this into a preserving kettle with two pounds of sugar, one cup of vinegar, and a tablespoon each of cinnamon and cloves, set over the fire, and after the mixture comes to a boil cook at this steadily for half an hour. Turn into jelly glasses; when cold pour melted paraffin on top and fit the covers on the glasses. If you wish you may add two tablespoons of Sultana raisins when you put the rhubarb on to cook.

A BABY'S SACQUE AND MOTIFS

solid effect, pad the ribbon lengthwise and work over in the regular over-and-over stitch. Another way is to give a ribbon weave by working the length of the ribbon in satin stitch. This fills in the space in solid effect by overlapping stitches that are worked without padding.

Pad the scallops and work in buttonhole-stitch along the edge. It is better to cut around the edges, allowing quite a little material for shrinking. Add the ribbons, which can be tied into bows over the arms. This can be done by passing them through rings that are crocheted in the same silk. These can be bought by the dozen and covered by you, making a special purling edge with the crocheting needle. This is necessary if the embroidery is done in colors.

You will notice that there are three extra motifs that I have done for you, just for good measure. These can be used on the panel, yoke, blanket, carriage robe or pillow for the baby. They are worked in solid stitches mainly. The bowknot is done as I have suggested in the talk on the sacque. In the spray of flowers the petals should be done in solid work, and the leaves in solid or seed stitches. The stem is simple outline stitch, which can be whipped into a cord by catching together the overlapping stitches. The wreath can be eyelets and the flowers below it in solid stitches or eyelets. If you use coarse thread or silk, make the small flowers in French knots, a single one for each petal.

There, now! I think that I have supplied you with enough material for the littlest one in the home, so that every garment can be appropriately decorated, and your spare moments filled in with work that will be useful and beautiful. The clever needlewoman can apply these designs to great advantage if she will but twist and turn them, and try them on all the possible spaces that come under her all-seeing eye. I hope that you will have great success and pleasure in the using of the designs offered this week. And keep your eyes open, for there are some lovely things coming.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

"Little Sister's" Sash

EMBROIDERED sashes are in stronger than ever this season. If you haven't time to make the child an embroidered sash, why not allow her to embroider it herself; that is, if she is 10 years old or more? It is surprising what children can do in the embroidery line if you but give them an opportunity. Get a piece of old ribbon to give them their first lesson. This old piece will make them an everyday sash, and when the lesson has been learned, let the child make a sash for Sunday-go-to-meetin'-time.

The buttonhole stitch is quite simple, and the ends may be done in that stitch, straight or scalloped. The raw edges of the ribbon may be left unadorned, however, with perfect propriety, if preferred. If the sash is blue, why not embroider it in a darker or lighter shade of blue or in old gold? Any of these combinations would be effective. French knots are the easiest things imaginable to make when once the knack is caught. A dark blue or dark green sash, embroidered with sprays of French-knotted goldenrod in old-gold silk, would be beautiful.

There is an odd fringe that can be bought for sashes now—a wooden fringe that every child will like for its novelty. It is composed of silk fringe and wooden beads, some of the beads being round and some being long and egg-shaped. A bead fringe also comes for sashes; but this is not so good, because the children crush the beads by forgetting to tuck their sashes out of the way before sitting down. Do let the little one try making a sash instead of the everlasting centerpiece.

Filet Insertion

THERE is an effective linen-colored and cream-colored insertion that is being used with the heavier voiles this season. The insertion is made of linen thread, crocheted in that very good looking filet pattern. It is a simpler design than the average crochet pattern, and, fortunately, does not have the "home-made" appearance to which some of the smarter sisters object. The insertion is being used for both bodices and skirts. Sometimes there is an edging, but more often only the insertion is used, as it is somewhat difficult to successfully make the edging with the absence of the "home-made" objection.

This sort of crocheting is pleasant work for the woman who spends her afternoons in the porch rocking chair. Then, too, it can be slipped in the handbag and carried about with one, so that where the surroundings are not too formal the work may be continued while there is a pleasant hour of chat and gossip. It is, of course, understood that nothing is recommended but "golden gossip."

A Towel Workbag

IF YOU have too many of those pretty little embroidered guest towels, why not make workbags of them for yourself and friends? They are very simply and quickly made, and are so easily laundered. The ordinary silk or colored workbag becomes filthy in a short time, and yet we go on using it, because to wash it would spoil it, or we can't bear to part with it.

Well, if you wish a really sanitary workbag, double the towel so that the ends come together, and proceed to seam the two sides. This will form a bag. When the towel is doubled it is doubled with the right side of the towel in. When the seams at the sides are made, the resulting bag is turned with the right side out and the seams in. Buttonholes or eyelets are made all about the top of the bag, and through these is run the double drawstring ribbon. It is well to have several of these little bags, so that one may always have a fresh one when the one in use becomes soiled. The ribbon should harmonize with the color of the embroidery on the towel.

The Little Boy

CHILDREN of three and four years are now wearing more embroidery than formerly. The little Dickens suits have probably brought this in, as the little straight shirts worn with the plain knickerbockers are much "be-scalloped." The collars and the cuffs are scalloped and buttonholed in white, if the blouse is in a color, and in pink or blue if the blouse is in white. The shirt of the Dickens suits always is of a contrasting color to the knickerbockers, so that the best plan is to embroider the little shirt in a color to match the knickerbockers. There may be a tiny pocket in the left side of the shirt and the little lad's initial or monogram may be embroidered upon it.

The Puff Bag

A SATISFACTORY and convenient way of carrying a tiny powder puff about with one is to incase it in a soft little lingerie bag that takes up no room to speak of and put the whole in the bosom of one's gown, quite next to the skin, in fact. In summer the necks of the gowns are usually low, so that it is a simple matter to tuck the puff out of sight just below or at the side of the average V-neck and to surreptitiously obtain it with a quick turn of the back to one's companions, give the nose a hasty little dab and return the friendly puff to its place of concealment. "But," you say, "the mirror what of that? Suppose we get too much powder on the end of our nose. We don't like to look ridiculous, you know."

An easy question is that to answer. If you really must have a mirror, shirr one into the bottom of the little puff bag, face out, so that you can, with an upward turn of the hand, view your nose at a glance. When you tuck the bag into your bosom it is best to place it so that the mirror does not touch the skin, for the cold contact of the mirror will give a little shock at first, and besides, the mirror will not then be as bright and shining as you wish after its contact with the warm flesh. If you use one of the comparatively new, sanitary washable puffs, it is possible to have it so that there is just enough powder on it to take the shine away without leaving marks of the powder itself. After a few usings, the little sanitary puff becomes so filled with the powder that it is not necessary to carry any powder outside of that already upon the puff. In this last instance, a mirror would not be a necessity. Washable puffs are so much more satisfactory in every way that every woman should use them in place of the old down puff. They can be kept strictly clean by frequent washings, and the nap of the puff is so close that it does not dust the powder into a cloud and consequently into the eyes. A meeting of eye specialists recently decided that the old down puff, with its clouds of powder, was one of the principal causes of poor eyesight among women.

Attractive Little Aprons

WHEN wee tots are "dressed up" for the afternoon it is frequently very difficult to get them to keep spick and span until daddy returns from business. And the laughable, ridiculous part of it is that sometimes tots are so anxious to display their fresh dresses they do not, and sometimes will not, wear aprons. It is advisable therefore to use diplomacy, even with small folk, if we would not have them grow up in a house of wrangling. The thing to do is to make those aprons as attractive as possible. Little folk are not now wearing aprons when on the street, as they did ten or fifteen years ago; but an apron worn in the house or the garden will save a heap of laundering.

These little aprons can be made of quite serviceable material because they are not for "going out." Natural-colored linen bound in red tape and embroidered fancifully in red makes the nicest kind of a serviceable apron. They can be obtained already stamped with many pretty little nursery-rhyme scenes. These scenes are so attractive when embroidered that the apron almost invariably proves irresistible.

Even denim is used for these aprons, and this, of course, is stronger than the linen. They are usually made quite plain, being shaped when cut, instead of depending upon gathers or tucks of any kind. The bottom is curved, and the apron is entirely in one piece. The armholes are cut out so that they do not join at the tops. When the apron is adjusted to the child, these armholes are joined either by buttons and buttonholes, one on each, or tied with little tapes. Tapes tie the apron together in the back.

Some of these aprons are embroidered in outline stitch, while yet others are embroidered in cross-stitch. The latter are usually decorated with square, quaint little animals. They are so easily embroidered in either stitch that a child of 6 could do the work.

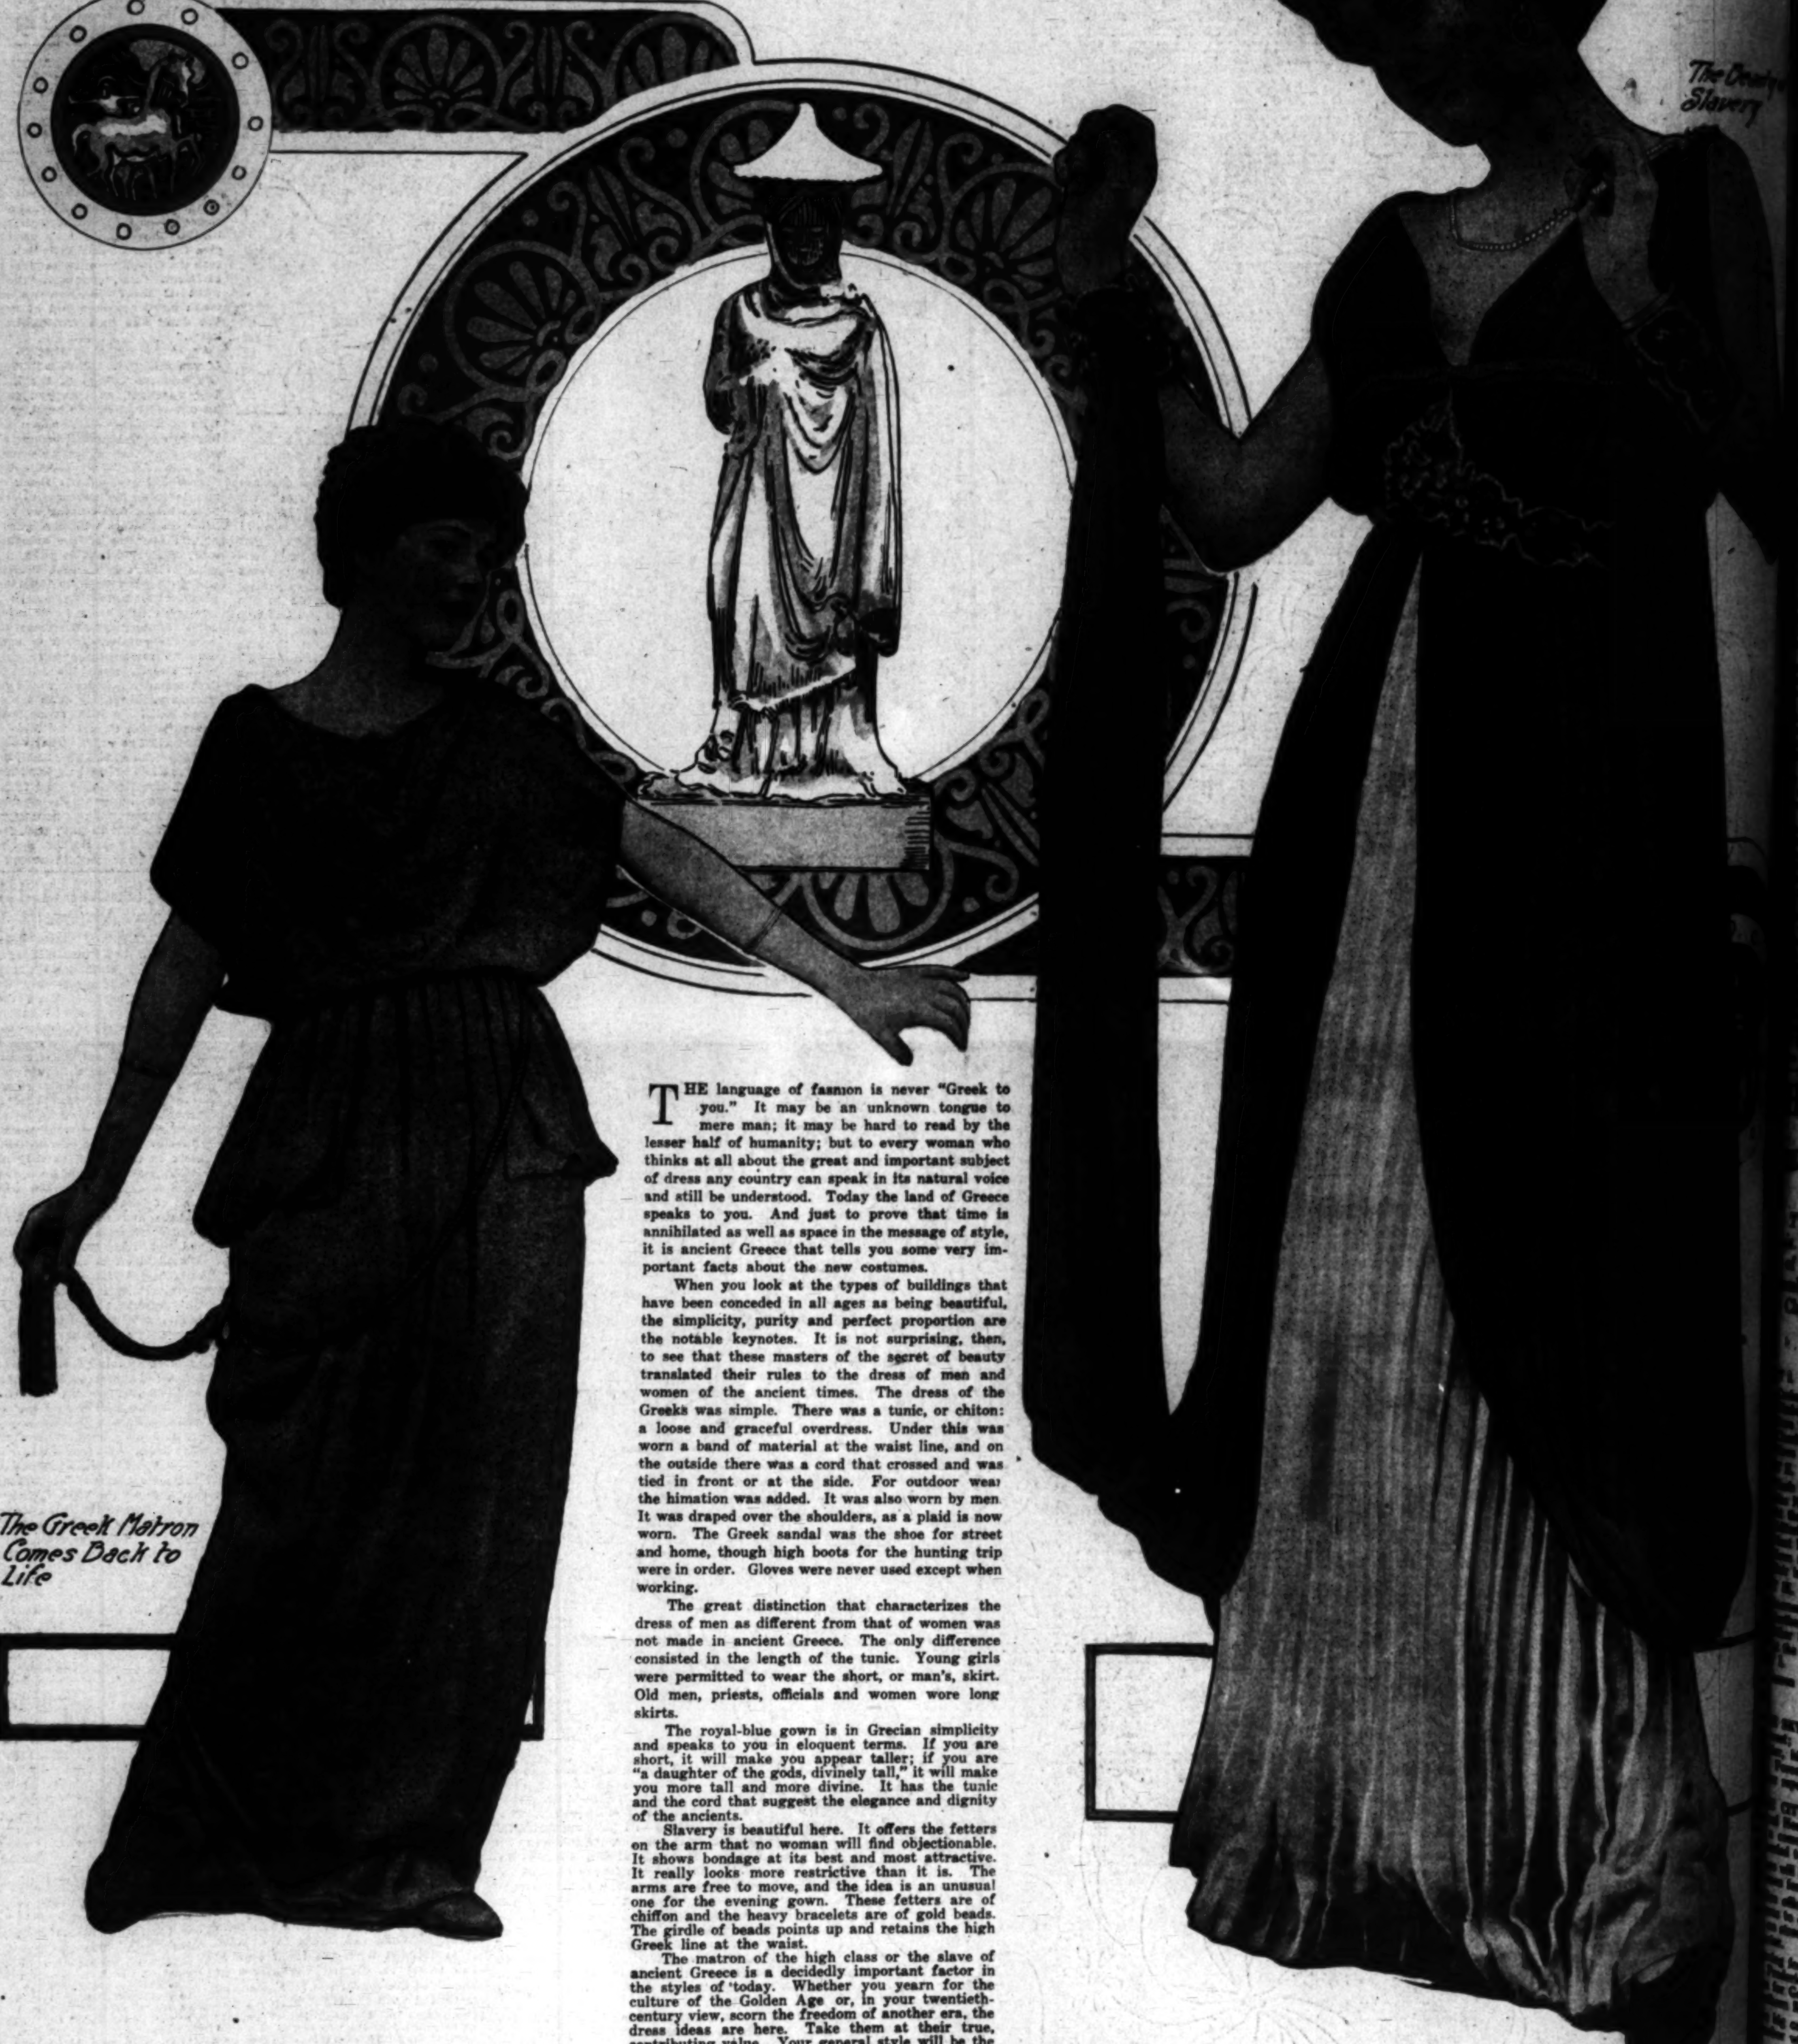
The First Panties

WHEN baby has her first panties she needs them soft, so that her tender pink skin will not be irritated. Also, they should not be too elaborate, on account of the frequent washings to which they will be subjected. What could be more suitable for these little garments than white cotton crepe? Crepe is so easily washed and there is so little ironing needed to make it ready for wear. Some folks say it is not necessary to iron cotton crepe underwear. However, it is much smoother and softer when pressed, and will certainly prove more comfortable for baby. The panties need not be carefully ironed; two or three quick rubs of the iron are sufficient for the necessary smoothness. It is a good idea to have them made over a pattern that is made to open flat and that can be ironed as easily as baby's napkins. These "flat" panties are so arranged that, with several buttons and buttonholes helping, they take the form of panties. One has to be careful that the buttons are of such a size and of such a roundness on the edges that they do not bruise baby's little legs.

The Young Embroiderer

ONCE the little girl is started upon her embroidery career it will not be long before she wishes to embroider her own initial. There are a number of plain initials on the market that should be simple enough for the young embroiderer to attempt. If, however, the solid stitch proves at first too difficult, the initial can be done very well in outline stitch. Frequently there is some discussion in a household of several children as to the belongings of each. When clothes are involved, the children should be taught to embroider their own initials upon them to avoid discord, even little boys. Initialing is a special godsend when there are twins in the house. One can, of course, buy the initials already embroidered, but this usually amounts to considerable expense.

ANCIENT GREECE SPEAKS to YOU



The Greek Matron Comes Back to Life

The [illegible] Slavery

THE language of fashion is never "Greek to you." It may be an unknown tongue to mere man; it may be hard to read by the lesser half of humanity; but to every woman who thinks at all about the great and important subject of dress any country can speak in its natural voice and still be understood. Today the land of Greece speaks to you. And just to prove that time is annihilated as well as space in the message of style, it is ancient Greece that tells you some very important facts about the new costumes.

When you look at the types of buildings that have been conceded in all ages as being beautiful, the simplicity, purity and perfect proportion are the notable keynotes. It is not surprising, then, to see that these masters of the secret of beauty translated their rules to the dress of men and women of the ancient times. The dress of the Greeks was simple. There was a tunic, or chiton: a loose and graceful overdress. Under this was worn a band of material at the waist line, and on the outside there was a cord that crossed and was tied in front or at the side. For outdoor wear the himation was added. It was also worn by men. It was draped over the shoulders, as a plaid is now worn. The Greek sandal was the shoe for street and home, though high boots for the hunting trip were in order. Gloves were never used except when working.

The great distinction that characterizes the dress of men as different from that of women was not made in ancient Greece. The only difference consisted in the length of the tunic. Young girls were permitted to wear the short, or man's, skirt. Old men, priests, officials and women wore long skirts.

The royal-blue gown is in Grecian simplicity and speaks to you in eloquent terms. If you are short, it will make you appear taller; if you are "a daughter of the gods, divinely tall," it will make you more tall and more divine. It has the tunic and the cord that suggest the elegance and dignity of the ancients.

Slavery is beautiful here. It offers the fetters on the arm that no woman will find objectionable. It shows bondage at its best and most attractive. It really looks more restrictive than it is. The arms are free to move, and the idea is an unusual one for the evening gown. These fetters are of chiffon and the heavy bracelets are of gold beads. The girdle of beads points up and retains the high Greek line at the waist.

The matron of the high class or the slave of ancient Greece is a decidedly important factor in the styles of today. Whether you yearn for the culture of the Golden Age or, in your twentieth-century view, scorn the freedom of another era, the dress ideas are here. Take them at their true, contributing value. Your general style will be the better for letting the ancient styles speak to you.
